Police Sweep Area Near Mass Murder

SOQUEL, Calif. (UPI)—A huge police dragnet hunted through rugged country south of San Francisco today for the killers of five persons in a hilltop mansion—and possibly a gasoline station attendant some 25 miles away.

A fire-blackened station wagon in which the killers are believed to have fled the blazing mansion Monday was parked and abandoned in a railroad tunnel and then struck by a locomotive Tuesday 15 miles west of the mass murder site.

Some 18 miles northward from the tunnel, the shot and trussed body of attendant Thomas Dececco, 19, was found at Saratoga.

Sheriff's deputies in both Santa Cruz County, where five bodies were found in the mansion's swimming pool, and Santa Clara County, where the attendant was slain, pondered whether the shootings were connected.

All had been bound, blindfolded with silk handerchiefs nad shot in the back before being dumped into the swimming pool.

The green and brown station wagon, owned by Mrs. Ohta, was reportedly seen with an orange knapsack in the rear by a person deputies would not identify. There was no sack in it when the train struck it.

Deputies said Dececco had been killed four hours after the Ohta estate shootings.

They declared they would "rather not comment" when asked if there was any witness to his killing.

The killers, who set Dr. Ohta's mansion on fire, blocked its entrance with stalled cars and fled in Mrs. Ohta's Oldsmobile.

Ohta's two daughters were away at school. Taura, 18, was at a college in New York and Lark Elizabeth, 15, was in a California boarding school.

Firemen who finally got to the blazing Ohta home found the bodies when they went to the pool to pump water for their hoses.

Santa Cruz County Sheriff Douglas James said the victims' hands were bound in front of them. They had been blindfolded with scarves which the modishly dressed opthalmologist customarily wore instead of neckties.

"It looked like they possibly could have been shot by the poolside where blood was found, and then pushed into the pool,' James said.

James and other officers gave this account:

PEACE PRIZE WINNER — Dr. Ernest Borlaug, a farmer-scientist from Cresco, Iowa, today won the Nobel Peace Prize for his development of new strains of wheat that substantially increase harvests. Israel Lays Challenge To Arabs At U.N.

Premier Urges Talks Barred To Outsiders

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir today challenged the Arabs — and especially the Egyptian government of President Anwar Sadat — to negotiate a peace settlement in the Middle East without hinderance or interveniton to any outside power.

PREMIER GOLDA MEIR
Challenges Arabs to talk

In a speech to the 25th commemorative session of the U.N. General Assembly she restated the Israeli position that it would like an unlimited cease-fire and that there can be no peace talks until Egypt pulls its missiles back from the cease-fire standstill zone.

She did not refer directly to the massive Soviet aid given to Egypt but her deep voice was stern as she said:

"The question we all face—Israelis and Arabs alike—is whether we forfeit our right to decide our own destiny. That question will only be resolved in the measure that the people of the Middle East succeed or fail in making peace among themselves and by themselves without hindrance or intervention of any outside power.

"Recent events in the Middle East have proven yet again that resort to substitutes and alternatives for direct peaceful solution of the conflict creates fertile ground for breaches of promise and mutual suspicion.

"I therefore call from this rostrum, in the presence of the representatives of the entire community of nations," she said, "upon the leaders of the Arab nations of the Middle East and especially upon the new leadership of Egypt to recognize once and for all that the future of the Middle East lies in peace and this must be achieved by Israelis and Arabs themselves."

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat swore in a new government that included Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, a 70-year-old diplomat, as premier. Fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and government troops was reported continuing in northern Jordan.

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who has been holding a round of talks with Soviet, Israeli and Egyptian representatives, appeared convinced the cease-fire can be extended beyond Nov. 5 on a day-to-day basis. In the meantime, he was continuing his search for a compromise formula between Egypt and Israel over the missile violation issue.

The matter probably will go a step higher Thursday when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko flies to Washington to meet President Nixon. It will be the highest-level American-Soviet dialogue since Nixon assumed office.

Newspaper, Guards Clear On Union's Contempt Claim

The Independent-Journal and Nor-Cal security guards were cleared yesterday in Marin Superior Court of contempt claims lodged by International Typographical Union Local 21.

The union, which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 sought to prove the newspaper and the guards were in contempt of a preliminary injunction issued Feb. 27, protecting lawful pickets against harrassment and other acts.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Keating, calling one of the ITU witnesses a liar, declared that, "all in all, I think the case is very weak, mainly because of the unreliability of witnesses" who testified for the union.

The union had charged that picket William A. Cogswell was struck by Capt. Forrest J. Morais of the Nor-Cal security guards on the morning of March 20, that Cogswell's hat had been knocked off and was destroyed by other security guards in the I-J loading dock area, and that the picket had been the target of foul language.

In addition, the union contended that picket Bruce D. Bauer had been chased and struck at by "10 to 15" security guards the night of March 22-23.

Duane B. Beeson, the union's attorney, strove unsuccessfully to block admission of evidence that I-J attorney Gary T. Giacomini argued proved the guards were provoked to action against the pickets.

The union's final witness yesterday was picket Thomas Fane, who said he had heard Cogswell insult Morais, but had not seen Cogswell swing a picket sign at the guard captain.

In a half-day of testimony yesterday, Giacomini presented testimony by I-J circulation manager Allan Howells, I-J delivery truck driver Theodore F. George, guard Thomas Hartman and guard lieutenant Frank Jalosky.

Howells and George testified on Bauer's actions Jan. 17, saying he had taken part in a human chain of pickets that attempted to block delivery trucks from leaving the I-J, and that Bauer had broken a window on George's truck.

Bauer had refused to answer questions about that day on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Hartman and Jalosky told a

American Wins Peace Prize For Fighting World Hunger

OSLO (UPI)—Dr. Norman Ernest Borlaug, an Iowa-born farmer-scientist who likes to get his hands dirty working in the fields, was awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize today for developing new types of wheat that could help end the world's food crisis.

The $108,348 prize was awarded to Borlaug, 56, specifically for his work in developing new wheat strains which gave bigger yields than older types. The success of his work also contributed indirectly to development of new "miracle rice" in the Orient.

Borlaug did much of his research under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation and now heads the International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center in Mexico City, where he lives with his wife and two children.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee said his work has resulted in larger harvests in a number of developing nations, including Mexico, Pakistan and India.

Officials of the Rockefeller Foundation said Borlaug's success in improving wheat strains had led the Foundation to set up the International Rice Research Institute in Manila.

Friends called Borlaug "a very regular guy" who likes to work in the fields with his hands. He was born in Cresco, Iowa, of Norwegian parents and was educated at the University of Minnesota where he took his doctor's degree in plant pathology.

"He is a friendly, modest man", a spokesman said at the Rockefeller Foundation in New York. "He has a contagious enthusiasm for his work, he is an extremely hard worker and he is dedicated to actually working in the fields.

"The officers of the foundation are delighted and very glad to hear the news."

Borlaug carried out his prize-winning work at the Mexico City center, which is financed and run by the Rockefeller Foundation and the Mexican government. His work has resulted in new types of wheat which yield several times larger harvest than older types normally planted in Mexico and other agricultural countries, the Nobel committee said.

The prize is considered the world's most prestigious humanitarian accolade. Borlaug, who is little known outside of scientific circles, was picked from among 38 candidates nominated for this year's award.

Caller Says Terrorists May Be Ready To Negotiate On Diplomat

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police today attempted to trace a telephone call that kidnapers may be willing to negotiate the freedom of a British diplomat. At the same time an autopsy report revealed that the second political hostage, cabinet minister Pierre Laporte had been garrotted with a chain.

Quebec provincial police Inspector J. R. Melancon said police "doubt the authenticity of the call, but the investigation is continuing."

The autopsy report, by two leading pathologists, said Quebec Labor Minister Laporte was slain Saturday sometime between "noon and 1 p.m."

The report said Laporte's body had three wounds which were "rather superficial."

One was on the chest, one on the left wrist, and one on the right hand near the thumb.

The cause of death was "asphyxiation by strangulation which apparently was by means of a small chain around Mr. Laporte's neck, which was still in place as the autopsy was performed. The mark left by the chain went all around the neck except at the back where it appeared to have been twisted," the report said.

Earlier today the Quebec provincial police received word from an anonymous caller that the FLQ may be willing to accept a government offer for safe passage to Cuba in exchange for the release of British Trade Commissioner James R. Cross.

The caller said the FLQ would communicate with police again at 6 p.m. (EDT) today, presumably to indicate if they will accept government conditions that they bring Cross to Concordia Bridge linking Montreal and the Expo 67 world's fair site.

Cross is to be left there in the custody of the Cuban consul and released when the kidnapers reach Cuba.

QPP spokesman Constable Claude Talbot said the police had received a call from someone who claimed to speak for the kidnapers of Cross just hours after Laporte was buried in a cemetery on the slope of Mount Royal.

Talbot said the police were not entirely sure the calls were bonafide.

"Your guess is as good as mine. We'll just have to see," he said.

More than 9,000 police augmented by 4,000 federal soldiers searched today for the killers and for the kidnapers of missing British diplomat James L. Cross.

Wanted in connection with the kidnaping are Marc Carbonneau, 37, Paul Rose, 27, and Jacques Lanctot, 25.

Woman Arrested In Kent Case; College Appeals Criticism Gag

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A former coed at Kent State University was arrested today on an indictment handed down by a special state grand jury that investigated the fatal campus shooting of four students last spring.

The charge apparently stemmed from the burning of the ROTC building on the Kent campus May 2, two days before Ohio National Guardsmen fired into a group of demonstrating students.

Miss Nicholas, who surrendered at the Portage County sheriff's office in nearby Ravenna, was the first girl arrested of the 25 persons indicted by the panel.

Yesterday, three students, two former students and a youth with no connection with the university were arrested.

In a related development Kent State University and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) appealed to the courts to nullify an order banning public criticism of the investigation.

Lawyers for Kent State University President Robert I. White filed a petition in Portage County Court in nearby Ravenna. They asked that White and others who testified before the special state grand jury be allowed to "make any statements they desire to make

The Cost Of Living Rises Half Of 1 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living for Americans registered an increase of one-half of one per cent in September, the government reported today. Price rises occurred over a broad range of categories including such essentials as clothing and shelter.

The increase was more than double the rate in August when the Nixon administration said a 0.2 per cent rise was evidence that its anti-inflation drive was succeeding.

The report of the 0.5 per cent jump was considered bad news by administration economists—especially coming as it did less than two weeks before the congressional elections.

The Septemer rise, computed after seasonal adjustments, compared with lower increases for three consecutive months following a steady increase ranging between 0.4 per cent and 0.6 per cent earlier in the year.

The seasonally adjusted increases were 0.3 per cent in both June and July before the 0.2 per cent drop in August.

The September increase pushed the index to 136.6, meaning that goods and services which cost $10 dollars in 1957-59 cost $13.66 in September.

Food prices declined 0.1 per cent in September, but this was smaller than usual for that month, particularly for fresh fruit and vegetables which went down 3 per cent.

At the same time, the cost of homes rose sharply, along with mortgage interest costs, costs of home repairs and property taxes. And clothing prices soared by 1.6 per cent during the month, the report said.

Herbert Stein, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, last month hailed the August record as evidence that inflation had been defeated.

Quick Agreement In TWA Walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A 29-hour strike against Trans World Airlines ended today when the airline and the Transport Workers Union reached agreement on a new contract for 5,400 stewardesses and stewards.

The agreement in principle was reached at 5 a.m. EDT after an all-night negotiating session between the two sides with federal mediators, and the union ordered pickets removed from all TWA installations at 7 a.m. EDT.

A TWA spokesman said international flights probably would be in full operation by the end of the day. The airline maintained a portion of its international service during the strike.

The 450 TWA domestic flights cancelled during the strike will resume shortly, but no definite timetable has been established, the spokesman said.

"We hope to see some activity within 24 hours," he said.

A spokesman for the National Mediation Board said details of the settlement would not be announced until it was submitted to the union membership for approval.

TWA's vice president for industrial relations, David J. Crombie, would say only that the agreement "provides improvements in wages, benefits and working conditions for TWA cabin personnel."

The union had demanded wage increases of up to 30 per cent and improvements in working conditions such as bigger expense payments and more liberal maternity leave.

Francis A. O'Neill, a member of the National Mediation Board, said final language of the agreement would be worked out today for submission to union members.

Cong Shells Damage Delta Naval Station

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported stepped-up Communist activity across Vietnam. It said nine Americans were killed in the loss of three helicopters and Viet Cong artillery heavily damaged an Allied naval base in the Mekong Delta.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian troops who recaptured a town 21 miles south of the capital reported the fleeing Viet Cong left it "completely looted."

U. S. military spokesmen in Saigon said Viet Cong and North Vietnamese shellings attacks across Vietnam killed one American and wounded 15 others. Field reports at Thung Duc Green Beret camp 24 miles southwest of the capital said 89 Communist troops had been killed around the outpost in the past two days.

It was announced in Vientiane, Laos, that A. S. Air Force Maj. Joseph L. Chestnut, 36, of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., has been missing isnce Oct. 13 in the crash of a T28 trainer near the Laotian royal capital of Luang Prabang.

The naval base hit by Communist gunfire just before midnight Tuesday night was at the southern tip of South Vietnam and known as "Solid Anchor." Allied military sources said at least 25 persons, including 10 American and South Vietnamese sailors, were wounded in a barrage of 40 rounds of 82mm mortar and 75mm recoilless rifle fire, which sank a river patrol boat. The base is 165 miles southwest of Saigon.

U.S. Military spokesmen said seven Americans were killed and two wounded Tuesday when an Army OH6 observation helicopter and a UH1 Huey helicopter gunship collided in flight 335 miles north-northeast of Saigon .

The north tower of the World Trade Center rises above the canyons of lower Manhattan. It became the tallest skyscraper in the world yesterday at a height of 1,254 feet above street level—four feet higher than the Empire State Building's 102 stories (at upper left). Algeria Grants Leary Political Asylum; To Join Cleaver Staff

ALGIERS (UPI) — Timothy Leary, one-time high priest of American LSD culture who escaped from a California prison Sept. 12, has been granted political asylum by the Algerian government.

Friends of the former Harvard University professor said Leary would work with Eldridge Cleaver in the U. S. Black Panther exile headquarters in Algiers.

In London, the Youth International Party (Yippies) said Leary and Cleaver would hold a news conference Thursday in Algiers.

Leary, 50, had been sought by U. S. police since he fled the California state prison system's minimum security Chino institation where he was serving one-to-10 years for marijuana possession.

Leary's wife, Rosemary, 34, who had finished a six-month sentence for possession of marijuana at the time of Leary's escape, arrived in Algiers with him. Both have been granted asylum in Algeria. Friends of the couple said Leary was working with Cleaver, 35, former information minister of the Black Panther party. Cleaver set up an exile headquarters in Algiers more than a year ago. He fled the United States after a shootout wiht police in Oakland, Calif., where Cleaver was wounded and Panther Bobby Hutton was killed.

Leary joined a growing group of foreign political fugitives and exiles in Algiers. Brazilian antigovernment militants also live here. They were exchanged for the freedom of a kidnaped German diplomat.

Leary also was convicted Jan. 20, 1970, in Laredo, Tex., of smuggling marijuana into the United States from Mexico and sentenced to 10 years after U. S. Customs Agents said they found marijuana in a snuffbox carried by Leary's daughter.

A court in Santa Ana, Calif., passed a sentence here to run consecutively with the Texas sentence, which was to follow the California term because Leary's lawyers had appealed the Texas conviction.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Army Dope Pushers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight soldiers and five civilians have been arrested on charges of selling heroin, marijuana, LSD, and various barbituates at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The 13 men were arrested Monday night and early Tuesday morning by members of the Washington Metropolitan Police Narcotics Squad and the Army's Criminal Investigation Unit.

The arrested men "were selling to soldiers, but we don't know whether they were patients," said inspector Walter R. Bishop, director of the police morals division.

Russ Moon Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has launched an unmanned space exploration vehicle called Zond 8 on a moonlooping mission, Tass said today.

The Soviet news agency said the probe went aloft Tuesday and had covered 72,000 miles by 10 a.m. today.

Zond 8 will circle the moon and then return to earth, Tass said.

The agency gave no reason for the long delay in reporting the launch of the vehicle.

FDA Hits Orinase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) plans to advise doctors that the most widely used diabetes pill does little good and may occasionally cause fatal heart disease, it was learned today.

The drug is tolbutamide, made by the Upjohn Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., under the tradename Orinase.

It is widely prescribed for mild diabetes mellitus cases contracted during adulthood. Medcial authorities estimate that this type of the ailment accounts for perhaps three-fourths of the approximately 3 million diabetes cases in the United States.

Uvjohn estimates that roughly 800,000 diabetics take Orinase.

Teachers Give Up

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Members of the Federation of Teachers were to return to classrooms today, ending Philadelphia's first public school strike.

Union teachers decided to go back to the 274 public schools when a tentative agreement was worked out, ending a walkout that saw almost half the 300,000 students boycott classes.

The federaton, with an estimated $200 in its treasury, agreed to the settlement Tuesday after a court levied a $75,000-a-day fine against the union. The walkout violated a court injunction.

Anti-Saigon Stand

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Episcopal House of Bishops has approved a strong statement condeming repression both in North and South Vietnam and has called on the United States to withdraw support from the South Vietnamese government.

The resolution, passed Tuesday, also asked the removal of all American forces from South Vietnam by December, 1971.

The statement urged "speedy elections" in South Vietnam "arranged by a neutral interim government and supervised by observers from appropriate international agencies."

Elizabeth Cole To Sing At Seminary

Soprano Elizabeth Cole of Hawaii will give a recital Friday at 8 p.m. at Alexander Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Miss Cole is part of the program sponsored by Sears Roebuck and Co., to promote greater interest in the music arts.

Stolen Art Arrest

NEW YORK (UPI)—A prominent businessman who is vice president of the Denver Art Museum's board of trustees has been arrested here on charges of trying to sell $50,000 worth of paintings stolen from a friend's art collection.

The FBI said William Van Voast Warren Jr., 38, a 1951 Harvard graduate, was released on his own recognizance Tuesday after being arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishop on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property. A conviction carries a maximum of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Warren, identified by the FBI as head of the Warren Sales Co. in Denver, a feed brokerage firm, was arrested Monday afternoon at a Manhattan hotel after he allegedly tried to sell a Renoir oil, "Les Collettes," and a Gauguin charcoal sketch, "Tahitian Lady," to an unidentified art dealer.

Algerian Slain

BONN (UPI) — Belkacem Krim, 48, one of nine men who launched the Algerian revolution against France in 1954, was found strangled in his Frankfurt hotel room Tuesday night. The West German Interior Ministry ordered an investigation.

A chambermaid found the body while cleaning rooms at the 21-story Intercontinental Hotel in Frankfurt. Police said he had been strangled, possibly on Sunday.

Krim, once a colonel in Algeria Liberation Army, had checked in Sunday with three men who identified themselves as Moroccans. Police said they disappeared without paying their bill.

Harassment Continues; Alioto Enters Scene

Stinkbomb attacks on businesses, intimidation of truck drivers and slashing of tires continued yesterday in Marin County.

In San Francisco, Mayor Joseph L. Alioto was urged by labor union leaders to assist in bringing about a settlement of San Francisco Typographical Union 21's nine-month-old strike against the Independent-Journal.

Alioto wired San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini urging him to use his office to "initiate new negotiations for settlement."

Alioto said in the telegram that the "newspaper controversy" has shown signs of spreading throughout Northern California.

"Criminal and civil actions against labor union members have been filed. Reverberations are being felt here in San Francisco as well as in other Northern California cities," Alioto said.

"While we take no public position on the merits or demerits of the controversy, we ought to at least insist that an attempt at settlement be made on a serious basis."

The telegram was sent yesterday after a group of labor officials met with Alioto to ask him to attempt to bring settlement of the strike, said Jerry Flamm, Alioto's confidential secretary.

Bettini said he was informed in a telephone call from Alioto yesterday that the telegram had been sent. He said he had no immediate comment on Alioto's telegram.

Bettini commented that this was the first time he had received any communication from Alioto regarding San Rafael affairs.

San Rafael police said a Christmas tree ornament filled with a nauseous smelling liquid was thrown against a stairway wall at Macy's at 1:38 p.m.

At 2 p.m., police said, a foul smelling liquid was sprayed at several locations in the Emporium.

Tires were slashed on two I-J delivery trucks in a parking lot at Second and B streets about 12:45 p.m., police reported.

Truck drivers attempting to make deliveries to the Payless Drug Store at 866 Fourth Street and Disco Department Store at 555 Francisco Boulevard were threatened yesterday, police said.

Two men, driving a beige Dodge station wagon, identified themselves as members of Teamsters Local 70 of Oakland and told the truck driver at Disco, "If you make any more deliveries something will happen to you," police said.

The Teamsters local is one of four labor unions accused of illegal secondary boycott activity in a petition filed by the National Labor Relations Board Monday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

The petition, which charges Teamsters locals 70 and 85 of San Francisco, International Longshoremen's Union 10 of San Francisco and San Francisco Typographical Union 21 with harassing and threatening truck drivers and illegally picketing I-J advertisers, was the latest in a series of issues to enter the courts concerning the strike against the I-J.

Jury Selection In Violence Trial Likely Late In Day

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Selection of a jury continued today for trial of seven persons stemming from the pro-labor demonstration outside the Independent-Journal last Valentine's Day.

The job of selecting a panel, before Judge William E. Jensen in Solano County Superior Court, was interrupted at noon, when the judge ordered the prosecution to bring two interpreters to court for the benefit of two defendants who are mutes.

This will be followed by opening statements by Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas and the three defense attorneys, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, Robert Y. Bell of Santa Rosa and Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo.

Thomas's first witness is scheduled to be Lt. James Carlton of the San Rafael Police Department, who was in charge of the large force of law officers assembled to deal with the Feb. 14 demonstration.

Three prospective jurors were dismissed by Judge Jensen yesterday on defense challenges. Two indicated sympathy toward the plight of the police and one said she objected to riotous conduct and didn't feel she could judge the defendants fairly.

Most of the questions put to prospective jurors concerned whether they or members of their family have union affiliation, what their views were on picketing and demonstrations and whether they would have difficulty judging each defendant separately, rather than as a group.

Among the defendants is John J. DeMartini, 44, of Mill Valley, vice president of International Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J Jan. 7. The Valentine's Day rally was called in support of the striking union.

Others on trial are Nimmes H. Shelton, 40, Charles P. Vance, 29, Alvis D. Bailey, 43, and James S. Brooke, 35, all of San Francisco: Joe E. Reese, 31, of Hayward, and Terry W. Lansing, 20, of Berkeley.

In a 16-count indictment returned by the Marin County Grand Jury, all are accused of participating in a riot and in an unlawful assembly; all but Shelton are charged with felony assault on a police officer; Lansing, Bailey, DeMartini, Brooke and Vance are charged with remaining at a place of a riot; Lansing, Bailey, DeMartini, Brooke and Vance are charged with failing to disperse; Bailey, DeMartini and Lansing are charged with delaying and obstructing an officer; Shelton is accused of carrying a black jack and slingshot, and Bailey is charged with possessing a black jack.

Seventeen persons, including three police officers, were injured in the riotous demonstration. Six required hospital treatment.

The rally drew a crowd estimated at more than 600 persons. Windows in the I-J building were smashed and paint and other objects hurled. A delivery truck was set afire.

in the exercise of their right of free speech."

The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio earlier in the day filed a similar petition in U.S. District Court in Cleveland.

The county court had allowed White to comment on the grand jury report, bat not to criticize it.

The grand jury report, issued Friday following 18 days of hearings during which 300 persons testified, laid the major blame for the disorders on a "permissive attitude" of the university administration. It said the National Guardsmen had fired at the students in the "logical belief" their lives were in danger.

The ACLU suit in federal court contends the court-imposed silence deprives the jury witnesses of their rights of free speech. The union also claimed the court selectively relaxed the order to allow certain persons to comment, such as special prosecutor

Land Action Plan Asked In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board last night directed its superintendent to develop recommendations for transfer of lands with the Marin Municipal Water District.

Gwyneth R. McGee, the district's executive secretary, said the board's action followed indecision over whether it would benefit the district to trade about half an acre of White Hill School property for about an acre of water district land adjacent to Deer Park School.

The water district is seeking the White Hill School property for installation of a water main, Mrs. McGee said, while the school district would like to expand the playground at Deer Park School.

Trustees refused to commit themselves to a proposal that a Fairfax public safety building be constructed at the Central School site.

Mrs. McGee said the board, in response to a letter from the city's planning commission, indicated it would consider the matter if city council action dictated.

The planning commission has recommended the Central School site as an alternative to a lot opposite the city park on Bolinas Road as a public safety building site.

The Fairfax School District board also:

TEACHERS — Recognized the Fairfax Teachers' Association as representing 43 teachers in negotiations with the district.

WORKSHOP — Announced a Nov. 18 workshop for trustees to review budgeting and state legislation.

BOOKS — Accepted two outdoor education books, developed by the district's staff, dealing with nature study and art projects utilizing natural materials.

UNIFICATION — Joined Tamalpais High School District trustees in asking that the state remove its requirement for unification elections every four years.

ENROLLMENT — Heard that 1,085 students are enrolled in the district, down about 30 from last year at this time.

Juvenile Hearing Set In Burglary

Two 13-year-old Petaluma boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary and petty theft from cars.

Larry Anthony Beck, 711 Petaluma Boulevard South, and Frank Allen Claxton, 428 Fifth Street, were released to their parents to appear at a juvenile hearing on Nov. 5.

Police accused the boys of breaking into Ken's Market, 400 Eighth Street, Sunday night and taking a case of wine valued at $9.

Brebner Resigns From Festival

John Brebner, founder of the Marin Shakespeare Festival and its executive director for 10 years, resigned his post at last night's quarterly meeting of the festival directors.

He said expansion of the festival with road trips, additional productions and other growth are "beginning to take a toll of time and energy I can no longer meet." He also cited the need to attend to family interests.

The festival directors will meet in November to select another director.

evening. Mrs. Cadwallader, whose husband, Jack, is a partner in a broom manufacturing plant, drove her black and gold Lincoln Continental up the steep grade to the Ohta home. Mr. and Mrs. Ohta were going to a 7:15 p.m. dinner meeting at Dominican Santa Cruz Hospital and the secretary was to sit with the two boys.

Before the couple had started dressing for dinner, the killers entered the house and confronted them.

Apparently lining up the five victims on the edge of the swimming pool, they bound their hands in front of them and blindfolded them. Then they shot them down from behind. Ohta was shot twice in the center of the back, the others in the back of the neck.

The killers, using kindling, made "several attempts" to start a fire. They finally succeeded in touching off a roaring blaze which gutted much of the house and its furnishings and caused $150,000 damages.

James said there was no indication of a struggle or that the victims had been beaten.

"The fire could have been set before or after the shooting," he said. "I think probably they

Blount Given Blank Check On POW Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon instructed Postmaster General Winton M. Blount Wednesday to travel to Hanoi, if necessary, to make sure that American prisoners of war in Vietnam receive their Christmas mail from home this year.

Blount read a statement by Nixon at a ceremony introducing two new 6-cent stamps in red, white and blue, one of them honoring all U.S. servicemen including "prisoners of war, missing and killed in action." The other honors disabled veterans.

$400,000 Awarded In Chloromycetin Case

LONG BEACH (UPI)—A superior court jury here awarded $400,000 damages Tuesday in the 1965 death of a housewife who died after taking a dose of the drug, Chloromycetin.

John Stevens, whose wife Phyllis died Dec. 25, 1965, claimed the drug was negligently manufactured by Parke-Davis Co. of Detroit, and negligently prescribed by Dr.

Southern Sonoma To Vote On Three Posts

Southern Sonoma voters will elect a new supervisor, assessor and sheriff when they go to the polls on Nov. 3.

A total of 98,655 voters will be eligible to cast ballots including 20,226 in southern Sonoma's second supervisorial district.

Competing for the post of supervisor are Richard R. Day, an attorney, and Philip L. Joerger, a businessman and Petaluma city councilman.

Day, 35, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Idaho and law degree from the University of California. He is a Navy veteran of the Korean war.

He is a member of the Sonoma County Board of Education and serves as chairman of the Committee on special schools.

Day is a director of Californians organized to acquire access to State Tidelands, chairman of the Joint Task Force on Air Pollution, director of the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce, member of the Redwood Empire Trial Lawyers Association and the Rohnert Park Optimist Club.

He is a member of the law firm of Fredericks and Swenson, Rohnert Park. He and his wife, Jean, are the parents of a son.

Joerger, 44, is a Petaluma businessman in the midst of his second term on the city council. He has run unsuccessfully for supervisor in the past three elections.

He is a Navy veteran and spent 13 years as a local dairyman. Joerger serves on the Petaluma Advisory Board to the Sonoma County Water Agency and is also a member of the Petaluma Elks Lodge, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Druids, American Legion, Parent-Teachers Association and Petaluma Concert Association.

Joerger also serves as a sponsor for the Petaluma Boys' Club, as a little league baseball manager and with the Sonoma County Junior Livestock Auction Buyers.

He and his wife, Enes, have four children.

On the ballot for Sonoma County Sheriff are Don Striepeke, a fire prevention and law enforcement officer for the state Division of Forestry, and Sgt. Winfield Thibodeau of the sheriff's department.

Striepeke, 40, has been with the Division of Forestry for 19 years and presently heads law enforcement and fire prevention activities in an eight-county area.

He is a graduate of the Santa Rosa Junior College Law Enforcement Program and has taken courses offered by the Division of Forestry.

Striepeke, of Sebastopol, has served as liaison officer with the state attorney general's office and has supervised staffs ranging from 35 to 900 men.

He received an associate of arts degree with honors from Santa Rosa Junior College and has participated in 10 training sessions sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Thibodeau began his law enforcement career as a police officer for two years in Sebastopol and has been with the Sheriff's department for nine years.

He has received an advanced certificate in law enforcement from the state Department of Justice. Thibodeau also served on the Sebastopol Planning Commission.

Comalli has served as assistant assessor for four of the 19 years he has been with the department.

While serving in the number two position, he has been in charge of developing procedures and the data system for computerizing records.

Comalli received a bachelor of science degree in forestry from Washington State College and completed courses offered by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers.

He is an instructor in advanced real estate appraisal for the University of California extension staff.

He says he has spent three years investigating county and state tax structures to become familiar with problems and practices.

Crane also helped to organize the Sonoma County Grange Credit Union, is a member of the Bennett Valley Grange and is a past former member of the Bellevue School Board.

different version of Bauer's encounter with Hartman's car, as the two drove opposite ways through one-way Julia Street the night of March 22. They said that only Jalosky and two other guards went out of the building as Hartman and the picket confronted each other, and denied Bauer was chased with billy clubs.

"Bauer, of course, is a liar," Judge Keating declared in reviewing the case during oral arguments.

Jalosky also testified that Cogswell had been seen on closed circuit TV breaking an antenna off a guard's jeep in the loading dock area, less than an hour before the Morais incident. He said San Rafael police had taken Cogswell away, then returned him to the picket line just before the confrontation.

The guard lieutenant said Cogswell, on his return, advanced on Morais across I-J property, called him an obscene name, and swung a picket sign at Morais before the captain struck Cogswell.

Keating has yet to rule on an earlier week-long hearing in which the I-J sought contempt action against local 21 and others in connection with violence that erupted at the Valentine's Day labor rally against the I-J.

College Measures Before Irate Taxpayers Group

Irate Taxpayers of Marin will be asked to endorse Marin County measures B and C at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow in the auditorium of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building at Third and Brooks streets, San Rafael.

A representative of the citizens committee working for passage of the two measures, which will benefit the College of Marin, will address the meeting.

Annual nominations of officers and directors of the organization will also be held tomorrow at the meeting which is open to the public.

Rubella Shots Given To 5,100 In Sonoma

More than 5,100 Sonoma County children received rubella immunization on Sunday, surpassing estimates by Dr. Walter C. Clowers, county health officer.

Dr. Clowers said the six-hour session at nine clinics "was the largest one-day immunization in the county since the polio campaign of 1962."

He said other rubella clinics may be scheduled and that immunization shots are given regularly at the county health department on the second and fourth Fridays of each month from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

To Higher Court On Armed Robbery

Two Santa Rosa men charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in the holdup of a San Rafael pool hall owner on Oct. 9 were bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26, are to be arraigned Monday. They were arrested after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, where they abandoned their car.

They reportedly held up George Lefevre, owner of George's Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car, and grabbed a bag containing $19,000. They are accused of firing two shots at pursuers as they fled.

OBITUARIES

CONSUELO MILLER

At her request, no service will be held for Consuelo Merriman Miller of San Francisco who died of a heart attack at her home last Saturday.

Mrs. Miller, 58, was the sister of Mary Jean Knowles of Kentfield.

She was a native of Seattle and had lived in San Francisco since 1917.

She was employed as manager of the high fashion gown salon at Saks Fifth Avenue in San Francisco. Prior to joining Saks in 1952, Mrs. Miller had worked for I. Magnin and Ransohoffs Inc.

Burial was at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park in Colma. Memorial gifts to the San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind are preferred.

MAUDE MITCHELL

Funeral for Maude M. Mitchell, mother of Esther Alpers of San Rafael, was held yesterday in San Francisco. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

Mrs. Mitchell, 83, died Saturday in a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Philadelphia, Pa., but came to California with her family as an infant. She lived at Fort Bragg until moving to San Francisco at the age of 16. She had been in a San Rafael convalescent hospital for about two years.

She was formerly involved with child care and Republican party activities in San Francisco and was a member of the Holy Rosary Sodality of Star of the Sea Church in San Francisco.

In addition to Mrs. Alpers, she is survived by a brother, Hardin S. Ware, and two sisters, Muriel Garrett and Ruth Shirar, all of San Francisco, and one grandson.

MARIE P. GLYNN

Funeral for Marie P. Glynn, mother of Matilda Wright of Novato, will be Friday at Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Glynn, who lived for the past 13 months with her daughter at 1095 San Jose Boulevard, died Sunday at a local hospital following a long illness. She was 72.

A native of St. Kitts, British West Indies, she lived most of her life in Springfield.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by four sons, Samuel Pickering, Arthur P., Thomas A. and Arnold U. Glynn, all of Springfield. She is also survived by five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Burial will be at the Oak Grove Cemetery in Springfield.

WILLIAM NICHOLLS

Funeral for William Austin Nicholls, 57, of 16 Capilano Drive, Novato, was held today in Novato. He died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Eureka and had spent most of his life working for Anaconda Copper Corp. in Chili. His home has been in Novato the past six years, but he had been working for Dinnel Corp. in Vietnam.

He is survived by his wife, Sheila; three sons, William A. Nicholls Jr. of Vallejo, Brian and Bruce Nicholls of Novato and one grandchild.

Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

WILLIAM BOSWELL

Memorial service for William W. Boswell, father of Kathryn B. Lavender of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Corcoran, Kings County.

A resident of Corcoran and one of three brothers who founded the mammoth J. G. Boswell farming empire, Boswell died Saturday at a San Mateo hospital after surgery.

He and his brothers began farming on a 440-acre site near Corcoran in the 1920s. The firm now is one of the largest farming-ranching corporations in the nation. It has holdings of at least a million acres in Oregon, Arizona, and Tulare, King and Fresno Counties in California and in Australia.

Born in Penfield, Ga., Boswell came to California in 1924.

Besides Mrs. Lavender he is survived by two sons, William W. Boswell Jr., of Corcoran and J. G. Boswell II of Pasadena; another daughter, Josephine D. Larsen of Hillsborough; two sisters, Mrs. C. R. Smith of Short Hills, N.J. and Mrs. C. S. McWhorter of Coronado; and 10 grandchildren.

Burial will be in Sun City, Ariz.

WILLIAM FINDLEY

Funeral for William B. Findley, a former Kentfield resident and industrial engineer, will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Godeau Mortuary, 41 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco.

Findley, a native of San Francisco, died Monday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. He was 76.

During World War II, he was superintendent of the machine shops at the Marin Shipyard in Sausalito. After the war he ran his own engineering firm at Sonoma, and eight years ago took a post as consulting mechanical engineer with the United California Bank in San Francisco.

After establishing his business in Sonoma, Findley lived in Marin County for 25 years in both Kentfield and San Anselmo.

He was a member of Excelsior Lodge No. 166, Free and Accepted Masons; Marin Chapter No. 102 Royal Arch Masons; California Commandary No. 1; San Francisco Press Club; Stationary Engineers Local No. 36; the Marin Mutual Benevolent Association; a 25-year member of Islam Shrine and a retired member of the Shrine Patrol.

He is survived by his wife, Eleanor O. Findley of San Francisco; a son, Ralph W. Findley of San Anselmo; two stepdaughters, Dorothy Cronander and Eleanor Learned of San Francisco; a stepson, Arthur Bauer of Corte Madera; two sisters, Marion Findley and Loucetta Stang of San Francisco and a granddaughter.

Funeral will be under the auspices of Excelsior Lodge, with private inurnment to follow at Olivet Memorial Park.

The family requests memorial gifts be sent to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco.

MABEL BENN

Funeral for Mabel Benn, a resident of Marin County for 35 years, was held yesterday in San Anselmo. Entombment was at the Chapel of the Chimes Cemetery in Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Benn, 70, died Saturday in a local hospital following a long illness.

She resided with her husband, Jack Benn, at 35 El Camino Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Benn was a native of San Francisco and a member of Jehovah's Witnesses Church.

Her husband is her only survivor.

Five Named To Antidrug Board

Center Point, a program run by two ex-drug addicts to fight drug addiction, has named five Marinites to its founding board of directors.

President of the new board of directors, Ernest D. Mendenhall Jr., of Belvedere, yesterday said other board members are Rex Hutchinson, center director, Helen Carrigan of Belvedere, J. Patrick Heron of Mill Valley and William P. Muller of Ross.

Mendenhall said the board is considering members for an advsory board, to which Dr. Roger Smith, organizer of the Marin Open House, has already been named.

Center Point opened its doors at 805 D Street, San Rafael, in February and during the first eight months of operation reported helping more than 35 addicts "kick the habit."

However, almost since its inception, the center has been struggling with financial woes, according to Mendenhall.

Hutchinson has reported the center will need about $1,000 in donations to keep operations going for another month.

After November, the center's staff hopes to acquire about $70,000 in grants from two private foundations but until that time it is a hand-to-mouth operation.

Each foundation has promised $36,000, but cannot begin funding Center Point until after their respective boards of directors approve the financing later this month or in November, according to Hutchinson.

Until that time, Hutchinson said, the facility must rely on gifts from private donors and the funds it has received from the Marin Charitable Foundation.

Persons interested in contributing to the center, which has been endorsed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the county economic opportunity council, may make out contribution checks to Center Point and mail them to 805 D Street, San Rafael, Mendenhall said.

Belvedere Turns Down A Third Residence

A series of variances to allow a Belvedere man to build a house on a lot that already contains two residences has been rejected by the city's planning commission.

Commissioner William H. Rafter reported the commission turned down the applications of Henry K. Mettier of 330 Beach Road at its Monday meeting.

Mettier had sought permission to build a new house on his lot and remove kitchen facilities from an existing three-bedroom house there.

Under the zoning ordinance, Rafter said, the kitchen work would be required because a guest house and another residence are permitted on the same lot only if the guest facility has no kitchen.

Mettier needed the variance to remodel the older house, built in 1890, becaus it is a nonconforming use due to the fact it encroaches on the required five-foot setbacks.

Further complicating the case, Rafter said, is a guest house already constructed on the property.

"This would have allowed three residential buildings on one site, and I just don't approve of that," Rafter said. His motion to deny Mettier's application passed unanimously.

Deferred to the commission's Nov. 16 meeting was consideration of a variance asked by W.S. Newhall to build a garage at 242 Beach Road within the front and sideyard setbacks. The commission wanted time for an on-site inspection, Rafter said.

Mail A Lot Slower Than Trip To Earth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took the Apollo 12 astronauts only five days last November to come home from the moon with lunar samples. The space agency mailed some of the samples from Texas 23 days ago and they still haven't arrived in New York.

The agency asked the Post Office to trace the 13 grams of moon dust sent in two packages by registered mail. One package was addressed to a laboratory at Columbia University, and the second was mailed to the Army Post Office in New York from where it was to be sent to Saudia Arabia for a U.S. Geological Survey scientist.

Zone Review Proposed For Sausalito

A proposal to establish a zoning review board to remove the burden of routine zoning matters from the Sausalito Planning Commission and city council will be considered by the commission at 8 o'clock tonight in city hall.

Under the plan - proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr - the review board would handle requests for zoning changes, variances and conditional use permits, as well as other zoning items now handled by the planners.

His proposal calls for a three-man board, including the city planning director and two members appointed by the city council. St. Cyr said he favors the zoning board to relieve the council and planning commission "so both bodies can get into the big problems they should be facing, such as waterfront planning and traffic congestion."

Cannibal Killer Is Given Life

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)—Cannibal killer Stanley Dean Baker, 23, who admitted he ate the heart of his victim, has been given a life sentence.

District Judge Jack Shanstrom Tuesday accepted Baker's guilty plea and passed sentence. He could have also sentenced him to death by hanging.

Baker and Harry A. Stroup, 20, both of Sheridan, Wyo., were accused in the July 9 dismemberment and cannibal slaying of James M. Schlosser, 22, Great Falls, Mont.

Schlosser was a welfare worker in the community of Roundup at the time of his death. His remains, without head or heart, were found in the Yellowstone River near Gardiner July 10.

Stroup has pleaded innocent and is scheduled to go on trial Nov. 16.

PARADISE SHOPPING CENTER
CORTE MADERA

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and Democratic challenger Dale Bumpers both are campaigning on promises of reform and progress.

They seem not to disagree so much on what should be done as on which of them can do it better.

The point has not escaped Walter L. Carruth, the eastern Arkansas farmer who is the gubernatorial candidate of the American Party in Arkansas, the third-party vehicle George C. Wallace rode in 1968 to win the state's six electoral votes.

Carruth says both men are unabashed liberals who would be soft on federal orders to bus school children for racial balance.

Rockefeller's campaign, believed to cost well into seven figures, is visually and verbally low key. His billboards say simply, "He will do more for Arkansas."

The governor says he is happy to run on his "reform" record.

Bumpers says the issues boil down to who can work with the 97 per cent Democratic general assembly to get the legislation the state needs, especially in education, prison reform and getting doctors into the rural areas.

Rockefeller, 58, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and one of the wealthiest politicians in the country, proposed an unpopular $100 million tax increase program in the 1969 session.

Bumpers' campaign is more modest. He said he spent $75,000 in the first primary. He said another $75,000 from outside contributions was used for the primary runoff in which he upset former six-term Gov. Orval E. Faubus. Bumpers estimated he would spend another $150,000 in the general election.

The governor of Arkansas makes $10,000 a year—least of all 50 governors.

The race has attracted attention of such disparate political figures as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who said Rockefeller's administration has been 11 four-year research project in civics."

Bumpers, 45, a lawyer from Charleston in far-western Arkansas, has been charged with having nothing substantial to offer the state.

Agnew called Bumpers "a grim and grunt" candidate.

Rockefeller said Bumpers was trying to "take over the governor's office with a smile, a shoeshine and one speech."

Carruth, 39, said Bumpers has "a nice smile, which is fine for selling toothpaste, but not worth a damn in the governor's race."

Despite the knocks, Bumpers is the favored candidate. But the major question is, can his popularity hold up through the Nov. 3 general election and a possible runoff two weeks later?

Some observers feel that the runoff question is the most important issue, and it probably will not be resolved until the day before the election.

The 1969 Election Code—in an amendment apparently designed to stymie the American Party requires any candidate for governor or other statehouse office to receive a majority of the votes to be elected.

Rockefeller and other Republican leaders have filed suit challenging the constitutionality of the law on the basis the state constitution says the candidate with the most votes shall be the winner.

Republican strategists feel it is possible that Bumpers could lose enough support before the general election, and with the votes being picked up by Carruth and Rockefeller. Rockefeller could win.

Carruth would be happy with 15 per cent of the vote, the number he needs to keep a ballot position for his party.

Pollution Warning

CAIRO (UPI) — Kamal Stino, a member of Egypt's ruling Arab Socialist Union, has warned that Egypt's population will reach 70 million by the year 2000 unless more effective birth control measures are taken. The current population is 33 million.

The U.S. Military Academy at West Point opened July 4, 1802.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy | For Secretary of State James Flournoy | Governor Ronald Reagan | Lt. Governor Ed Reinecke | State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest | For Attorney General Evelle J. Younger

State Controller
Houston I. Flournoy
A former educator before seeking public office, Hugh served six years in the State Assembly and was elected Controller in 1966. He is known as an expert in education finance and taxation, and headed a special task force on tax reform for Governor Reagan.

For Secretary of State
James Flournoy
Recognized as an outstanding businessman, attorney and civic leader in Los Angeles. He heads a Chamber of Commerce and YMCA Board of Directors in southwest Los Angeles. In 1968, he was asked to direct special campaign activities for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Governor
Ronald Reagan
Elected 33rd Governor of California by almost one million votes. His common sense approach brought the state back from the brink of insolvency in 1967, has resulted in many major reforms and has successfully reversed the growth of big government.

Lt. Governor
Ed Reinecke
Successful businessman, manufacturer and inventor before being elected to six years in the U.S. Congress. Appointed Lt. Governor in 1969, Reinecke has reformed the office and heads important task forces on drug abuse and narcotics, and environmental quality.

State Treasurer
Ivy Baker Priest
Elected in 1966, Ivy's brilliant investment policies have earned California more than $350 million; "profits" which helped finance State programs. A member of Gov. Reagan's Cabinet, she served as Treasurer of the United States under President Dwight Eisenhower.

For Attorney General
Evelle J. Younger
District attorney of Los Angeles County, the largest single prosecution agency of its kind in the nation. A former FBI agent, City Prosecutor and Superior Court Judge, Evelle Younger also is chairman of President Nixon's Task Force on Crime and Law Enforcement.

The real issue in this election is whether California will keep moving ahead or fall back to the old politics and failures of the early sixties.

Re-elect Governor Reagan and this outstanding team—keep California moving ahead in the 70's. On Nov. 3—Vote for the Team for the '70s!

HAMBURGER RESTAURANT FOE

Carol Tapping of Mill Valley stands at the busy corner of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue and tries to convince motorists to join her in opposing a planned Burger Chef restaurant at the intersection. Carol, 14, attended Monday's city council meeting but was told by Mayor George E. Wickham that a building permit for the restaurant already has been issued and there is no chance of halting construction. She complained Mill Valley already has too many hamburger stands.

Threatened Head Start Budget Cuts Bring Impassioned Pleas

By PAT ANGLE

Approximately 700 irate parents and Head Start employees from all over California — angered by threatened budget cuts in the federal program for low-income pre-school youngsters — shouted their displeasure at a meeting yesterday in Marin.

Target of most of the hostile comment was Dr. Edward Zigler, national director of the Office of Child Development, who tried unsuccessfully to tell the parents he was in sympathy with their demands.

Dr. Zigler spoke at a meeting of the Northern California Head Start Association, held in the Manzanita Center in Marin City. He said he is traveling around the country to hear the views of persons who have a stake in programs which could be cut. "I am here to listen to what you have to say," he told the overflow audience. "I get your message loud and clear and I intend to take it back to Washington."

Although Zigler said he has had no official word on the exact amount which could be cut from Head Start's budget, which totaled $324 million last year, he said a proposed cut of 13.5 per cent has been rumored. Congress will act in three or four weeks on the Head Start budget — currently set at $339 million for 1971 — when it returns from its recess.

The Head Start program takes children from poor families and gives them specialized preschool training to prepare them to enter school. If the children cannot speak English, language instruction is part of the curriculum, according to Esther Martinez, director of the Southern Alameda County Head Start. She said the program encourages parental involvement and indicated many low-income parents have part-time employment with Head Start.

The program, which has been transferred from the auspices of the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Office of Child Development, a part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has already been forced to make administrative budget cuts which will become effective next March.

Mrs. Martinez, whose particular program serves 380 children, either in year-round or summer classes, said Southern Alameda is already scheduled to lose $60,000 next year. As a consequence, she said all summer classes — serving about 100 youngsters — are being eliminated in 1971. "More cuts will hurt us very much," she said.

Zigler promised the parents he would "do every sing thing in the future — not only to avert (budget) cuts, but to convince the president and the congress we need more money."

The parents — waiving signs that read "Cut Research, Not Kids," "Head Start Needs Funds, Not the Moon," and "No Cold Cuts, We Need Bread." — appeared impervious to Zigler's repeated assurances that he was on their side.

"Who are you working for — Nixon?" one man shouted. "It's election time; that's why he's here," called another. "We're not going to let you stop some programs and let others go on," cried Bishop Paul Miles, pastor of the Church of God and Christ in San Francisco's Western Addition. "Before you stop one or two (programs), you can take them all back," Bishop Miles told Zigler.

The audience cheered, whistled and shouted approval for most of the speakers who spoke against the budget cuts.

A San Francisco parent, Mrs. Ida Amaya, gave an impassioned plea for Head Start, saying her daughter — a Head Start graduate — is now the top student in her class. "I don't want to go on welfare; I want a good education;" she said in broken English.

Many low-income parents said they did not want welfare and called education the key to a better life for them and their children.

If the programs are cut "and the parents go on welfare, then people will say they don't want to work," Miles declared, while the audience applauded wildly.

At one point, a Hunter's Point woman took the microphone and threatened to hold it until the parents' demands for more Head Start money were met. "We want action now," she said.

A man warned the poor "will take to the streets" if their needs are not met. He drew cheers, while a woman who urged the audience to get out and vote and encourage others to vote for candidates who will help was booed.

Following the volatile meeting a weary Zigler, on his way to another gathering in Seattle, admitted he has encountered similar hostile reactions around the country.

But he was undismayed —and actually heartened —by the show of emotion. "I know the people are angry and I don't blame them a bit," he said with feeling.

Sunday's Services May Be Last

What may be the final worship services in San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday.

After the 11 a.m. service Sunday, the landmark sanctuary at Fifth Avenue and E Street will be closed, Rev. Charles C. Griffin, pastor, said yesterday.

The regular 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday services will be held thereafter in Canoles Hall, on the west side of the church property.

The church's governing body has recommended the building be demolished because engineering studies have declared it an earthquake hazard.

The studies said that much of the mortar between the stones, as well as the stones themselves, has deteriorated since the structure was erected in the early 1890s. Brick pillars which support the roof also have deteriorated.

Rev. Griffin said a final decision on whether or not to demolish the structure and replace it with a new one will be made by the congregation at its annual meeting Jan. 20.

He said architectural drawings of the proposed new sanctuary will be displayed for the congregation around Dec. 20.

Agnew's Stock Soars For '76

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., the Republican national chairman, has proposed Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for President in 1976.

While introducing Agnew at a GOP fund-raiser here Tuesday night, Morton said he will nominate him for vice president at the 1972 GOP convention.

"And, at the 1976 convention, I intend to nominate him for president of the United States," Morton added.

The 800 Republicans at the dinner cheered.

Kidney Transplanted Into San Rafael Man

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 23-year-old San Rafael man was reported in satisfactory condition today at the University of California Medical Center after a three-and-one-half-hour kidney transplant operation yesterday.

The hospital said William D. Brady of 211 Canal Street was "doing extremely well" following the operation. His 26-year-old brother, Paul, who donated a kidney, was also listed in satisfactory condition.

Brady suffered a kidney failure in July one day after his marriage. Since then he has been unable to work and has had to travel to the medical center every other day for six hour treatments on a kidney dialysis machine.

On Oct. 6, his kidneys, spleen and appendix were removed. He remained in the hospital in preparation for yesterday's operation.

His wife, Susan, after the operation, said her husband might leave the hospital in about four weeks providing no complications developed.

However, if serious problems arise, she said, "he will be on the kidney machine the rest of his life. But that's not going to happen."

Mrs. Brady said her husband appeared in good spirits and was talking with his family. "He says it hurts a lot," she reported, "but he's in good spirits."

Mrs. Brady said she and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Brady of 384 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, are collecting Betty Crocker coupons which can be traded in for a kidney machine. It takes 800,000 coupons she said.

"There's a great need for a kidney machine in Marin County," she said. "Kidney failure is a widespread problem, so a machine in Marin could save people from as far away as Redding going into San Franciso."

She said once the necessary coupons are collected, the machine will be donated to a hospital in Marin willing to provide the staff and service.

Marin General Hospital officials have said it does not intend to accept a machine and that adequate facilities are available in San Francisco.

Ross General Hospital officials said installation of a kidney machine is under consideration, while officials at Novato General Hosptal had no comment.

Guilty Plea Entered On Drug Possession

Douglas F. Farley, 18, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, pleaded guilty yesterday in Sothern Sonoma Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor possession of dangerous drugs.

Farley had originally been charged with selling marijuana, selling amphetamines and felony possession of dangerous drugs. Judge Alexander J. McMahon set sentencing for Nov. 16.

Charles In Plea For Wildlife

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, has appealed for worldwide efforts to ensure the survival of wildlife.

In the foreward of a book entitled "The Living World of Animals" published today by The Readers Digest in association with the world Wildlife Fund, Charles said:

"The awesome fact which always appals me is that once a species has vanished, no amount of human ingenuity or technological ability can resurrect it. We have lost something unique which has probably taken 20 million years to evolve and we have it well and truly imprinted on our consciences— or we ought to have."

RAIN IDLES WORK ON CREEK

A massive crane was stranded in the newly constructed concrete channel at Corte Madera Creek at College of Marin following yesterday's rain storm. Officials for the Phase 3-A contractor said about six feet of water backed up in the channel. A dam at the mouth of the channel to hold back tide waters was opened last night allowing the ponded water to flow into San Francisco Bay. There was no damage to the project and the crane was to be removed today, officials said.

$11,000 Drug Raid In Fairfax; 12 Suspects

Drug agents last night raided a Fairfax house suspected of being a center for narcotics sales, seized marijuana and drugs valued at over $11,000, and arrested 12 persons.

The agents, armed with a search warrant after a sale of 50 kilos of pot to federal agents, said they confiscated the 50 kilos from a car outside the home and found five kilos more in the house at 43 Manor View Drive.

They also said they found a half pound of hashish and a small amount of cocaine.

Charged with the sale were Julian Crawford Johnson III, 20, of 12 Traxler Road, and James Robert Thaxter, 27, of 45 Florence Avenue, both San Anselmo. They were also booked into jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale.

William Mansfield Graham, 21, of Muir Beach, was booked on suspicion of having marijuana for sale, with bail set at $6,250. Harold Lynn White, 20, of 43 Manor View Drive, Fairfax, was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics, with bail set at $2,500.

Booked on suspicion of possession of "pot" and narcotics, with bail at $1,250 each, were:

Michael Diebel, 24, of Bolinas; Randolph Joseph Bak, 24, of 1 Novato Court, Novato; Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, of 100 Main Street, San Quentin Village; Carmela Lynch, 19, of 69 Meernaa Avenue, Fairfax, and Sonya Gail Foster, 18, of San Francisco.

Robert Michael Meyer, 22, of 1460 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was booked on the same charges, but with bail at $250.

Two teen-agers, Nancy Umphress, 17, who lives at the raided house, and Gordon Blankenburg, 16, of Fairfax, were booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics.

Those in jail had not posted bail and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Cotati Trustees Grumble At Price, But Will Sell Wing

The Cotati School District board last night agreed to sell the east wing of Cotati School to the City of Cotati for a new city hall, but grumbled at the low price of $3,500.

Schools Supt. Duncan A. Coleman said strict procedures had been followed in getting appraisals of the property and the top figure was $3,500. Original estimates had put the price as high as $20,000.

Reluctantly, the board approved the sale, with trustee Maurice C. Fredericks dissenting.

The district will be permitted to use two rooms for storage, Coleman said.

The Cotati School District Board Also:

ADDITION — Heard that funding for a six-classroom addition to Waldo Rohnert School has been delayed because of a drop in district enrollment. Coleman said new efforts will be made to get money for the project.

GRADING — Heard a report that Cotati School has joined Thomas Page School in using a narrative progress report card rather than the traditional letter-grades.

LEASE — Approved a lease for district office space with Spivock Co. that raises rent from $267 to $319 per month.

New Rules On TV Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) told television advertisers today not to hide the truth under a slick commercial.

In a policy statement, the FTC said when it requires "clear and conspicuous" disclosure of some adverse fact in a commercial, that means the viewer must be able to hear it, to read it on the screen, and to understand it.

Don't print it in black letters on a brown background, the FTC said, and don't drown out the oral warning with music.

Leave the printed message on long enough for people to read it, even if they have a small screen set, and do it right after the sales pitch, the agency said. If it's a children's product, make sure the bad news—like the good—is expressed so kids can understand it.

A Venetian, John Cabot, or Giovanni Cabotto, discovered Labrador in 1497.

Nader Aide To Consumer Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what some critics may charge is putting the fox in the chicken coop, the Civil Aeronautics Board plans to name one of Ralph Nader's raiders to head a newly formed airline consumer advisory committee, it was learned today.

Reuben Robertson, a 31-year-old lawyer who earlier this year sued the CAB to force it to release information on consumer complaints, was selected by CAB Chairman Secor D. Browie to be chairman of the nine-member group.

Browne also is expected to name two other advisory committees, one made up of representatives from the airline industry. The other will comprise members of the airline labor force.

GIs Report Phony Medal For General

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six enlisted men have charged that they were ordered to draft "from thin air" imaginary acts of combat heroism so an Army general in Vietnam could receive two of the nation's highest military honors.

In a letter to Chairman Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, and made public today, Spec. 4 Roy R. Trent Jr., said his unit was ordered to draw up the necessary papers Oct. 4 for the Silver Star and Distinguissed Flying Cross for Brig. Gen. E. P. Forrester.

Trent's letter was signed by five other enlisted men from the 1st Cavalry Division's awards and decorations office.

He was writing Rivers, Trent said, to report a "grave infraction of military policy and an abominable insult to the integrity and intelligence of all lower grade enlisted personnel."

According to Trent, the awards office was ordered to "create recommendations" of the medals for Forrester "for actions in which he never participated" during the Cambodian operation earlier this year.

According to the New York Times, which was given a copy of the Trent letter, Forrester received the Silver Star Medal last Thursday but that plans for presenting the flying cross were dropped.

At the time, Forrester was assistant 1st Cavalry commander. The Times said Col. George Newman, the unit's chief of staff, said he had ordered the recommendation drafted in a hurry so it could be presented to Forrester before he left the division for a new assigment.

On the night of Oct. 4, Trent wrote, "we were required to prepare a descriptive narrative of his supposed acts of valor, a citation for these imaginary acts, and to have this fraudulent document in such form as to be acceptable, and approvable, by the Awards and Decorations Board.

Woman Struck, Killed While Crossing 101

A 30-year-old San Rafael woman was killed last night when she was struck by a car as she walked across Highway 101 in San Rafael.

Janet Elaine Manerud, of 1005 Irwin Street, was hurled 161 feet when she was hit by an auto driven by Donald I. Goodman, 45, of 31 Oakwood Drive, San Rafael, just north of the intersection of Highways 101 and 17, the California Highway patrol reported.

Goodman told the highway patrol he was northbound on the freeway at 11:25 p.m..

Miss Manerud was unemployed, said Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig.

"I had just looked over my shoulder to make a lane change," he told officers, "and when I looked back she was walking in front of me."

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael, where arrangements were pending today.

The death was the county's 31st traffic fatality this year, compared to 29 at this time last year.

Station Permit Not Unanimous

Permit for a Mobil Oil Co. gas station at Mission and Lincoln avenues was not upheld unanimously by the San Rafael City Council Monday night, as erroneously reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal. The vote was 3-2.

Committee Will Study Instruction

Ross School District trustees last night voted to form a committee to review and redraft district policies on instruction and curriculum.

The board received a draft of Chapter 1 of a new policy manual, to be reviewed for the Nov. 17 meeting.

The instruction-curriculum committee will include two parents of pupils now in the school, two parents of graduates, two parents of pre-school youngsters, two pupils, two teen-agers graduated from Ross School, two teachers, and administrators.

The Ross School District board also:

UNIFICATION — Adopted a resolution calling for an end to mandatory unification elections each general election year. The resolution parallels that adopted by Tamalpais High School District trustees Monday night, Supt. Thomas A. Anderson said.

DRAMATICS — Approved a series of five in-service classes in creative dramatics for all district teachers, to be conducted by Marion Hayes Cain at cost of $150.

HIRING — Hired Everett W. Slane as custodian at $650 per month, effective Dec. 21, and promoted Ben Slane to head custodian at $675 to replace Harold Murray, who is retiring.

TEACHERS — Recognized the Ross School District Teachers Association as the faculty's representative body.

Sonoma Takes Action To Cut Welfare Costs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to reduce costs of welfare programs if the state reduces its share of the required programs.

The resolution, passed unanimously, says in effect that if the state reduces funds for a mandated program, the county will not make up the difference from local taxes.

The board has long complained of an increasing trend by the state to shift welfare costs to the counties.

Anticipating further state cuts in cost-sharing, the resolution said it will be impossible for the county to continue welfare programs at their present levels. It authorizes the social service department to reduce welfare programs automatically when state funds are reduced.

Apartment Unit Plans Rejected

Plans of Charles Locati for a five-unit apartment at 10 Willow Avenue were rejected last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee because a parking lot would block the view of a creek.

The committee approved construction of a 7-11 Food Store on the northeast corner of Miller Avenue and Locust Street. The applicant Kenneth E. Niles must apply to the city planning commission for a variance to permit six parking spaces where 13 are required by the zoning ordinance.

The architectural advisory committee approved a revised grading plan for the Shelter Ridge apartment project, and an addition to the Tamalpais Animal Hospital at 691 East Blithedale Avenue.

Ecology Fad Is Not New Field

When ecology and the environment overnight became major causes, no change was necessary to make the fifth grade course of study at Fairfax's Deer Park School relevant to the new development.

Mrs. Isabel Cartwright, who has been teaching Deer Park fifth graders since 1953, has long been interested in environmental education. She had been in part responsible for the Fairfax School District's establishing an outdoor education and ecology program before such study became a fad.

Mrs. Cartwright comes by her interest naturally. Her father, the late George Schultzberg, for many years taught botany at Galileo High School in San Francisco. This, together with membership in the Sierra Club and Audubon Society, led her quite naturally to absorption with the natural environment.

Furthermore, she has found Deer Park School "a delightful place to work" in part because of its location in a wooded area that lends itself to outdoor classes (when the weather is nice).

She has found district support for her endeavors, too. And the Deer Park Parent-Teacher Association has a volunteer group organizing conservation studies in cooperation with the school.

Mrs. Cartwright hastens to add that her interests go beyond ecology of embrace all the fifth grade curriculum, and that the intermediate grades (fourth, fifth and sixth) are her favorites, although she has taught in others.

Before joining the Fairfax district, she taught in Calistoga, Monterey, Palo Alto and San Francisco schools.

She and her daughter Charlsey, a Sonoma tSate College student, reside at 60 Belle Avenue, Fairfax.

Community Actors Pick Christie Play

"Witness for the Prosecution" by Agatha Christie has been chosen for the play for February 1972 by the Novato Community Players, said secretary Paul R. Terry Jr.

The club picks its plays more than a year in advance so that members who want particular parts can plan ahead for them, Terry said.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS MOVED

An ambulance driver and highway patrolmen prepare to move to Marin General Hospital a woman injured in a collision on Highway 101 at the north end of the San Rafael overpass. Three San Francisco women — Frances Osborne, 64; Josephine Chierenza, 68, and Tngelina Bini, 66 — were treated for cuts and bruises at the hospital after the 11:20 a.m. accident yesterday. According to the California Highway Patrol, a truck, driven by Laurence E. Goodell, 23, of San Bruno, collided in the northbound lane, with Mrs. Osborne's car and another driven by Frank D. Nieto, 58, of 155 Blackstone Drive, Marinwood.

Condominium Development Sidetracked

Setback requirements for a future condominium housing development were waived yesterday by the Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments.

Representatives of Sunco Development Corp. said the living units at Ely Boulevard North and East Washington Street must be classed as zero setback since the home buyers will be purchasing only the ground beneath their housing units. Property around the homes will be in common ownership for maintenance purposes.

The board approved the site design for an addition to the Petaluma City Hall as planned by the County of Sonoma. It approved requests of Earl Dickason to operate a fireplace and furnace cleaning service from his home at 324 Walnut Street, of Bernard Kirsch for a vending machine distribution service from his home at 1433 Colwood Drive, and of Cliff Bowen for sales and service of office machines from his home at 917 Holly Lane.

Belvedere Change In Paper Drive

The next newspaper collection drive sponsored by the Belvedere Committee for the Environment will not be tomorrow, as previously announced.

The collection schedule has been changed to the first Thursday of each month, according to a committee spokesman. The next collection will be Nov. 5. Papers should be bundled securely on four sides and left at curbside.

The committee announced that the city's first newspaper collection netted almost five tons of paper. More than five dumptruck loads of newspapers were delivered to the Marin Ecology Center for eventual recycling.

The committee has also changed its meeting day to the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 8 p.m. at the Belvedere Community Mall.

Directors Of Sierra National Face Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A suit asking $5 million in damages has been filed against eight directors of the Sierra National Bank of Sonoma and Marin counties for conspiracy to control the bank and voting of its stock.

Plaintiffs in the action, which was filed Monday in the superior court are Dr. Alfred Auerbach and Molly Auerbach, a San Francisco psychiatrist and his wife; and Lee F. Castner, a Boyes Hot Springs insurance agent, individually, and on behalf of other stockholders in the bank.

Specifically the complaint names the bank and its directors John Sears, Raymond Gambonini, Mary Volpi, Henry Luehring, Fred I. Cooper, Y. Charles Soda, Benjamin Phelps and Manual Gonsalves as defendents, and asks for general damages of $1 million and punitive damages of $4 million.

The suit alleges that some of the defendent directors are attempting to obtain control of the bank by purchasing a block of stock owned by other defendent directors at a price substantially in excess of the current market price without any offer being made to other shareholders to purchase their stock at the same price.

It charges Cooper, one of the directors, with entering into an association with Clyde Charlton, chairman of the board of Bell Savings and Loan Association (formerly Marin County Savings and Loan) and of Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., its parent corporation, and other persons unnamed for the purpose of "manipulating and controlling the bank in their favor and for the purpose of concealing improper bank activities all to the detriment of the shareholders."

It also charges that the directors have blocked other potential purchasers, including Central Valley National Bank and United States National Bank, who are reported to have offered to purchase all of the outstanding shares of the bank at the same price or more if given an opportunity to inspect the books and records of the bank.

In addition to damages, the suit asks for a temporary injunction halting consummation of an arrangement set forth in a proxy statement of Sept. 30 which reportedly would give Cooper and Charlton control of more than 50 per cent of the bank's voting shares.

Sierra National Bank is headquartered in Petaluma. It has branch offices in Sebastopol and Boyes Hot Springs, Sonoma County, and also five offices in Marin County.

Monagan In Support Of Peter Behr

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — Assembly Speaker Robert Monagan, R-Tracy, last night urged the election of Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, in campaign appearances in both Vallejo and Napa.

Monagan stressed Behr's record as a conservationist, noting that many of the environmental bills passed by the Assembly last session were stalled in the Senate. "There isn't anyone I know more qualified or more interested in the field of conservation than Peter Behr," Monagan said. "He will give us the hand we need over in the Senate to get these important bills passed in the next session.

Monagan spoke before some 250 persons at a Vallejo reception for Behr, and about 175 persons at a Napa dinner.

The speaker said that the "principal ingredient" Behr would bring to the Senate was "his dedicated, enthusiastic and interested leadership ability," according to a press release from Behr's campaign headquarters.

Back Pay Is Denied To Draftsman

Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the Marin County Planning Department, will not get back pay for the 14 months she worked without realizing that the county supervisors had authorized her promotion.

Marin County Personnel commissioners voted 2-1 this morning to deny her appeal. I. Wayland Bonbright and Daniel F. O'Looney voted for denial because of the 14 months time lapse, during which Mrs. Collins did not inquire about her promotion.

Chairman Robert B. McCreadie voted for the back pay. Two other commissioners, Bella Aaron and Parnell Finn, were absent.

Mrs. Collins explained to the commissioners that when she received no word of her promotion in June 1969, she assumed she had been bypassed and made no further inquiries.

The board of supervisors had authorized a promotion for Mrs. Collins from Draftsman 1 to Draftsman 2. However, the followup paper work needed to change the paycheck was never processed.

She learned about the promotion 14 months later and asked for the pay difference, which would have totaled about $1,000.

The personnel commission's decision is final.

Rec Candidate Is Mechanical Engineer

Reed Group Pushes Ahead With Chore

The Reed School District Research and Assessment Committee tackled the chore of writing objectives for the district last night and got some disconcerting advice about how tough the job is.

The citizen committee may need to hire a consultant to help it write the objectives, suggested Irwin Karp, Reed School principal and committee secretary. Fresno State College gives a full-year graduate level course in how to write objectives, he said.

However, the committee, meeting at Bel Aire School, decided it will go ahead with the task without planning on either a consultant or a special training course.

Reed School Board Notes Drop In Enrollment, Wonders Why

Concern over declining enrollment was expressed by Reed School District trustees last night at their shortest board meeting of the year.

Interim Supt. Stanley Friese reported enrollment for the first month of the new school year at 1,972, down 56 from the 2,028 of last spring.

Trustee Kenneth G. Wells felt a study should be made to learn why the enrollment is declining. He mentioned a report that some pupils had been withdrawn to enter private schools.

Trustee James B. Richwagen thought the whole system of projecting enrollment needed revision. Last spring, he said, 2,080 pupils were predicted for this fall.

The board asked that Friese request the district's research and assessment committee to make a study, or to make it himself if the committee lacks the time.

There was a mild echo of last year's report card fuss in the district as Friese reported the cards used last year would be continued for the first two report periods this term, with one change: Instead of a separate card for each subject at the seventh-eighth grade level, all grades will be on a single card.

A member of the audience asked that absence and tardiness be shown on the report cards. He said teachers at Redwood High School had told him students from the Reed district were more lax in attendance and promptness than those from any other district served by the high school.

There was an echo also from the Oct. 9 meeting at which Friese was taken to task by trustee Leo Souza for a report to the Marin County Board of Education on his stewardship at Reed. Souza had been disturbed because Friese mentioned he "had to step on a lot of toes" because of loose operations in the district, especially in taking children on field trips without previous arrangements.

Minutes of the Oct. 9 meeting were amended to show that a motion to send a letter to the county schools superintendent objecting to Friese's report was by Souza, seconded by Richwagen and passed 3-1 with chairman Gordon C. Wright dissenting and Kenneth G. Wells absent.

Richwagen said he regretted his vote for the motion.

An unusual Reed district practice, in which gifts for school use are given directly to teachers instead of to the district, saw board acceptance of such gifts by the Reed Parent-Teacher Club: $50 to each teacher in Reed School for instructional materials; $200 to James Wilson for the library; $75 to Rita Goodman for the educationally handicapped program; $75 to Polly Yates for the drama class; $50 to Kathy Rolston to put in a garden and compost pile behind the school building.

In the one-hour meeting, which Wright said set a record, the Reed School District board also:

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Accepted a recommendation by trustee Thomas S. Price that a finance committee be appointed to study effects of pending legislation and of unification proposals and be available for other assignments. Named to the committee were Alexander Mazour, Chester G. Vargas, Richard L. Goff, Vernon Perry, and a fifth member (a woman) to be appointed by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club.

UNIFICATION ELECTIONS — Endorsed a resolution by the Tamalpais High School District board opposing the requirement that unification elections be held on the date of each presidential primary.

INTERDISTRICT ATTENDANCE — Agreed to allow Douglas Elsener of 46 Mariner Drive, Corte Madera, to attend eighth grade in the Kentfield district, where the family previously resided. Friese said the Kentfield district had waived financial reimbursement.

EDUCATIONALLY HANDICAPPED — Heard from Friese that the district has five teachers for 13 pupils in the educationally handicapped program. They also do remedial reading teaching for other pupils, however, he said. Wells objected that none of the five is assigned to Reedland Woods School.

RUBELLA — Voted unanimously to participate in the countywide German measles immunization program to be held at schools next month by the Marin County Health Department.

Safety lamps for miners were invented in England by Sir Humphrey Davy.

Cold Shoulder To Rezoning In Petaluma

A proposed residential prezoning got the cold shoulder last night from the Petaluma Planning Commission which said it wanted to take a long, hard look at the rapid growth of the eastside.

Taylor and Mazza Inc. had requested prezoning from agricultural to single and multiple family for 40 acres east of Old Lakeville Highway between Casa Grande and Frates roads.

The commission said it would delay any action on the prezoning request until it can study the growth trends of the eastside and the effect additional housing units would have there.

Frank Thomas, president of the East Petaluma Civic Association, also urged a delay in the prezoning and annexation of the property. Thomas and his group have demanded a slowdown in construction on the eastside until school, recreational and park facilities can be improved to meet current needs.

In other action, the commission approved the rezoning request field by Camille Enterprises to change 601 D Street from single-family residential to multiple-family to permit construction of duplexes.

Preliminary Hearing Set On Marijuana

Two San Rafael youths, charged with selling a kilo of marijuana to a narcotics enforcement agent on July 4 were not accepted by juvenile court, face preliminary hearing tomorrow in Marin municipal court.

Juvenile court refused the cases of Randall Joachim Wells, 20, and Allen Michael Crivello, 19, an Independent-Journal employee, because of previous narcotics offenses.

Metal Detection Equipment Bought

Marin County yesterday bought a walk-through metal detector for $3,320 and four hand-held metal detectors for $350 each to bolster security at the Marin Civic Center and Hall of Justice.

The county board of supervisors bought the equipment from George F. cake Co. of Creswell, Ore., who submitted the second lowest of three bids.

The lowest bid came in at $850 for a walk-through detector from California Electronic Police Equipment Co. However, Undersheriff Sidney Stinson and William R. Pryor, senior administrative assistant in the County Administrator's office, reported that this equipment was inferior in performance and did not meet bid specifications.

The walk-through detector bought yesterday has been in use at the Hall of Justice for more than a week on a trial basis.

The device is not like an X-ray machine and is not injurious to health, said Stinson. "This one operates on a magnetic field, and there is no X-ray," he explained.

Supervisors also authorized the county administrator to call for informal bids to seal all exterior side extrances that lead from hillsides into the building. The only entry into the quarter-mile long building will then be through three main doors guarded by search teams composed of a male and female deputy sheriff.

Cost Sharing Geologic Study Slated In Marin

The state Division of Mines will make a geologic study of three areas in Marin at a cost of $3,150 to the county.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement with the state to make a $6,300 study, with Marin and the state sharing the cost 50-50. The vote was 3 - 1., with Louis H. Baar the lone dissenter. (Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation.)

Baar said he doubts the $6,300 study would be of any benefit to the county. "If there are any problems in subdivisions, the developer is required to make soil tests anyway," said Baar. "I don't think we should be spending any money on it." He said the $6,300 this year might lead to further studies that would cost $10,000 next year and $30,000 or $50,000 in subsequent years.

Under the agreement, the division will study these areas in Marin for slides and other geologic hazards: Tennessee Valley from the Pacific Ocean to Richardson Bay, Lucas Valley, and the ocean cliff area from Dillon Beach to the Sonoma County line.

The Marin Board Of Supervisors Also:

WATER BONDS — Endorsed Measure H on the Nov. 3 ballot, which asks voters to approve an $11.5 million bond issue to improve and replace old lines of the Marin Municipal Water District, and to install a new line to pipe water from Russian River to Marin. The bonds will be repaid from revenue, and no taxes will be imposed.

QUORUM — Approved a new quorum rule for the 24-member City-County Planning Council. At present, the council has difficulty meeting the quorum of 13. The new quorum will be seven, — a representative from six of the 10 member cities and one representative from the county.

SAFETY EMPLOYEES — Heard from County Administrator Alan Bruce that the Marin sheriff's deputies will ask that they be allowed to form a separate bargaining unit. They now belong to the same bargaining unit as firemen and communications dispatchers.

McNEARS BEACH — Approved the purchase of 31 acres of property for $168,000 to expand McNears Beach near Peacock Gap in east San Rafael. The property, five acres in hard land and rest in water, would extend McNears Beach, northward to, but not including, China Camp.

BIKE PATH — Approved an interim ordinance to prohibit motorcycles on the county's bicycle paths.

DATA PROCESSING — Authorized County Clerk George H. Gnoss to use data-processing instead of manual labor in reregistering each company in the county doing business under a fictitious name. The reregistering is required by a new state law.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM — Commended County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, Sen. John F. McCarthy, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley for getting 10 of the 15 county bills enacted into law during the 1970 Legislature.

BCDC — Appointed Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as alternate representative to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to backstop Michael Wornum, the county's regular representative.

AUDITORIUM — Approved the following purchases of furnishings for the Veterans Memorial Auditorium: $17,672 in accoustical curtains from Shearer Company of San Francisco; $26,261.90 for accoustical finish (on the movable wall between the seating area and flat surface to the rear) from Stage Craft of Redwood City; $21,636 in cabinet work from Bimco of San Rafael, and $7,950 in seat wagons (gadgets to roll seats back under the stage) from Herk and Edwards of Southern California.

APARTMENT ZONE — Granted apartment zoning to Donald R. Telford on his 33,000 square foot property at 6 Thomas Drive. The land, located on the east side of Highway 101 north of the Alto intersection, is now zoned for a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet.

HOUSEBOAT — Gave Patricia Beyer, former Novato planning commissioner, 90 days to remove her sunken houseboat from Kappas Harbor at Gate 6½, or bring it up to county codes.

Approval Of Cove Apartments

By WAT TAKESHITA

Strawberry Cove Apartments, a waterfront development of 102 units along the bay side of Seminary Drive won the final go-ahead yesterday from the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors backed the county planning commission and voted 3-1 to allow developer Paul J. Broman to build the three-story structures. Broman, who developed the Japanese Trade Center in San Francisco, agreed to provide a continuous 10-foot wide pedestrian and bicycle pathway for public use throughout the development. He will also provide a spot for small boat launching.

The apartments will be built on 6.4 acres, owned by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere.

Stiff opposition came from several residents of Strawberry Peninsula, particularly from Stephen H. Kaufman, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District.

In January, the district had supported a plan for 108 units by Fleischman on the same piece of property. But since then, the circumstances have changed, explained Kaufman.

He said the county planning commission has ordered an overall density study, and a court ruled that the public has acquired rights to a private beach if that beach had been used continuously for five years.

Because of these new developments, Kaufman urged that the apartments be delayed, at least until the density study is completed.

Ulysses J. Montgomery, housing consultant to the Marin Urban Development Association of Marin City, came to Broman's defense. He argued that Broman meets the public access requirement by providing pedestrian paths and dedicated open spaces.

"When you talk about public access, it should be for all the public and not just for the Strawberry Recreation District," declared Montgomery. "The Strawberry Recreation District has various recreation facilities that are restricted only to residents of the district," he charged.

Kaufman branded that statement false. The only recreation facility in the Strawberry Recreation District that is restricted are two tennis courts, replied Kaufman. "All other facilities must be available to all members of the public."

Harold E. Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, announced that the League would support the apartment development if (1) bicycles are kept off pedestrian walkways; (2) open space will be dedicated and recorded for public use, and (3) an accurate count of parking spaces is made to insure that apartment residents need not rely on street parking along Seminary Drive.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and William A. Gnoss backed the apartment development, describing the plans as the best presented thus far for Strawberry Cove.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed that the plans were good, but he voted "no" because he wanted the density cut to 60 or 70 units.

Fire Victim Removed From Intensive Care

Marin General Hospital reported today that fire victim Gary Parr, 21, of Gate 6, has been moved from the intensive care unit, but still is in serious condition.

Parr suffered third degree burns Saturday, when flames destroyed two houseboats near Sausalito. He remained on the critical list until yesterday.

Novato Fire Does $8,000 Damage

Fire of undetermined origin did damage estimated at $8,000 to the home of Patricia Fricke at 101 Trish Drive, Novato yesterday.

Her son, Donald, with friends Charles Jordan and Robert Champion, left the house about 30 minutes before the fire was reported at 4:29 p.m., said Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The fire apparently started in the vicinity of a couch in the living room, the chief said.

Fire damage to the living room and kitchen, and smoke damage to the rest of the house was estimated at $5,500, plus $2,500 damage to the contents, the chief said.

Income Lags In Majority Of Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department says increases in personal income kept pace with inflation in only eight states and the District of Columbia during the second quarter of the year.

There was a nationwide increase in prices of 4.3 per cent during the April through July period, but personal income in 42 states failed to increase by as much as 4.3 per cent. In seven of those states, it actually declined.

The average personal income of the nation rose 2.4 per cent during the quarter to a seasonally adjusted rate of $797 billion.

The states that recorded a 4.3 per cent increase or more in personal income were Colorado, 6.7 per cent; Arizona, 6 per cent; the District of Columbia, 5.6 per cent; Arkansas, 5.4 per cent; Maryland, 5.3 per cent; Mississippi, 5.1 per cent, Idaho, 5 per cent; eKntucky 4.8 per cent and Virginia, 4.6 per cent.

The states in which personal income declined were Connecticut, 0.5 per cent; Minnesota, 0.5 per cent; Missouri, 0.6 per cent; Kansas, 2 per cent; Wyoming, 2.5 per cent; North Dakota, 4.4 per cent, and South Dakota, 5.4 per cent.

Polar bears can sprint at speeds up to 25 miles an hour on ice.

No-Nudity Law Passed But Doesn't Cover Everything

An ordinance against nudity in public in Marin County, admittedly with some loopholes, was approved by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Another ordinance that would ban topless and bottomless shows in Marin County was put off for further study on the recommendation of Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

"I don't want to sound naive, but where are these (topless) events taking place in this county," asked Supervisor Michael Wornum.

"I don't know of any, but we may have some coming in from San Francisco and other areas," replied Bales. He said the topless ordinance, which covers six pages of type, single-spaced, needs further study and redrafting before it is legally acceptable.

The antinudity ordinance, less than a page in length, is simple and concise. Anyone who wilfully exposes his genitals or the female breast in a public place in unincorporated Marin will be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

Since the ordinance covers only the county of Marin, how about the beaches below mean high tide, which are state land and not under county jurisdiction, asked Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

"That could be a problem," conceded Bales.

The antinudity ordinance would be useful not only in beach areas but also inland, said acting chairman Louis H. Baar. "In my area, we've had this problem on the public streets and all over."

Bales explained that the state parks already have a ban against nudity, and the City of Mill Valley has a similar ordinance in effect. The new county ordinance would make it easier for a clampdown because an officer can arrest a violator on the spot, whereas under the present disturbing-the-peace law, citizens must be called into court to swear that his peace had been disturbed.

Undersheriff Sidney Stinson agreed that under present laws, arrest and prosecution of nude persons is difficult. "Even if we get complaints from some citizen, the courts now tell us to warn the person first to put on his clothes. And if he puts on his clothes, we don't have much of a case. The following day, we'd have to do the same thing over again."

Ernest E. Emig, who owns property fronting Little Beach just north of Muir Beach, and other residents in the area demanded that some county ordinance be passed to clamp down on bathers who flit about in the altogether.

Since Little Beach is private property, the new county ordinance will not reach that far, said Arrigoni. "You may not get any relief." "I think we will," replied Emig, hopefully.

The antinudity ordinance will go into effect in 30 days.

Viet Veteran's Debt Troubles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former Army sergeant who lost both legs in Vietnam has been freed of most of his $1,167.30 debt to the Army, according to Rep. Paul A. Finley, R-Ill.

William T. Richardson, Springfield, Ill., had paid $212.34 of a debt which bill collectors said he owed because an Army paymaster overpaid him. Findley said the remaining $95.496 has temporarily been canceled.

Findley said he will introduce a bill in the next Congress to wipe the debt off the books permanently and to get the Army to return the payment Richardson made.

Suspects In Paso Robles Triple Slayings Arrested

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (UPI) —The sheriff investigating the murders of a young man, his wife and their 4-year-old daughter says the killings probably were prompted by an argument over ownership of an electric guitar and amplifier.

San Luis Obispo County Sheriff Larry Mansfield said Tuesday that the murder suspects—26-year-old John Archa and his two half brothers, Dennis, 14, and Kenny, 13—had argued with Ronald Barnes when Barnes refused to give them a guitar and amplifier.

As a result, the sheriff said, Barnes was killed after being lured from his house by the older Archa, an acquaintance of four years, who told Barnes he was having car trouble.

The body of Barnes was found stuffed in the trunk of his car. His wife, Betty, 25, was stabbed to death inside their home in the small community of Shandon near Paso Robles, and the 4-year-old daughter, Shelly, was carried away and tossed into a canal some 50 miles away where her body was found Tuesday.

An infant son was found in the Barnes home uninjured in his crib.

The three Archas were held on charges of suspicion of murder in Fresno, where they were apprehended after being traced through an auto license number given to deputies by neighbors of the Barnes family.

Mrs. Barnes called a neighbor and told him, "I think there are prowlers outside." The phone went dead and when the neighbor was unable to call back he phoned the sheriff's office. Deputies found Mrs. Barnes stabbed to death just inside the slashed screen door of the home.

Rec Panel Asks Vandalism Probe

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night recommended the city council investigate recent acts of vandalism in Fairfax Park.

Commission secretary Ernestine Healy said commissioners also recommended establishment of a police foot patrol in the park.

A low bid of $250 from Booth and Little roofing contractors of Greenbrae for repairs to the Fairfax Pavilion roof was sent to the council with the commission's recommendation for acceptance, Mrs. Healy said.

McGovern Ties Reagan Party Extremists In Pitch For Unruh

Extremists on both the left and right "feed on each other and tear at the fabric of society," McGovern declared in a speech at the Alta Mira Hotel, Sausalito.

The senator, a possible candidate for president in 1971, spoke at a fund-raising dinner for Jess Unruh, Democratic nominee for governor. About 200 persons attended the $25-a-head affair, but Unruh failed to show up. He reportedly was campaigning elsewhere.

McGovern said that "liberals are the real target of this unholy alliance" between the left and right, and called for "a second revolution to reaffirm the goals with which we began almost 200 years ago."

He called upon the nation to "come home from the killing of Asians to the healing of our own land." He cited the Vietnam War as "only the most extreme aberration that has brought into focus the other ills of our nation."

Burt Lancaster, emcee of the dinner, said he was there "mainly to dispute the fact that all movie actors have become Republicans. Just because Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin have embraced Reagan doesn't mean they have embraced Republicanism," he said. "They have embraced Reagan, however, and that's ridiculous," he added.

Also speaking were Rep. George E. Brown Jr. of Los Angeles, unsuccessful June candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate, and Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

Representative Brown conceded that Democrats "are not going to sweep the state this year," but predicted the party could win a majority of the five new congressional seats due California, he said, adding, "I'm not sure, however, we can pick up the Orange County seat."

He also conceded that Unruh "did not happen to hit this campaign at the most propitious time in history."

Assemblyman Brown, noting he had come despite two other campaign appearances scheduled in San Francisco, explained that if the Republicans continue their domination of the Legislature, "I may be running from Marin in 1971, so I'm just kind of covering my base."

Philip Argues Over Landing

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Britain's Prince Philip got into an argument with the Venice airport control tower as he was bringing his private plane in for a landing Tuesday, airport sources said.

The sources said Philip wanted to park his plane at the far side of Marco Polo Airport but the tower ordered him to taxi to the center of he field.

When he persisted, the auhtorities told him the place he sought was unsafe because it was near gasoline tank trucks.

Philip has been visiting wildlife preserves in Italy.

CHAOS IN KITCHEN?

Cooking In 'Hate To' Style

In her original "I Hate to Cook Book", Peg Bracken says,

"Once in an elevator en route to my office I was eating some spice cookies which I had made from my big fat cook book. I gave one to the Elevator Lady, and she tasted it.

'My', she said reflectively, 'I can sure make a better spice cooky than that.' So she brought me her recipe, and she was quite right."

ELEVATOR LADY SPICE COOKIES

Mix together:
¾ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
¼ cup molasses.

Then sift together and stir in:
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon powdered cloves
¾ teaspoon powdered ginger

Now mix it all together and form it into walnut-sized balls. Put them two inches apart on a greased cooky sheet and bake at 375 for 10 to 12 minutes.

Then there are Selma's Best Oatmeal Cookies.

"These bear the same relationship to the ordinary oatmeal cooky that the Rolls-Royce does to the bicycle," says Peg Bracken.

SELMA'S BEST OATMEAL COOKIES

Cream together:
1 cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
and add one beaten egg. Now sift together:
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
and add it to the first mixture. Then add
1½ cups quick rolled oats
¾ cup finely crushed walnuts or pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla

Chill it for an hour. Then put walnut-sized pieces on a greased cooky sheet. Butter the bottom of a small glass, dip it in granulated sugar, and flatten out the little pieces. Just keep doing this — you don't need to rebutter the glass bottom, just re-sugar it each time. Then bake at 350 for 10 minutes.

CUCUMBER DILLWICHES

"Flatten thin-sliced white bread with a rolling pin (which is a good idea for any tea sandwich) and cut it in rounds with a biscuit cutter. Unless you have square cucumbers."

(Note: This is taken from Peg Bracken's Appendix to The I Hate to Cook Book)

On each, spread butter. Put a thin slice of peeled cucumber on the butter, sprinkle fresh chopped dill or the dried kind on the cucumber. Then put another buttered bread round on the top. That's all, but they have a very nice lady-like look.

OPEN FACEWICHES

Butter flattened bread slices. Spread each with a mixture of 8 ounces cream cheese, softened and well blended with
3 tablespoons finely chopped chutney
2 tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger
¼ cup grated coconut
½ teaspoon curry powder.

"Now — a mussy operation, this — trim the crusts off and cut each slice into three strips. Wash hands when done."

Curly Bacon

Bacon curls spark up eggs, salads and sandwiches. They're an easy garnish. Panbroil the bacon slightly, then wind it around a fork and finish cooking until crisp.

IF YOU "hate to cook" you might as well have a good time about it— so members of the Raccoon Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers ham it up preparing Selma's Best Oatmeal Cookies from Peg Bracken's "I Hate to Cook Book" in preparation for their tea featuring the famed Bolinas writer's recipes. Peg herself will be a special guest to sample the results at the tea tomorrow at the home of Mrs. William Lang, left, of Belvedere. Others carrying on in Mrs. Lang's kitchen are, clockwise, Mmes. John Hoffmire, Alvin Kuhn and Richard Tyler. (Independent-Journal photo)

GINGERBREAD GHOSTS and scaredy-cat punch make a delicious and nutritious Halloween combination. The cookies are made with iron-rich molasses and the canned orange punch is made by adding a combination of seven natural fruit juices.

Apple Harvest Brings Out Tried-And-True Favorites

Apples are popular in a country kitchen or a city penthouse — in an old-fashioned dish like Apple Cobbler.

Now that the new crop is at its most varied, most beautiful and best, fill the house with the wafting aroma of apples and spices.

HONEY GLAZED BAKED APPLES

6 large tart apples
6 tablespoons honey
¼ cup orange juice
Sugar
Nutmeg

Core apples, being careful not to cut all the way through. Peel about ⅓ of the way down from stem end. Combine honey and orange juice; pour into centers of apples. Set in baking dish. Pour a little hot water in bottom of pan. Bake at 400° for 50 to 60 minutes, or until apples are tender. Remove from oven. Brush tops with additional honey, sprinkle with a little sugar and nutmeg. Run under broiler to glaze. Serve warm or cold with plain cream.

APPLE COBBLER

⅔ to 1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup boiling water
3 cups thinly sliced apples
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Biscuit Topping*

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in boiling water gradually. Bring to a boil. Boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add apples; simmer 5 minutes. Pour into shallow baking dish. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Arrange biscuit topping around edge. Bake at 400° for 30 minutes or until biscuits are brown and apples tender. Makes 6 servings.

*BISCUIT TOPPING
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar, divided
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup light cream
2 teaspoons grated orange peel

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in butter or margarine; stir in cream with a fork. Pat out about ¼-inch thick. Cut into 2½-inch circles. Cut each circle in half. Arrange around rim of baking dish, rounded side in. Combine grated orange peel and remaining sugar; sprinkle on biscuits. Bake as directed.

Broil Your Own

Let the guests broil their own appetizers on hibachi or small grill. Have long wooden picks threaded with a Vienna sausage, square of buttered bread, bacon-wrapped ripe olive and a whole mushroom. Chili sauce spiked with horseradish is sharp for dipping.

Pumpkin Souffle Pleasing Finish To A Fall Dinner

Instead of pumpkin pie, try baking a pumpkin souffle for a pleasant variation from the traditional.

PUMPKIN SOUFFLE

6 to 8 servings
2 cups enriched dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup raisins
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoons cinnamon
1½ teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cloves
3 cups milk
6 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup pumpkin pie filling
6 egg whites

Stir together bread crumbs, raisins, sugar, spices and salt. Heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan; blend ¼ cup into egg yolks. Gradually add egg yolk mixture to remaining milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until slightly thickened.

Remove from heat and mix in pie filling. Blend into bread crumb mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry peaks form. Fold into bread mixture. Pour into greased souffle dish (1½-qt.). Bake in preheated 350° oven 50 to 55 minutes until golden brown and firm to touch. Serve immediately.

Ginger Ghosts For Halloween Party

Treat your Halloween hobgoblins to a special holiday punch-and-cookie combination this year. Make a batch of Gingerbread Ghosts and serve them with orange-colored fruit punch.

The Gingerbread Ghosts are a whimsical variation on the Gingerbread Man. Made with an easy cardboard pattern which you've cut yourself, these cookies have an appealing flavor, combining orange rind and spices with iron-rich molasses. They are frosted with confectioners' sugar and milk and completed with two chocolate bits for eyes.

GINGERBREAD GHOSTS

1 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups light or dark molasses
grated rind of 1 orange
5 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon all spice
Confectioners' sugar
Chocolate bits

Combine shortening and molasses in a saucepan and bring to a boil; cool. Stir in orange rind, flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Beat well to blend; chill for 2 hours. While waiting for dough to chill, make cardboard pattern for ghost. Pattern should be shaped like a long narrow mountain, about 4 inches wide at the bottom and 7 inches long. With scissors, cut pattern out of stiff cardboard, cutting a wavy line to shape the bottom of the ghost.

When the dough is chilled, roll out a small amount at a time on a floured board, to ⅛-inch thickness. Place the ghost pattern on the dough and cut around it, using the tip of a sharp knife. Place cookie ghosts on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 F.) for 10 to 12 minutes, or until ghosts are brown and puffed. Cool ghosts on a rack.

To make frosting, mix confectioners' sugar and milk until it is the consistency of thick sour cream. Spread frosting thinly over the ghosts, covering them well. Place 2 chocolate bits on top for eyes. Let the frosting dry well at room temperature. After drying, the ghosts can be stored in an airtight container in a cool place.

Makes 24 large ghosts.

SCAREDY-CAT PUNCH

2 cans (46 oz. each) orange Hawaiian punch, chilled
4 cups pineapple juice, chilled
½ cup lime juice
orange slices
whole cloves, optional

In a punch bowl, combine beverages; add ice cubes. To keep punch from diluting as cubes melt, ice cubes can be made out of sunshine orange punch instead of water. If desired, make faces on orange slices by pressing in while cloves to form eyebrows, eyes, noses and mouths. (For a "scaredy cat" look, make a grouchy face by turning the sides of the mouth down in a scowl; for a happy look, turn the mouth up in a wide grin.) Float orange slices on top of punch. Serve in punch cups or small glasses.

Makes about 4 quarts.

Beefy Chili

For a quick dish to utilize cooked beef, take off on chili. Cube the meat and heat with tomato sauce and onions. Add chili powder to taste. Kidney beans drained and included at the end need just be heated through.

and Delicious apples in our Washington State orchards.

For the love of pure apple juice.

If our new coffee is so terrific, why are we introducing it at such ridiculously low prices?

Simple.

Because no matter how terrific-tasting New Freeze-Dried Yuban® is—and it really is—it won't mean a thing if you don't try it.

Thus, the ridiculously low suggested introductory prices. It might have taken us a little longer to make Freeze-Dried Yuban.

But one taste will tell you it was well worth the wait.

RN Leads Knapsackers, Scales Cliffs

By PAT BALMES

Anne Coolidge copes with emergencies on ski slopes and in the mountains. As leader of Sierra Club's knapsack trips and Ski Patrol member, the registered nurse enjoys sharing her skills.

"I like dealing with people. They turn me on," says the mother of three teen-age daughters.

"I first handled emergencies on Ski Patrol at Alpine Meadows," says Anne. Finding an injured skier, Anne gives first aid and pulls the victim on a toboggan safely to the lodge.

"The lodge nurse suggested I take the nursing program at College of Marin. (I thought you had to be 18 and live in a hospital.)," relates the skier. "I had looked hard for years for something to do. The world is in such lousy shape, and there is so little one can do."

AT 42 Anne received her license as a registered nurse, after completing the two-year program at College of Marin in 1969.

"Half the class were girls right out of high school. The others were older women. I found college kids were terribly nice and could teach me things," says Anne.

"I thought I wanted to be a nurse at 16 and worked in a hospital. It was handing things to the doctor. You had to stand when a doctor entered the room. That cured me," recalls Anne.

"Today the attitude at the hospital is, 'We're all in this together to get this person well.' I think part of Women's Lib is that women should be appreciated as individuals with a brain and strength," asserts the nurse.

"I went to work in January at Highland Hospital in Alameda County and worked for six months full time; something I hadn't done in 25 years," says Anne. Because of her age she finds young doctors expect her to be experienced.

"But when they learn I'm new, they are awfully nice about teaching me."

ANNE CHOSE that acute county hospital because most emergency cases are brought there.

"I would like to try to work in the emergency wards. I think I can stand all the blood and vomit, and I want to deal directly with people while they are awake," says Anne. "That's why I feel the operating room is sometimes dull. I may be able to do something with somebody's life, if I show him I care about him."

Despite her nursing schedule last winter, Anne managed to ski with her family every third weekend.

"I married a skier," says the wife of architect Frederic Coolidge. "If I didn't ski too, I never would see him! Skiing is hard; so uninstinctve," she says.

They ski for Ski Patrol, which is difficult to get on according to Anne.

"You have to demonstrate your prowess, learn first aid, go to meetings, be eager, go out on horrible days on less desirable hills and be first on your assigned hill at 8:30 a.m. and last off at 4:30 p.m. And no drinks at the lodge. You have a responsibility. Like nursing, it's helping people."

ANNE COOLIDGE of Kentfield scans the Isosceles Peak in Kings Canyon National Park, planning an assault by her Sierra Club knapsackers. An assistant and a leader for the past nine years, she has belayed a group of 20 down dangerous places.

THE FAMILY has a 22-bed ski cabin in Alpine Meadows they run as a boarding house for youth groups. Anne cooks for the skiers.

"If I had to cook for that many at home I'd die, but up there I'm equipped for it," says Anne. The family does not backpack near their cabin in summer. "I like it wilder, above timberline at 12,000 feet.' '

"When I was younger I had a compelling desire to get to the top of a peak. I went on trips with friends who had the same passion. Then I joined Sierra Club — knapsack to 'peak-bag'. The leader will ask, 'Who wants to go up?' There can be only three people on a rope at most. You have to sit and be tied while one moves," says the mountaineer whose climbing rope hangs on the fireplace.

"Now I climb just enough to get to the top of things I want to climb," says the knapsack trip leader. "I'm too old to climb Mt. Everest. It can take me four hours to belay a group of 20 down a dangerous pitch or gully. We try to give people an opportunity to climb the outstanding peaks of the area."

The knapsackers travel off trails and explore isolated forest and mountain areas. The trips vary from easy trail-walking to serious mountaineering, winter and summer.

ANNE FIRST came to love the mountains during the summer of 1947 when she and Fred were in Norway.

'Timberline starts there after 4,000 feet," she recalls the "nifty" Norwegian mountains.

"I was dragged on my first knapsack trip to Yosemite by my brother-in-law, then editor of the Washington Post," says the mountaineer. Her next trip was 11 years ago to the Trinity Alps with the Sierra Club. "I didn't intend to go by myself, but Fred became ill. I found I had a good time stumping along by myself, not being anyone's mother."

She enjoyed adult conversation. The trip was too difficult for a beginner.

"Oh, I was tired, even though I was used to being on my feet taking care of the children. But the men who sat at desks all day were in terrible shape!"

ANN'S TRIPS, advertised in Sierra Club's monthly nationally-distributed magazine, attract knapsackers from all over the United States. On her trip to northeast Yosemite this summer 23 hikers carried 330 pounds of food and cooking equipment, plus their own gear.

"We average 35 pounds for women and a little more for men," says the leader. "We go slowly the first days because of altitude and sore feet. I plan a layover day early in the trip, as soon as we get to the high country. The backpacks lighten as the knapsackers eat two pounds of food a day."

Her problems are sunburns, blisters and people who do not take enough warm clothing.

"The Sierra Club's knapsack trip has never had a fatality," says Anne gratefully remembering the man whose appendix ruptured and naturally walked-off on a trip where she was assistant leader. "We teach people to knapsack on their own. Our trips are not intended for repeaters. It's a problem because they come back to you. We worry about our impact on the mountains. More and more people can hike in now because of light equipment and food. We are going to have to learn a new way of conservation, like the Swiss who have a much greater density of population, yet their Alps are clean and tidy."

SHE QUOTES Sierra Club's standard, "Take only pictures, leave only footprints." Some people bring the slums with them, according to Anne.

The first weekend in November Anne plans a mountain trip above Lake Tahoe for members of the San Francisco chapter of Sierra Club.

"We might be camping in the snow. The only different equipment I take is a tent." she says.

Next summer Anne will be assistant leader on two one-week knapsack trips and one family trip for two with mules.

Anne's three daughters are hikers and skiers. She relates that Sarah, 12, made a junior knapsack trip this summer and reported, "It was just great, Mom. There weren't any mothers!"

"I couldn't believe it when I heard she carried 25 pounds. There was a food cache in the middle of the trip," says her mother.

Sarah, a naturalist since birth, is a zoo keeper: 32 white rats, two rabbits, two guinea pigs, seven cats, two dogs and a collection of slugs in the kitchen.

THE TWO older girls went on a service trip this summer to Yosemite and Idaho doing clean-up and trail maintenance.

"Mary, 17, our ardent skier and conservationist sent her life savings to the World Wild Life Fund to save an endangered species of Missouri chicken when she was 14," recalls Anne.

Nineteen-year-old Trilby has worked for the past three summers on Sierra Club service trips. These are backpack hikes into a camp where the workers stay to pick up litter in the surrounding area. Trilby was a cook last summer.

Mrs. Rafferty Doesn't Make Speeches But Likes Campaign

By JOAN LISETOR

Frances Rafferty, wife of the incumbent State Superintendent of Public Instruction, flew from her home in Carmichael Monday to attend a tea in her honor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Grechman in Kentfield.

Prior to the tea, sponsored by the Marin County Friends of Rafferty and the Mothers for Max, she visited the Independent-Journal offices.

MRS. MAX RAFFERTY

MOST OF Mrs. Rafferty's campaigning has been confined to the Sacramento area, she says, going where she is invited to talk with people.

"I have enjoyed seeing old friends and meeting new people," she says, adding she enjoys campaigning since she does not have to give speeches.

"I am glad to be back in Marin because it is so pretty," says the candidate's wife, recalling a visit, also in her husband's behalf, exactly two years ago, when she was on a whirlwind tour of 32 cities in five days aboard a chartered bus.

With all three of her children married Mrs. Rafferty has the time to devote to assisting the teacher of a remedial reading class in the Sacramento School District. She enjoys her volunteer work, especially, she says, helping the children learn phonics.

TWO OF the Rafferty children, Dennis, a student at American River Junior College in Sacramento, and Eileen (Mrs. Gary Broton), live near their parents much to the delight of Mrs. Rafferty, since each has a child, and Mrs. Rafferty is a devoted grandmother. She has three other grandchildren, children of her daughter Kathleen, whose husband, Dr. Mel Faber, is on leave from his position as an assistant professor at Victoria University in British Columbia to lead a seminar in literature and psychology at New York University.

A native of Illinois, the former Francis Longman met Max Rafferty while she was working as a secretary to the Trona superintendent of schools. Her husband was teaching school in the Southern California town. They were married in Los Angeles in 1944.

If she were still a secretary, Mrs. Rafferty says, she might feel differently about the women's liberation movement.

"As a housewife I don't feel the need to be liberated," she says, "as long as my automatic appliances all work."

Following the tea, Mrs. Rafferty returned to her home in the Sacramento suburb and continuing her efforts on her husband's behalf, much of which, she explains, is being his errand boy.

INVITATIONS WITH A PRICE

Reach For Your Checkbook As You Open Your Mail During Campaigns

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Socially speaking, in Washington you don't get the same kick these days in opening an envelope that is obviously an invitation.

The point is you have to reach for your checkbook at the same time. Parties in the nation's capital this fall season are all being given for a purpose — most political.

And while the VIPs are opening their doors to the plebians, the entry to their elegant homes is pay-as-you-go.

Typical was the party that a former defense secretary, Clark M. Clifford, and two prominent co-hosts gave for Sen. and Mrs. Stuart Symington.

Enclosed with the invitation was an engraved card reading: "$250 per couple contribution to Senator Symington for reelection committee."

THERE HAVE been many similar parties.

Party-givers who have no money-raising nature have to make it a point these days that they are not going to put the arm on you, as in the case of a Washington Daily News columnist, Clare Crawford, and her husband, a member of the Maryland legislature.

They sent out invitations reading that they were inviting guests "to the launching of 'The Election' (a new book) at a non-fund raising political party for author Sherwin Markman.

Bill Blass Bares The Body For Spring

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—This spring when a young man's fancy turns to girl watching, there may not be a knee bared. But thanks to designer Bill Blass, there will be a lot more.

Blass has revived the body. Soft, sensuous and sexy best describes his spring collection, especially the evening wear.

His unlined printed chiffon and organza promise to create quite a stir during those "after-five" spring evenings. Whether low-cut, as many were, or with a high neckline. the look was soft and beautiful.

DESIGNER BILL Blass revives the body in his spring collection, especially for evening. This unlined, printed chiffon and organza promises to create a stir. Whether low cut, as many were, or with a high neckline, the look was soft and beautiful, and he describes it as soft, sensuous and sexy.

(UPI Telephotos)

BILL BLASS opened his collection in New York Monday with a group of lively blazer-cuts coats and jackets, worn over skirts, pants or dress. Suits were very important in his collection, and simple skirts complete the unstructured silhouette.

ONE UNLINED printed chiffon with a wrap skirt was worn over matching bikini panties. A paisley print silk number was shown unbuttoned to the waist with a matching bra, and black lace clinging to the body or billowing out in a Spanish style was completed with skin-toned lining.

Chiffons were flowing and always moving. Many were in the Indian and Far Eastern prints and styles, such as one in brown, pink and orange with a sarong skirt. This dress was shown complete with Japanese parasol and sandals. Turbans were worn with many of the designs.

Cotton made the evening scene too. One lilac and green floral print was cut very very low.

Feather trim added a touch of the exotic to two numbers. One was in black silk organza with a low neckline and wrapped skirt. Black feathers banded the dress and a matching shawl.

PANTS ALSO were a very important part of the evening wear. Most were worn under matching printed midi and ankle length chiffon or organza dresses.

For daytime, Blass showed a lot of suits with soft unstructured silhouettes. Done in wool, tweed, flannel and some-

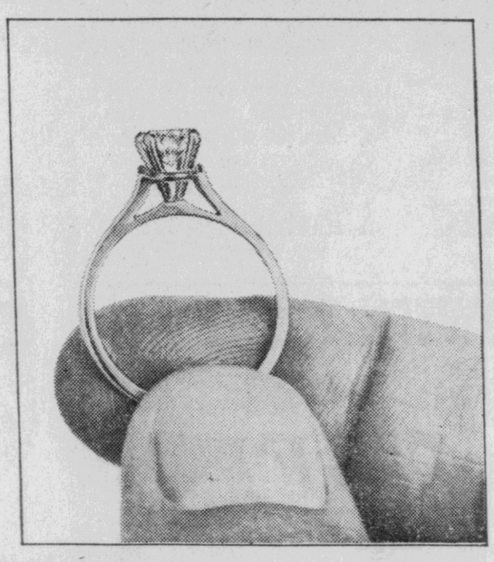
Why should we sell a better diamond for less money?

We have our reasons.



For one thing, most other jewelers buy finished diamonds. We buy diamonds in the rough.

We cut, polish and mount them ourselves. The savings are considerable.

To us. To you.

Of course, you don't have to spend less money. You can always buy a larger diamond from us for the same amount you might pay someplace else.

Think it over.

Serve Nasty Brother An Eviction Notice And Fight For The House

DEAR HELEN:

I cared for my ailing mother for 23 years and, when she died, she willed me the house, while my brother got a cash inheritance. Soon afterward, he moved in with me, saying it was the family home and he was entitled. He is divorced (his wife couldn't stand him) and I never married, always being the one the rest of the family leaned on.

Life has been hell ever since. He is bossy, picky, sloppy and sarcastic. He orders me around like a slave, then tells everyone that he has to stay here because I couldn't get along by myself. He's got his children convinced that I am "taking" him because he pays in a little bit for food and utilities. They accuse me of charging "rent" for a house that should be half his. That's not what the will says.

We both work, but he makes more than I do. He brags that when he retires in five years he'll have saved enough to travel. I can't save enough to take care of me in old age.

When we aren't fighting it's because we aren't speaking. He says if anyone leaves, it will be me because he's staying. I don't like trouble — I guess that's my problem. I've always taken what comes to avoid a battle, but I'm about to have a nervous breakdown because of him. How can I get free of him, when he's convinced people I need a keeper? — T.J.

DEAR T.J.:

The house is legally yours. So serve an eviction notice — and retain a lawyer to make it stick. It's time the family fall guy stood up and fought back — but be sure you're able to stand alone. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Thank you for printing the letter from the girl ("The Sucker") who said she was sure her mother loved her, but she was so busy protecting her and being fearful and suspicious that she never showed it. I'll bet it — and your answer — shook a lot of us frightened parents.

My daughter is only six years old and I'm already starting to act as "Sucker's" mother does. Helen, with all I hear about drugs, cigarette smoking, unmarried motherhood, rebellion, free sex, etc. I'm filled with fear about not raising my daughter right. When you get bogged down with worry, it's so easy to forget that love, faith and understanding are the most important ingredients in raising a child — and if you don't show how you feel, how is she to know?

I've cut out this column to save, so that when I get up-tight I'll refer to it and remember that one little "I love you and I'm proud of you" is better than a hundred lectures. — A WORRIED AHEAD OF TIME MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

And remembering, you may never have cause to get really up-tight. The trouble with Species Parent-Paranoidus (a growing group these days) is that they're so busy listening to the doom-cryers they've left off listening to their kids. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

When you get those "lucky numbers" in the mail saying your name has already been entered in a prize contest, and you check the box marked "I do not wish to order at this time, but check my number anyway," do you ever win? — FRAN

DEAR FRAN:

According to some of my correspondents — yes. Although it never happened to me. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Blass opened the collection with a group of stunning blazer-cut coats and jackets, worn over skirts, pants or dresses. Lively interest was aroused by one single breasted blazer coat done in navy wool and banded in white. A pair of white wool pants completed the outfit.

Most dresses were shirtwaists, with a few chemises that could be worn with or without tie belts. The shirtwaists, however, made the biggestsplash. Most were done in printed silks and solid crepes. Occasionally Blass mixed the crepes with flannel. Most had soft pleated skirts with hemlines hitting about an inch below the knee and a few slightly longer.

Retail prices for the Blass collection are about the same as last year's —$300 to $1,500.

Festival Of Trees Chairman Is Named

MRS. STANLEY RUTNER

Mrs. Stanley S. Rutner of Novato is chairman of the 1970 Festival of Trees, sponsored by the Boyd Marin Museum of Science guilds. The sixth annual festival will be held Dec. 4 and 5 at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

Last year Barbara Rutner served as exhibits chairman of the festival, which raises money for the expansion of the museum and its educational programs.

The nearly 300 members of the 12 guilds work all year making gift items to sell at the festival, and the committees solicit Christmas decor from individuals and businesses throughout the Bay Area, according to the chairman.

Mrs. Rutner is a past president of the Women's Dental Auxiliary, leader of the Novato Jets 4-H Club and secretary of the Marin County 4-H Council. She attended schools in Bakersfield and Arcadia and San Jose State College.

She and her husband, a dentist, have lived in Marin for 10 years. They are the parents of Debbie, 13, Terry, 10, and Corinne, 8 years old. Sewing, arts and crafts, water skiing, playing the guitar and folk singing are Mrs. Rutner's hobbies.

Committee members for the festival are Mmes. Paul Hacker, co-chairman; Robert Leonard, secretary; Joachim Jung, treasurer; Neil J. Jannes, staffing; Tim Hamill, tickets; John D. Ryan, correspondence; Robert Dagitz, staging; C. E. Welte, advertising; W. L. Miler and Victor Udaloff, program; Allen Bernes, exhibits; Ronald Mires, publicity; Lloyd Flatland, special events; and Walter Grote and Merle Ellis, gift area.

Bonnie Jo Cook Is Engaged To Be Wed

BONNIE JO COOK

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cook of Tiburon have announced the engagement of their daughter Bonnie Jo to Randle William Thompson of Corte Madera.

Bonnie is the sister of Sue Cook and a graduate of Redwood High School. She attended College of Marin and is employed by the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Kentfield.

Randle is the son of William Thompson of San Rafael and Mrs. Velma Thompson of Corte Madera. Cindy Thompson is his sister. He is also a graduate of Redwood High School and also attended College of Marin. The future bridegroom is a student at the Academy of Computer Technology in San Francisco.

An April wedding is planned by the couple.

Signs Will Be Uniform

By ATHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGON — One of the biggest causes of highway accidents and traveler confusion is the jumble of signs that must be read while watching other cars.

There is little uniformity across the 50 states in this country or from country to country. Drivers who are unfamiliar with the language find great difficulty. But even drivers who know the language perfectly are sometimes baffled by the terms used in some places.

The Federal Government has an extra reason for avoiding signs with lots of words on them in places where such signs could spoil the view of beautiful parklands or forests.

So a committee of government officials began to study the problem three years ago in the name of the Interagency Task Force Committee on Signing and Marking.

Members of the committee were drawn from the Federal Highway Administration, Bureau of Indian Affairs, National Park service, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Bureau of Land Management, Forest Service, Bureau of Public Roads and the Corps of Engineers.

As a result of its study, the committee has decided unanimously to launch a nationwide campaign to reduce what it calls the "visual pollution" of signs by a new system of wordless symbols.

Government agencies have agreed to adopt a system of 77 wordless signs beginning next year on Federal lands.

Most of the symbols are readily understandable. For example, a tent indicates a campground, a knife and fork marks food service, a bus marks a bus stop and a picnic table indicates a picnic area.

But other signs may not carry such a clear message. The sign for an information booth is simply a question mark, the letter "P" symbolizes a parking area, and a camera is supposed to represent a viewing area.

Other symbols are even less clear because the symbols may not be easily related to what they are supposed to represent. But committee members feel that learning the meanings would be easy for people of all cultures and languages, including children who have not yet learned to read.

According to the committee members, "visual thinking" is faster than "verbal thinking" and can improve highway safety by reducing the time it takes for drivers to watch signs instead of other cars.

Among other benefits cited are the fact that the signs could be more harmonious with the landscape, especially in National Parks, and the fact that signs could be smaller and would thus cost less.

There is no doubt that there is excess clutter of signs on the highway, and many of the suggested changes are obvious improvements over the present system or lack of system.

But some drivers will question the need to develop special symbols for such things as ski bobbing, snowmobiling and "environmental study areas" when the words themselves might cause less confusion that the symbols for them.

At the same time, there is a move to make traffic signs more uniform with a system of common symbols. The result no doubt will mean another whole new system to add to those just announced.

If hamburger stands and dairy bars also get into the act, we may reach a point where the cure becomes worse than the disease.

Ironing Pleats

When ironing or pressing pleats, snap a clothespin to the lower edge of the pleats until you are sure the garment is dry. The pleats will then hang flat and will keep their shape longer.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organization interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI)—Shorts have replaced miniskirts in the Paris spring ready-to-wear fashion show.

Pants as brief as nature allows, in printed cotton or bright satin and sequins, were the star of the Christian Dior ready-to-wear collection today.

Mic Mac, one of France's best known sports wear manufacturers, and other houses also are long on shorts at their shows staged in conjunction with the ready-to-wear exposition at the Salon de Versailles this week.

THE NEW shorts (the French use the English word "short") are only for lounging around summer villas and sailboats. Paris says the bare leg look for the city street is dead, and all your tears won't bring it back for the time being.

As a consolation prize, Dior parode shorts—usually cuffed—with matching bras and covered with see-through dresses, jackets or shirts.

Some shirts in Slavic peasant prints had matching midiskirts. Some were blousy in elegant chiffon or silk. Red satin shorts had a gold sequin bird sewn on the side and went with a plum-colored chiffon blouse.

The shorts at the Mic Mac show came with matching T-shirts or long, tailored jackets. Some of the brief pants were jagged at the edges in pirate style.

FOR STREET wear, the Dior spring look was tailored suits in jersey, cotton, tweed or linen. Buttoned-up skirts were open to the knee and worn with little jackets and tailored shirts in flowered or checked cotton. Dior showed a lot of madras cotton. One gabardine raincoat and matching skirt had a lining and blouse in madras.

Most skirts were about two-inches below the knee, a length favored by many women, but it hardly looks new. There were some maxiskirts in printed peasant cotton but most were hostess or evening gowns, and conservative compared to the more swinging maxis around town.

For dressier clothes, Dior joined the limp 1910 to 1930 mood that has gripped Paris—soft, pleated chiffon dresses with full sleeves bloused at the elbow, floppy bows at the neck, and World War I boater hats in matching fabrics.

MARGOT POWER
Soprano To Sing Tuesday

BARBARA BAUM
Dominican Recital Pianist

Dominican Associates Plan Song Recital

Dominican College Music Associates will present soprano Margot Power in a song recital accompanied by pianist Barbara Baum at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Caleruega Hall on the Dominican College campus.

The program will include works by Brahms and Poulenc, ranging from "Gang zum Liebchen" to "Voyage a Paris" with 10 songs in each group.

A graduate of Syracuse University, Miss Power has appeared as guest soloist with symphony orchestras of Marin, Oakland, San Leandro, Vallejo, Baltimore, Buffalo and in Salisbury, England. She was a regional winner of the San Francisco Opera Debut aduitions and has appeared with a number of opera companies and in chamber music concerts.

The soprano has been a regular performer with the Carmel Bach Festival.

Pianist Barbara Baum has been performing since the age of 11, when she gave her first recital at Carnegie Chamber Music Hall in New York City. Now living in Marin, she has made several Bay Area appearances and is also a teacher.

Sausalito Council Endorses Ballot's Peace Initiative

A peace initiative, calling for withdrawal of all American troops from Southeast Asia by June 30, 1970 won endorsement last night from the Sausalito City Council which voted 4-1 in favor of the measure.

The lone dissenting vote on endorsement of Measure A, which will go before Marin voters Nov. 3, came from Councilman Earl F. Dunphy.

Dunphy said he felt the council should limit its actions to matters of local concern. "This matter will be decided in Washington D.C. and not in Sausalito," he stated.

Councilman Robin Sweeny said she was voting to endorse the measure as a private citizen and added "I don't think it's our job to tell Sausalito residents how to vote."

The Sausalito council thus became the first city council in Marin County to come out in favor of the measure, which also calls for the President to begin total troop withdrawal immediately.

Monday night the Mill Valley City Council refused to take a stand on the peace initiative — in keeping with its policy of acting only on matters within its jurisdiction.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

WATER DISTRICT BONDS — After a presentation by representatives of the Marin Municipal Water District endorsed the MMWD's $11.5 million dollar bond issue, Measure H on the ballot, to improve existing water systems and provide increased water supply.

PARK CONSTRUCTION — On the recommendation of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, awarded the bid for construction and landscaping of Tiffany Park to Albert Bidegain Landscape Contractors of San Rafael whose low bid was $12,599.

UTILITY DISTRICT — Passed a resolution establishing an underground utility district in a two-block area bounded by Atwood and Josephine Avenues and North Street. No property owner in the area appeared to protest the undergrounding, major cost of which will be borne by the utility companies.

LOT SPLIT — Upheld a planning commission decision to approve a lot split application from Agnes Gump for property at 65 Cloudview Road.

SCHOOL — On the recommendation of the planning commission, approved a conditional use permit to allow Lester Livingston to operate an "experiential school" at Campbell Hall.

STORM DRAIN — Awarded a contract for installation of a storm drain and catch basin on San Carlos Avenue to Maggiora-Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera. The firm's low bid was for $7,700.

TAXI TAX — Postponed action until its Nov. 3 meeting on a proposal to establish a gross receipts business license tax for taxi firms operating in Sausalito.

LANDSCAPING — Approved landscaping plans, submitted by Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works, for the intersection of Santa Rosa and San Carlos Avenues.

AMENDMENT — Endorsed an amendment which would allow the City-County Planning Council of Marin to conduct business with a quorum of seven persons, including one representative from six cities and one from the county. At present 13 persons are required for a quorum.

PARKING — Adopted an ordinance to regulate parking on Woodward Avenue.

CLAIM — Rejected a claim for $906 damages from Francis Marie Haynes of Meadow Vista, Placer County, who charged she reported her car stolen on May 23 to Sausalito police and did not learn until July 11 that the car had been towed away and was being stored in an auto repair shop.

GAS TAX FUNDS — Endorsed Proposition 18, a state ballot measure to allow 25 per cent of gas tax funds to be used for other forms of transit if voters in a local area approve. Currently all gas tax money is earmarked for highway construction and maintenance.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved the following appointments, proposed by Mayor Alexander R. Imlay: Jesse L. Birnbaum to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and Paul Kozak to the Sausalito Recreation Commission.

52 Strep Cases In Marin Last Week

Fifty-two cases of streptococcus infection and 27 cases of gonorrhea were reported in Marin rin last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said there were also five cases of infectious hepatitis and one each of tuberculosis and syphilis reported.

Novato Plan Brings Some Outcries Of Utopian Dream

By THERON A. NEWELL

The completed Novato downtown study was presented last night to the Novato City Council and an audience of 18 persons, by Thomas Coke of Sedway and Cooke, planning consultants.

The plan immediately drew some criticism as "utopian" and "financially unrealistic."

The council adopted the goals and policies of the study, but postponed for 30 days adoption of the regional shopping center portion of the study at the request of the affected property owners.

DOMINANT AREA

"Downtown Novato should serve as the dominant retail, business, administrative, cultural and recreational center not only of the city but the entire North Marin County sub-region" the study declares.

Sharpest critic of the entire plan was John J. King of Petaluma, a real estate dealer and member of the petaluma City Council for 15 years. He represented the seven property owners whose property would be taken by the proposed regional shopping center at the Pinheiro site.

These include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pinheiro who own the largest portion of the site west of Highway 101, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Renati, Dairymen's Milling Co., David Young, Theresa Knutte, Max F. Cerini and Elizabeth Roberts. All have businesses on their property.

30-DAY PLEA

King said they wanted the 30-day continuance so that they could make an economic study and if feasible, possibly forming a corporation to put the shopping center together. He said that the land alone would probably cost $4 to $5 per square foot. That cost and the cost of building would probably make it too expensive for any store to pay the required rent.

King said that Petaluma spent $35,000 for a similar plan and when the merchants found out what it would cost, "threw the study in the waste paper basket."

Then he said that the city had to be practical and look at the cost of carrying out such a plan. "You have parks, walkways along the creek, the same as we had planned along the Petaluma River, malls in the streets, but who is going to pay for it?" he said.

CARROW COMPLAINS

Robert Carrow, attorney for the Hanna trust, complained that the trust's 440 acres at the northeast corner of Highways 37 and 101 had not been considered for the shopping center.

Cooke replied that it was too far away from the main portion of the city and the site conditions such as elevation, were not good.

Carrow was promised a public hearing on all possible sites for a regional shopping center.

Norman E. Dean of the chamber of commerce said that economics was the major element that concerned him in trying to put together "the utopian dream." He asked what had been done to contact major retail firms to come into the shopping center.

Cooke replied that would be up to the property owners or developer.

The Sedway and Cooke plan calls for a regional shopping center to be placed north of Olive Avenue on both east and west sides of present highway 101, with an overpass connecting the two segments of the center. It would contain two major department stores and other facilities. On the steep hillside of the Pinheiro Ranch would go motels and convention centers.

East Grant Avenue would become a pedestrian mall with smaller retail stores. West Grant Avenue would be a financial and office center.

Warner and Novato creeks would become strip parks with lights and walkways along each side.

The area north of Grant Avenue would have both office and apartment complexes. South Novato Boulevard and Novato Boulevard would be used as collector streets with no businesses on them.

50-Unit Townhouse Development Passes

The Novato City Council approved plans last night for a 50-unit townhouse development and two single-family lots on 16 acres in Pleasant Valley for Sono-Marin Builders Inc.

The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Joseph D. Gargiulo against saying that the development would do too much damage to the countryside.

The council approved the plan for the townhouses over the objections of approximately 15 residents of the area.

The plan as submitted called for 52 townhouses in clusters of four and six. This was the second plan submitted. The original townhouse proposal was altered when a slide area was discovered on the hillside by soils engineers.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain made the motion that two clusters of six units be reduced to four. The developer agreed to a contact with the city absolving the city from any liability in event of slide damage. He also agreed to dedicate 10 acres for public open space.

Harvey Perryman of 2611 Center Road showed a series of slides of the area pointing out an 18-to-25-foot-deep ditch that would drain down onto Center Road, and the trees that would have to be removed for the development.

John Zima of 50 Daryl Avenue asked why there had to be any development on the property at all. The original plan had been for 33 single-family homes.

Robert Roberts, the developer, said that this plan did less scarring of the hills than the single-family plan.

The Novato City Council Also:

DRUG ABUSE — Approved payment of $495 to the North Marin Drug Abuse Committee as the city's share in booklets printed and distributed throughout the schools telling parents about drugs.

ASSISTANT — Approved the creation of an assistant to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown at a salary range of $988 to $1,090 per month. It will be paid this fiscal year from the money saved by abolishing the assistant finance director position.

DEANNEXATION — Referred to the planning commission a request of R. A. Abeling of 1625 Indian Valley Road to deannex from the city. His property was included in the original incorporation of the city, but lies 1,500 feet away from the nearest land inside the city on Indian Valley Road.

MUTUAL AID — Agreed to allow Brown and the police chief to work out a schedule to furnish one man each shift for three weeks to help the Marin County Sheriff's department guard the Civic Center.

QUORUM — Approved changing the requirement for a quorum for the City-County Planning Council to seven members if a majority of the 13 cities are represented. This was done on he condition that the other cities and county approve of it.

LOMA VERDE — Received and referred to staff a request from Evelyn Johnson, president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association for city cooperation in maintaining the median strips in Alameda Del Prado which lies outside the city in Loma Verde.

REZONING — Passed an ordinance rezoning from planned commercial to planned residential the northwest corner of the intersection of Highway 101 and 37.

SPEED — Passed an ordinance reducing the speed from 35 to 25 miles per hour on South Novato Boulevard from north of Rowland Boulevard to south of Sunset Parkway.

PARADE — Approved a homecoming parade for 10:30 a.m., Nov. 14, for Novato High School. The parade will go from Diablo Avenue down South Novato Boulevard and Arthur Street to the school

REZONING — Postponed until 8 p.m., Nov. 10, consideration of rezoning a planned commercial site on the northeast corner of San Marin and San Andreas drives to multiple residential.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Nov. 2 at the Novato Community House.

San Rafael Band Plans Jazz Concert

A jazz concert featuring the music of Buddy Rich, Count Basie and Stan Kenton will be presented by the San Rafael High School Stage Band at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the school's auditorium.

Original compositions by students will also be presented in the concert entitled "Stage Band '70."

Tickets will be available at the door and proceeds of the concert will go toward purchase of a string bass amplifier for the stage band.

American Jailed For Czech Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has announced that George Ipser, a naturalized American citizen from Chicago, was arrested in Czechoslovakia Sept. 4 on charges he made derogatory remarks about Czech President Ludvik Svoboda.

A spokesman said it was not known if Ipser, who was visiting relatives in Czechoslovakia, would be brought to trial.

JAMES SCHWABACHER
Opera Tenor Speaker

Schwabacher To Preview Opera 'Faust'

Tenor James Schwabacher will preview Gounod's "Faust" tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Schwabacher, music instructor at Stanford University, where he conducts the glee club and coaches French opera, has sung 14 roles with the San Francisco opera.

He has appeared with the San Francisco Symphony and in recitals at the Town Hall and Carnegie Hall in New York City. A past president of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation and a founder of Spring Opera, he is president of the Merola Memorial Fund and the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

Refreshments will be served, and libretti, opera records and opera tickets sold at the preview.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Carlo Fowler of Kentfield.

Tullah Keeps Promise With Wild Art Opener

By CLIFFORD P. CHENEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Tullah Hanley, who may be the world's richest ex-belly dancer, threw a party at San Francisco's DeYoung Museum of Art Tuesday night and that staid old institution may never be the same.

The party, given to commemorate Mrs. Hanley's gift of $3 million worth of her late husband's art collection, featured naked art students in body paint, belly dancers from North Beach topless nightculbs, magicians, puppeteers, fire eaters, Indian dancers and rock bands.

On the walls around this Dionysian merrymaking were displayed Mrs. Hanley's gifts: the works of Gauguin, Matisse, Manet, Boucher, Renoir, Chagall and Dufy.

But the main attraction for the 5,000 invited guests was Tullah herself, the merry widow of the millionaire art collector Edward Hanley.

Dancing in one of the five see-through outfits she wore during the course of the evening, Tullah brought a flush to the faces of many of the matronly ladies of the De Young Museum Society.

"Don't be shocked, baby," she told a reporter. "I am also on exhibit. I was the only ostentatious thing Ed ever owned . . . his most treasured acquisition, part of his collection."

Tullah, 46, used to perform semi-nude Egyptian "interpretative dancing" in Europe and the United States before meeting and marrying Hanley 21 years ago. She said she maintains her beauty with exercise, careful eating, body oil and ground fruit and vegetable facials.

"My only fashion idea," she said, "is if you have nothing to hide, show it; if you have nothing to show, hide it."

Her personal typewritten "Tullah notes" on the wall besider her favorite paintings showed a thorough knowledge of the works in the collection however.

The first time she was exposed to art, Tullah explained, was when she quit school at 14 in her native Hungary and got a job as a nude model in Budapest.

She gave part of her husband's art collection to San Francisco, she said, because "everybody here has treated me so marvelously, without anybody knowing there could be a gift." Another big portion of the collection will go to Denver for similar reasons, she said.

Tuesday night's party was "unlike anything we've ever seen," observed Museum Director Ian White, who got into the spirit of Tullah's bash by donning the costume of the cowardly lion from the "Wizard of Oz."

Spirits were dispensed from a dozen bars set up amid the impressionistic masterpieces. Amplified music rattled the windows of the venerable old building.

The guests, some in white ties and tails, others costumed or merely painted, didn't want to leave. Museum security guards finally cleared the building an hour and a half after the party was scheduled to end.

McGovern Endorses Dellums For Congress

BERKELEY (UPI) — Sen. George Mc Govern D-S.D. Tuesday night enthusiastically endorsed Democrat Ron Dellums in his Seventh District rate with Republican George Healy.

McGovern said here that Dellums was needed to help in the flight within Congress to bring a swift end to the Vietnam conflict.

SETTING UP — Guard Dave Mariani (10), who contributed to the Wildkitten victory with seven assists, passed off to Marin's other guard, Tim Haley. Final score was 35 - 26.

NICKLAUS ATTRACTS CROWD

Pro-Am At Silverado

NAPA (UPI) —A pro-am event today set the stage for the $150,000 Kaiser International Tournament opening Thursday over the scenic Silverado Course.

Big Jack Nicklaus drew a big crowd when he shot a warmup nine Tuesday while Lee Trevino got to the first tee before he learned his clubs hadn't arrived.

Somebody asked Nicklaus about the big year he has had on the campaign trail.

He said that "in the past 12 months I've played probably the best golf of my life."

Concerning his relatively unimpressive showing in recent years, the slimmed down Ohio belter said "everybody goes through periods. I had so much success that I got tired of it, I guess. For about 2 1-2 years I was just going through the motions."

"But I decided I was only 29 and I planned to play golf a long time. So I wanted to play well. My desire came back. I started working on my game again. The last 12 months haven't been too bad, have they."

HE'S DRIVING A NEW CAR

Modest Man, That Brooks Robinson

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooks Robinson's son was severely troubled.

He had just come home from his first day in school and the other kids, having nothing really better to do, had given him a hard time.

"Daddy, who's better, you or Frank Robinson?" the boy, Brooks David Robinson, asked his father.

A QUESTION

The older Robinson immediately sensed what had happened to his son his first day at school but wanted to hear a little more. "Why do you ask?" he inquired of his son.

"Because," the boy said, "the kids in school say Frank Robinson is better than you."

Brooks Robinson, third baseman nonpareil for the Baltimore Orioles, didn't get uptight by what his oldest son had told him. This happened a few years back and what Brooks Robinson did with his son —whose real hero is neighbor Johnny Unitas anyway —was sit him down and explain some of the facts of life.

DIFFERENT

"Son, Frank Robinson is an outfielder and I'm an infielder," the Orioles' third baseman said. "We're two different types of ballplayers."

"I know, I know," said the boy with a six-year-old's steadfastness to a question he wants answered, "but who's better, you or him?"

Brooks Robinson, the elder, took a deep breath and began all over again.

"Some fellas are hitters and some are fielders," he said.

The youngster still wasn't satisfied.

"We're both in the big leagues," his father said finally. "That's what counts."

Brooks Robinson, who many claim is the greatest third baseman ever, has been with Baltimore 16 seasons now but was a big leaguer long before ever coming to the Orioles. His father and mother saw to that.

NEW AUTO

Robinson received a brand new automobile here Monday for being the outstanding performer in the Orioles' five-game victory over the Cincinnati Reds and when he got up on the rostrum to thank Sports Magazine, he showed what kind of a big leaguer he was.

With his beautiful blonde wife, Connie, sitting nearby and listening attentively, Robinson characteristically glossed over his own performance in the series and dwelt instead on the

Winning Warriors Move On

ATLANTA (UPI) — What can the San Francisco Warriors do for an encore?

The Warriors played the kind of ball nobody would have thought they were capable of after last season when they rolled 125-105 at Baltimore Tuesday night. Tonight, they try their luck at Atlanta.

After last season, Nate Thurmond had announced his retirement; the Warriors had failed in shots to get Pete Maravich, Rick Barry or Zelmo Beatty; and once-great Jerry Lucas looked over the hill.

But Thurmond is back and Lucas has looked as good as ever in the pre-season and early going. He hit 14 of 19 field goal attempts at Baltimore for a 33-point night and grabbed 14 rebounds. Big Nate hauled down 16 and scored 22.

The Warriors, now 2-1, got 19 and 16 from backcourters Jeff Mullins and Fritz Williams.

After the game, Attles heaped praise on the veteran Lucas, who has straightened out his financial problems and may be ready to play back to his all-pro form of not so long ago.

'C' BASKETBALL

Marin Catholic Extends Streak

Marin Catholic High School's Class C basketball team, shooting for its third straight Marin County Athletic League championship, remained undefeated yesterday by gunning down second place Drake of San Anselmo, 35-26 at Kentfield.

The Wildkittens with center and high scorer Mike Ahern leading the way, roared to an 18-8 halftime lead and then coasted to their sixth win of 1970 and 10th straight over two seasons.

Ahern led all scorers with 13 points despite sitting out much of the second and third quarters with a sprained ankle. Rich McCarthy backed him up with nine points for runner up scoring honors.

The game, considered a "must win" affair for both teams, left the Pirates with a 6-2 record, a full game behind the league leaders.

Marin Catholic coach Dave Gonsalves credited the Pirates with a good job of coming back after being down by 10 points at halftime. "We had them 18 to 8 and they came back to close within six in the fourth quarter," he said.

Two Stanford Players Face Surgery Today

STANFORD (UPI) — Defensive guard Tim McClure and defensive back Mark Brown undergo knee surgery today that will keep them off the Stanford team for the rest of the season.

But the Tribe got some good news, too, when Pete Lazetich, the regular defensive guard, was cleared for Saturday night's big battle at UCLA.

Lazetich suffered a neck strain against Washington State.

QB Bradshaw Misses Practice, Draws Fine

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers today fined rookie quarterback Terry Bradshaw a substantial sum for missing Tuesday's practice session at Three Rivers Stadium.

Coach Chuck Noll, visibly shaken by Bradshaw's absence, admitted that Bradshaw had been fined but declined to say how much.

"That's personal," Noll said.

Bradshaw threw a 67-yard pass to rookie Ron Shanklin Sunday to lead the Steelers to a 7-3 victory over the Houston Oilers in Houston.

Today's fine was the second assessed against Bradshaw in the past week. The rookie signal caller was fined $25 for missing a squad meeting in Houston Saturday night.

Notre Dame Would Like A Bowl Bid

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Coach Ara Parseghian said Tuesday Notre Dame would accept a bowl invitation this year if one is extended and if the club's record remains good.

Parseghian, in a telephone address to the Indianapolis News Downtown Quarterback club, said the Irish, not being in a conference, have had to rely heavily on the national polls for prestige.

"Now, of course, after having played in a bowl game after 44 years, the polls are still important to Notre Dame," he said.

"But now the possibility exists that Notre Dame can get an invitation to a bowl game even though we might have a few losses."

The Irish are currently unbeaten and ranked third by United Press International.

"I'm more concerned how we rank in November than in October," he said.

Seals Still Looking For Their First Win

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals, winless in five National Hockey League games this season, have a problem and coach Fred Glover knows exactly what it is.

"Putting the puck in the net, that's the major problem. We've scored seven goals in five games and (Dennis) Hextall's line has been on for every one of them," he said Tuesday night after Vancouver had beat the Seals 2-1 before more than 13,000 Canuck fans.

Tonight, the Seals come home to host St. Louis. The Blues go on to Vancouver Friday.

Mattiussi scored while playing on a line with Hextall, who assisted on the goal. But most of the time Hextall lines up with Gary Croteau and Tony Featherstone.

Both Hodge and Seal netminder Gary Smith had good nights, stopping breakways and providing yeoman work against the power play.

Vancouver now has a 2-5 record.

Giants Assign Six To Farm

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants have assigned six players to their Phoenix club to reduce its roster to 34 in preparation for the 1971 baseball season.

Cal Bears Protest Bruin Win

BERKELEY (UPI) — The California Bears, who say films of the game show that the UCLA Bruins did not score a last second touchdown, have taken their protest to the Pacific Eight office.

They filed an official protest Tuesday which says that the 24-21 Bruin win should have been a 21-18 Cal triumph.

The Bears were leading with four seconds to go when Dennis Dummit tried to run it in from the three. Tom Grieb caught him as he skidded into the end zone.

The Bears assert that films show Dummit's knee hitting on the two. Since the Bruins had no time outs left, the game would have ended then in any case, they say.

Davenport To Be Boosters' Guest

The San Francisco Giants Booster Club of Northern California will honor former third baseman Jim Davenport at a dinner tonight at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.

Davenport was recently named manager of the Giants' Phoenix farm team.

Giant fans interested in attending the dinner should contact Booster Club president Allan B. Murray, 309 Palm Avenue, Kentfield.

A Move In Camp Areas But Still No Bucks

By AL GIDDINGS

CAULEY, Modoc County — Mary, my wife, and I decided to move camp from Ravendale, Lassen County, up to Cauley where we were to meet Bob Wilson of Woodacre and his two sons, Bob Jr. and Johnny. The boys were bringing three friends, all teen-agers, named Al Pisciotto, Gary Tait and Dave Carroll.

We planned to finish out the deer season with Bob and his gang, and also get in a duck hunt and some trout fishing. Well, Mary and I got to Cauley about 7 a.m., and Wilson and his crew were already there. Then the foul up began!

Three good-looking teen-age girls put on a display of driving no hands, peeling out and everything else kids can do with a car. Then they followed our boys practically to camp. The first day the boys were supposed to catch us enough trout for dinner. Ha! We lost the boys for the day, and there's some quiet talk about meeting the girls in town tonight.

WE CAMPED on Canyon Creek, where Mary set up camp while Bob and I took a hike through some of the deer country. The area was timbered with large burned over spots. We saw 11 deer, but no bucks. Things were dry and dusty and the locals said we needed a storm to move the deer. But this year with no rains or snow, camping has been tops. A little cold, but beautiful nights and a million stars.

The kids took the jeep for a trip though Devil's Garden in northern Modoc County. They swear they'll have ducks and cottontail rabbits for the next night's dinner.

HOWARD LEACH and Jack Schaule, our camping buddies of last week, didn't get that big buck that we all hunted. Leach did spot a flock of honkers in a field and managed to get one of those prize birds. It was the biggest honker I have ever seen. It must have weighed 15 pounds. Howard was as happy as a little kid.

The local duck hunters from this area had a good opener. Now, they say, the ducks are scattered and are to be found in the hidden potholes and reservoirs, many of which are scattered throughout the whole area.

OTHER FISH and game news that you should know about:

There will be a condor census taken in the mountains of southern San Joaquin Valley this weekend. Last year's count taken by conservation groups totaled 53 birds.

The U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries has been banding brown pelicans with colored streamers attached to the legs. And some of the feathers have been dyed. If you sight one of these birds, report the sighting to any Department of Fish and Game office.

BECAUSE OF late crop harvests, the duck areas of Gray Lodge, Sacramento, Delevan, Colusa, Sutter and Merced Wildlife won't open until Oct. 31 this year.

Tag returns from the antelope hunt showed a success ratio of 79 per cent, the highest for the past seven years. Some 237 bucks were taken by the 300 drawn hunters.

CHUKER AND QUAIL seasons open state wide Oct. 31. Limit on chukers is six, and the limit on quail is 10.

Tomales Bay off Inverness should be producing silver salmon. Now's the time to give it a go.

Scheduled Airlines This Time

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—When the Wichita State University football team travels to Little Rock, Ark., for its game with the University of Arkansas this weekend, it will do so aboard a commercial airliner.

The game will be the first for the Wheatshockers since one of the two chartered Wichita State planes crashed Oct. 2 en route to Logan, Utah. Thirty persons were killed in the crash, including 13 players, the school's head coach and the athletic director.

A federal hearing opens today into the crash.

Wichita State had made two road trips this year aboard twin-engine Marin 404s before the Logan trip. Two more road trips are on the Wichita schedule after the Arkansas game.

A spokesman for the school said the team will probably travel by bus to Tulsa for the Nov. 7 game against Tulsa University, and that a commercial flight will be taken to Memphis, Tenn., for the game against Memphis State Nov. 14.

Championship Rules For Clay's Fight

ATLANTA (UPI) — Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry agreed Tuesday to use "championship rules" in their 15-round heavyweight fight next Monday night.

The rules call for a fighter to take a mandatory eight count if he is knocked down, but the bout will not be stopped no matter how many times a fighter is knocked down in one round. In non-championship bouts, it is usually a technical knockout if one man goes down three times in one round.

"I'm still the champion," Clay said, "so we should use championship rules. The people of the world will recognize the winner of this fight as champion."

The 28-year-old Clay was deposed as champion in 1967 for refusing induction into the Army and has not fought since he kayoed Zora Folley March 22, 1967. Joe Frazier emerged as Clay's successor in a series of eliminations.

The two fighters agreed earlier to use the New York State scoring system. That system is basically on a round basis, but the three officials, two judges and a referee, also give bonus points for particularly one-sided rounds. If each fighter wins the same number of rounds (7-7-1, for example) the winner of the bout is determined by points.

HAND IN CAST — Joe Namath left a hospital yesterday after his fractured hand was placed in a cast. The cast must remain on for six weeks. (UPI Telephoto)

My Season Is Over, Says Jets' Namath

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Namath doesn't expect he'll play anymore this season.

The flamboyant New York Jets' quarterback, who broke a bone in his wrist in Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts, expressed little hope of leading the Jets on the field for the remainder of the season.

"It's going to be in a cast for six weeks," Namath said of his right wrist, now incased in plastered mold. "It won't come around for a week after the cast comes off, so I don't expect to play any more this year." The Jets have nine games remaining.

Namath, who never missed a game with an injury throughout his six-year career, suffered a fracture of the navicular bone in his passing arm, when tackled hard by Billy Ray Smith, the Colts' defensive tackle late in Sunday's game.

"New X-rays were taken Wednesday at Lenox Hill Hospital and they confirmed the fracture of the navicular bone in Namath's right wrist," said Jets' orthopedic specialist Dr. James A. Nicholas. "The hand was put in cast and will be immobilized for six weeks, during which period it will be continuously re-evaluated. It is undetermined how long it will take the wrist to heal."

Namath appeared at the team workout Wednesday as Al Woodall, the Jets' only other quarterback, worked out with the first unit in preparation for Sunday's game against the Buffalo Bills at Shea Stadium. Namath said he would work on the sidelines with Woodall and Bob Davis, a taxi-squader who is expected to be activated this week. Veteran Babe Parelli, who retired just before the season began, could be coaxed out of inactivity by coach Weeb Ewbank. Kicker Jim Turner has also been used at quarterback for the Jets in an emergency.

Coach Acts Fast To Save Player

Yeager, a non-scholarship volunteer from Houston St. Thomas, suffered severe lacerations on his right arm from the wrist to the elbow and severed an artery and ligaments in the right arm in the mishap which occurred as the players scrimmaged on the stage in Gregory Gymnasium.

There was no tourniquet material handy, so Lenox grabbed the youth's arm and managed to shut off the blood flow with his grip until trainer Mike Stephens could used a makeshift tourniquet and an ice pack to protect Yeager until he could be taken to a hospital.

He underwent surgery at Breckenridge Hospital Tuesday night and his condition today was listed as fair.

Interest In Small College Football Dying, Says Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SACRAMENTO — Small college football will be replaced by intramural or club programs in 10 years unless there is a rekindling of spectator interest, according to the athletic director of Chico State College.

Rex Grossart, also the National Collegiate Athletic Association representative to the Camellia Bowl, said this week attendance at the Wildcats' games was down even though Chico has a winning team.

"Pro football is hurting us, no question," Grossart told the Camellia Bowl Association.

"Fans see so much pro football on television that they come out to their local stadiums and expect duplication.

Baseball

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox Tuesday announced the selection of 14-major league pitching veteran Harvey Haddix as their new pitching coach, succeeding Charlie Wagner.

Haddix, who coached in the Pittsburgh Pirates minor league system during the past season, will join Eddie Kasko's Boston staff in place of Wagner, who returns to the Red Sox scouting ranks.

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Tuesday they have traded pitcher Sal Campisi and infielder Jim Kennedy to the Minnesota Twins in exchange for outfielders Herman Hill and Chuck Wissler.

Hockey

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis Blues center Red Berenson will be sidelined for two week because of strained ligaments in his left knee. Berenson was injured in Sunday's National Hockey League game against the Black Hawks.

SPORTS SHORTS

General

NEW YORK — Willie Shoemaker, the all-time winning jockey, won the September poll in the race for the 21st annual Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award.

Shoemaker received 32 first place votes and 134 points to edge tennis star Ken Rosewall by 32 points.

Basketball

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bulls Tuesday completed their second and third trade within a week, obtaining Jim King from the Cincinnati Royals on waivers, and sending Shalor Halimon to the new Portland Trailblazers for a 1971 No. 2 draft choice.

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League announced Tuesday the sale of outfielder Angel Mangual to the Oakland Athletics of the American League for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Mangual, 23, was with the Columbus Jets of the International League last season in 135 games. He hit .281 with 20 home runs and 87 runs-batted-in.

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday announced the acquisition of left-handed pitcher Les Rohr and right-hander Larry Bearnarth from the New York Mets.

Brewers general manager Marvin Milkes said the pair was purchased on a conditional basis.

Bowling

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. — Southpaw Dave Davis of Miami is making a determined bid to become the first three-time winner of the Professional Bowler's Association National Championship.

Davis rolled a six game block of 1,372, including a 298 game, Tuesday night to assume a 121 pin lead after four rounds of the $75,000 competition.

Shooting

PHOENIX — Russian shooters had a narrow lead in both the number of gold medals and the overall medal total today as the 40th world shooting championships neared the halfway mark on two desert ranges here.

With 14 of the 44 events decided, The Soviet Union team held a five to three lead over the United States in gold medals and added four silvers and two bronze to the total, to only four bronze for the American marksmen.

NBA ROUNDUP

Pistons Nip Bucks To Remain Unbeaten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Pistons continued their unbeaten ways Tuesday night, thanks to an unlikely hero and an even more unlikely goat.

Bob Quick, a substitute forward, grabbed a key rebound and made a three point play with five seconds remaining to help the Pistons beat the Milwaukee Bucks 115-114 and run Detroit's record to 4-0.

THREE-POINTER

The Pistons' Dave Bing, with his team trailing 113-111 with seven seconds left to play, missed an attempt to tie the score but Quick outmaneuvered Milwaukee superstar Lew Alcindor for the rebound, sank the follow-up shot and also drew a foul from Alcindor.

After Quick converted his free throw and Jimmy Walker added another to put Detroit ahead 115-113, Alcindor was fouled at the buzzer but made only one of two free throws, failing to send the game into overtime and insuring the Pistons' victory.

"It's great for just confidence," Pistons coach Bill Van Breda Kolff said about the Pistons' come-from-behind triumph before a crowd of 11,316—the largest crowd ever to see Detroit play in Cobo Arena.

"Milwaukee's a great team," Van Breda Kolff added, "but now they know they've got some competition."

The victory moved Detroit into sole possession of first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division while the Bucks dropped their first game after a season-opening triumph against Atlanta and 10 straight exhibition victories.

Bing paced Detroit with 37 points and Walker added 20 while rookie Bob Lanier, playing opposite Alcindor for most of the game, tallied 18. Alcindor led all scorers with 38 and teammate Oscar Robertson had 26.

"He thinks out there," Lanier said of Alcindor. "He makes you think. He's tough to play, head-to-head. He can go over you and he can go either way. The thing with him, you've got to try to hold him down as much as you can but minimize the other guys."

OTHER SCORES

Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia, the only other team besides Detroit to sport an unbeaten record, beat Buffalo, 98-89; San Diego nipped Phoenix, 115-114; New York tripped Los Angeles 115-100; San Francisco downed Baltimore 125-105, and Portland whipped Cleveland 120-90.

Hal Greer and Billy Cunningham combined for 36 points in leading Philadelphia past Buffalo and to its fourth triumph. Greer led the 76ers with 20 points and Em Bryant was high for the Braves with 19.

Stu Lantz scored a career high 43 points in helping San Diego beat Phoenix. It was Lantz' follow up shot with only 10 seconds left to play that gave the Rockets their win. Dick Van Arsdale paced Phoenix with 26 points.

KNICKS 3-1

Defending champion New York upped its record to 3-1 as Willis Reed, who sat out most of the third quarter with a stomach ache, netted 16 points in the final period in the Knicks' triumph over Los Angeles. Reed led the victors with 29 points and teammate Walt Frazier had 23 while Jerry West paced the Lakers with 26.

Portland handed Cleveland its fourth loss without a victory as Leroy Ellis and Jeff Petrie shared scoring honors for the Trailblazers with 21 points each. McCoy McLemore led the Cavaliers with 17.

Tackle Attempt Proves Costly

COLFAX, Wash. (UPI)—Terrance E. Smith tried to make the tackle to stop a Stanford touchdown and it cost him $50.

Smith, 27, a Washington State University student who never before had seen action on a football field, leaped out of the stands Saturday and tried to bring down Eric Cross as he scored after a long pass and run.

Smith was arrested and charged with public drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He forfeited $50 bond on the charge this week.

Some observers suggested that in view of the score, 63-16 in favor of Stanford, Smith's attempted tackle was the Cougars' best of the day.

BOATING

Don't Forget About Highway Boat Safety

By STAN DAVIES

Most talk about boating safety concerns the boat when it's in its natural element . . . afloat, on water. But it has become apparent after observing more and more boats speeding along the highways on trailers, that boating education must be extended to consider the problems of safety on land.

There's no question that a trailer boat spends the greater part of its life on land and, due to the vulnerability of its trailer, is subject to greater hazards than when it's on the water.

The two safety weak spots I find in a trailer are the wheels and the tie-downs. Wheel trouble is usually traced to under-inflation of the tires. Many drivers are still only vaguely aware that trailer tires must be inflated to much greater pressures than those of a car. For instance, a 570/500 x 8, six-ply trailer tire, a very common size, must be inflated to 75 pounds pressure.

Under inflated tires run hot. The heat is transmitted to the wheel hub, which melts the lubricant and soon the bearings are running dry. Then it's a toss-up which goes first, the overheated tires or the bearings.

Other weak spots, as I mentioned earlier, are the tie-downs. Always stop after you have driven a trailer boat a few miles and check to make sure it is firmly secured.

Naturally it's very important to have a trailer that fits your boat porperly. If you trailer a sailboat it's imperative to have a secure mast chock or a similar device for holding the mast while under way on the road.

Imagine the chaos that would ensue if a 20-foot mast broke loose while you were traveling along a freeway at 60 mph.

There are many hazards in trailering, and we probably receive more questions on these problems than on any other single boating topic:

Q. I know a trailer must safety chains beside the main hitch. How strong must the chains be?

A. Some state highway traffic laws are quite specific, but generally it's worded that the safety chains must be strong enough so that the trailer will be held if the primary connection is broken. In other words, they have to be extremely durable.

Q. My boat trailer rig sways adly at certain speeds. How can I stop this?

A. Swaying usually indicates that the vehicle is tail-heavy. Try this — adjust the load so that one-tenth of the entire trailer load, or a minimum of 50 pounds, is resting on the hitch. I use a bathroom scale to test it.

Q. Obviously trailer wheels turn much faster than those on a car. But how much?

A. A car with 850x14 tires usually tows a boat trailer with 570x8 tires. While the car's wheels make 100 revolutions, the trailer's make 187. No wonder they tend to heat up.

Q. Why are trailer wheles so small?.

A. They were first designed this way so that the boat could overhang the wheels, yet still keep it low enough for easy launching.

Q. Water and dirt get into the bearings of my trailer wheels. How can they be made water tight?

A. Most modern trailer hubs are water tight until they are run into cold water after a long, hot highway trip. The hot air inside contracts and sucks in dirt and water. One answer is to cool them off before launching by splashing water over them.

Q. Can I trailer a Lightning class sailboat behind one of the new tiny U.S. compact cars?

A. Yes. The British, more familiar with small cars than we are, have a formula for figuring trailer weight: the total of all . . . car, trailer and other loads . . . should not exceed twice the weight of the empty car. For instance if your compact weighs 1,700 pounds empty, and three passengers and baggage weigh 600 pounds (total is 2,300 pounds) it means the trailer with its load can weigh up to 1,100 pounds. The Lightning weighs 700 lbs and the trailer about 400. You can just make it.

Notre Dame Sets Pace In Yardage

NEW YORK (UPI) —The team that eventually winds up as the major college total offense champion apparently will have to be adept at moving the ball both on the ground and in the air.

The five leaders thus far all are averaging better than 200 yards a game both rushing and passing, with Notre Dame setting the pace in total offense, according to official statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

IRISH 5-0

The Irish with a 5-0 record, are fourth in rushing with a 312.6 yard average and rate 15th in passing offense with 220.8. This accounts to 533.4 yards per game, far and away the best figure in the country.

Runner-up Arizona State is the only other school averaging better than 500 yards —513.8 — based on 281.8 yards rushing and an average 232 yards in the air.

Following the two leaders are Southern California with 494.2 total yards, Auburn at 485.6 and Air Force at 473.5. Southern California has averaged 287 yards rushing and 207.2 passing. Auburn shows 218.2 rushing and 267.4 passing and Air Force has 203.5 yards rushing and 270 passing.

Ohio State is the team rushing leader with an average 373.8 yards per game.

HIS WAY

Brooks Robinson tried not to forget anybody because that's his way.

Among those who came from Baltimore to see him honored was his manager, Earl Weaver.

"There's nobody in the whole United States who would say Brooks doesn't deserve this," Weaver said.

Frank Robinson said pretty much the same thing. He said it to Brooks Robinson personally during the celebration after the final series game.

"You were the one who kept us together all year," he told the 33-year-old 10-time Golden Glover from Little Rock, Ark. "You deserve everything you get."

Frank Robinson has no idea what that meant to Brooks Robinson, who hit .428 in the series and fielded five times more than that. Some people claim Brooks Robinson's performance in the series was the best ever by any individual.

TYPICAL

"I think they probably got carried away a little," he says.

That's typical of him. Another typical Brooks Robinson story deals with the time he visited our servicemen in Vietnam in 1966 and at one base he asked:

"Anybody here from Baltimore?"

They told him there was one fellow by the name of Bob Norton but he was out flying a mission. Robinson never had met Norton before but he said he'd wait until he came back. And he did. Twelve hours.

When Robinson returned to Baltimore he called Norton's mother and told her that her son was fine and sent his love.

"There's never a night in my life," says Bob Norton's mother, "I don't say a prayer for Brooks Robinson."

Kansas Dismisses Two World Record Holding Trackmen

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI)—The national collegiate pole vault champion and one of the nation's top half-milers were dismissed today from the University of Kansas track squad because of violation of training rules.

Coach Bob Timmons said the action against Jan Johnson, junior pole vaulter from Chicago Heights, Ill., and Brian McElroy, sophomore middle distance runner from Massapequa, N. Y., was permanent. At their request, he said, the nature of the violations will not be revealed.

At last summer's NCAA championship in DesMoins, Johnson won the pole vault in the Drake field house at 17 feet, 7 inches, establishing an all-time world indoor best.

49ERS' JOHN BRODIE

A Smart Quarterback

By JACK HANLEY

John Brodie, now 35, is in his 14th pro football campaign. Only two other active quarterbacks, Johnny Unitas and Bart Starr, outrank him in longevity. They are in their 15th campaigns this year.

Sonny Jurgensen and Len Dawson, like Brodie, also are 14-year men this season. Sammy Baugh's 16 campaigns still is the record. Y. A. Tittle retired after his 15th season.

Brodie may become the all-time longevity champ of the pros. What would the 49ers do without him? From time to time the 49ers have tried quarterback substitutes for Brodie but he's been No. 1 since Frankie Albert retired and Tittle was traded.

There was a brief period when the 49ers tried rotating two other quarterbacks with Brodie in the Shotgun formation. But that experiment ended when enemy defenses plugged the Shotgun.

Then there was a brief period when the 49ers experimented with a scrambling quarterback, George Mira. Brodie wasn't upset by that. In fact, he used Mira's bonus to get himself a nice raise.

After Mira signed a $100,000 three-year contract in 1964 as a rookie out of University of Miami, Brodie went to Lou Spadia and asked who was going to be the No. 1 quarterback of the team. Spadia told Brodie he was so Brodie replied: "Then I expect to be paid more money than Mira." Brodie got it, too.

When Brodie made his rookie debut in 1957 he threw a last-second touchdown pass that beat Baltimore. Since then he has thrown almost 2,000 completed passes for 25,000 yards. Unitas, Tittle and Jurgensen are the only other members of the 25,000-yard club.

Through the years Brodie has alternately been booed and cheered by 49er Kezar Stadium fans. He never has offered an alibi for throwing an interception. Invariably he personally accepts the responsibility even on those occasions when the blame rests elsewhere.

And he never has put boos or cheers from the stands on a personal basis. "Any pro who does is a candidate for the couch," he says.

In the first four games this season, Brodie didn't throw one interception. In last Sunday's session with the New Orleans Saints he threw three. He attributed the first interception to himself, saying "I misread the defense." He attributed the second to an overthrow of his intended receiver and the third to an underthrow.

After 14 campaigns, Brodie doesn't misread defenses. He does overthrow or underthrow occasionally but no more than any other veteran quarterback.

Brodie is as smart as they come in the pro ranks. Indeed, he might be the smartest ever. Didn't he make the National and American Footbbll Leagues honor a million dollar memorandum given him when the AFL and NFL were raidiing each other's stars?

If Brodie isn't the smartest quarterback around, he certainly is the richest.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Measure A Does Not Contravene Nixon's Policy

County Measure A on Marin ballots for the Nov. 3 election is a "straw vote" referendum on the Southeast Asian war.

It proposes that the county adopt as "public policy" the following:

"We, the people of Marin County, Calif., hereby request the President and the Congress of the United States to begin immediately the total withdrawal of all United States military forces from Southeast Asia and to complete such total withdrawal no later than June 30, 1971."

ADOPTION OF SUCH "public policy" by the county of course would have no effect on the conduct of the war, or on United States disinvolvement — except that it would show that a majority of citizens of one county favored a quick and complete pullout.

Similar measures are on the statewide ballot in Massachusetts and on local ballots in Cleveland, Detroit, and San Francisco for the Nov. 3 election, according to the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

The argument for adoption of such a policy, as set forth by the Committee for the Peace Referendum to accompany the ballot, centers on the contention that it was a mistake to become involved militarily in Vietnam and is a mistake to remain there.

The argument against, by the Committee To Stop Helping America's Marxist Enemies, calls the proposal "betrayal of the men who have fought and died there" and labels it pro-Communist.

IT MAY BE IMPRACTICAL or impossible to set a deadline of next June 30 for complete withdrawal of U. S. armed forces from Southeast Asia. But to label it betrayal and pro-Communist is to label President Nixon and the United States Congress betrayers and pro-Communists.

The President has pledged withdrawal of American fighting forces. He has promised that they will continue to be reduced regardless of whether Hanoi accepts his very reasonable cease-fire proposal.

Acceptance of that proposal by Hanoi would go much farther toward ending the war for Americans than adoption of such resolutions as Measure A.

However, an expression by the people of Marin that they desire the U. S. involvement ended by next June 30 neither contravenes the President's policy nor plays into the hands of any enemy.

THE WAR in Southeast Asia is a sticky mess. The United States got in, and it is exceedingly difficult to get out — particularly since the North Vietnam government does not seem to want us out, as it makes no move toward negotiations that would remove the American forces.

But to condemn a resolution urging that we get out as "helping America's Marxist enemies" is tantamount to saying that we must stay there forever. Certainly communism is not going to vanish from the Asian scene, with or without the American presence.

The essence of Measure A, then, is whether the citizen wishes the government to put a June 30, 1971, target date on complete withdrawal, or leave the date open.

It could be, of course, no more than a target date —even in the unlikely event that the administration in Washington were to heed the wishes of a majority of voters in Marin.

Bagley Predicts Tax Reform; But How About Spending Reform?

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The architect of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform package, which was defeated during the last legislative session, has predicted that a tax package will pass in 1971.

The prediction by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, interestingly comes a full year after the governor told Californians that tax reform would be possible if they elected enough Republicans in each of the legislative houses to get a majority.

Although they did, 13 Democrats and one Republican in the state Senate withheld approval of the multi-faceted tax package, causing it to fall by the wayside with most of the other significant legislation.

THE TAX PACKAGE in 1971 will not be much differeht from the final pacakge of 1970, according to Bagley.

It will still raise personal income taxes, sales taxes and various business-oriented taxes in order to lower the property tax and somewhat equalize school taxes.

Bagley claims his 1971 package will also tighten school expenditure controls, allow the state to take over welfare payments from the counties, increase the senior citizens tax exemption program, and provide funding for the open space exemption program.

The plan would also impose a minimum income tax on wealthy individuals who pay no tax, and would reduce the oil depletion allowance.

BAGLEY SAID that defeat of his program this year "gave California oil companies an annual $10 million tax break since the oil depletion allowance remains at the 27½ per cent level.

"These same opponents," he said, "led by Jess Unruh, now cry for a reduction, but opposed the bills to close this loophole."

The real basic objection to the program was that it raised more taxes than it lowered, but it took the "hook" off the average property owner, making it appear that he would pay fewer taxes during the year.

Bagley's proposal, as many of the other tax "reforms" that have been introduced in the legislature during the past decade, unfortunately lacks the kind of reform that state government needs — a marked lessening of expenditures.

THE GOVERNOR'S "economy measures" within the various branches of government have had some effect on the total budget, but it's like playing with pennies when the real expenditures are left untouched.

Welfare and Medi-Cal plod along, the white elephants of the legislature's efforts to make California "Number One," nearly unchecked in their ability to raid the taxpayer's purse, and largely ignored by politicians seeking re-election.

Education, already receiving the lion's share of the local tax dollar, is actively seeking the status welfare and Medi-Cal have gained — guaranteed annual increases without having to fight other state services for them.

Tax Notice Voids Bond Issue Appeal

Back to back in the mail a few days ago were the annual Marin County real estate and personal property tax bill and a letter signed by Elizabeth M. Deedy, president of the board of trustees, Marin Community College District, soliciting support for Measures B and C to be voted on in the forthcoming elections Nov. 3.

The tax statement showed another substantial increase, while Mrs. Deedy's letter with flyer attached, proposes spending some sixteen odd million dollars for new campus construction.

All this at a time when unemployment has risen sharply, the cost of living is at a very high level and the national economy is faltering.

The statement that it will not increase taxes is pure gobbledygook. Your recent publication of the salary totals alone at the College of Marin should clinch the question in the minds of the voters, come Nov. 3.

LESLIE WELLINGTON
Mill Valley

(Passage of Measures B and C would result in a temporary tax reduction. Taxes of the college district would increase in succeeding years — as they doubtless would anyhow. — Editor.)

What PR Firm Will Do For Money

Our firm was retained by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District not "to sell the legislature" as your Oct. 14 editorial states, but to provide public information assistance in connection with the 21 public hearings which the district will hold. The rather massive assignment will include publicity and press service, information material for the public, and assistance with the district's presentations . . .

Our contract period is from Oct. 19, 1970, to Feb. 12, 1971. Since the district does not report to the legislature until later, we are hardly in a position to be "legislative salesmen," even if that were the contract assignment, whitch it sin't.

The contract, as far as our fees are concerned, is for time spent of principals, staff, and consultants not to exceed $42,250. It could well come in lower. The $47,750 cited in the editorial is for the not-to-exceed figure plus the maximum out-of-pocket expenses, which we charge at cost. . .

The I-J has always spoken for the broadest possible public participation in the district's planning. It was the district's purpose to make this possible through a comprehensive public information program.

Reinecke Reception Attendance Higher

I hope that the story of the attendance at the reception to Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke on Oct. 15 at Dominic's Restaurant was in error and not intentional.

May I say that I sold tickets and collected 213 tickets from those attending, not counting teen-agers of whom there were many present.

I do not agree with the story that there was only 150 persons present.

Reader Uptight Over Headline

On page 13 of the Oct. 16 I-J you carried a UPI story from Sacramento under the head, "Herbicide Makers Must Call Back Deadly, 2,4,5-T."

First of all, 2,4,5-T is not "deadly" and nowhere in the text of the story does it state, or is it even implied that it is deadly.

Some irresponsible (or dedicated?) I-J editor took it upon himself to designate it as "deadly" when he wrote the heading. Why? . . .

For a quarter of a century or more, 2,4,5-T has been a highly effective, economical and totally safe boone to mankind. In Marin County it has saved taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in weed and brush control, and untold suffering as the primary weapon against poison oak. In the range country throughout the world, and particularly in the western United States, it has saved hundreds of millions of dollars in the cost of producing beef and sheep, by controlling scrub brush, weeds and poisonous plants, to say nothing of deer and other wildlife, erosion control and control of forest fires. In all of these years and all of this use, it has never been incriminated in any animal or human harm.

The experiments to which your article refers were carried on in highly unrealistic laboratory conditions, sponsored and executed by people who are members of the mystic back-to-nature and starvation cults who are out to "get" chemicals . . .

The I-J is fond of flapping and crowing about its journalistic purity and is forever patting itself on the back about its unbiased reporting and editing. Nothing could be farther from the truth. As a matter of fact, sir, when you manufacture headlines like this one, you are not only lying to your readers, you are playing the tune of those who want to destroy America as we know it, and realize (much more than the rest of us) that the most vulnerable spot our country has is her food supply!

Agnew Disserves His President By Attack On Scranton Report

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew has exceeded his mandate as vice president and has rendered a serious disservice to his President and to his country.

He has done this by his inaccurate and extravagant criticism of the report on the President's Commission on Campus Unrest headed by former Gov. William Scranton.

The duty of Spiro Agnew is to be the vice president — never anything more.

For a vice president to underperform is understandable. For a vice president to overpefrom by acting to make his voice the voice of the President before the President has spoken is improper, imprudent and dangerous.

When policy has not been established by the President, the vice president must not even attempt to establish it.

To do so means pre-empting the duty and authority of the President. it can only lead to confusion in the country, division in the administration and a public opinion wondering who is President.

It has done so already. it is a grave mistake for Agnew to have made.

HERE ARE the circumstances:

The vice president began to attack the report of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest before Mr. Nixon had an opportunity to read it. The report was put into the President's hands on a Saturday afternoon and Mr. Nixon had to leave the next day for Europe.

Agnew pursued his course while the President was out of the country.

He spoke so continuously and so vehemently against the commission report that he established an administration posture of disdain and hostility toward it before the President had any opportunity to speak for himself.

Agnew could not fail to know that the public would assume he was expounding administration views because in the past it had been well established that, while his rhetoric was his own, his views faithfully reflected the President's.

This makes Agnew's attacks more careless and improper. There had been no opportunity for the President to decide what position he wanted to take.

So Agnew took it for him.

This is no way to deal with one of the most sensitive, critical issues in the nation.

This is no way to deal with a report by a commission initiated by the President and appointed by the President.

This is no way to run a government.

ACTUALLY Vice President Agnew began exceeding his mandate when he publicly challenged the wisdom of the President in appointing Joseph Rhodes, a 23-year-old Harvard junior fellow, as a member of the nine-man commission. Agnew argued Rhodes was too committed to the left to do a useful job.

But Richard Nixon wanted the commission to represent a wide spectrum of opinion and he stood by the decision to name Rhodes.

Warning: when the vice president, who has no authority and no responsibility to create policy in any form, publicly disagrees with the President, something is wrong.

President Nixon, young Rhodes and the Scranton Commission say the same thing:

Nixon: "Violence and terror have no place in a free society whatever the purported cause."

Rhodes: "The terrorists must be stopped. If we students don't clean it up, the government will do it for us."

Commission: "Criminal acts by students must be treated as such wherever they occur and whatever their purpose."

Vice President Agnew means to be loyal to the President. But in shouting his distortions of the Scranton Report he has made it harder for Mr. Nixon to further the healing initiative needed to bring about a reconciliation, not with the violent minority but with the great majority of students who, however impatient and restless, spurn violence.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

At Climax Of Season, It Pays To 'Poll The Polls'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — With political campaigning at its peak and congressional elections less than two weeks away, the season of the pollsters is fully upon us.

Now each political claim is buttressed by at least one poll. More often than not, at this stage of the game, new polls are being compared with old polls, and the results are being examined for new portents.

Some of the "polls" are simply straw votes — a collection of views gathered at random — and sometimes they have a history of reliability. Some of the polls are meticulously conducted, in a carefully selected voter sample, to minimize the chance of error.

In this final phase of an election campaign it is often true that the race itself — the candidates, the positions expressed by the candidates and the neighborhoods in which they are appearing have all been determined, to a large degree, by polling.

For example, it has been rather widely reported that Arthur J. Goldberg, the former Supreme Court justice, would not have been nominated as the Democratic candidate for governor of New York if an early poll last winter had not shown him running well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at that time.

AT ITS CLIMAX the season of the pollster can be pretty confusing. Here are some tests which can be applied to published polls and to candidate claims of political polling successes. The questions were recently circulated by Opinion Research Corp., one of the old polling organizations:

— Who was polled? Did they represent all eligible adults, or just those who plan to vote? Just Republicans? Just Democrats? Voters in key areas?

— How many people were interviewed? All polls have some error due to sampling. That error can be reduced by a larger number of interviews, but large numbers do not guarantee accurate results.

— When did the polling take place? Occasionally an interval of a few weeks between polling and publishing can make date with respect to opinions about a candidate obsolete.

— How were the people selected for polling? The professional pollsters say the people polled should be selected in accordance with a probability sampling so that the sample polled will reflect the mathematical probability of the total electorate involved.

— HOW WAS the polling conducted? Telephone polls exclude people who do not have telephones. Questionaires submitted by mail may not be returned, and the sampling method will then be impaired.

— How were questions worded? Opinion Research says this is another important factor when results of two or more polls are compared.

— Were special statistical techniques employed? For example, how was the undecided vote handled? Was it recorded as such, split evenly among the candidates, weighted in accordance with those who expressed a preference?

Opinion Research says it is also good to know who conducted a poll and cautions that date released without such a source should be "viewed with suspicion."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Water District 'Going Computer' For Billings And Storage Data

Beginning around the first of next year, residents of the Marin Municipal Water District will no longer have that pesty little postcard coming in the mail every two months letting them know how much they owe the district for water.

The district will still be sending bills, of course, but it will switch to an envelope billing system which should be more convenient for the consumer and more efficient for the district.

The new billing system will be similar to that of Pacific Telephone Co. Consumers will receive a computer-printed bill, a computer punched card, and a return envelope.

The customer will keep the bill and return the card, along with payment, to the district.

With the postcard billing system now used by the district, consumers must supply their own envelopes to mail in their bills.

The envelope system also will allow the water district to include with its bills information or notices of importance to consumers, as the telephone company and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. do.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said the district is not planning to include other materials with its bills, but the new system will at least open the possibility.

The system will require less clerical work by the district's staff, and the saving of one clerk's $5,000 annual salary will partially offset the $10,000 increase in supplies and postage, he said. The one-cent increase, from five to six cents, in postage on each bill will cost the district approximately $3,000 a year.

Another computer-oriented program being worked out at the water district is its centralized control system.

Already the water status in the district's major storage tanks and several of its main transmission lines is fed into the distCocoffvukfc at the office indicate the water levels in the tanks and the amount of water flowing in various pipelines.

Ultimately most of the district's storage tanks, including smaller distribution tanks, and water lines will be hooked into the system so that engineers in the district office will be able to see instantly water levels and flow throughout the system.

The ultimate plan, Seeger said, calls for the information to be fed into a computer which will print out every 15 minutes or so the status of the whole Marin Municipal Water District system.

With the information and controls to be installed at the office, the district will increase its control over water levels and pressure throughout the district.

Instead of learning from an angry consumer about a water shortage in particular area during a hot spell, the district will be able to see the heavy consumption in particular areas and reroute water, automatically, to where it is needed, he explained.

As with the new billing system, Seeger said, the complete centralized control plan will provide better service to the consumer and allow the district more efficient control over its own system.

Sonoma's U.N. Observance Set

The 25th anniversary of the United Nations will be observed in Sonoma County with a banquet Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Sonoma State College cafeteria.

Dr. Cheryl Petersen, chairman of the college division of social sciences, will give the main address on "The Model United Nations Program in Schools and College." She has served as adviser to the Sonoma State Model United Nations club since 1967.

Acting Sonoma State President Earl W. Jones and Sonoma County Superior Court Judge John Moskowitz also are scheduled to speak.

11 Receptions Slated For Smallman In Marin

Eleven receptions for Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge, will be held throughout Marin during the next nine days.

They will be:

Tomorrow — 8 p.m. at the Terra Linda home of Richard Less, 683 Las Colindas Road.

Saturday — 4 to 6 p.m. at the Novato home of Edward Grundstrom, 100 Old Ranch Road, and 8 p.m. at the Marin City home of Juanita Cobb, 31 Burgess Court. This also is a buffet dinner.

Monday — 10:30 a.m. at the Greenbrae home of William Ecker, 265 Bretano Way, and 1 p.m. at the San Quentin home of Eugene Ziemer, House 73.

Oct. 27 — 10:30 a.m. at the Santa Venetia home of Raymond Kirner, 108 Hawthorne Way, and 1 p.m. at the San Rafael home of John Semorile, 11 Constance Drive.

Oct. 28 — 10 a.m. at the Tiburon home of E.R. Jerome Jr., 4903 Ranch Road, and 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera home of Frank Moncrief, 4 Fairview Avenue.

Spain's Salary From District

Robert E. Spain, whose name was misspelled Oct. 19 when the Independent-Journal published the Sausalito School District's payroll, should not have been listed as an employee of the district.

Spain, an administrative officer with the Marin County Schools Office which pays his $18,930 salary, is on loan to the Sausalito district interim superintendent. The district has $25,000 budgeted, from which to pay a new superintendent when one is chosen.

James T. Toliver Jr., listed as special teacher in the district, should have been identified as special assistant at a salary of $14,773.

Youths Spur State Board To Review Teacher Tenure

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Because of a couple of 17-year-olds, the California State Board of Education may come up with some suggestions for revising teacher tenure laws.

The teen-agers are Barbara Marshment and Bruce Lymburn. Miss Marshment was named a non-voting "observer member" of the state board last year "to bridge the generation gap." Young Lymburn succeeded her this summer.

In February, Miss Marshment suggested the state board undertake a review of the tenure laws. Board members gave her proposal only polite interest.

At the board's October meeting, however, young Lymburn brought up the subject again, as a result of a petition by 800 San Diego residents that something be done about teacher tenure. Board member Jean Ritchie of Menlo Park then urged the review be given top priority. And this time the board acted, putting it on the agenda for the November meeting.

TEACHER TENURE has been a thorny issue for years, and most school district trustees think something should be done about it — though very few of them have tried to do anything.

California's basic teacher tenure law was enacted in 1941. It provided that when a teacher was re-hired for the fourth year in the same district, he would hold the job automatically from then on, unless dismissed for one of a short series of stated causes.

From time to time since then, the law has been tightened. Major revisions in 1951 made dismissal of a tenured teacher next to impossible without going to court. Three years later, "probationary teachers" — those with less than three years service in the same district — were placed under the same protection except that no automatic court review was included.

TEACHER organizations — both the California Teachers Association and the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers — are adamantly against any reversal of the process of ever-tighter tenure protection. A half dozen tenure bills were killed in committee in this year's legislature.

There have been various proposals for modifying the tenure laws. One of the commonest is to provide for "administrative review" of the teacher's performance every few years. Some states have such a law, however, and it doesn't work. The New York State School Board's Association, in urging repeal of that state's tenure law last year, pointed out that its "administrative review" provision was a dead letter.

A SIMPLE WAY to do away with lifetime tenure while still providing what should be adequate job protection for anyone competent to teach might be this:

Hire the new teacher on a one-year contract, renewable for one year at the option of the employer (the district school board). Continue such one-year contracts for the first three years of a teacher's employment in the district.

If the teacher is re-hired for the fourth year, give him a five-year contract. Make the contract renewable for five-year periods thereafter, until the teacher reaches retirement age. Renewal at the end of any five-year period would be at the option of the board.

This would give the district up to three years to decide whether a teacher was worth keeping indefinitely. And it would mean the teacher could not just take things easy once he was re-hired for the fourth year, because his contract would be for five years rather than for life.

No competent person should object to a five-year contract. Very few outside the education field ever receive one that long.

Halloween Dance Is Being Cancelled

A Halloween dance, sponsored by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club, scheudled for Saturday night, has been canceled, according to Jack Adams, club publicity chairman.

Adams said a dearth of reservations for the event led to the cancellation.

UNCOVERING THE FACTS TO AID YOU AT THE POLLS

Trying to choose a course in the coming election of November 3rd is like trying to choose a new car. So many "makes," so many "models," so many aspects of performance. Which?

To enlighten you on issues and candidates I-J editors and reporters are doing what a newspaper is best-equipped to do: keep you thoroughly informed.

This takes exploration, persistent questioning of candidates on all legislative levels. It requires research and the trained objective attitude which can separate political puffery from objective fact.

It requires a knowledge of grass roots and a surveying eye on the lofty spires of higher office. And above all, a committment to put this in writing as accurately as possible that all may see and understand.

The I-J editorial page then, is a lens to help you bring into focus the wide and often confusing political spectrum. But it is not meant to persuade; rather to provoke thought and intelligent action. Witness the writers and cartoonists of varying political persuasions whose work appears there.

We urge you to read, to carefully weigh the political facts and opinions of today. For only through independent choice can you, at the polls, preserve what polls are for: the preservation of political independence. A small enough price for freedom.

Today is Wednesday Oct. 21, the 294th day of 1970.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1879 Thomas Edison invented a workable electric incandescent lamp after 14 months of experiments.

In 1917 soldiers of the First Division became the first American troops to see action in World War I.

In 1966 a coal-waste slide buried the Welsh mining town of Aberfan. Two days later 135 bodies had been found.

In 1967 Egypt sank the Israeli destroyer Elath in the Mediterranean.

A thought for today: Albert Payson Terhune said, "Win without boasting, lose without excuse."

Spraying Held Killing Wasps

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE — In a pine forest at Lake Tahoe scientists are probing what may be a classic case of environmental disruption involving insects, trees, and people.

Along the south shore of the lake, where Jeffrey and lodgepole pines shelter thousands of cabins and mountain homes, trees on about 10,000 acres are speckled with a small, sedentary, juice-sucking insect pest — the pine needle scale.

Repeated spraying may well have wiped out the tiny wasp parasites that normally keep pine needle scale under control," says University of California Entomologist Richard Garcia.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Correct Play Of The Diamods Depends Finding Queen Of Spades

Little things have big results. The history of the world would be different if Cleopatra's nose had been one inch longer. The correct play of the diamonds in today's hand depends on what happens to the queen of spades. (I'll bet you didn't know how I was going to get from Cleopatra to a bridge hand.)

LOW SPADE

West led the three of spades, and declarer put up the queen of spades. East won with the ace and returned the ten. South held up the king and won the third round of spades.

Now it would be fatal to let West win a diamond trick since he would take the rest of the spades. It would not be dangerous to let East win a diamond, since he would be unable to return a spade.

RIDE AS FINESSE

South therefore led the jack of diamonds and let it ride as a finese. As the cards lay, the finese worked. South led a low diamond to dummy's nine, continued with the king and then took the rest of his trick, making one spade, two hearts, five diamonds and two clubs for a total of 10 tricks.

Even if East had held the queen of diamonds, South would have taken nine tricks and his game contract.

DIFFERENT STORY

There would have been a different story to tell if the queen of spades had won the first trick. Then it would have been clear that West had led from a spade suit headed by the ace.

In this situation it would be fatal to let East win a diamond trick. But it would be safe to let West win a diamond since West could not safely continue the attack on spades.

THROUGH EAST

Declarer would then take the king of diamonds and lead the nine of diamonds for a fineses through East.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ Q 6
♥ A 10 6 5
♦ K 9 8
♣ K 8 7 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club or pass.

This is a borderline hand. Most experts would bid if there were two low spades with an extra queen in one of the other suits since a queen has more value when accompanied by a king or ace of the same suit. An item in favor of bidding is the presence of a ten, a nine and two eights. You don't count points for such intermediate cards, but you are often influenced to bid a borderline hand that contains them.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Hold EMI Stock For Future Appreciation

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold a few thousand Shares were split two-for-one Industries, bought in 1960 at 7. shares were split two-for-one jn 1964 and I added to them. I am elderly and wonder if I should now sell. — E.H. Q. I have 100 shares of EMI at 6⅞. Would you hold or sell these?

A. Capitol Industries, 72 per cent owned by EMI, has been the most vigorously growing of this British holding company's subsidiaries. EMI, through its various holdings, is the world's largest manufacturer of phonograph records. Contracts are held with recording stars such as: the Beatles (separately), Glen Campbell, Bobby Gentry and The Band. The expansion of color TV in England will benefit EMI, which receives royalties on most color sets sold in England and also manufactures TV transmission and production equipment. Subsidiary company, Associated British Pictures, acquired in 1969, operated below capacity and therefore penalized earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1970. Althuogh results have not yet been published it is generally thought that earnings were flat year-to-year in spite of a sizeable increase in sales. Shares should be held for medium to long-term probable appreciation.

Q. I guess I am lucky. I bought Champion Homes last summer when you recommended it and now have a fast 10-point profit. Should I take it or hold for a better gain? — E. G.

A. There are many compelling arguments in favor of holding this issue. However, shares will probably not continue in an uninterrupted climb. Champion reported record high sales and earnings for their second quarter ended August 31. For the six months, earnings were 80 cents a share up 33 per cent year-to-year on a 21 per cent gain in sales. Backlog is up, indicating an equally satisfying performance in the final half. Champion's lower priced homes have particular appeal for young newlyweds and retired couples — growing segments of the buying public. Short covering has been instrumental in the sharp price rise in recent trading sessions.

Earnings Report Held In Error

CINCINNATI (UPI) — KDI Corp., a diversified producer of computer and industrial electronic and electric products, educational products and swimming pools, says its recently-reported first half earnings statement may have been erroneous.

The company also said it plans to sell or otherwise dispose of subsidiaries that are unprofitable or short of working capital.

On Sept. 3, KDI reported net income of $1,193,000 of 20 cents per share, plus a $38,000 tax credit, for the six months ended June 30 on sales totaling $67,793,000..

The company now says its accountants have indicated the report may contain errors that would substantially reduce, or perhaps eliminate, the reported earnings.

Garment Waste

NEW YORK (UPI) — The garment industry in the United States wastes about $150 million a year in cutting errors and other production inefficiencies, management consultant Emanual Weintraub says. He told a meeting of the Infants and Childrens Wear Association the fabric losses caused by mistakes alone run to 2 to 6 per cent of the yardage purchased.

Marin Home Sales Jump By 143 In Past Summer, Realtors Report

An upswing in Marin home sales this summer has been reported by W. Bruce Shafer, president of the Marin County Board of Realtors.

During the four months, June through September, a total of 978 homes totaling $36,569,602 was reported sold under multiple listings. This compared with 835 homes valued at $28,960,845 during the same period in 1969.

Shafer looks on this as an indication that real estate is pulling out of the recession period. He foresees something like a record windup in home sales by the end of this year, with mortgage loans becoming more available at somehwat lower interest rates.

Airlines See $58 Million Loss So Far

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's airlines have painted a gloomy picture of sharply declining revenues and predicted the industry would show "a net loss at the end of 1970."

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the major scheduled airlines, said preliminary data indicated the 12 major airlines had a loss of $58 million for the first six months of 1970 — "the worst half year results in history."

The loss is expected to be cut to about $16 million by the end of the year.

The ATA said nine regional airlines and the three scheduled cargo airlines also would record a loss for the year.

United, the nation's largest airline, said it planned to drop 156 departures a day starting Oct. 25. Trans World said it planned to cut its schedule by 9 per cent.

In a statement, the ATA said the economic downturn "has had a particularly severe impact upon the airline industry."

Passenger growth, which averaged 17 per cent annually between 1963 and 1968, "is expected to drop to a very nominal growth of about 2 per cent" at the end of the year, ATA said.

As a result of combined passenger and freight losses, airline revenues will be $1.2 billion less than if traffic growth had continued at 1963-1968 levels, the group said.

Franchised Foods Eating Into Total

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) —Americans will spend about $124 billion for food and beverages this year, and meals at "franchised fast food outlets" will account for between $5 and $6 billion of the total, according to Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., research, engineering and management consulting firm.

"Drive-in restaurants with a limited menu and little service have grown from about a half-billion dollars in sales 10 years ago, and are expected to reach $11 or $12 billion in the next five years.

Late Slide Wipes Out Early Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) —A late downtrend wiped out most of an early advance on the New York Stock Exchange Friday. Trading was moderate.

Shortly before the close, advances were leading declines, 621 to 609 after holding more than a 2-to-1 bulge during the morning.

Turnover amounted to around 11,000,000 shares, compared with 10,630,000 shares traded Tuesday.

Closing prices included: American Telegraph & Telephone 43 3-8 off 1-4; Bethlehem Steel 21 3-8 off 3-8; Chrysler 24 5-8 up 1-4; DuPont 119 1-2 up 1-2; Ford 50 3-8 off 3-8; General Electric 85 up 1 1-8; General Motors 71 1-4 off 1-4; and IBM 288 7-8 off 2 1-4.

Electronics and oils moved in both directions, while steels, motors, chemicals, rails aircrafts and most airlines traded in fractions.

Polaroid came under pressure following a lower nine-month earnings statement Tuesday.

Among the day's most active issues were Roan Selection Trust, which traded an early block of 100,000 shares at 4 7-8 off 1-8; Telex Corp., Control Data, General Telephone, Natomas, University Computing, and Diamond International.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

San Francisco: Trade Sales Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco still leads the nine-county bay r n in wholesale trade sales b the percentage has substantially slipped during the past six years, the Bay Area Council reports.

Council figures showed San Francisco County sales at $6.7 billion during 1969, or 40 per cent of the total. However, this was a drop from 1963, when the central city recorded 47 per cent of the wholesale activity.

San Mateo County made the biggest gains from 1963, climbing from 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the area's total sales, or to $3.4 billion.

Ranked between San Francisco and San Mateo is Alameda County, which has consistently remained constant at 23 per cent of $3.8 billion.

The total trades sales in the nine counties amounted to $16.8 billion during 1969. Other counties, by order of greatest percentage of sale were, Santa Clara (4 per cent); Contra Costa (3.6 per cent); Sonoma (1.0 per cent); Marin (.9 per cent); Solano (.4 per cent); and Napa (.2 per cent).

TREATMENT OF CHILDREN

Use Of 'Speed' Brings Many Unfounded Charges

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

A strongly and widely held medical opinion holds it is sound practice to medicate some overly active children with amphetamines, the drug called "speed."

There never was anything secret about it. That is why doctors were astonished by the sudden clamor of indignation originating in Omaha, Neb., which spread to Congress and other nonmedical places and keeps on sputtering.

"Speed" WAS being prescribed by duly qualified physicians for a number of Omaha children. The fact came to light in the press, and up went such emotional and unfounded charges as:

Children were being "drugged into conformity;" teachers were conspiring with doctors to "control" disruptive childish behavior with drugs rather than discipline; doctors and teachers were sanctioning drug abuse by children.

Privately, doctors were dismayed. It seemed that public concern over drug abuse among youths was being directed at the wrong target—themselves. Publicly, they hastened to explain how "speed" or another mind drug greatly benefits some overly active children when properly administered as medicine.

These are children who in extreme cases are overly active destructively and aggressively through all their days and far into most of their nights. They're easily frustrated and react angrily. Because almost anything will distract them, their attention span is so short they're largely uneducable.

Medically it is an illness, "minimal brain dysfunction" or "hyperkinetic syndrome." The belief is that it is due to an uneven maturing of the many control centers of the brain. Though the brain is fully functioning (many of the children have normal and even superior intelligence), its built-in system of controls is out of kilter.

Health authorities estimate that at least 300,000 American children are handicapped in varying degrees by the "hyperkinetic syndrome." The number being treated with an amphetamine or methylphenidate (trade name Ritalin) is not known but it has to be substantial because any doctor will prescribe one or the other drug as a matter of course, as he prescribes an antibiotic for infection.

Until the late 30s there was little physicians could do for the hyperkinetic child. Usually the child outgrew the disorder, presumably when all brain control centers matured fully, but by then he was a psychological cripple and had missed out on an education.

In the 30s medical scientists discovered, largely by accident, that drugs which stimulate the central nervous system, such as the amphetamines and methylphenidate seemed to permit the victims of "minimal brain dysfunction" to exercise rational control over their physical activity.

There is no hard scientific explanation how a drug that stimulates everyone else calms the hyperkinetic child but the theoretical explanation is that it stimulates higher and still immature brain centers into exercising normal control over the secondary centers.

Drs. C. Keith Connors of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and Leon Eisenberg of Harvard Medical School proved the effectiveness of stimulant treatment. By the 1960s it had been established in medical practice as "the treatment of choice."

One of the physicians who came to the defense of the Omaha doctors was E. L. Linger of Union Protestant Hospital, Clarksburg, W. Va. In a letter to the local newspaper Linger said:

"I know whereof I speak. My wife and I have a child with the hyperkinetic syndrome and he now leads a nearly normal life with the use of medication daily."

Medical statistics show that 60 to 80 per cent of such afflicted children were helped either by methylphenidate or an amphetamine. There is no cure, but their impulsiveness and scatterbrain activities, which kept them in constant trouble with other children, parents and teachers, were curbed.

Diagnosis must be exact before a drug is prescribed, and then it must be prescribed with precision to avoid addiction and other side effects. This means the doctor must keep close watch over the patient during the entire period of treatment, until all brain control centers are matured.

This reporter was unable to find a physician opposed to the treatment, even among psychoanalytic psychiatrists who are reputed (incorrectly) to oppose any approach to mind disorders which is not purely psychological.

Dr. Mortimer Ostow of New York says the drugs are "the best thing you can do for the hyperkinetic child and anything you can do to keep him in school and avoid further psychological complications, you certainly should do."

Yet the controversy continues. Dr. Carlos Carrillo complained in a letter to the editor of the New York Review of Books that one of its nonmedical writers had termed diagnosis of minimal brain dysfunction and treatment as "currently fashionable quackery." In reply the writer dismissed Carrillo's argument and demanded to know "in whose interest is it to diagnose and treat children this way?"

Rep. Cronelius E. Gallagher, D-.J., chairman of a congressional subcommittee, also remains unconvinced. His view is that the drugs were used without sufficient research, particularly into what the longterm effects might be.

Dr. Edward F. Ziegler, a psychologist who is director of the federal government's new agency for child health and human development, entered the controversy by saying he was "afraid many teachers are utilizing this as a way out of difficulties in the classroom."

Teachers, Ziegler said, should realize that behavioral problems of children can come from "the kind of schoolroom that children have to adjust to rather than what is wrong with their brains."

Ziegler plans to convene a panel of scientists and practicing doctors to instruct physicians and educators on what drugs can be used in what children to achieve specific, beneficial ends.

But doctors feel they already know. Their spokesmen at the height of the uproar emphasized that before prescribing "speed" or methylphenidate, a doctor should be positive of his diagnosis of minimal brain dysfunction. The diagnostic criteria have been repeated in medical journals for years.

Bids Sought On Guardrails

Bids for guardrail modifications and installation of new guardrail on a section of Highway 101 in Northern Marin and Southern Sonoma counties have been called for by the State Department of Public Works.

Bids for the project, estimated to cost $58,000, will be opened in Sacramento Nov. 18.

The section of highway is from a point 2.3 miles north of Atherton Avenue in Novato to the Todd Road overpass about 1.2 miles north of Rohnert Park.

Adlai III Takes On New Look In Final Weeks Of Campaigning

By TONY FULLER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— At a recent cocktail party, Adlai E. Stevenson III put his arm around a young girl reporter and in mock seriousness said, "I'm putting you in charge of closing the generation gap in my campaign."

Such a remark might have gone unnoticed as just some more election year talk except that it was Stevenson, state treasurer of Illinois and Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, who made it.

It was not Stevenson's style —at least not that of the "old Stevenson." Many Democraic pros hope it was a manifestation of the "new Stevenson style" —a mixture of aggressiveness, informality and spontaneity.

Stevenson is locked in a heated race with Sen. Ralph T. Smith. Smith is a pro, if a neophyte senator. He went to Washington from the majority leadership of the Illinois House by gubernatorial appointment upon the death of Everett M. Dirksen. Now, Smith has to earn the job on his own.

It is no secret that, during the early stages of the campaign, Stevenson's patrician, reticent —some called it "cold" —manner bothered his managers.

He would appear at rallies in his rumpled Brooks' brothers suit, looking uncomfortable and greeting the folks almost inaudibly.

His speeches tended to be abstract, dealing with governmental concept, and often were delivered in a voice that approached a monotone.

By contrast, Smith, a smooth veteran of the state legislature from Alton, Ill., appeared perfectly at home in a crowd, exchanging pleasantries about the town big wigs. Then he would lace into Stevenson about crime, violence and campus disorders.

But at the Democratic state convention last month, Stevenson made a speech which started all the talk of a "new" Stevenson.

The son of the former Illinois governor and ambassador to the United Nations lashed out at Smith as a "right-wing extremist" who, he charged, has run a campaign of "distortion and innuendo."

The speech, in podium-thumping fashion, brought Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's legion of party faithful to their feet in an emotional, four-minute standing ovation. Stevenson had not heard that sort of applause since the campaign began. He seemed to like it.

Since then, Stevenson has appeared far more comfortable greeting the voters.

In his speeches, he has been talking tough—as has Smith.

In small groups and in their relationships with the press, the two candidates provide a marked contrast.

In conversation, Stevenson tends to be distant, often gazing past the person he is speaking to. At times he seems somewhat weary.

Smith speaks rapidly in the confidential tones of a state house professional. He seems intent on not becoming ruffled and chainsmokes.

Neither seems to like news conferences.

Stevenson, if the questioning takes a hostile tone, assumes an air of resignation, and his voice trails off.

In situations of stress at a news conference, Smith's upper lip breaks out in perspiration and anger tingles his voice.

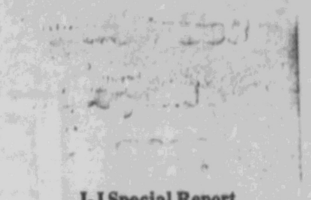
Whether because of a heightened image, or other factors, Stevenson has come out on the winning side in the initial finds of Illinois' most prestigious public opinion surveys, the straw poll published by the Chicago-Sun Times.

The poll this week showed Stevenson holding a substantial lead in bellwether Rock Island County, 54.7 per cent to 45.3 per cent, and running ahead of Smith in usually Republican Chicago suburbs, 51.7 per cent to 48.3 per cent.

In Democratic Chicago, Stevenson rolled over Smith, 66.9 per cent to 33.1 per cent.

Quick-Dry Cement

CAIRO (UPI) — A professor at Cairo's Ein Shams University claims he has discovered a quick-dry type of cement. Professor Raouf Shaker said the cement, used to build airport runways, air raid shelters and missile bases, could be in use a half hour after it was cast.



I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Only two of the nine candidates seeking state office in Marin County have filed statements of campaign contributions over $500.

The two are Ernest N. Kettenhofen of Sleepy Hollow, Republican nominee for state Board of Equalization in the Third District, and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, Democratic nominee for state Senate.

Kettenhofen reported receiving $25,947 in contributions over $500, and Peevey reported $2,000. Candidates are not required to file reports for contributions of $500 or less, thus those candidates who did not file presumable had no contributions over $500.

The totals reported by Kettenhofen and Peevey thus also did not include contributions of $500 or less. The reports on political contributions are due both before and after each election.

(Candidates for local public office also are required to report contributions over $500, but no report was filed by any local candidate in Marin.)

Kettenhofen's contributors were listed as follows: loans to campaign committee, $15,000; Good Government Committee, $1,000; anonymous, $1,000; Forrest E. Anderson, $1,000; anonymous, $1,987; Commerce Service Corp., $1,000, and R.F. Ingold, trustee, $4,960.

The finance chairman of Kettenhofen's campaign, Melville Owen of Kentfield, said that the $15,000 was a bank loan to start the campaign. The two anonymous contributions were cashiers checks, he said.

Owen declined to elaborate on the identification of the other contributors listed on the report.

Peevey reported receiving $1,000 from the Marin Committee on Political Education, political arm of the AFL-CIO, and $1,000 from the California State Alliance Legislation Defense Fund. Peevey's headquarters identified the fund as "a union fund," but could not identify which union. The law bars labor unions from making political contributions, but allows them to set up committees to make such contributions.

Also filing, but reporting no contribution over $500, were Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee for state Senate of the American Independent Party, and Teresa E. Mortara, nominee of the AIP for State Board of Equalization. The third candidate for the board, Democratic nominee William M. Bennett of Kentfield, did not file.

Also not filing were Peter H. Behr, GOP nominee for state Senate, and all three candidates for state Assembly, Republican William T. Bagley, Democrat Joseph A. Forest and Glenn Bernd, nominee of the AIP.

Equipment Stolen

Radio equipment valued at $4,900 was taken by burglars who broke into station KDFC atop Mount Beacon near Sausalito Friday night, sheriff's officers said yesterday.

Drop In Rice

HONG KONG (UPI) — The consumption of rice in Hong Kong has been declining since 1963. A government spokesman said a more varied diet has resulted from improved living conditions.

1970 BUICK SKYLARKS Air Conditioned $3495

Here are three little Skylark 2-Dr. hardtops that we have used here at Don Collins Buick during the past year.

Brand new '70 Skylark coupes with comparable equipment such as air conditioning, power steering, V-8 engine, radio, heater, tinted glass, deluxe wheel covers, white wall tires and vinyl interiors that sold new for over $4300.

These three cars — each with slightly over 5,000 miles — are absolutely spotless inside and out. If they didn't have our license plates on these cars — you couldn't tell them from new.

The purchaser of any of these '70 Buicks picks up 4-years and 44,000 miles of the GM new car warranty. Two of these cars are gold and one is chocolate brown and all have contrasting light beige vinyl interiors. 0Z107183, 0Z107173, 0Z107182.

Legal Notice

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENT BOND NO. 18, MARIN GOLF & COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES UNIT NO. 4, SERIES 6060, FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN THE COUNTY OF MARIN,

State of California Default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons, 1-2-67 PRIN. $570.00, 1-2-68 PRIN. $570.00, 1-2-69 PRIN. $570.00, 1-2-70 PRIN. $570.00, 1-2-70 INT. $17.10 and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, State of California, proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, Now, therefore, I give notice that I will on the 6th day of November, 1970, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. of said day, sell at public auction, the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at my office in the Marin County Civic Center at San Rafael, California, unless the amount due or said bond and the accrued interest thereon together with the cost of publication of this notice are paid, and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid principa and interest on said bond together with the cost of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit:

LOT NO. 159, AS SHOWN ON THAT CERTAIN MAP ENTITLED "MARIN GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES UNIT NO.4," WHICH SAID MAP WAS FILED IN THE OFFICE OF THE COUNTY RECORDER OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN ON THE 31ST DAY OF DECEMBER, 1959 IN LIBER 10 OF MAPS, AT PAGE 48 THEREOF.

The amount due on said bond up to the date of this notice is as follows: due on the principal thereof $2,280.00; due on account of interest $660.69; due on account of penalties $663.03; total amount due on said bond $3,603.77.

In order to avoid this sale, payment of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of amounts due, principal, interest, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due, accruing up to the date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and $1.00 for the issuance of certificate of sale.

The Independent-Journal is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

Two Scouts To Be Elevated To Eagles

Two members of Boy Scout Troop 59 of Greenbrae will be elevated to the rank of Eagle Scout at a Court of Honor at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Redwood High School.

James Kopp, 16, and Michael Roush, 14, and both students at Redwood.

Kopp is a junior at the school and is a member of the swimming team and plays the trumpet in the school's stage band and orchestra. He is also interested in amateur radio activities.

He has been in scouting four years and lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, at 190 Via Lerida, Greenbrae.

Roush is a freshman at Redwood and a member of the freshman football team and the chess club. He also enjoys swimming and hiking.

He has been a scout three years and lives with his parents, Col. and Mrs. John H. Roush Jr., at 27 Terrace Avenue, Kentfield.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Deer Hunting A Risky Business If Alcohol Or Old Age Involved

Van Dellen

Hunting deer is a risky and frequently murderous pastime. It is not advisable unless every man in the group is sure of himself, his gun, and — most of all — his target.

Avoid hunting with a person who is so anxious to bag a deer he will blow off half of a man's head with a squeeze of the trigger. The hunter may wound or kill himself, but more often his victim is a stranger, close friend or relative. Sons have been known to accidentally kill fathers and vice versa.

DEFECTIVE GUNS, poor visibility and fatigue are blamed for hunting accidents, but these are meaningless excuses to the man's widow. She receives no consolation when the individual vows never to hunt or own a gun again.

Carelessness, ignorance or overconfidence usually are at fault. The situation is so bad, many guides and game wardens wonder why more hunters are not shot every season.

ALL DEER hunters should follow the well-known rules of handling firearms. Alcohol and gunpowder do not mix. This means absolutely no liquor, not even a can of beer.

Fluorescent orange of yellow clothing is more easily seen. Orange is best because it provides an ideal contrast to the environment. A small red ribbon on the hat is not enough. Never pull the trigger if there is the slightest chance that a fellow hunter is in the line of fire.

Deer hunting is work, and many hunters succumb to heart attacks. This means that anyone over 60 should think twice before he starts out on a trek of this nature. The sport is hard on the old ticker, especially when the weather is cold and snowy. Anyone in this age group is flirting with trouble when he drags a dead animal for yards or miles.

GRAY MATTER OF BRAIN

S.C.G. writes: I know that gray matter is supposed to cover a small part of the brain, but when this spreads over the entire organ, what disorders, if any, could result?

REPLY

The entire brain is composed of white and gray matter. Gray matter does not increase, grow, or spread. A possible exception is a brain tumor that is composed mainly of gray matter. The term gray matter also is used to describe brains or intellect.

GANGLION ON WRIST

D.T. writes: I have a ganglion on my wrist. It doesn't bother me but I wondered if it should be removed?

REPLY

Unless these lesions are bothersome or unslightly, they can be let alone. On the other hand, they are easily eliminated via an injection of a corticosteroid or surgery. In the past, treatment involved whacking the ganglion with the family Bible.

CAUSES OF PILES

REPLY

No. Infection or irritation of the anal canal is the commonest cause of hemorrhoids. Strain and congestion of the tissues aggravate the condition. Many sufferers have an inherent weakness of the veins, causing these vessels to dilate and stretch easily.

VARICOSE VEIN SURGERY

P.T. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 65 to have an operation for varicose veins?

REPLY

Yes, and when the problem is eliminated she may feel like 50.

Two Bound Over On Marijuana

OAKHURST (UPI) — Two Nrthern California men allegedly caught with an airplane full of marijuana have been bound over to Superior Court in Madera.

Sierra Justice Court Judge Samuel Roberts ordered Michael R. Perine, Castro Valley, and Scott Kelly, Tamalpais Valley, bound over following a preliminary hearing Monday.

The two men were arrested at the Bass Lake airport Sept. 16 after their airplane landed allegedly carrying over 900 pounds of the illegal weed.

Both men are free on bail.

Mental Health Chief Selection On Monday

A permanent director of Marin Community Mental Health Center will be picked next Monday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors and Marin Hospital District Board.

County supervisors announced yesterday that a closed meeting of the two governing boards will be held at 4 p.m. Monday at the hospital to interview several finalists, including Dr. John S. Guerrant, acting director, and Dr. Eric Plaut, head of the Berkeley Community Mental Health Center.

THE PROPOSITIONS

No. 18 Most Controversial On Nov. 3 General Ballot

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE
(First of four articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California voters will face an imposing list of 20 state ballot propositions when they enter the voting booths Nov. 3. But none will be more controversial than Proposition 18.

The proposed constitutional amendment would allow local voters to decide to spend a portion of their highway construction funds for mass transit and to fight auto-caused air pollution.

Gov. Ronald Reagan and the state's giant oil companies have lined up on opposite sides of the issue. Reagan and his Democratic campaign opponent Jess Unruh both endorse the measure and the oil firms oppose it.

Proposition 18 is one of three measures on the ballot aimed at improving the environment and recreation.

Proposition 1, The Clean Water Bond Law of 1970, would authorize $250 million in bonds to help local governments fight water pollution.

Proposition 20 would authorize a $60 million bond sale to finance recreation and fish and wildlife facilities along the state Water Project.

Reagan and Unruh endorse all three propositions.

Proponents of Proposition 18 say the measure "is necessary if we are to deal with the increasingly grave problem of air pollution."

But opponents claim highway funds are already short and that rapid transit "would not noticeably reduce air pollution from automobiles" because few people would use it.

The voters' pamphlet argument for the measure is signed by Sens. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, author of the proposal; Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and Assemblyman George W. Milias, R-Gilroy.

The state Constitution now requires all gasoline taxes to be used for highway construction and maintenance.

Under Proposition 18, a city, county or transit district could, with the approval of local voters, divert into rapid transit up to 25 per cent of its share of highway construction funds.

Eight big oil companies oppose it, including Atlantic Richfield, Gulf, Humble, Mobil, Phillips, Standard, Shell and Union. The Ethyl Corp. and DuPont, makers of fuel additives, also stand opposed, along with the County Supervisors and California Taxpayers associations.

But the California Medical Association and conservationist groups including the Sierra Club, and the League of California Cities support it.

Reagan's support is based on a belief that "such a decision as this should be made by the people at the local level. And that is what the proposition is all about — allowing them to determine how such public funds as these should be spent."

Mills argues that transit systems are needed to reduce auto-caused air pollution and adds:

"We cannot solve our increasing traffic congestion problems with more freeways. Each new freeway is loaded to capacity in our urban areas the day it opens, and all of the rest of the system becomes increasingly overloaded."

He maintains, "local people should make local decisions. We should not dictate to the people of any part of California what kind of local transportation they shall have, and how their tax money shall be spent."

Proposition 18 would also make local transit systems eligible for federal matching funds under legislation passed by Congress, according to Mills.

The opposing argument is signed by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, for 20 years chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, who prides himself on being called the "father of the freeways," and by Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach.

A possible outcome of Proposition 18, they say, is that highways "will be allowed to deteriorate with resulting accidents, fatalities and congestion" and charge diversion of funds would result in higher gasoline taxes.

"Gas tax revenues are not nearly adequate to meet our present needs," they argue.

The League of Cities concedes that highway funds are short, but adds "there are no trust funds available for mass transit or the correction and prevention of all the environmental pollution caused by motor vehicles."

Proposition 1, the Clean Water Bond Law, sponsored by Reagan, has encountered no opposing arguments in the voters' pamphlet. Under it, the state could assist local governments in building sewage treatment and disposal facilities.

The state Water Resources Control Board describes the measure as "part of a federal-state-local program to construct $1 billion in new or improved waste water treatment and disposal facilities" in the next five years. It would enable California to receive an additional $550 million in federal funds for building waste water treatment facilities, according to backers.

Presently, proponents argue, the federal government provides for 30 per cent of the cost of such facilities, and local governments pay 70 per cent. But passage of the bond would mean the state provides 25 per cent, the federal government 55 per cent, and local agencies 20 per cent.

"If California does not adopt such a program, local communities will lose millions of dollars of federal funds, since future federal allocations will give preference to states with matching programs," says the state board.

Proposition 20, also proposed by Reagan, would provide for recreation and fish and wildlife facilities on the reservoirs, canals and streams of the state water project.

The statewide project to carry water from north to south has created a vast network of waterways which are "irresistible to boaters, fishermen, swimmers and other recreationists," according to the resources agency.

"The need is urgent for a major program for access, parking, camping and picknicking, boat launching, riding and hiking, fisheries and wildlife," it says.

But Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, a strong opponent of the water project, also objects to Proposition 20.

In an opposing argument on the voters' pamphlet, he argues that facilities along the project are "far below" other needed recreation facilities in priority.

"The immediate recreational priority in California is acquisition of lands that shortly will otherwise be lost to us forever," he says.

"Any general state bond issue should relate to the needs of all California and not be dedicated to creating a desired political image by refurbishing the financially deficient state water project through completing water projects under the guise of 'recreational' bond issue."

Hub Council, School Board Delay Rec Plans For Study

San Anselmo City Council and San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to cooperation in providing recreation, but referred the compact to a joint study committee before final approval.

School trustee Mary H. Olive said both groups decided to delay action until Nov. 3 so a committee made up of their legal counsels and one member from each agency could study the proposed agreement.

The school board and council have been considering such an agreement as a means of utilizing the school district's community service tax without duplicating recreation activities offered by the city, Mrs. Olive said.

The school district receives about $20,000 per year in community service tax funds, usint it for playgrounds and lunch-time supervision at schools.

Mrs. Olive said about $16,000 in unused tax money has been accumulated by the district during the last two years.

The two groups also discussed utilization of Isabel Cook School property on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for the city's proposed public safety building. No decision was reached, Mrs. Olive said. School trustees have indicated they feel the site is not adequate.

Inmate Tells Of Threats To Family

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A convict told federal court here yesterday that a San Quentin prison counselor threatened to arrest his wife and his brother if he testified in a court action brought by other prisoners.

Arthur Givens was on the witness stand as he and seven other prisoners sought permission to bring a $3 million civil rights suit against the prison and officials.

"Sam Hill, Jr., a counselor, told me not to testify or my wife and brother could be arrested for smuggling narcotics into the penitentiary," Givens declard.

Givens and other inmates seek a preliminary injunction to premit them to press the suit and to consult freely with their attorney, Salle S. Solladay of San Rafael.

Mrs. Solladay also has filed a wrongful death suit in behalf of the parents of inmate Fred E. Billingslea, 25, who died in the prison after he set fire to his mattress Feb. 25.

Mrs. Solladay has charged that he died as a result of being locked in an airless, "private gas chamber." She also charged that the prison conditions were unsanitary and guards mistreated prisoners.

Raymond Klein, a prison officer, testified that cockroaches did not run around the prison, that it was not dirty, and that guards did not mistreat prisoners.

Appliance Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — Factory shipments of major home appliances rose 4 per cent in September from a year earlier to 2.24 million, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers said. But for the first nine months of 1970, shipments were barely up to 20.657 million from 20.618 million a year earlier.

10 Vie For Posts On Marin Youth Board

Ten youths were nominated last night for two openings on the Marin County Youth Commission.

The youth commissioners, headed by George Kewin of Mill Valley, will submit the names to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, who will make the appointments.

Vacancies to be filled are in the Fourth Supervisorial District (South San Rafael, most of Corte Madera and Larkspur, and West Marin), and in the fifth district (North Marin).

Nominees are as follows:

Fourth District — Laurie Packard of Corte Madera, Marin Catholic High School; Nick Harris of Bolinas, Tamalpais High; Suzanne Joy of Larkspur, Redwood High and David Plotkin of San Rafael, San Rafael High.

Fifth District — Top three candidates are Pete Sorensen of San Marin High School and Russ Gardiner and Laina Wood, both of Novato High School. Other nominees are Steve Minard, Mike J. Hoilien, and Richard Rediske, all of San Marin High School.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, announced that next month's meetings will be on Nov. 10 and 24 instead of on the first and third Tuesdays, because the first Tuesday is election day.

The Nov. 10 meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Catholic Social Services office at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael. "We're still looking for a permanent meeting place," said Smith. The youth commission formerly met at the Civic Center, which is now closed to night meetings.

TV REVIEW

Video Tape Industry Draws Suit

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The never-ending love-hate relationship between the movie and television industries is indicaded in a new legal suit by top motion picture companies against the ABC and CBS video networks.

The fact, of course, is that movie studios and television companies can't live without each other because of economic interdependence. Yet, as in all businesses, the rivalry for the upper hand continues.

In the new suit, leading member companies of the Motion Picture Association of America are charging ABC and CBS with monopoly, alleging that the networks are producing, distributing and exhibiting movies, and therefore are depriving the film studios of television markets.

In short, a key idea —the suit implies —is that if CBS and ABC weren't producing, distributing and exhibiting movies in competition with the other motion picture organizations, those organizations would be able to get more money from sales of their films to video.

What makes the suit unusually interesting is its historical reference. For in 1938, it was the movie studios who were charged with monopoly, and, after a famous government antitrust suit, were forced to divest themselves of the theatre chains in which they exhibited their films after producing and distributing them. Now, in 1970, the movie companies are bringing similar charges against television networks.

ABC and CBS, meanwhile, have replied strongly to the charges, and give every indication they will go all out fighting the suit. CBS, as an example, said the suit "is patently an attempt to suppress competition during a period of economic distress," and added that the films bringing the charges supply more than 30 per cent of the prime time entertainment programming on CBS-TV.

ABC, also denying the charges, said the suing companies "and other members of the NPAA have been curtailing their output of feature films" for a number of years, and then added: "The decision by these plaintiffs to cut back on their productions of feature films occured during a period when demand has been far in excess of supply, thus creating an artificial shortage, enabling them to command higher prices for their production.

"In the face of this declining production, to help assure a more reasonable flow of pictures, about three years ago ABC entered into production of feature films for theatrical exhibition. Since that time we have produced a number of creditable films, including 'For Love of Ivy,' 'Charley,' 'They Shoot Horses, Don't They?,' 'Lover and Other Strangers' and 'Song of Norway.' As a result, all exhibitors, as well as our own theaters, have had available a more adequate supply of pictures."

The suing companies are Universal, Warner Bros., Avco Embassy, MGM, Paramount, United Artists and Columbia. Twentieth Century-Fox, which releases CBS and ABC movies in most foreign lands, abstained from the action. Of the three major video networks, only NBC was not named a defendant because, although it has financed several movies, it does not make feature motion pictures.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), 6 p.m. — The "Six O'Clock Movie" continues with part II of "War and Peace," starring Audrey Hepburn, Henry Fonda and Mel Ferrer. The movie drama is based on Tolstoy's classic tale about the Russian aristocracy during Napoleon's march on Europe.

KTVU (2), 7 p.m. — "Nashville, Nashville, Nashville" is a one hour special featuring Del Reeves, Loretta Lynn, Jack Greene, Tom T. Hall, Conway Twitty, the Jolly Green Giants and the Twitty Birds.

KPIX (5), 8:30 p.m. — An unusual look at the physical and psychological environment of American convicts, a penetrating examination, filmed at the 1970 Maryland Workshop on Crime and Correction, held at St. John's College in Annapolis, is the 90-minute special, "On Trial: Criminal Justice."

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — Barbara Bain, Robert Goulet, Martin Landau and Carol Lawrence star in an hour of music and comedy spoofing show business and married life on the "Kraft Music Hall."

KQED (9), 10:30 p.m. — George Murphy, John Tunney, Robert Scheer, John Quinn and Charles Ripley discuss domestic issues and foreign affairs on "Candidates for U.S. Senator."

Denies Claim She Lied To Help Police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An eye-witness to the slaying of police officer Joseph Brodnik denied Tuesday that she had "concocted a story "in order to "please the San Francisco police

Dianne Kossowski stood fast by her testimony that Brodnik's partner, patrolman Paul McGoran, was on the ground when the officer was shot.

However, she admitted she "could not see" whether McGoran had been knocked to the pavement.

The defense contends McGoran's gun went off at that instant, killing Brodnik. Six Latin American youths are charged with slaying the officer. The prosecution claims McGoran's gun was wrested from him and Brodnik shot with the weapon.

"Well," the woman insisted, in a heavily accented speech "I have seen him on the ground."

She denied defense attorney Charles Garry's assertion that she had "concocted" the story "in order to please the San Francisco Police Department."

Reading Workshop

Teaching of reading in Reed district schools will be discussed at a workshop meeting Thursday evening at Reedland Woods School in Tiburon. The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club and Reed District Teachers Association.

Marijuana Hearing

Preliminary hearing for Donald William Rodriguez, 19, of Corte Madera, on a charge of growing marijuana was set yesterday for Nov. 6 in Marin Municipal Court. He was arrested Sept. 13 by sheriff's deputies who said they saw him watering four marijuana plants off Paradise Drive.

Police Slaying Suspect Said To Be Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — plainclothes policeman Harold L. Hamilton during a bank holdup Monday has been identified as the gunman who escaped with $3,000 in an earlier bank robbery.

The suspect, Gilbert Solis, 27, was identified Tuesday from a hidden camera picture taken of him during the successful robbery Sept. 3.

Solis, an unemployed carpenter, was "positively identified" by relatives, police said. The photo was the only clue in the Sept. 3 robbery of the Wells Fargo branch at 24th and Irving.

Monday's fatal gunfire was also in a Wells Fargo bank, the branch at 7th and Clemente. Officer Hamilton and his partner, Officer Jeffrey Brosch, arrived at the bank while the robbery was in progress.

According to police accounts, Hamilton confronted Solis just inside the front door while his partner questioned another man on the sidewalk outside.

Plans For Replacing Sewer Lines Ordered

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District board last night asked the district's engineer to draw plans and specifications for replacement of sewer lines in the Marin Town and Country Village Shopping Center.

Douglas de la Fontaine, board president, said the lines have sunk 1.5 feet into the bayfill on which the center was built. He estimated the cost of the repairs at $48,000.

Brinkley Warns Of Police State In United States

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Broadcast newsman David Brinkley warned Tuesday that the United States is headed toward a "police state" or a "military dictatorship."

"I have no sympathy for rioters and bombers, but we're only a short time away from a police state in this country," he told reporters.

Repression is sure to follow the far left's bombings, burnings and other violence, he predicted.

Brinkley was in San Francisco to moderate a panel discussion at a meeting of the National Broadcasting Company's radio affiliates.

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, San Francisco State College president, told the panel that most young persons reject certain types of commercials.

"Singing commercials and the wheedling of pitchmen are insulting," he declared. He asked why some commercial have to be so "appalling, so ghastly, so anti-human."

COAST GUARD TESTS VESSEL (?) ON BAY

This air cushion vehicle, a veteran of two tours with the Navy on river patrol in Vietnam, will be tested for one year on San Francisco Bay. The Coast Guard, which wants to find out if the high speed Bell SK-5 is effective in its work, will base it at Fort Point. The contraption rides on a cushion of air that allows it to skim on rubber skirts over even dry land at up to 70 knots. A 1,000-horsepower engine drives both the lift fan and the propulsion propeller. Coast Guard photo)

Attorney To Seek Action So Magee Can Act On Own

Another attempt was made yesterday to straighten out the matter of who will be the actorney for San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, 31, charged along with Angela Y. Davis with the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court twice had guards remove Magee from the courtroom in a training building when the convict refused to stop talking while the judge tried to explain proceedings to him.

When he was brought into the courtroom for the third time, he finally listened to the judge's explanations but accused him of "trying to pretty up" the record.

Magee has insisted during every court session that he wants to act as hiw own attorney but has been denied because he has been ruled not competent enough in the law.

Yesterday court-appointed attorney Clinton White of Oakland appeared again for Magee, but said that he will file a writ asking a higher court to allow Magee to be his own lawyer.

The case was continued to Nov. 9 for White to pursue this legal action as well as make other motions.

Pyramid Climbing Is A Dying Art, Perhaps Because You Can See The Russian Missiles

CAIRO (UPI)—Like vaudeville and blacksmithing, pyramid-climbing is a dying art, mostly because the Egyptian government has outlawed it on grounds that on a clear day you can see the Russian missiles around Cairo.

"Never mind that," an angular Egyptian named Ali told this visitor to the Great Pyramid of Cheops. "I'll take you up."

"Fifteen minutes," said Ali. "It's easy. The record is seven minutes but you can take it slow."

The stones are two to three feet high. There are no steps or handy handholds and centuries of climbing have worn many of the stones too smooth for complete confidence.

Ali, who has long legs, hitched up his blue khaftan and skipped up. The visitor, who had short legs, hauled himself up painfully.

Halfway up, previously anonymous muscles began to lodge protests.

"Encugh," said the visitor. "Let's go down."

"There is no point in climbing half a pyramid," Ali said. "Only 40 more feet to go," he added, pointing to the 200 feet rising above. "Let's go."

The summit of Cheops has been worn away, leaving room at the top to sit.

Ali, who is a pyramid watchman and is used to the view, sat down and studied the graffiti. The visitor gazed out over Cairo.

The visitor, aching in every joint, decided it was worth it — even the climb down.

Crocker-Citizens Has 100-Year Anniversary

BEVERLEY A. SILL
Assistant Vice President

The Corte Madera office of Crocker-Citizens National Bank traces its origins to its 1956 founding as the First National Bank in San Rafael. Crocker-Anglo National Bank, one of three major Crocker-Citizens predecessors, acquired all First National Bank in San Rafael's offices in 1961.

The office, at 5 Corte Madera Center, is managed by Assistant Vice President Beverley A. Sill, who has headed the office since it opened in 1956 in the building once occupied by the Corte Madera post office. John F. Brown is assistant manager.

When the bank opened under the First National banner in 1956, the staff consisted of Sill, a teller, and a secretary who doubled as a teller. Today, the staff numbers 14, including Sill and Brown. The 12 distaff members are easily distinguished at the shopping center because all wear a uniform dress.

Crocker-Citizens, which is celebrating its centennial this year, dates to 1870, and the founding of the First National Gold Bank of San Francisco, the first California bank to receive a national charter.

To mark its centennial, the bank arranged and sponsored an art ehxibition titled, "A Century of California Painting," which recently appeared at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. The exhibition, which traces the development of easel painting in California over the past 100 years, previously appeared in Los Angeles, Fresno and Santa Barbara. It will be displayed later this year in Santa Clara, Sacramento and Oakland.

The bank also has arranged special performances of both the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. It also has provided the San Francisco Opera with a $41,000 grant to pay production costs of Mozart's 'Cosi fan tutte.'

Plastics Plant

ANTWERP (UPI) — American chemical giant Monsanto is planning a multi-million dollar plastics plant at Antwerp. Completion of the plant by 1972 will triple the company's European production of a tough plastic used in manufacture of car dashboards, vacuum cleaner casings and suitcases.

Marine Affairs Center Slated For San Diego

SAN DIEGO —Establishment of a Center for Marine Affairs at the University of California, San Diego's Scripps Institute of Oceanography has been announced by Dr. William A. Nierenberg, Director of Scripps.

The Ford Foundation has made a $226,000 grant to support the Center's work for three years.

Dr. Warren S. Wooster, professor of oceanography at Scripps Institution of Oceanography since 1963 and currently the presidentof the Scientific Council on Oceanic Research (SCOR) will direct the Center.

Dr. Nierenberg said the Center will be a small interdisciplinary unit functioning at a post-doctoral level and involving an internship of young, long-term visitors from the law, economics and related fields, and from industry, universities, and the government.

"The main function of the Center will be to serve as a training stage for non-technical specialists who have come from or eventually will go to government and other public service.

"An explosive interest in the oceans has developed the past ten years in all levels of society — local, state, federal, and international," Dr. Nierenberg pointed out.

"But this interest has been tempered by the realization that the technological, economic, and political problems of the utilization of the oceans will follow patterns different from those that evolved on land and there is little universally-accepted precedent for solving them."

Mosquito Problem Getting Worse: Research Needed

BERKELEY — The chances are looking better for future control of mosquitoes by non-chemical methods, according to a University of California research progress report. But in the meantime, UC scientists say, the mosquito problem is growing worse, and better chemical controls also are urgently needed.

The just-published report — "Research on Mosquito Control — 1969" — gives both bad news and good news about the state's mosquito problem. The bad news is that some strains of mosquito are successfully resisting today's larvicides.

The good news includes discovery of a promising bacterial mosquito-killer and other natural compounds that control mosquito populations.

Mosquito control research in California, the UC progress report said, should be expanded and speeded up to meet the deteriorating situation.

HIGH-GLOSS EYE-CATCHERS

Brown is the shoe color for this Spring: mottled, antiqued, deep sheens often make them adaptable for wear with either brown or black, says Vic Pappas, Gallenkamp and Schiff buyer. The shoes at left are a shiny slightly above-the-ankle boot. Relying almost solely on the beauty of the leather for its claim to fame, the boot is in the spring "up-front" fashion. The eye-catcher at right is a high-gloss shoe, mottled in deep brown and off white to make it attractive for wear with a variety of colors.

Mountain Kingdom Seeks Freedom From 20-Year Pact With India

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI)— The Himalayan Buddhist kingdom of Sikkim, where an American is the queen, wants to revise the treaty which makes it a protectorate of India.

Under the 20-year-old treaty, India assumes responsibility for the defense, foreign affairs, transportation and communications in neighboring Sikkim.

But Sikkim now wants to operate the postal, transport and communications system while leaving defense in Indian hands.

Ruler of Sikkim is Chogyal (King) Palden Thondup Namgyal, 47. In 1963 while he was crown prince, he married Hope Cooke, a New York debutante. Now 30, she is Gyalmo (Queen) Hope and the mother of the king's two children, Prince Palden, 6, and Princess Hope, 2.

Many Indians, including some officials in the Indian foreign office in New Delhi, interpret Sikkim's new stand as being anti-Indian. But King Namgyal argues that revision of the treaty is required by changes in circumstances since the pact was signed in 1950. The King says that Sikkim has no intention of disturbing friendly relations with India. The monarch says his state realizes that India's economic assistance in cash, men and materials has contributed to Sikkim's economic progress.

Some Indians blame Queen Hope, the first American to marry into Asian royalty, for engineering a demand for full sovereignty for Sikkim.

Indian troops stationed in Sikkim, a land with a population of about 187,000 people, are particularly concerned with guarding Sikkim's 150-mile border with Tibet, which is ruled by Communist China.

India's military garrison in the Himalayan kingdom went into action in 1965 when China attacked Sikkim near Nathula Pass, 14,300 feet above sea level.

Sikkim maintains no army of its own. But the little kingdom is organizing a militia and has a well-equipped police force which operates guard posts along the Sikkim-Tibet border.

India operates Sikkim's postal and telegraph system and constructed and maintains Sikkim's road links with India. These are the services which Sikkim wishes to run itself.

Queen Hope comes into the controversy because of an article she wrote four years ago in the Bulletin of Sikkim's Institute of Tibetology. She said she wrote the article as a student of Oriental affairs rather than as queen of Sikkim. In it she contended that all lands in Sikkim belong to the state and transfer of any land, even by the king, is only temporary.

Computers May Help People Get Eye Care

BERKELEY — A research team at the University of California at Berkeley has devised a computer assited eye examination that may, in the future, greatly increase the number of people able to receive eye care at moderate cost.

Key to the project, conducted by Dr. Elwin Marg, professor of physiological optics and optometry and E. R. F. W. Crossman, professor of industrial engineering, was the development of a computer program adaptable to diverse patients with a wide variety of vision problems.

The computer, with the aid of a tape recorded sound track, asks the patient a series of questions, such as "Are you troubled in any way with blurred vision?"

The patient pushes a button to indicate yes or no .The answer will cause the computer either to follow the line of inquiry or switch to another line.

Police Sweep Area Near Mass Murder

SOQUEL, Calif. (UPI)—A huge police dragnet hunted through rugged country south of San Francisco today for the killers of five persons in a hilltop mansion—and possibly a gasoline station attendant some 25 miles away.

A fire-blackened station wagon in which the killers are believed to have fled the blazing mansion Monday was parked and abandoned in a railroad tunnel and then struck by a locomotive Tuesday 15 miles west of the mass murder site.

Some 18 miles northward from the tunnel, the shot and trussed body of attendant Thomas Dececco, 19, was found at Saratoga.

Sheriff's deputies in both Santa Cruz County, where five bodies were found in the mansion's swimming pool, and Santa Clara County, where the attendant was slain, pondered whether the shootings were connected.

All had been bound, blindfolded with silk handerchiefs nad shot in the back before being dumped into the swimming pool.

The green and brown station wagon, owned by Mrs. Ohta, was reportedly seen with an orange knapsack in the rear by a person deputies would not identify. There was no sack in it when the train struck it.

Deputies said Dececco had been killed four hours after the Ohta estate shootings.

They declared they would "rather not comment" when asked if there was any witness to his killing.

The killers, who set Dr. Ohta's mansion on fire, blocked its entrance with stalled cars and fled in Mrs. Ohta's Oldsmobile.

Ohta's two daughters were away at school. Taura, 18, was at a college in New York and Lark Elizabeth, 15, was in a California boarding school.

Firemen who finally got to the blazing Ohta home found the bodies when they went to the pool to pump water for their hoses.

Santa Cruz County Sheriff Douglas James said the victims' hands were bound in front of them. They had been blindfolded with scarves which the modishly dressed opthalmologist customarily wore instead of neckties.

"It looked like they possibly could have been shot by the poolside where blood was found, and then pushed into the pool,' James said.

James and other officers gave this account:

Some time in the early

PEACE PRIZE WINNER — Dr. Ernest Borlaug, a farmer-scientist from Cresco, Iowa, today won the Nobel Peace Prize for his development of new strains of wheat that substantially increase harvests. Israel Lays Challenge To Arabs At U.N.

Premier Urges Talks Barred To Outsiders

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir today challenged the Arabs — and especially the Egyptian government of President Anwar Sadat — to negotiate a peace settlement in the Middle East without hinderance or interveniton to any outside power.

PREMIER GOLDA MEIR
Challenges Arabs to talk

In a speech to the 25th commemorative session of the U.N. General Assembly she restated the Israeli position that it would like an unlimited cease-fire and that there can be no peace talks until Egypt pulls its missiles back from the cease-fire standstill zone.

She did not refer directly to the massive Soviet aid given to Egypt but her deep voice was stern as she said:

"The question we all face—Israelis and Arabs alike—is whether we forfeit our right to decide our own destiny. That question will only be resolved in the measure that the people of the Middle East succeed or fail in making peace among themselves and by themselves without hindrance or intervention of any outside power.

"Recent events in the Middle East have proven yet again that resort to substitutes and alternatives for direct peaceful solution of the conflict creates fertile ground for breaches of promise and mutual suspicion.

"I therefore call from this rostrum, in the presence of the representatives of the entire community of nations," she said, "upon the leaders of the Arab nations of the Middle East and especially upon the new leadership of Egypt to recognize once and for all that the future of the Middle East lies in peace and this must be achieved by Israelis and Arabs themselves."

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat swore in a new government that included Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, a 70-year-old diplomat, as premier. Fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and government troops was reported continuing in northern Jordan.

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who has been holding a round of talks with Soviet, Israeli and Egyptian representatives, appeared convinced the cease-fire can be extended beyond Nov. 5 on a day-to-day basis. In the meantime, he was continuing his search for a compromise formula between Egypt and Israel over the missile violation issue.

The matter probably will go a step higher Thursday when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko flies to Washington to meet President Nixon. It will be the highest-level American-Soviet dialogue since Nixon assumed office.

Newspaper, Guards Clear On Union's Contempt Claim

The Independent-Journal and Nor-Cal security guards were cleared yesterday in Marin Superior Court of contempt claims lodged by International Typographical Union Local 21.

The union, which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 sought to prove the newspaper and the guards were in contempt of a preliminary injunction issued Feb. 27, protecting lawful pickets against harrassment and other acts.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Keating, calling one of the ITU witnesses a liar, declared that, "all in all, I think the case is very weak, mainly because of the unreliability of witnesses" who testified for the union.

The union had charged that picket William A. Cogswell was struck by Capt. Forrest J. Morais of the Nor-Cal security guards on the morning of March 20, that Cogswell's hat had been knocked off and was destroyed by other security guards in the I-J loading dock area, and that the picket had been the target of foul language.

In addition, the union contended that picket Bruce D. Bauer had been chased and struck at by "10 to 15" security guards the night of March 22-23.

Duane B. Beeson, the union's attorney, strove unsuccessfully to block admission of evidence that I-J attorney Gary T. Giacomini argued proved the guards were provoked to action against the pickets.

The union's final witness yesterday was picket Thomas Fane, who said he had heard Cogswell insult Morais, but had not seen Cogswell swing a picket sign at the guard captain.

In a half-day of testimony yesterday, Giacomini presented testimony by I-J circulation manager Allan Howells, I-J delivery truck driver Theodore F. George, guard Thomas Hartman and guard lieutenant Frank Jalosky.

Howells and George testified on Bauer's actions Jan. 17, saying he had taken part in a human chain of pickets that attempted to block delivery trucks from leaving the I-J, and that Bauer had broken a window on George's truck.

Bauer had refused to answer questions about that day on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Hartman and Jalosky told a

American Wins Peace Prize For Fighting World Hunger

OSLO (UPI)—Dr. Norman Ernest Borlaug, an Iowa-born farmer-scientist who likes to get his hands dirty working in the fields, was awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize today for developing new types of wheat that could help end the world's food crisis.

The $108,348 prize was awarded to Borlaug, 56, specifically for his work in developing new wheat strains which gave bigger yields than older types. The success of his work also contributed indirectly to development of new "miracle rice" in the Orient.

Borlaug did much of his research under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation and now heads the International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center in Mexico City, where he lives with his wife and two children.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee said his work has resulted in larger harvests in a number of developing nations, including Mexico, Pakistan and India.

Officials of the Rockefeller Foundation said Borlaug's success in improving wheat strains had led the Foundation to set up the International Rice Research Institute in Manila.

Friends called Borlaug "a very regular guy" who likes to work in the fields with his hands. He was born in Cresco, Iowa, of Norwegian parents and was educated at the University of Minnesota where he took his doctor's degree in plant pathology.

"He is a friendly, modest man", a spokesman said at the Rockefeller Foundation in New York. "He has a contagious enthusiasm for his work, he is an extremely hard worker and he is dedicated to actually working in the fields.

"The officers of the foundation are delighted and very glad to hear the news."

Borlaug carried out his prize-winning work at the Mexico City center, which is financed and run by the Rockefeller Foundation and the Mexican government. His work has resulted in new types of wheat which yield several times larger harvest than older types normally planted in Mexico and other agricultural countries, the Nobel committee said.

The prize is considered the world's most prestigious humanitarian accolade. Borlaug, who is little known outside of scientific circles, was picked from among 38 candidates nominated for this year's award.

Caller Says Terrorists May Be Ready To Negotiate On Diplomat

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police today attempted to trace a telephone call that kidnapers may be willing to negotiate the freedom of a British diplomat. At the same time an autopsy report revealed that the second political hostage, cabinet minister Pierre Laporte had been garrotted with a chain.

Quebec provincial police Inspector J. R. Melancon said police "doubt the authenticity of the call, but the investigation is continuing."

The autopsy report, by two leading pathologists, said Quebec Labor Minister Laporte was slain Saturday sometime between "noon and 1 p.m."

The report said Laporte's body had three wounds which were "rather superficial."

One was on the chest, one on the left wrist, and one on the right hand near the thumb.

The cause of death was "asphyxiation by strangulation which apparently was by means of a small chain around Mr. Laporte's neck, which was still in place as the autopsy was performed. The mark left by the chain went all around the neck except at the back where it appeared to have been twisted," the report said.

Earlier today the Quebec provincial police received word from an anonymous caller that the FLQ may be willing to accept a government offer for safe passage to Cuba in exchange for the release of British Trade Commissioner James R. Cross.

The caller said the FLQ would communicate with police again at 6 p.m. (EDT) today, presumably to indicate if they will accept government conditions that they bring Cross to Concordia Bridge linking Montreal and the Expo 67 world's fair site.

Cross is to be left there in the custody of the Cuban consul and released when the kidnapers reach Cuba.

QPP spokesman Constable Claude Talbot said the police had received a call from someone who claimed to speak for the kidnapers of Cross just hours after Laporte was buried in a cemetery on the slope of Mount Royal.

Talbot said the police were not entirely sure the calls were bonafide.

"Your guess is as good as mine. We'll just have to see," he said.

Police continued the most intensive manhunt in the nation's history for the assassins.

More than 9,000 police augmented by 4,000 federal soldiers searched today for the killers and for the kidnapers of missing British diplomat James L. Cross.

Wanted in connection with the kidnaping are Marc Carbonneau, 37, Paul Rose, 27, and Jacques Lanctot, 25.

Woman Arrested In Kent Case; College Appeals Criticism Gag

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A former coed at Kent State University was arrested today on an indictment handed down by a special state grand jury that investigated the fatal campus shooting of four students last spring.

The charge apparently stemmed from the burning of the ROTC building on the Kent campus May 2, two days before Ohio National Guardsmen fired into a group of demonstrating students.

Miss Nicholas, who surrendered at the Portage County sheriff's office in nearby Ravenna, was the first girl arrested of the 25 persons indicted by the panel.

Yesterday, three students, two former students and a youth with no connection with the university were arrested.

In a related development Kent State University and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) appealed to the courts to nullify an order banning public criticism of the investigation.

Lawyers for Kent State University President Robert I. White filed a petition in Portage County Court in nearby Ravenna. They asked that White and others who testified before the special state grand jury be allowed to "make any statements they desire to make

The Cost Of Living Rises Half Of 1 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living for Americans registered an increase of one-half of one per cent in September, the government reported today. Price rises occurred over a broad range of categories including such essentials as clothing and shelter.

The increase was more than double the rate in August when the Nixon administration said a 0.2 per cent rise was evidence that its anti-inflation drive was succeeding.

The report of the 0.5 per cent jump was considered bad news by administration economists—especially coming as it did less than two weeks before the congressional elections.

The Septemer rise, computed after seasonal adjustments, compared with lower increases for three consecutive months following a steady increase ranging between 0.4 per cent and 0.6 per cent earlier in the year.

The seasonally adjusted increases were 0.3 per cent in both June and July before the 0.2 per cent drop in August.

The September increase pushed the index to 136.6, meaning that goods and services which cost $10 dollars in 1957-59 cost $13.66 in September.

Food prices declined 0.1 per cent in September, but this was smaller than usual for that month, particularly for fresh fruit and vegetables which went down 3 per cent.

At the same time, the cost of homes rose sharply, along with mortgage interest costs, costs of home repairs and property taxes. And clothing prices soared by 1.6 per cent during the month, the report said.

Herbert Stein, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, last month hailed the August record as evidence that inflation had been defeated.

Quick Agreement In TWA Walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A 29-hour strike against Trans World Airlines ended today when the airline and the Transport Workers Union reached agreement on a new contract for 5,400 stewardesses and stewards.

The agreement in principle was reached at 5 a.m. EDT after an all-night negotiating session between the two sides with federal mediators, and the union ordered pickets removed from all TWA installations at 7 a.m. EDT.

A TWA spokesman said international flights probably would be in full operation by the end of the day. The airline maintained a portion of its international service during the strike.

The 450 TWA domestic flights cancelled during the strike will resume shortly, but no definite timetable has been established, the spokesman said.

"We hope to see some activity within 24 hours," he said.

A spokesman for the National Mediation Board said details of the settlement would not be announced until it was submitted to the union membership for approval.

TWA's vice president for industrial relations, David J. Crombie, would say only that the agreement "provides improvements in wages, benefits and working conditions for TWA cabin personnel."

The union had demanded wage increases of up to 30 per cent and improvements in working conditions such as bigger expense payments and more liberal maternity leave.

Francis A. O'Neill, a member of the National Mediation Board, said final language of the agreement would be worked out today for submission to union members.

Cong Shells Damage Delta Naval Station

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported stepped-up Communist activity across Vietnam. It said nine Americans were killed in the loss of three helicopters and Viet Cong artillery heavily damaged an Allied naval base in the Mekong Delta.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian troops who recaptured a town 21 miles south of the capital reported the fleeing Viet Cong left it "completely looted."

U. S. military spokesmen in Saigon said Viet Cong and North Vietnamese shellings attacks across Vietnam killed one American and wounded 15 others. Field reports at Thung Duc Green Beret camp 24 miles southwest of the capital said 89 Communist troops had been killed around the outpost in the past two days.

It was announced in Vientiane, Laos, that A. S. Air Force Maj. Joseph L. Chestnut, 36, of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., has been missing isnce Oct. 13 in the crash of a T28 trainer near the Laotian royal capital of Luang Prabang.

The naval base hit by Communist gunfire just before midnight Tuesday night was at the southern tip of South Vietnam and known as "Solid Anchor." Allied military sources said at least 25 persons, including 10 American and South Vietnamese sailors, were wounded in a barrage of 40 rounds of 82mm mortar and 75mm recoilless rifle fire, which sank a river patrol boat. The base is 165 miles southwest of Saigon.

Some of the casualties were refugees taken in by the Allied naval personnel, the sources said.

U.S. Military spokesmen said seven Americans were killed and two wounded Tuesday when an Army OH6 observation helicopter and a UH1 Huey helicopter gunship collided in flight 335 miles north-northeast of Saigon .

HIGH ABOVE GOTHAM

Algeria Grants Leary Political Asylum; To Join Cleaver Staff

ALGIERS (UPI) — Timothy Leary, one-time high priest of American LSD culture who escaped from a California prison Sept. 12, has been granted political asylum by the Algerian government.

Friends of the former Harvard University professor said Leary would work with Eldridge Cleaver in the U. S. Black Panther exile headquarters in Algiers.

In London, the Youth International Party (Yippies) said Leary and Cleaver would hold a news conference Thursday in Algiers.

Leary, 50, had been sought by U. S. police since he fled the California state prison system's minimum security Chino institation where he was serving one-to-10 years for marijuana possession.

Leary's wife, Rosemary, 34, who had finished a six-month sentence for possession of marijuana at the time of Leary's escape, arrived in Algiers with him. Both have been granted asylum in Algeria. Friends of the couple said Leary was working with Cleaver, 35, former information minister of the Black Panther party. Cleaver set up an exile headquarters in Algiers more than a year ago. He fled the United States after a shootout wiht police in Oakland, Calif., where Cleaver was wounded and Panther Bobby Hutton was killed.

Leary joined a growing group of foreign political fugitives and exiles in Algiers. Brazilian antigovernment militants also live here. They were exchanged for the freedom of a kidnaped German diplomat.

Leary also was convicted Jan. 20, 1970, in Laredo, Tex., of smuggling marijuana into the United States from Mexico and sentenced to 10 years after U. S. Customs Agents said they found marijuana in a snuffbox carried by Leary's daughter.

A court in Santa Ana, Calif., passed a sentence here to run consecutively with the Texas sentence, which was to follow the California term because Leary's lawyers had appealed the Texas conviction.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Army Dope Pushers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight soldiers and five civilians have been arrested on charges of selling heroin, marijuana, LSD, and various barbituates at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The 13 men were arrested Monday night and early Tuesday morning by members of the Washington Metropolitan Police Narcotics Squad and the Army's Criminal Investigation Unit.

The arrested men "were selling to soldiers, but we don't know whether they were patients," said inspector Walter R. Bishop, director of the police morals division.

Russ Moon Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has launched an unmanned space exploration vehicle called Zond 8 on a moonlooping mission, Tass said today.

The Soviet news agency said the probe went aloft Tuesday and had covered 72,000 miles by 10 a.m. today.

Zond 8 will circle the moon and then return to earth, Tass said.

The agency gave no reason for the long delay in reporting the launch of the vehicle.

FDA Hits Orinase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) plans to advise doctors that the most widely used diabetes pill does little good and may occasionally cause fatal heart disease, it was learned today.

The drug is tolbutamide, made by the Upjohn Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., under the tradename Orinase.

It is widely prescribed for mild diabetes mellitus cases contracted during adulthood. Medcial authorities estimate that this type of the ailment accounts for perhaps three-fourths of the approximately 3 million diabetes cases in the United States.

Uvjohn estimates that roughly 800,000 diabetics take Orinase.

Teachers Give Up

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Members of the Federation of Teachers were to return to classrooms today, ending Philadelphia's first public school strike.

Union teachers decided to go back to the 274 public schools when a tentative agreement was worked out, ending a walkout that saw almost half the 300,000 students boycott classes.

The federaton, with an estimated $200 in its treasury, agreed to the settlement Tuesday after a court levied a $75,000-a-day fine against the union. The walkout violated a court injunction.

Anti-Saigon Stand

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Episcopal House of Bishops has approved a strong statement condeming repression both in North and South Vietnam and has called on the United States to withdraw support from the South Vietnamese government.

The resolution, passed Tuesday, also asked the removal of all American forces from South Vietnam by December, 1971.

The statement urged "speedy elections" in South Vietnam "arranged by a neutral interim government and supervised by observers from appropriate international agencies."

Elizabeth Cole To Sing At Seminary

Soprano Elizabeth Cole of Hawaii will give a recital Friday at 8 p.m. at Alexander Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Miss Cole is part of the program sponsored by Sears Roebuck and Co., to promote greater interest in the music arts.

Stolen Art Arrest

NEW YORK (UPI)—A prominent businessman who is vice president of the Denver Art Museum's board of trustees has been arrested here on charges of trying to sell $50,000 worth of paintings stolen from a friend's art collection.

The FBI said William Van Voast Warren Jr., 38, a 1951 Harvard graduate, was released on his own recognizance Tuesday after being arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishop on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property. A conviction carries a maximum of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Warren, identified by the FBI as head of the Warren Sales Co. in Denver, a feed brokerage firm, was arrested Monday afternoon at a Manhattan hotel after he allegedly tried to sell a Renoir oil, "Les Collettes," and a Gauguin charcoal sketch, "Tahitian Lady," to an unidentified art dealer.

Algerian Slain

BONN (UPI) — Belkacem Krim, 48, one of nine men who launched the Algerian revolution against France in 1954, was found strangled in his Frankfurt hotel room Tuesday night. The West German Interior Ministry ordered an investigation.

A chambermaid found the body while cleaning rooms at the 21-story Intercontinental Hotel in Frankfurt. Police said he had been strangled, possibly on Sunday.

Krim, once a colonel in Algeria Liberation Army, had checked in Sunday with three men who identified themselves as Moroccans. Police said they disappeared without paying their bill.

Harassment Continues; Alioto Enters Scene

Stinkbomb attacks on businesses, intimidation of truck drivers and slashing of tires continued yesterday in Marin County.

In San Francisco, Mayor Joseph L. Alioto was urged by labor union leaders to assist in bringing about a settlement of San Francisco Typographical Union 21's nine-month-old strike against the Independent-Journal.

Alioto wired San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini urging him to use his office to "initiate new negotiations for settlement."

Alioto said in the telegram that the "newspaper controversy" has shown signs of spreading throughout Northern California.

"Criminal and civil actions against labor union members have been filed. Reverberations are being felt here in San Francisco as well as in other Northern California cities," Alioto said.

"While we take no public position on the merits or demerits of the controversy, we ought to at least insist that an attempt at settlement be made on a serious basis."

The telegram was sent yesterday after a group of labor officials met with Alioto to ask him to attempt to bring settlement of the strike, said Jerry Flamm, Alioto's confidential secretary.

Bettini said he was informed in a telephone call from Alioto yesterday that the telegram had been sent. He said he had no immediate comment on Alioto's telegram.

Bettini commented that this was the first time he had received any communication from Alioto regarding San Rafael affairs.

Stink bombs were released at the Emporium at the Northgate Shopping Center and Macy's in downtown San Rafael within a half hour period yesterday.

San Rafael police said a Christmas tree ornament filled with a nauseous smelling liquid was thrown against a stairway wall at Macy's at 1:38 p.m.

At 2 p.m., police said, a foul smelling liquid was sprayed at several locations in the Emporium.

Tires were slashed on two I-J delivery trucks in a parking lot at Second and B streets about 12:45 p.m., police reported.

Truck drivers attempting to make deliveries to the Payless Drug Store at 866 Fourth Street and Disco Department Store at 555 Francisco Boulevard were threatened yesterday, police said.

Two men, driving a beige Dodge station wagon, identified themselves as members of Teamsters Local 70 of Oakland and told the truck driver at Disco, "If you make any more deliveries something will happen to you," police said.

The Teamsters local is one of four labor unions accused of illegal secondary boycott activity in a petition filed by the National Labor Relations Board Monday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

The petition, which charges Teamsters locals 70 and 85 of San Francisco, International Longshoremen's Union 10 of San Francisco and San Francisco Typographical Union 21 with harassing and threatening truck drivers and illegally picketing I-J advertisers, was the latest in a series of issues to enter the courts concerning the strike against the I-J.

Land Action Plan Asked In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board last night directed its superintendent to develop recommendations for transfer of lands with the Marin Municipal Water District.

Gwyneth R. McGee, the district's executive secretary, said the board's action followed indecision over whether it would benefit the district to trade about half an acre of White Hill School property for about an acre of water district land adjacent to Deer Park School.

The water district is seeking the White Hill School property for installation of a water main, Mrs. McGee said, while the school district would like to expand the playground at Deer Park School.

Trustees refused to commit themselves to a proposal that a Fairfax public safety building be constructed at the Central School site.

Mrs. McGee said the board, in response to a letter from the city's planning commission, indicated it would consider the matter if city council action dictated.

The planning commission has recommended the Central School site as an alternative to a lot opposite the city park on Bolinas Road as a public safety building site.

The Fairfax School District board also:

TEACHERS — Recognized the Fairfax Teachers' Association as representing 43 teachers in negotiations with the district.

WORKSHOP — Announced a Nov. 18 workshop for trustees to review budgeting and state legislation.

BOOKS — Accepted two outdoor education books, developed by the district's staff, dealing with nature study and art projects utilizing natural materials.

UNIFICATION — Joined Tamalpais High School District trustees in asking that the state remove its requirement for unification elections every four years.

ENROLLMENT — Heard that 1,085 students are enrolled in the district, down about 30 from last year at this time.

Southern Sonoma To Vote On Three Posts

Southern Sonoma voters will elect a new supervisor, assessor and sheriff when they go to the polls on Nov. 3.

A total of 98,655 voters will be eligible to cast ballots including 20,226 in southern Sonoma's second supervisorial district.

Competing for the post of supervisor are Richard R. Day, an attorney, and Philip L. Joerger, a businessman and Petaluma city councilman.

Day, 35, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Idaho and law degree from the University of California. He is a Navy veteran of the Korean war.

He is a member of the Sonoma County Board of Education and serves as chairman of the Committee on special schools.

Day is a director of Californians organized to acquire access to State Tidelands, chairman of the Joint Task Force on Air Pollution, director of the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce, member of the Redwood Empire Trial Lawyers Association and the Rohnert Park Optimist Club.

He is a member of the law firm of Fredericks and Swenson, Rohnert Park. He and his wife, Jean, are the parents of a son.

Joerger, 44, is a Petaluma businessman in the midst of his second term on the city council. He has run unsuccessfully for supervisor in the past three elections.

He is a Navy veteran and spent 13 years as a local dairyman. Joerger serves on the Petaluma Advisory Board to the Sonoma County Water Agency and is also a member of the Petaluma Elks Lodge, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Druids, American Legion, Parent-Teachers Association and Petaluma Concert Association.

Joerger also serves as a sponsor for the Petaluma Boys' Club, as a little league baseball manager and with the Sonoma County Junior Livestock Auction Buyers.

He and his wife, Enes, have four children.

On the ballot for Sonoma County Sheriff are Don Striepeke, a fire prevention and law enforcement officer for the state Division of Forestry, and Sgt. Winfield Thibodeau of the sheriff's department.

Striepeke, 40, has been with the Division of Forestry for 19 years and presently heads law enforcement and fire prevention activities in an eight-county area.

He is a graduate of the Santa Rosa Junior College Law Enforcement Program and has taken courses offered by the Division of Forestry.

Striepeke, of Sebastopol, has served as liaison officer with the state attorney general's office and has supervised staffs ranging from 35 to 900 men.

Thibodeau, 38, is in charge of the Guerneville substation for the Sheriff's department.

He received an associate of arts degree with honors from Santa Rosa Junior College and has participated in 10 training sessions sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Thibodeau began his law enforcement career as a police officer for two years in Sebastopol and has been with the Sheriff's department for nine years.

He has received an advanced certificate in law enforcement from the state Department of Justice. Thibodeau also served on the Sebastopol Planning Commission.

Seeking the position of Sonoma County Assessor are Ernest L. Comalli, assistant assessor, and George L. Crane, a rancher.

Comalli has served as assistant assessor for four of the 19 years he has been with the department.

While serving in the number two position, he has been in charge of developing procedures and the data system for computerizing records.

Comalli received a bachelor of science degree in forestry from Washington State College and completed courses offered by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers.

He is an instructor in advanced real estate appraisal for the University of California extension staff.

Crane, 46, attended Santa Rosa Junior College. He is a leader of the Sonoma County Irate Taxpayers Association.

He says he has spent three years investigating county and state tax structures to become familiar with problems and practices.

Crane also helped to organize the Sonoma County Grange Credit Union, is a member of the Bennett Valley Grange and is a past former member of the Bellevue School Board.

different version of Bauer's encounter with Hartman's car, as the two drove opposite ways through one-way Julia Street the night of March 22. They said that only Jalosky and two other guards went out of the building as Hartman and the picket confronted each other, and denied Bauer was chased with billy clubs.

"Bauer, of course, is a liar," Judge Keating declared in reviewing the case during oral arguments.

Jalosky also testified that Cogswell had been seen on closed circuit TV breaking an antenna off a guard's jeep in the loading dock area, less than an hour before the Morais incident. He said San Rafael police had taken Cogswell away, then returned him to the picket line just before the confrontation.

The guard lieutenant said Cogswell, on his return, advanced on Morais across I-J property, called him an obscene name, and swung a picket sign at Morais before the captain struck Cogswell.

Keating has yet to rule on an earlier week-long hearing in which the I-J sought contempt action against local 21 and others in connection with violence that erupted at the Valentine's Day labor rally against the I-J.

Jury Selection In Violence Trial Likely Late In Day

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Selection of a jury continued today for trial of seven persons stemming from the pro-labor demonstration outside the Independent-Journal last Valentine's Day.

The job of selecting a panel, before Judge William E. Jensen in Solano County Superior Court, was interrupted at noon, when the judge ordered the prosecution to bring two interpreters to court for the benefit of two defendants who are mutes.

This will be followed by opening statements by Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas and the three defense attorneys, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, Robert Y. Bell of Santa Rosa and Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo.

Thomas's first witness is scheduled to be Lt. James Carlton of the San Rafael Police Department, who was in charge of the large force of law officers assembled to deal with the Feb. 14 demonstration.

Three prospective jurors were dismissed by Judge Jensen yesterday on defense challenges. Two indicated sympathy toward the plight of the police and one said she objected to riotous conduct and didn't feel she could judge the defendants fairly.

Most of the questions put to prospective jurors concerned whether they or members of their family have union affiliation, what their views were on picketing and demonstrations and whether they would have difficulty judging each defendant separately, rather than as a group.

Among the defendants is John J. DeMartini, 44, of Mill Valley, vice president of International Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J Jan. 7. The Valentine's Day rally was called in support of the striking union.

Others on trial are Nimmes H. Shelton, 40, Charles P. Vance, 29, Alvis D. Bailey, 43, and James S. Brooke, 35, all of San Francisco; Joe E. Reese, 31, of Hayward, and Terry W. Lansing, 20, of Berkeley.

In a 16-count indictment returned by the Marin County Grand Jury, all are accused of participating in a riot and in an unlawful assembly; all but Shelton are charged with felony assault on a police officer; Lansing, Bailey, DeMartini, Brooke and Vance are charged with remaining at a place of a riot; Lansing, Bailey, DeMartini, Brooke and Vance are charged with failing to disperse; Bailey, DeMartini and Lansing are charged with delaying and obstructing an officer; Shelton is accused of carrying a black jack and slingshot, and Bailey is charged with possessing a black jack.

Seventeen persons, including three police officers, were injured in the riotous demonstration. Six required hospital treatment.

The rally drew a crowd estimated at more than 600 persons. Windows in the I-J building were smashed and paint and other objects hurled. A delivery truck was set afire.

Juvenile Hearing Set In Burglary

Two 13-year-old Petaluma boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary and petty theft from cars.

Larry Anthony Beck, 711 Petaluma Boulevard South, and Frank Allen Claxton, 428 Fifth Street, were released to their parents to appear at a juvenile hearing on Nov. 5.

Police accused the boys of breaking into Ken's Market, 400 Eighth Street, Sunday night and taking a case of wine valued at $9.

Brebner Resigns From Festival

John Brebner, founder of the Marin Shakespeare Festival and its executive director for 10 years, resigned his post at last night's quarterly meeting of the festival directors.

He said expansion of the festival with road trips, additional productions and other growth are "beginning to take a toll of time and energy I can no longer meet." He also cited the need to attend to family interests.

The festival directors will meet in November to select another director.

Blount Given Blank Check On POW Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon instructed Postmaster General Winton M. Blount Wednesday to travel to Hanoi, if necessary, to make sure that American prisoners of war in Vietnam receive their Christmas mail from home this year.

Blount read a statement by Nixon at a ceremony introducing two new 6-cent stamps in red, white and blue, one of them honoring all U.S. servicemen including "prisoners of war, missing and killed in action." The other honors disabled veterans.

$400,000 Awarded In Chloromycetin Case

LONG BEACH (UPI)—A superior court jury here awarded $400,000 damages Tuesday in the 1965 death of a housewife who died after taking a dose of the drug, Chloromycetin.

John Stevens, whose wife Phyllis died Dec. 25, 1965, claimed the drug was negligently manufactured by Parke-Davis Co. of Detroit, and negligently prescribed by Dr.

College Measures Before Irate Taxpayers Group

Irate Taxpayers of Marin will be asked to endorse Marin County measures B and C at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow in the auditorium of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building at Third and Brooks streets, San Rafael.

A representative of the citizens committee working for passage of the two measures, which will benefit the College of Marin, will address the meeting.

Annual nominations of officers and directors of the organization will also be held tomorrow at the meeting which is open to the public.

Rubella Shots Given To 5,100 In Sonoma

More than 5,100 Sonoma County children received rubella immunization on Sunday, surpassing estimates by Dr. Walter C. Clowers, county health officer.

Dr. Clowers said the six-hour session at nine clinics "was the largest one-day immunization in the county since the polio campaign of 1962."

He said other rubella clinics may be scheduled and that immunization shots are given regularly at the county health department on the second and fourth Fridays of each month from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

To Higher Court On Armed Robbery

Two Santa Rosa men charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in the holdup of a San Rafael pool hall owner on Oct. 9 were bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26, are to be arraigned Monday. They were arrested after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, where they abandoned their car.

They reportedly held up George Lefevre, owner of George's Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car, and grabbed a bag containing $19,000. They are accused of firing two shots at pursuers as they fled.

in the exercise of their right of free speech."

The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio earlier in the day filed a similar petition in U.S. District Court in Cleveland.

The county court had allowed White to comment on the grand jury report, bat not to criticize it.

The grand jury report, issued Friday following 18 days of hearings during which 300 persons testified, laid the major blame for the disorders on a "permissive attitude" of the university administration. It said the National Guardsmen had fired at the students in the "logical belief" their lives were in danger.

The ACLU suit in federal court contends the court-imposed silence deprives the jury witnesses of their rights of free speech. The union also claimed the court selectively relaxed the order to allow certain persons to comment, such as special prosecutor evening, Mrs. Cadwallader, whose husband, Jack, is a partner in a broom manufacturing plant, drove her black and gold Lincoln Continental up the steep grade to the Ohta home. Mr. and Mrs. Ohta were going to a 7:15 p.m. dinner meeting at Dominican Santa Cruz Hospital and the secretary was to sit with the two boys.

Before the couple had started dressing for dinner, the killers entered the house and confronted them.

Apparently lining up the five victims on the edge of the swimming pool, they bound their hands in front of them and blindfolded them. Then they shot them down from behind. Ohta was shot twice in the center of the back, the others in the back of the neck.

The killers, using kindling, made "several attempts" to start a fire. They finally succeeded in touching off a roaring blaze which gutted much of the house and its furnishings and caused $150,000 damages.

James said there was no indication of a struggle or that the victims had been beaten.

"The fire could have been set before or after the shooting," he said. "I think probably they

OBITUARIES

CONSUELO MILLER

At her request, no service will be held for Consuelo Merriman Miller of San Francisco who died of a heart attack at her home last Saturday.

Mrs. Miller, 58, was the sister of Mary Jean Knowles of Kentfield.

She was a native of Seattle and had lived in San Francisco since 1917.

She was employed as manager of the high fashion gown salon at Saks Fifth Avenue in San Francisco. Prior to joining Saks in 1952, Mrs. Miller had worked for I. Magnin and Ransohoffs Inc.

Burial was at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park in Colma. Memorial gifts to the San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind are preferred.

MAUDE MITCHELL

Funeral for Maude M. Mitchell, mother of Esther Alpers of San Rafael, was held yesterday in San Francisco. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

Mrs. Mitchell, 83, died Saturday in a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Philadelphia, Pa., but came to California with her family as an infant. She lived at Fort Bragg until moving to San Francisco at the age of 16. She had been in a San Rafael convalescent hospital for about two years.

She was formerly involved with child care and Republican party activities in San Francisco and was a member of the Holy Rosary Sodality of Star of the Sea Church in San Francisco.

In addition to Mrs. Alpers, she is survived by a brother, Hardin S. Ware, and two sisters, Muriel Garrett and Ruth Shirar, all of San Francisco, and one grandson.

MARIE P. GLYNN

Funeral for Marie P. Glynn, mother of Matilda Wright of Novato, will be Friday at Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Glynn, who lived for the past 13 months with her daughter at 1095 San Jose Boulevard, died Sunday at a local hospital following a long illness. She was 72.

A native of St. Kitts, British West Indies, she lived most of her life in Springfield.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by four sons, Samuel Pickering, Arthur P., Thomas A. and Arnold U. Glynn, all of Springfield. She is also survived by five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Burial will be at the Oak Grove Cemetery in Springfield.

WILLIAM NICHOLLS

Funeral for William Austin Nicholls, 57, of 16 Capilano Drive, Novato, was held today in Novato. He died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Eureka and had spent most of his life working for Anaconda Copper Corp. in Chili. His home has been in Novato the past six years, but he had been working for Dinnel Corp. in Vietnam.

He is survived by his wife, Sheila; three sons, William A. Nicholls Jr. of Vallejo, Brian and Bruce Nicholls of Novato and one grandchild.

Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

WILLIAM BOSWELL

Memorial service for William W. Boswell, father of Kathryn B. Lavender of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Corcoran, Kings County.

A resident of Corcoran and one of three brothers who founded the mammoth J. G. Boswell farming empire, Boswell died Saturday at a San Mateo hospital after surgery.

He and his brothers began farming on a 440-acre site near Corcoran in the 1920s. The firm now is one of the largest farming-ranching corporations in the nation. It has holdings of at least a million acres in Oregon, Arizona, and Tulare, King and Fresno Counties in California and in Australia.

Born in Penfield, Ga., Boswell came to California in 1924.

Besides Mrs. Lavender he is survived by two sons, William W. Boswell Jr., of Corcoran and J. G. Boswell II of Pasadena; another daughter, Josephine D. Larsen of Hillsborough; two sisters, Mrs. C. R. Smith of Short Hills, N.J. and Mrs. C. S. McWhorter of Coronado; and 10 grandchildren.

Burial will be in Sun City, Ariz.

WILLIAM FINDLEY

Funeral for William B. Findley, a former Kentfield resident and industrial engineer, will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Godeau Mortuary, 41 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco.

Findley, a native of San Francisco, died Monday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. He was 76.

During World War II, he was superintendent of the machine shops at the Marin Shipyard in Sausalito. After the war he ran his own engineering firm at Sonoma, and eight years ago took a post as consulting mechanical engineer with the United California Bank in San Francisco.

After establishing his business in Sonoma, Findley lived in Marin County for 25 years in both Kentfield and San Anselmo.

He was a member of Excelsior Lodge No. 166, Free and Accepted Masons; Marin Chapter No. 102 Royal Arch Masons; California Commandary No. 1; San Francisco Press Club; Stationary Engineers Local No. 36; the Marin Mutual Benevolent Association; a 25-year member of Islam Shrine and a retired member of the Shrine Patrol.

He is survived by his wife, Eleanor O. Findley of San Francisco; a son, Ralph W. Findley of San Anselmo; two stepdaughters, Dorothy Cronander and Eleanor Learned of San Francisco; a stepson, Arthur Bauer of Corte Madera; two sisters, Marion Findley and Loucetta Stang of San Francisco and a granddaughter.

Funeral will be under the auspices of Excelsior Lodge, with private inurnment to follow at Olivet Memorial Park.

The family requests memorial gifts be sent to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco.

MABEL BENN

Funeral for Mabel Benn, a resident of Marin County for 35 years, was held yesterday in San Anselmo. Entombment was at the Chapel of the Chimes Cemetery in Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Benn, 70, died Saturday in a local hospital following a long illness.

She resided with her husband, Jack Benn, at 35 El Camino Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Benn was a native of San Francisco and a member of Jehovah's Witnesses Church.

Her husband is her only survivor.

Five Named To Antidrug Board

Center Point, a program run by two ex-drug addicts to fight drug addiction, has named five Marinites to its founding board of directors.

President of the new board of directors, Ernest D. Mendenhall Jr., of Belvedere, yesterday said other board members are Rex Hutchinson, center director, Helen Carrigan of Belvedere, J. Patrick Heron of Mill Valley and William P. Muller of Ross.

Mendenhall said the board is considering members for an advsory board, to which Dr. Roger Smith, organizer of the Marin Open House, has already been named.

Center Point opened its doors at 805 D Street, San Rafael, in February and during the first eight months of operation reported helping more than 35 addicts "kick the habit."

However, almost since its inception, the center has been struggling with financial woes, according to Mendenhall.

Hutchinson has reported the center will need about $1,000 in donations to keep operations going for another month.

After November, the center's staff hopes to acquire about $70,000 in grants from two private foundations but until that time it is a hand-to-mouth operation.

Each foundation has promised $36,000, but cannot begin funding Center Point until after their respective boards of directors approve the financing later this month or in November, according to Hutchinson.

Until that time, Hutchinson said, the facility must rely on gifts from private donors and the funds it has received from the Marin Charitable Foundation.

Persons interested in contributing to the center, which has been endorsed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the county economic opportunity council, may make out contribution checks to Center Point and mail them to 805 D Street, San Rafael, Mendenhall said.

Belvedere Turns Down A Third Residence

A series of variances to allow a Belvedere man to build a house on a lot that already contains two residences has been rejected by the city's planning commission.

Commissioner William H. Rafter reported the commission turned down the applications of Henry K. Mettier of 330 Beach Road at its Monday meeting.

Mettier had sought permission to build a new house on his lot and remove kitchen facilities from an existing three-bedroom house there.

Under the zoning ordinance, Rafter said, the kitchen work would be required because a guest house and another residence are permitted on the same lot only if the guest facility has no kitchen.

Mettier needed the variance to remodel the older house, built in 1890, becaus it is a nonconforming use due to the fact it encroaches on the required five-foot setbacks.

Further complicating the case, Rafter said, is a guest house already constructed on the property.

"This would have allowed three residential buildings on one site, and I just don't approve of that," Rafter said. His motion to deny Mettier's application passed unanimously.

The commission granted a variance to Frank King, 127 Golden Gate Avenue, to build a garage within the required front-yard setback.

Deferred to the commission's Nov. 16 meeting was consideration of a variance asked by W.S. Newhall to build a garage at 242 Beach Road within the front and sideyard setbacks. The commission wanted time for an on-site inspection, Rafter said.

Mail A Lot Slower Than Trip To Earth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took the Apollo 12 astronauts only five days last November to come home from the moon with lunar samples. The space agency mailed some of the samples from Texas 23 days ago and they still haven't arrived in New York.

The agency asked the Post Office to trace the 13 grams of moon dust sent in two packages by registered mail. One package was addressed to a laboratory at Columbia University, and the second was mailed to the Army Post Office in New York from where it was to be sent to Saudia Arabia for a U.S. Geological Survey scientist.

Zone Review Proposed For Sausalito

A proposal to establish a zoning review board to remove the burden of routine zoning matters from the Sausalito Planning Commission and city council will be considered by the commission at 8 o'clock tonight in city hall.

Under the plan - proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr - the review board would handle requests for zoning changes, variances and conditional use permits, as well as other zoning items now handled by the planners.

His proposal calls for a three-man board, including the city planning director and two members appointed by the city council. St. Cyr said he favors the zoning board to relieve the council and planning commission "so both bodies can get into the big problems they should be facing, such as waterfront planning and traffic congestion."

Cannibal Killer Is Given Life

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)—Cannibal killer Stanley Dean Baker, 23, who admitted he ate the heart of his victim, has been given a life sentence.

District Judge Jack Shanstrom Tuesday accepted Baker's guilty plea and passed sentence. He could have also sentenced him to death by hanging.

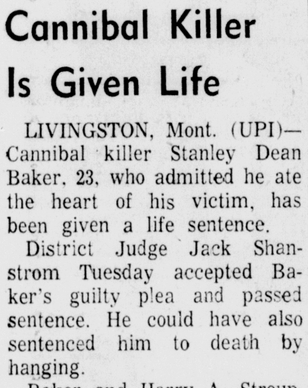
Baker and Harry A. Stroup, 20, both of Sheridan, Wyo., were accused in the July 9 dismemberment and cannibal slaying of James M. Schlosser, 22, Great Falls, Mont.

Schlosser was a welfare worker in the community of Roundup at the time of his death. His remains, without head or heart, were found in the Yellowstone River near Gardiner July 10.

Stroup has pleaded innocent and is scheduled to go on trial Nov. 16.

To Pay Respects

ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (UPI) —Aristotle Onassis and his wife, Jacqueline arrived in Capri Tuesday night on their yacht to pay a visit of condolence to the widow of Count Albert Edward von Bismarck.



New Mini Bits are nibbie-size little chunks that mean easy, pour-from-the-can serving.

CORTE MADERA

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and Democratic challenger Dale Bumpers both are campaigning on promises of reform and progress.

They seem not to disagree so much on what should be done as on which of them can do it better.

The point has not escaped Walter L. Carruth, the eastern Arkansas farmer who is the gubernatorial candidate of the American Party in Arkansas, the third-party vehicle George C. Wallace rode in 1968 to win the state's six electoral votes.

Carruth says both men are unabashed liberals who would be soft on federal orders to bus school children for racial balance.

Rockefeller's campaign, believed to cost well into seven figures, is visually and verbally low key. His billboards say simply, "He will do more for Arkansas."

The governor says he is happy to run on his "reform" record.

Bumpers says the issues boil down to who can work with the 97 per cent Democratic general assembly to get the legislation the state needs, especially in education, prison reform and getting doctors into the rural areas.

Rockefeller, 58, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and one of the wealthiest politicians in the country, proposed an unpopular $100 million tax increase program in the 1969 session.

Bumpers' campaign is more modest. He said he spent $75,000 in the first primary. He said another $75,000 from outside contributions was used for the primary runoff in which he upset former six-term Gov. Orval E. Faubus. Bumpers estimated he would spend another $150,000 in the general election.

The governor of Arkansas makes $10,000 a year—least of all 50 governors.

The race has attracted attention of such disparate political figures as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who said Rockefeller's administration has been 11 four-year research project in civics."

Bumpers, 45, a lawyer from Charleston in far-western Arkansas, has been charged with having nothing substantial to offer the state.

Agnew called Bumpers "a grim and grunt" candidate.

Rockefeller said Bumpers was trying to "take over the governor's office with a smile, a shoeshine and one speech."

Carruth, 39, said Bumpers has "a nice smile, which is fine for selling toothpaste, but not worth a damn in the governor's race."

Despite the knocks, Bumpers is the favored candidate. But the major question is, can his popularity hold up through the Nov. 3 general election and a possible runoff two weeks later?

Some observers feel that the runoff question is the most important issue, and it probably will not be resolved until the day before the election.

The 1969 Election Code—in an amendment apparently designed to stymie the American Party requires any candidate for governor or other statehouse office to receive a majority of the votes to be elected.

Rockefeller and other Republican leaders have filed suit challenging the constitutionality of the law on the basis the state constitution says the candidate with the most votes shall be the winner.

Republican strategists feel it is possible that Bumpers could lose enough support before the general election, and with the votes being picked up by Carruth and Rockefeller, Rockefeller could win.

Carruth would be happy with 15 per cent of the vote, the number he needs to keep a ballot position for his party.

Pollution Warning

CAIRO (UPI) — Kamal Stino, a member of Egypt's ruling Arab Socialist Union, has warned that Egypt's population will reach 70 million by the year 2000 unless more effective birth control measures are taken. The current population is 33 million.

The U.S. Military Academy at West Point opened July 4, 1802.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy | For Secretary of State James Flournoy | Governor Ronald Reagan | Lt. Governor Ed Reinecke | State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest | For Attorney General Evelle J. Younger

Here is the team to keep California moving ahead in the '70s.

State Controller
Houston I. Flournoy
A former educator before seeking public office, Hugh served six years in the State Assembly and was elected Controller in 1966. He is known as an expert in education finance and taxation, and headed a special task force on tax reform for Governor Reagan.

For Secretary of State
James Flournoy
Recognized as an outstanding businessman, attorney and civic leader in Los Angeles. He heads a Chamber of Commerce and YMCA Board of Directors in southwest Los Angeles. In 1968, he was asked to direct special campaign activities for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Governor
Ronald Reagan
Elected 33rd Governor of California by almost one million votes. His common sense approach brought the state back from the brink of insolvency in 1967, has resulted in many major reforms and has successfully reversed the growth of big government.

Lt. Governor
Ed Reinecke
Successful businessman, manufacturer and inventor before being elected to six years in the U.S. Congress. Appointed Lt. Governor in 1969, Reinecke has reformed the office and heads important task forces on drug abuse and narcotics, and environmental quality.

State Treasurer
Ivy Baker Priest
Elected in 1966, Ivy's brilliant investment policies have earned California more than $350 million; "profits" which helped finance State programs. A member of Gov. Reagan's Cabinet, she served as Treasurer of the United States under President Dwight Eisenhower.

For Attorney General
Evelle J. Younger
District attorney of Los Angeles County, the largest single prosecution agency of its kind in the nation. A former FBI agent, City Prosecutor and Superior Court Judge, Evelle Younger also is chairman of President Nixon's Task Force on Crime and Law Enforcement.

The real issue in this election is whether California will keep moving ahead or fall back to the old politics and failures of the early sixties.

Re-elect Governor Reagan and this outstanding team—keep California moving ahead in the 70's. On Nov. 3—Vote for the Team for the '70s!

Re-elect Governor Reagan and the Team for the '70s.

HAMBURGER RESTAURANT FOE

Carol Tapping of Mill Valley stands at the busy corner of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue and tries to convince motorists to join her in opposing a planned Burger Chef restaurant at the intersection. Carol, 14, attended Monday's city council meeting but was told by Mayor George E. Wickham that a building permit for the restaurant already has been issued and there is no chance of halting construction. She complained Mill Valley already has too many hamburger stands.

Threatened Head Start Budget Cuts Bring Impassioned Pleas

By PAT ANGLE

Approximately 700 irate parents and Head Start employees from all over California — angered by threatened budget cuts in the federal program for low-income pre-school youngsters — shouted their displeasure at a meeting yesterday in Marin.

Target of most of the hostile comment was Dr. Edward Zigler, national director of the Office of Child Development, who tried unsuccessfully to tell the parents he was in sympathy with their demands.

Dr. Zigler spoke at a meeting of the Northern California Head Start Association, held in the Manzanita Center in Marin City. He said he is traveling around the country to hear the views of persons who have a stake in programs which could be cut. "I am here to listen to what you have to say," he told the overflow audience. "I get your message loud and clear and I intend to take it back to Washington."

Although Zigler said he has had no official word on the exact amount which could be cut from Head Start's budget, which totaled $324 million last year, he said a proposed cut of 13.5 per cent has been rumored. Congress will act in three or four weeks on the Head Start budget — currently set at $339 million for 1971 — when it returns from its recess.

The Head Start program takes children from poor families and gives them specialized preschool training to prepare them to enter school. If the children cannot speak English, language instruction is part of the curriculum, according to Esther Martinez, director of the Southern Alameda County Head Start. She said the program encourages parental involvement and indicated many low-income parents have part-time employment with Head Start.

The program, which has been transferred from the auspices of the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Office of Child Development, a part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has already been forced to make administrative budget cuts which will become effective next March.

Mrs. Martinez, whose particular program serves 380 children, either in year-round or summer classes, said Southern Alameda is already scheduled to lose $60,000 next year. As a consequence, she said all summer classes — serving about 100 youngsters — are being eliminated in 1971. "More cuts will hurt us very much," she said.

Zigler promised the parents he would "do every sing thing in the future — not only to avert (budget) cuts, but to convince the president and the congress we need more money."

The parents — waiving signs that read "Cut Research, Not Kids," "Head Start Needs Funds, Not the Moon," and "No Cold Cuts, We Need Bread." — appeared impervious to Zigler's repeated assurances that he was on their side.

"Who are you working for — Nixon?" one man shouted. "It's election time; that's why he's here," called another. "We're not going to let you stop some programs and let others go on," cried Bishop Paul Miles, pastor of the Church of God and Christ in San Francisco's Western Addition. "Before you stop one or two (programs), you can take them all back," Bishop Miles told Zigler.

The audience cheered, whistled and shouted approval for most of the speakers who spoke against the budget cuts.

A San Francisco parent, Mrs. Ida Amaya, gave an impassioned plea for Head Start, saying her daughter — a Head Start graduate — is now the top student in her class. "I don't want to go on welfare; I want a good education;" she said in broken English.

Many low-income parents said they did not want welfare and called education the key to a better life for them and their children.

If the programs are cut "and the parents go on welfare, then people will say they don't want to work," Miles declared, while the audience applauded wildly.

At one point, a Hunter's Point woman took the microphone and threatened to hold it until the parents' demands for more Head Start money were met. "We want action now," she said.

A man warned the poor "will take to the streets" if their needs are not met. He drew cheers, while a woman who urged the audience to get out and vote and encourage others to vote for candidates who will help was booed.

Following the volatile meeting a weary Zigler, on his way to another gathering in Seattle, admitted he has encountered similar hostile reactions around the country.

But he was undismayed —and actually heartened —by the show of emotion. "I know the people are angry and I don't blame them a bit," he said with feeling.

Sunday's Services May Be Last

What may be the final worship services in San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday.

After the 11 a.m. service Sunday, the landmark sanctuary at Fifth Avenue and E Street will be closed, Rev. Charles C. Griffin, pastor, said yesterday.

The regular 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday services will be held thereafter in Canoles Hall, on the west side of the church property.

The church's governing body has recommended the building be demolished because engineering studies have declared it an earthquake hazard.

The studies said that much of the mortar between the stones, as well as the stones themselves, has deteriorated since the structure was erected in the early 1890s. Brick pillars which support the roof also have deteriorated.

Rev. Griffin said a final decision on whether or not to demolish the structure and replace it with a new one will be made by the congregation at its annual meeting Jan. 20.

He said architectural drawings of the proposed new sanctuary will be displayed for the congregation around Dec. 20.

Agnew's Stock Soars For '76

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., the Republican national chairman, has proposed Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for President in 1976.

While introducing Agnew at a GOP fund-raiser here Tuesday night, Morton said he will nominate him for vice president at the 1972 GOP convention.

"And, at the 1976 convention, I intend to nominate him for president of the United States," Morton added.

The 800 Republicans at the dinner cheered.

Kidney Transplanted Into San Rafael Man

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 23-year-old San Rafael man was reported in satisfactory condition today at the University of California Medical Center after a three-and-one-half-hour kidney transplant operation yesterday.

The hospital said William D. Brady of 211 Canal Street was "doing extremely well" following the operation. His 26-year-old brother, Paul, who donated a kidney, was also listed in satisfactory condition.

Brady suffered a kidney failure in July one day after his marriage. Since then he has been unable to work and has had to travel to the medical center every other day for six hour treatments on a kidney dialysis machine.

On Oct. 6, his kidneys, spleen and appendix were removed. He remained in the hospital in preparation for yesterday's operation.

His wife, Susan, after the operation, said her husband might leave the hospital in about four weeks providing no complications developed.

However, if serious problems arise, she said, "he will be on the kidney machine the rest of his life. But that's not going to happen."

Mrs. Brady said her husband appeared in good spirits and was talking with his family. "He says it hurts a lot," she reported, "but he's in good spirits."

Mrs. Brady said she and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Brady of 384 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, are collecting Betty Crocker coupons which can be traded in for a kidney machine. It takes 800,000 coupons she said.

"There's a great need for a kidney machine in Marin County," she said. "Kidney failure is a widespread problem, so a machine in Marin could save people from as far away as Redding going into San Franciso."

She said once the necessary coupons are collected, the machine will be donated to a hospital in Marin willing to provide the staff and service.

Marin General Hospital officials have said it does not intend to accept a machine and that adequate facilities are available in San Francisco.

Ross General Hospital officials said installation of a kidney machine is under consideration, while officials at Novato General Hosptal had no comment.

Guilty Plea Entered On Drug Possession

Douglas F. Farley, 18, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, pleaded guilty yesterday in Sothern Sonoma Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor possession of dangerous drugs.

Farley had originally been charged with selling marijuana, selling amphetamines and felony possession of dangerous drugs. Judge Alexander J. McMahon set sentencing for Nov. 16.

Charles In Plea For Wildlife

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, has appealed for worldwide efforts to ensure the survival of wildlife.

In the foreward of a book entitled "The Living World of Animals" published today by The Readers Digest in association with the world Wildlife Fund, Charles said:

"The awesome fact which always appals me is that once a species has vanished, no amount of human ingenuity or technological ability can resurrect it. We have lost something unique which has probably taken 20 million years to evolve and we have it well and truly imprinted on our consciences— or we ought to have."

RAIN IDLES WORK ON CREEK

A massive crane was stranded in the newly constructed concrete channel at Corte Madera Creek at College of Marin following yesterday's rain storm. Officials for the Phase 3-A contractor said about six feet of water backed up in the channel. A dam at the mouth of the channel to hold back tide waters was opened last night allowing the ponded water to flow into San Francisco Bay. There was no damage to the project and the crane was to be removed today, officials said.

$11,000 Drug Raid In Fairfax; 12 Suspects

Drug agents last night raided a Fairfax house suspected of being a center for narcotics sales, seized marijuana and drugs valued at over $11,000, and arrested 12 persons.

The agents, armed with a search warrant after a sale of 50 kilos of pot to federal agents, said they confiscated the 50 kilos from a car outside the home and found five kilos more in the house at 43 Manor View Drive.

They also said they found a half pound of hashish and a small amount of cocaine.

Charged with the sale were Julian Crawford Johnson III, 20, of 12 Traxler Road, and James Robert Thaxter, 27, of 45 Florence Avenue, both San Anselmo. They were also booked into jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale.

William Mansfield Graham, 21, of Muir Beach, was booked on suspicion of having marijuana for sale, with bail set at $6,250. Harold Lynn White, 20, of 43 Manor View Drive, Fairfax, was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics, with bail set at $2,500.

Booked on suspicion of possession of "pot" and narcotics, with bail at $1,250 each, were:

Michael Diebel, 24, of Bolinas; Randolph Joseph Bak, 24, of 1 Novato Court, Novato; Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, of 100 Main Street, San Quentin Village; Carmela Lynch, 19, of 69 Meernaa Avenue, Fairfax, and Sonya Gail Foster, 18, of San Francisco.

Robert Michael Meyer, 22, of 1460 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was booked on the same charges, but with bail at $250.

Two teen-agers, Nancy Umphress, 17, who lives at the raided house, and Gordon Blankenburg, 16, of Fairfax, were booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics.

Those in jail had not posted bail and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Cotati Trustees Grumble At Price, But Will Sell Wing

The Cotati School District board last night agreed to sell the east wing of Cotati School to the City of Cotati for a new city hall, but grumbled at the low price of $3,500.

Schools Supt. Duncan A. Coleman said strict procedures had been followed in getting appraisals of the property and the top figure was $3,500. Original estimates had put the price as high as $20,000.

Reluctantly, the board approved the sale, with trustee Maurice C. Fredericks dissenting.

The district will be permitted to use two rooms for storage, Coleman said.

The Cotati School District Board Also:

ADDITION — Heard that funding for a six-classroom addition to Waldo Rohnert School has been delayed because of a drop in district enrollment. Coleman said new efforts will be made to get money for the project.

GRADING — Heard a report that Cotati School has joined Thomas Page School in using a narrative progress report card rather than the traditional letter grades.

LEASE — Approved a lease for district office space with Spivock Co. that raises rent from $267 to $319 per month.

New Rules On TV Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) told television advertisers today not to hide the truth under a slick commercial.

In a policy statement, the FTC said when it requires "clear and conspicuous" disclosure of some adverse fact in a commercial, that means the viewer must be able to hear it, to read it on the screen, and to understand it.

Don't print it in black letters on a brown background, the FTC said, and don't drown out the oral warning with music.

Leave the printed message on long enough for people to read it, even if they have a small screen set, and do it right after the sales pitch, the agency said. If it's a children's product, make sure the bad news—like the good—is expressed so kids can understand it.

A Venetian, John Cabot, or Giovanni Cabotto, discovered Labrador in 1497.

Nader Aide To Consumer Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what some critics may charge is putting the fox in the chicken coop, the Civil Aeronautics Board plans to name one of Ralph Nader's raiders to head a newly formed airline consumer advisory committee, it was learned today.

Reuben Robertson, a 31-year-old lawyer who earlier this year sued the CAB to force it to release information on consumer complaints, was selected by CAB Chairman Secor D. Browie to be chairman of the nine-member group.

Browne also is expected to name two other advisory committees, one made up of representatives from the airline industry. The other will comprise members of the airline labor force.

Gls Report Phony Medal For General

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six enlisted men have charged that they were ordered to draft "from thin air" imaginary acts of combat heroism so an Army general in Vietnam could receive two of the nation's highest military honors.

In a letter to Chairman Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, and made public today, Spec. 4 Roy R. Trent Jr., said his unit was ordered to draw up the necessary papers Oct. 4 for the Silver Star and Distinguissed Flying Cross for Brig. Gen. E. P. Forrester.

Trent's letter was signed by five other enlisted men from the 1st Cavalry Division's awards and decorations office.

He was writing Rivers, Trent said, to report a "grave infraction of military policy and an abominable insult to the integrity and intelligence of all lower grade enlisted personnel."

According to Trent, the awards office was ordered to "create recommendations" of the medals for Forrester "for actions in which he never participated" during the Cambodian operation earlier this year.

According to the New York Times, which was given a copy of the Trent letter, Forrester received the Silver Star Medal last Thursday but that plans for presenting the flying cross were dropped.

At the time, Forrester was assistant 1st Cavalry commander. The Times said Col. George Newman, the unit's chief of staff, said he had ordered the recommendation drafted in a hurry so it could be presented to Forrester before he left the division for a new assigment.

On the night of Oct. 4, Trent wrote, "we were required to prepare a descriptive narrative of his supposed acts of valor, a citation for these imaginary acts, and to have this fraudulent document in such form as to be acceptable, and approvable, by the Awards and Decorations Board.

Woman Struck, Killed While Crossing 101

A 30-year-old San Rafael woman was killed last night when she was struck by a car as she walked across Highway 101 in San Rafael.

Janet Elaine Manerud, of 1005 Irwin Street, was hurled 161 feet when she was hit by an auto driven by Donald I. Goodman, 45, of 31 Oakwood Drive, San Rafael, just north of the intersection of Highways 101 and 17, the California Highway patrol reported.

Goodman told the highway patrol he was northbound on the freeway at 11:25 p.m..

Miss Manerud was unemployed, said Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig.

"I had just looked over my shoulder to make a lane change," he told officers, "and when I looked back she was walking in front of me."

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael, where arrangements were pending today.

The death was the county's 31st traffic fatality this year, compared to 29 at this time last year.

Station Permit Not Unanimous

Permit for a Mobil Oil Co. gas station at Mission and Lincoln avenues was not upheld unanimously by the San Rafael City Council Monday night, as erroneously reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal. The vote was 3-2.

Committee Will Study Instruction

Ross School District trustees last night voted to form a committee to review and redraft district policies on instruction and curriculum.

The board received a draft of Chapter 1 of a new policy manual, to be reviewed for the Nov. 17 meeting.

The instruction-curriculum committee will include two parents of pupils now in the school, two parents of graduates, two parents of pre-school youngsters, two pupils, two teen-agers graduated from Ross School, two teachers, and administrators.

The Ross School District board also:

UNIFICATION — Adopted a resolution calling for an end to mandatory unification elections each general election year. The resolution parallels that adopted by Tamalpais High School District trustees Monday night, Supt. Thomas A. Anderson said.

DRAMATICS — Approved a series of five in-service classes in creative dramatics for all district teachers, to be conducted by Marion Hayes Cain at cost of $150.

HIRING — Hired Everett W. Slane as custodian at $610 per month, effective Dec. 21, and promoted Bob Slane to head custodian at $675 to replace Harold Murray, who is retiring.

TEACHERS — Recognized the Ross School District Teachers Association as the faculty's representative body.

Sonoma Takes Action To Cut Welfare Costs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to reduce costs of welfare programs if the state reduces its share of the required programs.

The resolution, passed unanimously, says in effect that if the state reduces funds for a mandated program, the county will not make up the difference from local taxes.

The board has long complained of an increasing trend by the state to shift welfare costs to the counties.

Anticipating further state cuts in cost-sharing, the resolution said it will be impossible for the county to continue welfare programs at their present levels. It authorizes the social service department to reduce welfare programs automatically when state funds are reduced.

Apartment Unit Plans Rejected

Plans of Charles Locati for a five-unit apartment at 10 Willow Avenue were rejected last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee because a parking lot would block the view of a creek.

The committee approved construction of a 7-11 Food Store on the northeast corner of Miller Avenue and Locust Street. The applicant Kenneth E. Niles must apply to the city planning commission for a variance to permit six parking spaces where 13 are required by the zoning ordinance.

The architectural advisory committee approved a revised grading plan for the Shelter Ridge apartment project, and an addition to the Tamalpais Animal Hospital at 691 East Blithedale Avenue.

Ecology Fad Is Not New Field

When ecology and the environment overnight became major causes, no change was necessary to make the fifth grade course of study at Fairfax's Deer Park School relevant to the new development.

Mrs. Isabel Cartwright, who has been teaching Deer Park fifth graders since 1953, has long been interested in environmental education. She had been in part responsible for the Fairfax School District's establishing an outdoor education and ecology program before such study became a fad.

Mrs. Cartwright comes by her interest naturally. Her father, the late George Schultzberg, for many years taught botany at Galileo High School in San Francisco. This, together with membership in the Sierra Club and Audubon Society, led her quite naturally to absorption with the natural environment.

Furthermore, she has found Deer Park School "a delightful place to work" in part because of its location in a wooded area that lends itself to outdoor classes (when the weather is nice).

She has found district support for her endeavors, too. And the Deer Park Parent-Teacher Association has a volunteer group organizing conservation studies in cooperation with the school.

Mrs. Cartwright hastens to add that her interests go beyond ecology of embrace all the fifth grade curriculum, and that the intermediate grades (fourth, fifth and sixth) are her favorites, although she has taught in others.

Before joining the Fairfax district, she taught in Calistoga, Monterey, Palo Alto and San Francisco schools.

She and her daughter Charlsey, a Sonoma tSate College student, reside at 60 Belle Avenue, Fairfax.

Community Actors Pick Christie Play

"Witness for the Prosecution" by Agatha Christie has been chosen for the play for February 1972 by the Novato Community Players, said secretary Paul R. Terry Jr.

The club picks its plays more than a year in advance so that members who want particular parts can plan ahead for them, Terry said.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS MOVED

An ambulance driver and highway patrolmen prepare to move to Marin General Hospital a woman injured in a collision on Highway 101 at the north end of the San Rafael overpass. Three San Francisco women — Frances Osborne, 64; Josephine Chierenza, 68, and Tngelina Bini, 66 — were treated for cuts and bruises at the hospital after the 11:20 a.m. accident yesterday. According to the California Highway Patrol, a truck, driven by Laurence E. Goodell, 23, of San Bruno, collided in the northbound lane, with Mrs. Osborne's car and another driven by Frank D. Nieto, 58, of 155 Blackstone Drive, Marinwood.

Condominium Development Sidetracked

Setback requirements for a future condominium housing development were waived yesterday by the Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments.

Representatives of Sunco Development Corp. said the living units at Ely Boulevard North and East Washington Street must be classed as zero setback since the home buyers will be purchasing only the ground beneath their housing units. Property around the homes will be in common ownership for maintenance purposes.

The board approved the site design for an addition to the Petaluma City Hall as planned by the County of Sonoma. It approved requests of Earl Dickason to operate a fireplace and furnace cleaning service from his home at 324 Walnut Street, of Bernard Kirsch for a vending machine distribution service from his home at 1433 Colwood Drive, and of Cliff Bowen for sales and service of office machines from his home at 917 Holly Lane.

Belvedere Change In Paper Drive

The next newspaper collection drive sponsored by the Belvedere Committee for the Environment will not be tomorrow, as previously announced.

The collection schedule has been changed to the first Thursday of each month, according to a committee spokesman. The next collection will be Nov. 5. Papers should be bundled securely on four sides and left at curbside.

The committee announced that the city's first newspaper collection netted almost five tons of paper. More than five dumptruck loads of newspapers were delivered to the Marin Ecology Center for eventual recycling.

The committee has also changed its meeting day to the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 8 p.m. at the Belvedere Community Mall.

Directors Of Sierra National Face Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A suit asking $5 million in damages has been filed against eight directors of the Sierra National Bank of Sonoma and Marin counties for conspiracy to control the bank and voting of its stock.

Plaintiffs in the action, which was filed Monday in the superior court are Dr. Alfred Auerbach and Molly Auerbach, a San Francisco psychiatrist and his wife; and Lee F. Castner, a Boyes Hot Springs insurance agent, individually, and on behalf of other stockholders in the bank.

Specifically the complaint names the bank and its directors John Sears, Raymond Gambonini, Mary Volpi, Henry Luehring, Fred I. Cooper, Y. Charles Soda, Benjamin Phelps and Manual Gonsalves as defendents, and asks for general damages of $1 million and punitive damages of $4 million.

The suit alleges that some of the defendent directors are attempting to obtain control of the bank by purchasing a block of stock owned by other defendent directors at a price substantially in excess of the current market price without any offer being made to other shareholders to purchase their stock at the same price.

It charges Cooper, one of the directors, with entering into an association with Clyde Charlton, chairman of the board of Bell Savings and Loan Association (formerly Marin County Savings and Loan) and of Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., its parent corporation, and other persons unnamed for the purpose of "manipulating and controlling the bank in their favor and for the purpose of concealing improper bank activities all to the detriment of the shareholders."

It also charges that the directors have blocked other potential purchasers, including Central Valley National Bank and United States National Bank, who are reported to have offered to purchase all of the outstanding shares of the bank at the same price or more if given an opportunity to inspect the books and records of the bank.

In addition to damages, the suit asks for a temporary injunction halting consummation of an arrangement set forth in a proxy statement of Sept. 30 which reportedly would give Cooper and Charlton control of more than 50 per cent of the bank's voting shares.

Sierra National Bank is headquartered in Petaluma. It has branch offices in Sebastopol and Boyes Hot Springs, Sonoma County, and also five offices in Marin County.

Monagan In Support Of Peter Behr

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — Assembly Speaker Robert Monagan, R-Tracy, last night urged the election of Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, in campaign appearances in both Vallejo and Napa.

Monagan stressed Behr's record as a conservationist, noting that many of the environmental bills passed by the Assembly last session were stalled in the Senate. "There isn't anyone I know more qualified or more interested in the field of conservation than Peter Behr," Monagan said. "He will give us the hand we need over in the Senate to get these important bills passed in the next session.

Monagan spoke before some 250 persons at a Vallejo reception for Behr, and about 175 persons at a Napa dinner.

The speaker said that the "principal ingredient" Behr would bring to the Senate was "his dedicated, enthusiastic and interested leadership ability," according to a press release from Behr's campaign headquarters.

Back Pay Is Denied To Draftsman

Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the Marin County Planning Department, will not get back pay for the 14 months she worked without realizing that the county supervisors had authorized her promotion.

Marin County Personnel commissioners voted 2-1 this morning to deny her appeal. I. Wayland Bonbright and Daniel F. O'Looney voted for denial because of the 14 months time lapse, during which Mrs. Collins did not inquire about her promotion.

Chairman Robert B. McCreadie voted for the back pay. Two other commissioners, Bella Aaron and Parnell Finn, were absent.

Mrs. Collins explained to the commissioners that when she received no word of her promotion in June 1969, she assumed she had been bypassed and made no further inquiries.

The board of supervisors had authorized a promotion for Mrs. Collins from Draftsman 1 to Draftsman 2. However, the followup paper work needed to change the paycheck was never processed.

She learned about the promotion 14 months later and asked for the pay difference, which would have totaled about $1,000.

The personnel commission's decision is final.

Rec Candidate Is Mechanical Engineer

Reed Group Pushes Ahead With Chore

The Reed School District Research and Assessment Committee tackled the chore of writing objectives for the district last night and got some disconcerting advice about how tough the job is.

The citizen committee may need to hire a consultant to help it write the objectives, suggested Irwin Karp, Reed School principal and committee secretary. Fresno State College gives a full-year graduate level course in how to write objectives, he said.

However, the committee, meeting at Bel Aire School, decided it will go ahead with the task without planning on either a consultant or a special training course.

Reed School Board Notes Drop In Enrollment, Wonders Why

Concern over declining enrollment was expressed by Reed School District trustees last night at their shortest board meeting of the year.

Interim Supt. Stanley Friese reported enrollment for the first month of the new school year at 1,972, down 56 from the 2,028 of last spring.

Trustee Kenneth G. Wells felt a study should be made to learn why the enrollment is declining. He mentioned a report that some pupils had been withdrawn to enter private schools.

Trustee James B. Richwagen thought the whole system of projecting enrollment needed revision. Last spring, he said, 2,080 pupils were predicted for this fall.

The board asked that Friese request the district's research and assessment committee to make a study, or to make it himself if the committee lacks the time.

There was a mild echo of last year's report card fuss in the district as Friese reported the cards used last year would be continued for the first two report periods this term, with one change: Instead of a separate card for each subject at the seventh-eighth grade level, all grades will be on a single card.

A member of the audience asked that absence and tardiness be shown on the report cards. He said teachers at Redwood High School had told him students from the Reed district were more lax in attendance and promptness than those from any other district served by the high school.

There was an echo also from the Oct. 9 meeting at which Friese was taken to task by trustee Leo Souza for a report to the Marin County Board of Education on his stewardship at Reed. Souza had been disturbed because Friese mentioned he "had to step on a lot of toes" because of loose operations in the district, especially in taking children on field trips without previous arrangements.

Minutes of the Oct. 9 meeting were amended to show that a motion to send a letter to the county schools superintendent objecting to Friese's report was by Souza, seconded by Richwagen and passed 3-1 with chairman Gordon C. Wright dissenting and Kenneth G. Wells absent.

Richwagen said he regretted his vote for the motion.

An unusual Reed district practice, in which gifts for school use are given directly to teachers instead of to the district, saw board acceptance of such gifts by the Reed Parent-Teacher Club: $50 to each teacher in Reed School for instructional materials; $200 to James Wilson for the library; $75 to Rita Goodman for the educationally handicapped program; $75 to Polly Yates for the drama class; $50 to Kathy Rolston to put in a garden and compost pile behind the school building.

In the one-hour meeting, which Wright said set a record, the Reed School District board also:

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Accepted a recommendation by trustee Thomas S. Price that a finance committee be appointed to study effects of pending legislation and of unification proposals and be available for other assignments. Named to the committee were Alexander Mazour, Chester G. Vargas, Richard L. Goff, Vernon Perry, and a fifth member (a woman) to be appointed by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club.

UNIFICATION ELECTIONS — Endorsed a resolution by the Tamalpais High School District board opposing the requirement that unification elections be held on the date of each presidential primary.

INTERDISTRICT ATTENDANCE — Agreed to allow Douglas Elsener of 46 Mariner Drive, Corte Madera, to attend eighth grade in the Kentfield district, where the family previously resided. Friese said the Kentfield district had waived financial reimbursement.

EDUCATIONALLY HANDICAPPED — Heard from Friese that the district has five teachers for 13 pupils in the educationally handicapped program. They also do remedial reading teaching for other pupils, however, he said. Wells objected that none of the five is assigned to Reedland Woods School.

RUBELLA — Voted unanimously to participate in the countywide German measles immunization program to be held at schools next month by the Marin County Health Department.

Safety lamps for miners were invented in England by Sir Humphrey Davy.

Cold Shoulder To Rezoning In Petaluma

A proposed residential prezoning got the cold shoulder last night from the Petaluma Planning Commission which said it wanted to take a long, hard look at the rapid growth of the eastside.

Taylor and Mazza Inc. had requested prezoning from agricultural to single and multiple family for 40 acres east of Old Lakeville Highway between Casa Grande and Frates roads.

The commission said it would delay any action on the prezoning request until it can study the growth trends of the eastside and the effect additional housing units would have there.

Frank Thomas, president of the East Petaluma Civic Association, also urged a delay in the prezoning and annexation of the property. Thomas and his group have demanded a slowdown in construction on the eastside until school, recreational and park facilities can be improved to meet current needs.

In other action, the commission approved the rezoning request field by Camille Enterprises to change 601 D Street from single-family residential to multiple-family to permit construction of duplexes.

Preliminary Hearing Set On Marijuana

Two San Rafael youths, charged with selling a kilo of marijuana to a narcotics enforcement agent on July 4 were not accepted by juvenile court, face preliminary hearing tomorrow in Marin municipal court.

Juvenile court refused the cases of Randall Joachim Wells, 20, and Allen Michael Crivello, 19, an Independent-Journal employee, because of previous narcotics offenses.

Metal Detection Equipment Bought

The county board of supervisors bought the equipment from George F. cake Co. of Creswell, Ore., who submitted the second lowest of three bids.

The lowest bid came in at $850 for a walk-through detector from California Electronic Police Equipment Co. However, Undersheriff Sidney Stinson and William R. Pryor, senior administrative assistant in the County Administrator's office, reported that this equipment was inferior in performance and did not meet bid specifications.

The walk-through detector bought yesterday has been in use at the Hall of Justice for more than a week on a trial basis.

The device is not like an X-ray machine and is not injurious to health, said Stinson. "This one operates on a magnetic field, and there is no X-ray," he explained.

Supervisors also authorized the county administrator to call for informal bids to seal all exterior side extrances that lead from hillsides into the building. The only entry into the quarter-mile long building will then be through three main doors guarded by search teams composed of a male and female deputy sheriff.

Cost Sharing Geologic Study Slated In Marin

The state Division of Mines will make a geologic study of three areas in Marin at a cost of $3,150 to the county.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement with the state to make a $6,300 study, with Marin and the state sharing the cost 50-50. The vote was 3 - 1., with Louis H. Baar the lone dissenter. (Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation.)

Baar said he doubts the $6,300 study would be of any benefit to the county. "If there are any problems in subdivisions, the developer is required to make soil tests anyway," said Baar. "I don't think we should be spending any money on it." He said the $6,300 this year might lead to further studies that would cost $10,000 next year and $30,000 or $50,000 in subsequent years.

Under the agreement, the division will study these areas in Marin for slides and other geologic hazards: Tennessee Valley from the Pacific Ocean to Richardson Bay, Lucas Valley, and the ocean cliff area from Dillon Beach to the Sonoma County line.

The Marin Board Of Supervisors Also:

WATER BONDS — Endorsed Measure H on the Nov. 3 ballot, which asks voters to approve an $11.5 million bond issue to improve and replace old lines of the Marin Municipal Water District, and to install a new line to pipe water from Russian River to Marin. The bonds will be repaid from revenue, and no taxes will be imposed.

QUORUM — Approved a new quorum rule for the 24-member City-County Planning Council. At present, the council has difficulty meeting the quorum of 13. The new quorum will be seven, — a representative from six of the 10 member cities and one representative from the county.

SAFETY EMPLOYEES — Heard from County Administrator Alan Bruce that the Marin sheriff's deputies will ask that they be allowed to form a separate bargaining unit. They now belong to the same bargaining unit as firemen and communications dispatchers.

McNEARS BEACH — Approved the purchase of 31 acres of property for $168,000 to expand McNears Beach near Peacock Gap in east San Rafael. The property, five acres in hard land and rest in water, would extend McNears Beach, northward to, but not including, China Camp.

BIKE PATH — Approved an interim ordinance to prohibit motorcycles on the county's bicycle paths.

DATA PROCESSING — Authorized County Clerk George H. Gnoss to use data-processing instead of manual labor in reregistering each company in the county doing business under a fictitious name. The reregistering is required by a new state law.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM — Commended County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, Sen. John F. McCarthy, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley for getting 10 of the 15 county bills enacted into law during the 1970 Legislature.

BCDC — Appointed Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as alternate representative to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to backstop Michael Wornum, the county's regular representative.

AUDITORIUM — Approved the following purchases of furnishings for the Veterans Memorial Auditorium: $17,672 in accoustical curtains from Shearer Company of San Francisco; $26,261.90 for accoustical finish (on the movable wall between the seating area and flat surface to the rear) from Stage Craft of Redwood City; $21,636 in cabinet work from Bimco of San Rafael, and $7,950 in seat wagons (gadgets to roll seats back under the stage) from Herk and Edwards of Southern California.

APARTMENT ZONE — Granted apartment zoning to Donald R. Telford on his 33,000 square foot property at 6 Thomas Drive. The land, located on the east side of Highway 101 north of the Alto intersection, is now zoned for a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet.

HOUSEBOAT — Gave Patricia Beyer, former Novato planning commissioner, 90 days to remove her sunken houseboat from Kappas Harbor at Gate 6½, or bring it up to county codes.

Approval Of Cove Apartments

By WAT TAKESHITA

Strawberry Cove Apartments, a waterfront development of 102 units along the bay side of Seminary Drive won the final go-ahead yesterday from the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors backed the county planning commission and voted 3-1 to allow developer Paul J. Broman to build the three-story structures. Broman, who developed the Japanese Trade Center in San Francisco, agreed to provide a continuous 10-foot wide pedestrian and bicycle pathway for public use throughout the development. He will also provide a spot for small boat launching.

The apartments will be built on 6.4 acres, owned by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere.

Stiff opposition came from several residents of Strawberry Peninsula, particularly from Stephen H. Kaufman, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District.

In January, the district had supported a plan for 108 units by Fleischman on the same piece of property. But since then, the circumstances have changed, explained Kaufman.

He said the county planning commission has ordered an overall density study, and a court ruled that the public has acquired rights to a private beach if that beach had been used continuously for five years.

Because of these new developments, Kaufman urged that the apartments be delayed, at least until the density study is completed.

Ulysses J. Montgomery, housing consultant to the Marin Urban Development Association of Marin City, came to Broman's defense. He argued that Broman meets the public access requirement by providing pedestrian paths and dedicated open spaces.

"When you talk about public access, it should be for all the public and not just for the Strawberry Recreation District," declared Montgomery. "The Strawberry Recreation District has various recreation facilities that are restricted only to residents of the district," he charged.

Kaufman branded that statement false. The only recreation facility in the Strawberry Recreation District that is restricted are two tennis courts, replied Kaufman. "All other facilities must be available to all members of the public."

Harold E. Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, announced that the League would support the apartment development if (1) bicycles are kept off pedestrian walkways; (2) open space will be dedicated and recorded for public use, and (3) an accurate count of parking spaces is made to insure that apartment residents need not rely on street parking along Seminary Drive.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and William A. Gnoss backed the apartment development, describing the plans as the best presented thus far for Strawberry Cove.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed that the plans were good, but he voted "no" because he wanted the density cut to 60 or 70 units.

Income Lags In Majority Of Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department says increases in personal income kept pace with inflation in only eight states and the District of Columbia during the second quarter of the year.

There was a nationwide increase in prices of 4.3 per cent during the April through July period, but personal income in 42 states failed to increase by as much as 4.3 per cent. In seven of those states, it actually declined.

The average personal income of the nation rose 2.4 per cent during the quarter to a seasonally adjusted rate of $797 billion.

The states that recorded a 4.3 per cent increase or more in personal income were Colorado, 6.7 per cent; Arizona, 6 per cent; the District of Columbia, 5.6 per cent; Arkansas, 5.4 per cent; Maryland, 5.3 per cent; Mississippi, 5.1 per cent, Idaho, 5 per cent; eKntucky 4.8 per cent and Virginia, 4.6 per cent.

The states in which personal income declined were Connecticut, 0.5 per cent; Minnesota, 0.5 per cent; Missouri, 0.6 per cent; Kansas, 2 per cent; Wyoming, 2.5 per cent; North Dakota, 4.4 per cent, and South Dakota, 5.4 per cent.

Polar bears can sprint at speeds up to 25 miles an hour on ice.

Fire Victim Removed From Intensive Care

Marin General Hospital reported today that fire victim Gary Parr, 21, of Gate 6, has been moved from the intensive care unit, but still is in serious condition.

Parr suffered third degree burns Saturday, when flames destroyed two houseboats near Sausalito. He remained on the critical list until yesterday.

Novato Fire Does $8,000 Damage

Fire of undetermined origin did damage estimated at $8,000 to the home of Patricia Fricke at 101 Trish Drive, Novato yesterday.

Her son, Donald, with friends Charles Jordan and Robert Champion, left the house about 30 minutes before the fire was reported at 4:29 p.m., said Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The fire apparently started in the vicinity of a couch in the living room, the chief said.

Fire damage to the living room and kitchen, and smoke damage to the rest of the house was estimated at $5,500, plus $2,500 damage to the contents, the chief said.

No-Nudity Law Passed But Doesn't Cover Everything

An ordinance against nudity in public in Marin County, admittedly with some loopholes, was approved by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Another ordinance that would ban topless and bottomless shows in Marin County was put off for further study on the recommendation of Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

"I don't want to sound naive, but where are these (topless) events taking place in this county," asked Supervisor Michael Wornum.

"I don't know of any, but we may have some coming in from San Francisco and other areas," replied Bales. He said the topless ordinance, which covers six pages of type, single-spaced, needs further study and redrafting before it is legally acceptable.

The antinudity ordinance, less than a page in length, is simple and concise. Anyone who wilfully exposes his genitals or the female breast in a public place in unincorporated Marin will be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

Since the ordinance covers only the county of Marin, how about the beaches below mean high tide, which are state land and not under county jurisdiction, asked Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

"That could be a problem," conceded Bales.

The antinudity ordinance would be useful not only in beach areas but also inland, said acting chairman Louis H. Baar. "In my area, we've had this problem on the public streets and all over."

Bales explained that the state parks already have a ban against nudity, and the City of Mill Valley has a similar ordinance in effect. The new county ordinance would make it easier for a clampdown because an officer can arrest a violator on the spot, whereas under the present disturbing-the-peace law, citizens must be called into court to swear that his peace had been disturbed.

Undersheriff Sidney Stinson agreed that under present laws, arrest and prosecution of nude persons is difficult. "Even if we get complaints from some citizen, the courts now tell us to warn the person first to put on his clothes. And if he puts on his clothes, we don't have much of a case. The following day, we'd have to do the same thing over again."

Ernest E. Emig, who owns property fronting Little Beach just north of Muir Beach, and other residents in the area demanded that some county ordinance be passed to clamp down on bathers who flit about in the altogether.

Since Little Beach is private property, the new county ordinance will not reach that far, said Arrigoni. "You may not get any relief." "I think we will," replied Emig, hopefully.

The antinudity ordinance will go into effect in 30 days.

Viet Veteran's Debt Troubles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former Army sergeant who lost both legs in Vietnam has been freed of most of his $1,167.30 debt to the Army, according to Rep. Paul A. Finley, R-Ill.

William T. Richardson, Springfield, Ill., had paid $212.34 of a debt which bill collectors said he owed because an Army paymaster overpaid him. Findley said the remaining $95.496 has temporarily been canceled.

Findley said he will introduce a bill in the next Congress to wipe the debt off the books permanently and to get the Army to return the payment Richardson made.

Suspects In Paso Robles Triple Slayings Arrested

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (UPI) —The sheriff investigating the murders of a young man, his wife and their 4-year-old daughter says the killings probably were prompted by an argument over ownership of an electric guitar and amplifier.

San Luis Obispo County Sheriff Larry Mansfield said Tuesday that the murder suspects—26-year-old John Archa and his two half brothers, Dennis, 14, and Kenny, 13—had argued with Ronald Barnes when Barnes refused to give them a guitar and amplifier.

As a result, the sheriff said, Barnes was killed after being lured from his house by the older Archa, an acquaintance of four years, who told Barnes he was having car trouble.

The body of Barnes was found stuffed in the trunk of his car. His wife, Betty, 25, was stabbed to death inside their home in the small community of Shandon near Paso Robles, and the 4-year-old daughter, Shelly, was carried away and tossed into a canal some 50 miles away where her body was found Tuesday.

An infant son was found in the Barnes home uninjured in his crib.

The three Archas were held on charges of suspicion of murder in Fresno, where they were apprehended after being traced through an auto license number given to deputies by neighbors of the Barnes family.

Mrs. Barnes called a neighbor and told him, "I think there are prowlers outside." The phone went dead and when the neighbor was unable to call back he phoned the sheriff's office. Deputies found Mrs. Barnes stabbed to death just inside the slashed screen door of the home.

Rec Panel Asks Vandalism Probe

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night recommended the city council investigate recent acts of vandalism in Fairfax Park.

Commission secretary Ernestine Healy said commissioners also recommended establishment of a police foot patrol in the park.

A low bid of $250 from Booth and Little roofing contractors of Greenbrae for repairs to the Fairfax Pavilion roof was sent to the council with the commission's recommendation for acceptance, Mrs. Healy said.

McGovern Ties Reagan Party Extremists In Pitch For Unruh

Extremists on both the left and right "feed on each other and tear at the fabric of society," McGovern declared in a speech at the Alta Mira Hotel, Sausalito.

The senator, a possible candidate for president in 1971, spoke at a fund-raising dinner for Jess Unruh, Democratic nominee for governor. About 200 persons attended the $25-a-head affair, but Unruh failed to show up. He reportedly was campaigning elsewhere.

McGovern said that "liberals are the real target of this unholy alliance" between the left and right, and called for "a second revolution to reaffirm the goals with which we began almost 200 years ago."

He called upon the nation to "come home from the killing of Asians to the healing of our own land." He cited the Vietnam War as "only the most extreme aberration that has brought into focus the other ills of our nation."

Burt Lancaster, emcee of the dinner, said he was there "mainly to dispute the fact that all movie actors have become Republicans. Just because Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin have embraced Reagan doesn't mean they have embraced Republicanism," he said. "They have embraced Reagan, however, and that's ridiculous," he added.

Also speaking were Rep. George E. Brown Jr. of Los Angeles, unsuccessful June candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate, and Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

Representative Brown conceded that Democrats "are not going to sweep the state this year," but predicted the party could win a majority of the five new congressional seats due California, he said, adding, "I'm not sure, however, we can pick up the Orange County seat."

He also conceded that Unruh "did not happen to hit this campaign at the most propitious time in history."

Assemblyman Brown, noting he had come despite two other campaign appearances scheduled in San Francisco, explained that if the Republicans continue their domination of the Legislature, "I may be running from Marin in 1971, so I'm just kind of covering my base."

Philip Argues Over Landing

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Britain's Prince Philip got into an argument with the Venice airport control tower as he was bringing his private plane in for a landing Tuesday, airport sources said.

The sources said Philip wanted to park his plane at the far side of Marco Polo Airport but the tower ordered him to taxi to the center of he field.

When he persisted, the auhtorities told him the place he sought was unsafe because it was near gasoline tank trucks.

Philip has been visiting wildlife preserves in Italy.

CHAOS IN KITCHEN?

Cooking In 'Hate To' Style

In her original "I Hate to Cook Book", Peg Bracken says,

"Once in an elevator en route to my office I was eating some spice cookies which I had made from my big fat cook book. I gave one to the Elevator Lady, and she tasted it.

'My', she said reflectively, 'I can sure make a better spice cooky than that.' So she brought me her recipe, and she was quite right."

ELEVATOR LADY SPICE COOKIES

Mix together:
¾ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
¼ cup molasses.

Then sift together and stir in:
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon powdered cloves
¾ teaspoon powdered ginger

Now mix it all together and form it into walnut-sized balls. Put them two inches apart on a greased cooky sheet and bake at 375 for 10 to 12 minutes.

Then there are Selma's Best Oatmeal Cookies.

"These bear the same relationship to the ordinary oatmeal cooky that the Rolls-Royce does to the bicycle," says Peg Bracken.

SELMA'S BEST OATMEAL COOKIES

Cream together:
1 cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
and add one beaten egg. Now sift together:
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
and add it to the first mixture. Then add
1½ cups quick rolled oats
¾ cup finely crushed walnuts or pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla

Chill it for an hour. Then put walnut-sized pieces on a greased cooky sheet. Butter the bottom of a small glass, dip it in granulated sugar, and flatten out the little pieces. Just keep doing this — you don't need to rebutter the glass bottom, just re-sugar it each time. Then bake at 350 for 10 minutes.

CUCUMBER DILLWICHES

"Flatten thin-sliced white bread with a rolling pin (which is a good idea for any tea sandwich) and cut it in rounds with a biscuit cutter. Unless you have square cucumbers."

(Note: This is taken from Peg Bracken's Appendix to The I Hate to Cook Book)

On each, spread butter. Put a thin slice of peeled cucumber on the butter, sprinkle fresh chopped dill or the dried kind on the cucumber. Then put another buttered bread round on the top. That's all, but they have a very nice lady-like look.

OPEN FACEWICHES

Butter flattened bread slices. Spread each with a mixture of 8 ounces cream cheese, softened and well blended with
3 tablespoons finely chopped chutney
2 tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger
¼ cup grated coconut
½ teaspoon curry powder.

"Now — a mussy operation, this — trim the crusts off and cut each slice into three strips. Wash hands when done."

IF YOU "hate to cook" you might as well have a good time about it— so members of the Raccoon Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers ham it up preparing Selma's Best Oatmeal Cookies from Peg Bracken's "I Hate to Cook Book" in preparation for their tea featuring the famed Bolinas writer's recipes. Peg herself will be a special guest to sample the results at the tea tomorrow at the home of Mrs. William Lang, left, of Belvedere. Others carrying on in Mrs. Lang's kitchen are, clockwise, Mmes. John Hoffmire, Alvin Kuhn and Richard Tyler. (Independent-Journal photo)

Curly Bacon

Bacon curls spark up eggs, salads and sandwiches. They're an easy garnish. Panbroil the bacon slightly, then wind it around a fork and finish cooking until crisp.

GINGERBREAD GHOSTS and scaredy-cat punch make a delicious and nutritious Halloween combination. The cookies are made with iron-rich molasses and the canned orange punch is made by adding a combination of seven natural fruit juices.

Apple Harvest Brings Out Tried-And-True Favorites

Apples are popular in a country kitchen or a city penthouse — in an old-fashioned dish like Apple Cobbler.

Now that the new crop is at its most varied, most beautiful and best, fill the house with the wafting aroma of apples and spices.

HONEY GLAZED BAKED APPLES

6 large tart apples
6 tablespoons honey
¼ cup orange juice
Sugar
Nutmeg

Core apples, being careful not to cut all the way through. Peel about ⅓ of the way down from stem end. Combine honey and orange juice; pour into centers of apples. Set in baking dish. Pour a little hot water in bottom of pan. Bake at 400° for 50 to 60 minutes, or until apples are tender. Remove from oven. Brush tops with additional honey, sprinkle with a little sugar and nutmeg. Run under broiler to glaze. Serve warm or cold with plain cream.

APPLE COBBLER

⅔ to 1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup boiling water
3 cups thinly sliced apples
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Biscuit Topping*

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in boiling water gradually. Bring to a boil. Boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add apples; simmer 5 minutes. Pour into shallow baking dish. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Arrange biscuit topping around edge. Bake at 400° for 30 minutes or until biscuits are brown and apples tender. Makes 6 servings.

*BISCUIT TOPPING
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar, divided
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup light cream
2 teaspoons grated orange peel

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in butter or margarine; stir in cream with a fork. Pat out about ¼-inch thick. Cut into 2½-inch circles. Cut each circle in half. Arrange around rim of baking dish, rounded side in. Combine grated orange peel and remaining sugar; sprinkle on biscuits. Bake as directed.

Broil Your Own

Let the guests broil their own appetizers on hibachi or small grill. Have long wooden picks threaded with a Vienna sausage, square of buttered bread, bacon-wrapped ripe olive and a whole mushroom. Chili sauce spiked with horseradish is sharp for dipping.

Instead of pumpkin pie, try baking a pumpkin souffle for a pleasant variation from the traditional.

PUMPKIN SOUFFLE

6 to 8 servings
2 cups enriched dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup raisins
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoons cinnamon
1½ teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cloves
3 cups milk
6 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup pumpkin pie filling
6 egg whites

Stir together bread crumbs, raisins, sugar, spices and salt. Heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan; blend ¼ cup into egg yolks. Gradually add egg yolk mixture to remaining milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until slightly thickened.

Remove from heat and mix in pie filling. Blend into bread crumb mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry peaks form. Fold into bread mixture. Pour into greased souffle dish (1½-qt.). Bake in preheated 350° oven 50 to 55 minutes until golden brown and firm to touch. Serve immediately.

Ginger Ghosts For Halloween Party

Treat your Halloween hobgoblins to a special holiday punch-and-cookie combination this year. Make a batch of Gingerbread Ghosts and serve them with orange-colored fruit punch.

The Gingerbread Ghosts are a whimsical variation on the Gingerbread Man. Made with an easy cardboard pattern which you've cut yourself, these cookies have an appealing flavor, combining orange rind and spices with iron-rich molasses. They are frosted with confectioners' sugar and milk and completed with two chocolate bits for eyes.

GINGERBREAD GHOSTS

1 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups light or dark molasses
grated rind of 1 orange
5 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon all spice
Confectioners' sugar
Chocolate bits

Combine shortening and molasses in a saucepan and bring to a boil; cool. Stir in orange rind, flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Beat well to blend; chill for 2 hours. While waiting for dough to chill, make cardboard pattern for ghost. Pattern should be shaped like a long narrow mountain, about 4 inches wide at the bottom and 7 inches long. With scissors, cut pattern out of stiff cardboard, cutting a wavy line to shape the bottom of the ghost.

When the dough is chilled, roll out a small amount at a time on a floured board, to ⅛-inch thickness. Place the ghost pattern on the dough and cut around it, using the tip of a sharp knife. Place cookie ghosts on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 F.) for 10 to 12 minutes, or until ghosts are brown and puffed. Cool ghosts on a rack.

To make frosting, mix confectioners' sugar and milk until it is the consistency of thick sour cream. Spread frosting thinly over the ghosts, covering them well. Place 2 chocolate bits on top for eyes. Let the frosting dry well at room temperature. After drying, the ghosts can be stored in an airtight container in a cool place.

Makes 24 large ghosts.

SCAREDY-CAT PUNCH

2 cans (46 oz. each) orange Hawaiian punch, chilled
4 cups pineapple juice, chilled
½ cup lime juice
orange slices
whole cloves, optional

In a punch bowl, combine beverages; add ice cubes. To keep punch from diluting as cubes melt, ice cubes can be made out of sunshine orange punch instead of water. If desired, make faces on orange slices by pressing in while cloves to form eyebrows, eyes, noses and mouths. (For a "scaredy cat" look, make a grouchy face by turning the sides of the mouth down in a scowl; for a happy look, turn the mouth up in a wide grin.) Float orange slices on top of punch. Serve in punch cups or small glasses.

Makes about 4 quarts.

Beefy Chili

For a quick dish to utilize cooked beef, take off on chili. Cube the meat and heat with tomato sauce and onions. Add chili powder to taste. Kidney beans drained and included at the end need just be heated through.

For the love of pure apple juice.

If our new coffee is so terrific, why are we introducing it at such ridiculously low prices?

Simple.

Because no matter how terrific-tasting New Freeze-Dried Yuban® is—and it really is—it won't mean a thing if you don't try it.

Thus, the ridiculously low suggested introductory prices. It might have taken us a little longer to make Freeze-Dried Yuban.

RN Leads Knapsackers, Scales Cliffs

By PAT BALMES

Anne Coolidge copes with emergencies on ski slopes and in the mountains. As leader of Sierra Club's knapsack trips and Ski Patrol member, the registered nurse enjoys sharing her skills.

"I like dealing with people. They turn me on," says the mother of three teen-age daughters.

"I first handled emergencies on Ski Patrol at Alpine Meadows," says Anne. Finding an injured skier, Anne gives first aid and pulls the victim on a toboggan safely to the lodge.

"The lodge nurse suggested I take the nursing program at College of Marin. (I thought you had to be 18 and live in a hospital.)," relates the skier. "I had looked hard for years for something to do. The world is in such lousy shape, and there is so little one can do."

AT 42 Anne received her license as a registered nurse, after completing the two-year program at College of Marin in 1969.

"Half the class were girls right out of high school. The others were older women. I found college kids were terribly nice and could teach me things," says Anne.

"I thought I wanted to be a nurse at 16 and worked in a hospital. It was handing things to the doctor. You had to stand when a doctor entered the room. That cured me," recalls Anne.

"Today the attitude at the hospital is, 'We're all in this together to get this person well.' I think part of Women's Lib is that women should be appreciated as individuals with a brain and strength," asserts the nurse.

"I went to work in January at Highland Hospital in Alameda County and worked for six months full time; something I hadn't done in 25 years," says Anne. Because of her age she finds young doctors expect her to be experienced.

"But when they learn I'm new, they are awfully nice about teaching me."

ANNE CHOSE that acute county hospital because most emergency cases are brought there.

"I would like to try to work in the emergency wards. I think I can stand all the blood and vomit, and I want to deal directly with people while they are awake," says Anne. "That's why I feel the operating room is sometimes dull. I may be able to do something with somebody's life, if I show him I care about him."

Despite her nursing schedule last winter, Anne managed to ski with her family every third weekend.

"I married a skier," says the wife of architect Frederic Coolidge. "If I didn't ski too, I never would see him! Skiing is hard; so uninstinctve," she says.

They ski for Ski Patrol, which is difficult to get on according to Anne.

"You have to demonstrate your prowess, learn first aid, go to meetings, be eager, go out on horrible days on less desirable hills and be first on your assigned hill at 8:30 a.m. and last off at 4:30 p.m. And no drinks at the lodge. You have a responsibility. Like nursing, it's helping people."

ANNE COOLIDGE of Kentfield scans the Isosceles Peak in Kings Canyon National Park, planning an assault by her Sierra Club knapsackers. An assistant and a leader for the past nine years, she has belayed a group of 20 down dangerous places.

THE FAMILY has a 22-bed ski cabin in Alpine Meadows they run as a boarding house for youth groups. Anne cooks for the skiers.

"If I had to cook for that many at home I'd die, but up there I'm equipped for it," says Anne. The family does not backpack near their cabin in summer. "I like it wilder, above timberline at 12,000 feet.' '

"When I was younger I had a compelling desire to get to the top of a peak. I went on trips with friends who had the same passion. Then I joined Sierra Club — knapsack to 'peak-bag'. The leader will ask, 'Who wants to go up?' There can be only three people on a rope at most. You have to sit and be tied while one moves," says the mountaineer whose climbing rope hangs on the fireplace.

"Now I climb just enough to get to the top of things I want to climb," says the knapsack trip leader. "I'm too old to climb Mt. Everest. It can take me four hours to belay a group of 20 down a dangerous pitch or gully. We try to give people an opportunity to climb the outstanding peaks of the area."

The knapsackers travel off trails and explore isolated forest and mountain areas. The trips vary from easy trail-walking to serious mountaineering, winter and summer.

ANNE FIRST came to love the mountains during the summer of 1947 when she and Fred were in Norway.

'Timberline starts there after 4,000 feet," she recalls the "nifty" Norwegian mountains.

"I was dragged on my first knapsack trip to Yosemite by my brother-in-law, then editor of the Washington Post," says the mountaineer. Her next trip was 11 years ago to the Trinity Alps with the Sierra Club. "I didn't intend to go by myself, but Fred became ill. I found I had a good time stumping along by myself, not being anyone's mother."

She enjoyed adult conversation. The trip was too difficult for a beginner.

"Oh, I was tired, even though I was used to being on my feet taking care of the children. But the men who sat at desks all day were in terrible shape!"

ANN'S TRIPS, advertised in Sierra Club's monthly nationally-distributed magazine, attract knapsackers from all over the United States. On her trip to northeast Yosemite this summer 23 hikers carried 330 pounds of food and cooking equipment, plus their own gear.

"We average 35 pounds for women and a little more for men," says the leader. "We go slowly the first days because of altitude and sore feet. I plan a layover day early in the trip, as soon as we get to the high country. The backpacks lighten as the knapsackers eat two pounds of food a day."

Her problems are sunburns, blisters and people who do not take enough warm clothing.

"The Sierra Club's knapsack trip has never had a fatality," says Anne gratefully remembering the man whose appendix ruptured and naturally walked-off on a trip where she was assistant leader. "We teach people to knapsack on their own. Our trips are not intended for repeaters. It's a problem because they come back to you. We worry about our impact on the mountains. More and more people can hike in now because of light equipment and food. We are going to have to learn a new way of conservation, like the Swiss who have a much greater density of population, yet their Alps are clean and tidy."

SHE QUOTES Sierra Club's standard, "Take only pictures, leave only footprints." Some people bring the slums with them, according to Anne.

The first weekend in November Anne plans a mountain trip above Lake Tahoe for members of the San Francisco chapter of Sierra Club.

"We might be camping in the snow. The only different equipment I take is a tent." she says.

Next summer Anne will be assistant leader on two one-week knapsack trips and one family trip for two with mules.

Anne's three daughters are hikers and skiers. She relates that Sarah, 12, made a junior knapsack trip this summer and reported, "It was just great, Mom. There weren't any mothers!"

"I couldn't believe it when I heard she carried 25 pounds. There was a food cache in the middle of the trip," says her mother.

Sarah, a naturalist since birth, is a zoo keeper: 32 white rats, two rabbits, two guinea pigs, seven cats, two dogs and a collection of slugs in the kitchen.

THE TWO older girls went on a service trip this summer to Yosemite and Idaho doing clean-up and trail maintenance.

"Mary, 17, our ardent skier and conservationist sent her life savings to the World Wild Life Fund to save an endangered species of Missouri chicken when she was 14," recalls Anne.

Nineteen-year-old Trilby has worked for the past three summers on Sierra Club service trips. These are backpack hikes into a camp where the workers stay to pick up litter in the surrounding area. Trilby was a cook last summer.

Mrs. Rafferty Doesn't Make Speeches But Likes Campaign

By JOAN LISETOR

Frances Rafferty, wife of the incumbent State Superintendent of Public Instruction, flew from her home in Carmichael Monday to attend a tea in her honor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Grechman in Kentfield.

Prior to the tea, sponsored by the Marin County Friends of Rafferty and the Mothers for Max, she visited the Independent-Journal offices.

MRS. MAX RAFFERTY

MOST OF Mrs. Rafferty's campaigning has been confined to the Sacramento area, she says, going where she is invited to talk with people.

"I have enjoyed seeing old friends and meeting new people," she says, adding she enjoys campaigning since she does not have to give speeches.

"I am glad to be back in Marin because it is so pretty," says the candidate's wife, recalling a visit, also in her husband's behalf, exactly two years ago, when she was on a whirlwind tour of 32 cities in five days aboard a chartered bus.

With all three of her children married Mrs. Rafferty has the time to devote to assisting the teacher of a remedial reading class in the Sacramento School District. She enjoys her volunteer work, especially, she says, helping the children learn phonics.

TWO OF the Rafferty children, Dennis, a student at American River Junior College in Sacramento, and Eileen (Mrs. Gary Broton), live near their parents much to the delight of Mrs. Rafferty, since each has a child, and Mrs. Rafferty is a devoted grandmother. She has three other grandchildren, children of her daughter Kathleen, whose husband, Dr. Mel Faber, is on leave from his position as an assistant professor at Victoria University in British Columbia to lead a seminar in literature and psychology at New York University.

A native of Illinois, the former Francis Longman met Max Rafferty while she was working as a secretary to the Trona superintendent of schools. Her husband was teaching school in the Southern California town. They were married in Los Angeles in 1944.

If she were still a secretary, Mrs. Rafferty says, she might feel differently about the women's liberation movement.

"As a housewife I don't feel the need to be liberated," she says, "as long as my automatic appliances all work."

Following the tea, Mrs. Rafferty returned to her home in the Sacramento suburb and continuing her efforts on her husband's behalf, much of which, she explains, is being his errand boy.

INVITATIONS WITH A PRICE

Reach For Your Checkbook As You Open Your Mail During Campaigns

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Socially speaking, in Washington you don't get the same kick these days in opening an envelope that is obviously an invitation.

The point is you have to reach for your checkbook at the same time. Parties in the nation's capital this fall season are all being given for a purpose — most political.

And while the VIPs are opening their doors to the plebians, the entry to their elegant homes is pay-as-you-go.

Typical was the party that a former defense secretary, Clark M. Clifford, and two prominent co-hosts gave for Sen. and Mrs. Stuart Symington.

Enclosed with the invitation was an engraved card reading: "$250 per couple contribution to Senator Symington for reelection committee."

THERE HAVE been many similar parties.

Party-givers who have no money-raising nature have to make it a point these days that they are not going to put the arm on you, as in the case of a Washington Daily News columnist, Clare Crawford, and her husband, a member of the Maryland legislature.

They sent out invitations reading that they were inviting guests "to the launching of 'The Election' (a new book) at a non-fund raising political party for author Sherwin Markman.

Bill Blass Bares The Body For Spring

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—This spring when a young man's fancy turns to girl watching, there may not be a knee bared. But thanks to designer Bill Blass, there will be a lot more.

Blass has revived the body. Soft, sensuous and sexy best describes his spring collection, especially the evening wear.

His unlined printed chiffon and organza promise to create quite a stir during those "after-five" spring evenings. Whether low-cut, as many were, or with a high neckline. the look was soft and beautiful.

DESIGNER BILL Blass revives the body in his spring collection, especially for evening. This unlined, printed chiffon and organza promises to create a stir. Whether low cut, as many were, or with a high neckline, the look was soft and beautiful, and he describes it as soft, sensuous and sexy.

(UPI Telephotos)

BILL BLASS opened his collection in New York Monday with a group of lively blazer-cuts coats and jackets, worn over skirts, pants or dress. Suits were very important in his collection, and simple skirts complete the unstructured silhouette.

ONE UNLINED printed chiffon with a wrap skirt was worn over matching bikini panties. A paisley print silk number was shown unbuttoned to the waist with a matching bra, and black lace clinging to the body or billowing out in a Spanish style was completed with skin-toned lining.

Chiffons were flowing and always moving. Many were in the Indian and Far Eastern prints and styles, such as one in brown, pink and orange with a sarong skirt. This dress was shown complete with Japanese parasol and sandals. Turbans were worn with many of the designs.

Cotton made the evening scene too. One lilac and green floral print was cut very very low.

Feather trim added a touch of the exotic to two numbers. One was in black silk organza with a low neckline and wrapped skirt. Black feathers banded the dress and a matching shawl.

PANTS ALSO were a very important part of the evening wear. Most were worn under matching printed midi and ankle length chiffon or organza dresses.

For daytime, Blass showed a lot of suits with soft unstructured silhouettes. Done in wool, tweed, flannel and some-

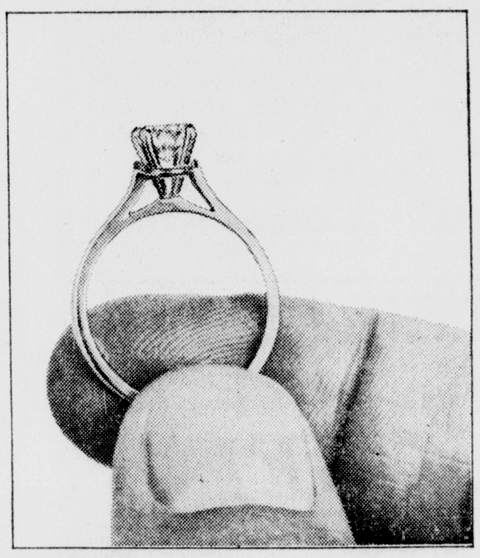
Why should we sell a better diamond for less money?

We have our reasons.



For one thing, most other jewelers buy finished diamonds. We buy diamonds in the rough.

We cut, polish and mount them ourselves. The savings are considerable.

To us. To you.

Of course, you don't have to spend less money. You can always buy a larger diamond from us for the same amount you might pay someplace else.

Serve Nasty Brother An Eviction Notice And Fight For The House

DEAR HELEN:

I cared for my ailing mother for 23 years and, when she died, she willed me the house, while my brother got a cash inheritance. Soon afterward, he moved in with me, saying it was the family home and he was entitled. He is divorced (his wife couldn't stand him) and I never married, always being the one the rest of the family leaned on.

Life has been hell ever since. He is bossy, picky, sloppy and sarcastic. He orders me around like a slave, then tells everyone that he has to stay here because I couldn't get along by myself. He's got his children convinced that I am "taking" him because he pays in a little bit for food and utilities. They accuse me of charging "rent" for a house that should be half his. That's not what the will says.

We both work, but he makes more than I do. He brags that when he retires in five years he'll have saved enough to travel. I can't save enough to take care of me in old age.

When we aren't fighting it's because we aren't speaking. He says if anyone leaves, it will be me because he's staying. I don't like trouble — I guess that's my problem. I've always taken what comes to avoid a battle, but I'm about to have a nervous breakdown because of him. How can I get free of him, when he's convinced people I need a keeper? — T.J.

DEAR T.J.:

The house is legally yours. So serve an eviction notice — and retain a lawyer to make it stick. It's time the family fall guy stood up and fought back — but be sure you're able to stand alone. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Thank you for printing the letter from the girl ("The Sucker") who said she was sure her mother loved her, but she was so busy protecting her and being fearful and suspicious that she never showed it. I'll bet it — and your answer — shook a lot of us frightened parents.

My daughter is only six years old and I'm already starting to act as "Sucker's" mother does. Helen, with all I hear about drugs, cigarette smoking, unmarried motherhood, rebellion, free sex, etc. I'm filled with fear about not raising my daughter right. When you get bogged down with worry, it's so easy to forget that love, faith and understanding are the most important ingredients in raising a child — and if you don't show how you feel, how is she to know?

I've cut out this column to save, so that when I get up-tight I'll refer to it and remember that one little "I love you and I'm proud of you" is better than a hundred lectures. — A WORRIED AHEAD OF TIME MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

And remembering, you may never have cause to get really up-tight. The trouble with Species Parent-Paranoidus (a growing group these days) is that they're so busy listening to the doom-cryers they've left off listening to their kids. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

When you get those "lucky numbers" in the mail saying your name has already been entered in a prize contest, and you check the box marked "I do not wish to order at this time, but check my number anyway," do you ever win? — FRAN

DEAR FRAN:

According to some of my correspondents — yes. Although it never happened to me. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Blass opened the collection with a group of stunning blazer-cut coats and jackets, worn over skirts, pants or dresses. Lively interest was aroused by one single breasted blazer coat done in navy wool and banded in white. A pair of white wool pants completed the outfit.

Most dresses were shirtwaists, with a few chemises that could be worn with or without tie belts. The shirtwaists, however, made the biggestsplash. Most were done in printed silks and solid crepes. Occasionally Blass mixed the crepes with flannel. Most had soft pleated skirts with hemlines hitting about an inch below the knee and a few slightly longer.

Retail prices for the Blass collection are about the same as last year's —$300 to $1,500.

Festival Of Trees Chairman Is Named

MRS. STANLEY RUTNER

Mrs. Stanley S. Rutner of Novato is chairman of the 1970 Festival of Trees, sponsored by the Boyd Marin Museum of Science guilds. The sixth annual festival will be held Dec. 4 and 5 at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

Last year Barbara Rutner served as exhibits chairman of the festival, which raises money for the expansion of the museum and its educational programs.

The nearly 300 members of the 12 guilds work all year making gift items to sell at the festival, and the committees solicit Christmas decor from individuals and businesses throughout the Bay Area, according to the chairman.

Mrs. Rutner is a past president of the Women's Dental Auxiliary, leader of the Novato Jets 4-H Club and secretary of the Marin County 4-H Council. She attended schools in Bakersfield and Arcadia and San Jose State College.

She and her husband, a dentist, have lived in Marin for 10 years. They are the parents of Debbie, 13, Terry, 10, and Corinne, 8 years old. Sewing, arts and crafts, water skiing, playing the guitar and folk singing are Mrs. Rutner's hobbies.

Committee members for the festival are Mmes. Paul Hacker, co-chairman; Robert Leonard, secretary; Joachim Jung, treasurer; Neil J. Jannes, staffing; Tim Hamill, tickets; John D. Ryan, correspondence; Robert Dagitz, staging; C. E. Welte, advertising; W. L. Miler and Victor Udaloff, program; Allen Bernes, exhibits; Ronald Mires, publicity; Lloyd Flatland, special events; and Walter Grote and Merle Ellis, gift area.

Bonnie Jo Cook Is Engaged To Be Wed

BONNIE JO COOK

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cook of Tiburon have announced the engagement of their daughter Bonnie Jo to Randle William Thompson of Corte Madera.

Bonnie is the sister of Sue Cook and a graduate of Redwood High School. She attended College of Marin and is employed by the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Kentfield.

Randle is the son of William Thompson of San Rafael and Mrs. Velma Thompson of Corte Madera. Cindy Thompson is his sister. He is also a graduate of Redwood High School and also attended College of Marin. The future bridegroom is a student at the Academy of Computer Technology in San Francisco.

An April wedding is planned by the couple.

Signs Will Be Uniform

By ATHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGON — One of the biggest causes of highway accidents and traveler confusion is the jumble of signs that must be read while watching other cars.

There is little uniformity across the 50 states in this country or from country to country. Drivers who are unfamiliar with the language find great difficulty. But even drivers who know the language perfectly are sometimes baffled by the terms used in some places.

The Federal Government has an extra reason for avoiding signs with lots of words on them in places where such signs could spoil the view of beautiful parklands or forests.

So a committee of government officials began to study the problem three years ago in the name of the Interagency Task Force Committee on Signing and Marking.

Members of the committee were drawn from the Federal Highway Administration, Bureau of Indian Affairs, National Park service, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Bureau of Land Management, Forest Service, Bureau of Public Roads and the Corps of Engineers.

As a result of its study, the committee has decided unanimously to launch a nationwide campaign to reduce what it calls the "visual pollution" of signs by a new system of wordless symbols.

Government agencies have agreed to adopt a system of 77 wordless signs beginning next year on Federal lands.

Most of the symbols are readily understandable. For example, a tent indicates a campground, a knife and fork marks food service, a bus marks a bus stop and a picnic table indicates a picnic area.

But other signs may not carry such a clear message. The sign for an information booth is simply a question mark, the letter "P" symbolizes a parking area, and a camera is supposed to represent a viewing area.

Other symbols are even less clear because the symbols may not be easily related to what they are supposed to represent. But committee members feel that learning the meanings would be easy for people of all cultures and languages, including children who have not yet learned to read.

According to the committee members, "visual thinking" is faster than "verbal thinking" and can improve highway safety by reducing the time it takes for drivers to watch signs instead of other cars.

Among other benefits cited are the fact that the signs could be more harmonious with the landscape, especially in National Parks, and the fact that signs could be smaller and would thus cost less.

There is no doubt that there is excess clutter of signs on the highway, and many of the suggested changes are obvious improvements over the present system or lack of system.

But some drivers will question the need to develop special symbols for such things as ski bobbing, snowmobiling and "environmental study areas" when the words themselves might cause less confusion that the symbols for them.

At the same time, there is a move to make traffic signs more uniform with a system of common symbols. The result no doubt will mean another whole new system to add to those just announced.

If hamburger stands and dairy bars also get into the act, we may reach a point where the cure becomes worse than the disease.

It's Harvest Ball Time For Novato Hospital Volunteers

The Novato General Hospital Volunteer Service will hold its annual fund raising event, "The Harvest Ball," at the Marin Country Club on Saturday, beginning with cocktails at 7 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing.

Mrs. Ronald Soldavini is chairman, assisted by Mmes. Donald Phillips, invitations; Lloyd Witter, reservations; Frank Zumwalt, assisted by Charles Flanik, decorations; Fred Burns, tickets; James Berthinier, awards, and Jack Sparrow, publicity. Mrs. Bruce Smith is president.

Profits from the dinner dance, featuring a Grecian theme, will be used to purchase equipment for Novato General Hospital.

AUTUMN and Eve (the woman, that is) is the theme of the annual fashion show of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Women's Club to be held on Sautrday at 12:30 p.m. in the school auditorium, Mill Valley.

Mrs. George Lino, chairman, said that the afternoon will feature a salad luncheon under the chairmanship of Mrs. Angelo Perone.

Co-hostesses will be Mmes. Maurice Angland, Keith Cramer, Walter Filippi and Charles Norton. Junior hostesses will be Denise Andino, Mary Kay Bartolini, Theresa Bechtold, Mary Ann Durhan, Eileen Lino, Deborah Monardo, Stella Perone and Noreen Roche.

Other chairmen are Mmes. Louis Ferroni, reservations; Edward Klementovich and Robert Murray, decorations; Robert Rankin, public relations, and Patrick Roche, awards.

A NEW SCHEDULE of Spanish classes will be sponsored by the Cultural Arts Section of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The advanced Spanish class, under the chairmanship of Mmes. Helena D. Kergesen and Otto Weissich, will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesdays, and the intermediate class at 10 a.m. Thursdays, both at 283 Oakdale, Mill Valley., the home of instructor Mrs. W.W. Blume. She is chairman for the intermediate class and will start a beginning class if there is sufficient interest.

A beginning German class will start soon under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Paul Hurd if there is interest. Language classes are open to the public.

MRS. JOHN D. La Noue has been re-elected president of the Marin Figure Skating Club for 1970-71. Also elected were Mmes. William Maley, vice president; Michael Looper, secretary; and Wendell Wilkin, treasurer.

A LUAU will be sponsored by TaMar Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women at the Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael. Members and their husbands will attend, with proceeds from the evening earmarked for support of B'nai B'rith projects and philanthropies. The reservations chairmen are Mmes. Bud Bauman and Pal Rapaport.

DR. WILLIAM Morris of Kentfield will speak on Oriental art at the fourth program in the series of Friday Forenoons at the Moya del Pino library at Octagon House at the Marin Art and Garden Center. The program will be held Friday at 10 a.m.

MRS. J. Paul Hurd of Mill Valley will speak and present a demonstration of Japanese flower arranging for the Garden Section of the Tamalpais Centre Women's Club of Kentfield on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Hurd, a past president of the Outdoor Art Club, will bring unusual arrangements and describe their construction and uses in the home.

THE NOVATO Choraleers have resumed rehearsals at 9:30 a.m. every Thursday at the Novato Presbyterian Church.

More voices are needed in all sections, according to Mrs. John Carter, assistant director. Nursery accommodations are available at the church.

BECKY REIST

Becky Reist To Be Bride

Prof. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Reist of San Anselmo announce the engagement of their daughter, Becky, to Dwight Martin II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Martin of Burbank.

Becky is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, and Dwight was graduated from Burroughs High School in Burbank. Both are now students at the University of California at Santa Cruz. A September wedding is planned.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organization interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI)—Shorts have replaced miniskirts in the Paris spring ready-to-wear fashion show.

Pants as brief as nature allows, in printed cotton or bright satin and sequins, were the star of the Christian Dior ready-to-wear collection today.

Mic Mac, one of France's best known sports wear manufacturers, and other houses also are long on shorts at their shows staged in conjunction with the ready-to-wear exposition at the Salon de Versailles this week.

THE NEW shorts (the French use the English word "short") are only for lounging around summer villas and sailboats. Paris says the bare leg look for the city street is dead, and all your tears won't bring it back for the time being.

As a consolation prize, Dior parode shorts—usually cuffed—with matching bras and covered with see-through dresses, jackets or shirts.

Some shirts in Slavic peasant prints had matching midiskirts. Some were blousy in elegant chiffon or silk. Red satin shorts had a gold sequin bird sewn on the side and went with a plum-colored chiffon blouse.

The shorts at the Mic Mac show came with matching T-shirts or long, tailored jackets. Some of the brief pants were jagged at the edges in pirate style.

FOR STREET wear, the Dior spring look was tailored suits in jersey, cotton, tweed or linen. Buttoned-up skirts were open to the knee and worn with little jackets and tailored shirts in flowered or checked cotton. Dior showed a lot of madras cotton. One gabardine raincoat and matching skirt had a lining and blouse in madras.

Most skirts were about two-inches below the knee, a length favored by many women, but it hardly looks new. There were some maxiskirts in printed peasant cotton but most were hostess or evening gowns, and conservative compared to the more swinging maxis around town.

For dressier clothes, Dior joined the limp 1910 to 1930 mood that has gripped Paris—soft, pleated chiffon dresses with full sleeves bloused at the elbow, floppy bows at the neck, and World War I boater hats in matching fabrics.

MARGOT POWER
Soprano To Sing Tuesday

BARBARA BAUM
Dominican Recital Pianist

Dominican Associates Plan Song Recital

Dominican College Music Associates will present soprano Margot Power in a song recital accompanied by pianist Barbara Baum at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Caleruega Hall on the Dominican College campus.

The program will include works by Brahms and Poulenc, ranging from "Gang zum Liebchen" to "Voyage a Paris" with 10 songs in each group.

A graduate of Syracuse University, Miss Power has appeared as guest soloist with symphony orchestras of Marin, Oakland, San Leandro, Vallejo, Baltimore, Buffalo and in Salisbury, England. She was a regional winner of the San Francisco Opera Debut auditions and has appeared with a number of opera companies and in chamber music concerts.

The soprano has been a regular performer with the Carmel Bach Festival.

Pianist Barbara Baum has been performing since the age of 11, when she gave her first recital at Carnegie Chamber Music Hall in New York City. Now living in Marin, she has made several Bay Area appearances and is also a teacher.

Sausalito Council Endorses Ballot's Peace Initiative

A peace initiative, calling for withdrawal of all American troops from Southeast Asia by June 30, 1970 won endorsement last night from the Sausalito City Council which voted 4-1 in favor of the measure.

The lone dissenting vote on endorsement of Measure A, which will go before Marin voters Nov. 3, came from Councilman Earl F. Dunphy.

Dunphy said he felt the council should limit its actions to matters of local concern. "This matter will be decided in Washington D.C. and not in Sausalito," he stated.

Councilman Robin Sweeny said she was voting to endorse the measure as a private citizen and added "I don't think it's our job to tell Sausalito residents how to vote."

The Sausalito council thus became the first city council in Marin County to come out in favor of the measure, which also calls for the President to begin total troop withdrawal immediately.

Monday night the Mill Valley City Council refused to take a stand on the peace initiative — in keeping with its policy of acting only on matters within its jurisdiction.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

WATER DISTRICT BONDS — After a presentation by representatives of the Marin Municipal Water District endorsed the MMWD's $11.5 million dollar bond issue. Measure H on the ballot, to improve existing water systems and provide increased water supply.

PARK CONSTRUCTION — On the recommendation of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, awarded the bid for construction and landscaping of Tiffany Park to Albert Bidegain Landscape Contractors of San Rafael whose low bid was $12,599.

UTILITY DISTRICT — Passed a resolution establishing an underground utility district in a two-block area bounded by Atwood and Josephine Avenues and North Street. No property owner in the area appeared to protest the undergrounding, major cost of which will be borne by the utility companies.

LOT SPLIT — Upheld a planning commission decision to approve a lot split application from Agnes Gump for property at 65 Cloudview Road.

SCHOOL — On the recommendation of the planning commission, approved a conditional use permit to allow Lester Livingston to operate an "experiential school" at Campbell Hall.

STORM DRAIN — Awarded a contract for installation of a storm drain and catch basin on San Carlos Avenue to Maggiora-Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera. The firm's low bid was for $7,700.

TAXI TAX — Postponed action until its Nov. 3 meeting on a proposal to establish a gross receipts business license tax for taxi firms operating in Sausalito.

LANDSCAPING — Approved landscaping plans, submitted by Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works, for the intersection of Santa Rosa and San Carlos Avenues.

AMENDMENT — Endorsed an amendment which would allow the City-County Planning Council of Marin to conduct business with a quorum of seven persons, including one representative from six cities and one from the county. At present 13 persons are required for a quorum.

POLICE STATION — Postponed opening of bids for alterations and additions to the city's police station until its next meeting.

PARKING — Adopted an ordinance to regulate parking on Woodward Avenue.

CLAIM — Rejected a claim for $906 damages from Francis Marie Haynes of Meadow Vista, Placer County, who charged she reported her car stolen on May 23 to Sausalito police and did not learn until July 11 that the car had been towed away and was being stored in an auto repair shop.

GAS TAX FUNDS — Endorsed Proposition 18, a state ballot measure to allow 25 per cent of gas tax funds to be used for other forms of transit if voters in a local area approve. Currently all gas tax money is earmarked for highway construction and maintenance.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved the following appointments, proposed by Mayor Alexander R. Imlay: Jesse L. Birnbaum to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and Paul Kozak to the Sausalito Recreation Commission.

52 Strep Cases In Marin Last Week

Fifty-two cases of streptococcus infection and 27 cases of gonorrhea were reported in Marin last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said there were also five cases of infectious hepatitis and one each of tuberculosis and syphilis reported.

Novato Plan Brings Some Outcries Of Utopian Dream

By THERON A. NEWELL

The completed Novato downtown study was presented last night to the Novato City Council and an audience of 18 persons, by Thomas Coke of Sedway and Cooke, planning consultants.

The plan immediately drew some criticism as "utopian" and "financially unrealistic."

The council adopted the goals and policies of the study, but postponed for 30 days adoption of the regional shopping center portion of the study at the request of the affected property owners.

DOMINANT AREA

"Downtown Novato should serve as the dominant retail, business, administrative, cultural and recreational center not only of the city but the entire North Marin County sub-region" the study declares.

Sharpest critic of the entire plan was John J. King of Petaluma, a real estate dealer and member of the petaluma City Council for 15 years. He represented the seven property owners whose property would be taken by the proposed regional shopping center at the Pinheiro site.

These include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pinheiro who own the largest portion of the site west of Highway 101, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Renati, Dairymen's Milling Co., David Young, Theresa Knutte, Max F. Cerini and Elizabeth Roberts. All have businesses on their property.

30-DAY PLEA

King said they wanted the 30-day continuance so that they could make an economic study and if feasible, possibly forming a corporation to put the shopping center together. He said that the land alone would probably cost $4 to $5 per square foot. That cost and the cost of building would probably make it too expensive for any store to pay the required rent.

King said that Petaluma spent $35,000 for a similar plan and when the merchants found out what it would cost, "threw the study in the waste paper basket."

Then he said that the city had to be practical and look at the cost of carrying out such a plan. "You have parks, walkways along the creek, the same as we had planned along the Petaluma River, malls in the streets, but who is going to pay for it?" he said.

CARROW COMPLAINS

Robert Carrow, attorney for the Hanna trust, complained that the trust's 440 acres at the northeast corner of Highways 37 and 101 had not been considered for the shopping center.

Cooke replied that it was too far away from the main portion of the city and the site conditions such as elevation, were not good.

Carrow was promised a public hearing on all possible sites for a regional shopping center.

Norman E. Dean of the chamber of commerce said that economics was the major element that concerned him in trying to put together "the utopian dream." He asked what had been done to contact major retail firms to come into the shopping center.

Cooke replied that would be up to the property owners or developer.

The Sedway and Cooke plan calls for a regional shopping center to be placed north of Olive Avenue on both east and west sides of present highway 101, with an overpass connecting the two segments of the center. It would contain two major department stores and other facilities. On the steep hillside of the Pinheiro Ranch would go motels and convention centers.

East Grant Avenue would become a pedestrian mall with smaller retail stores. West Grant Avenue would be a financial and office center.

The triangle bounded by South Novato Boulevard, Diablo Avenue and Center Road would have apartments with open space around them.

Warner and Novato creeks would become strip parks with lights and walkways along each side.

The area north of Grant Avenue would have both office and apartment complexes. South Novato Boulevard and Novato Boulevard would be used as collector streets with no businesses on them.

50-Unit Townhouse Development Passes

The Novato City Council approved plans last night for a 50-unit townhouse development and two single-family lots on 16 acres in Pleasant Valley for Sono-Marin Builders Inc.

The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Joseph D. Gargiulo against saying that the development would do too much damage to the countryside.

The council approved the plan for the townhouses over the objections of approximately 15 residents of the area.

The plan as submitted called for 52 townhouses in clusters of four and six. This was the second plan submitted. The original townhouse proposal was altered when a slide area was discovered on the hillside by soils engineers.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain made the motion that two clusters of six units be reduced to four. The developer agreed to a contact with the city absolving the city from any liability in event of slide damage. He also agreed to dedicate 10 acres for public open space.

Harvey Perryman of 2611 Center Road showed a series of slides of the area pointing out an 18-to-25-foot-deep ditch that would drain down onto Center Road, and the trees that would have to be removed for the development.

John Zima of 50 Daryl Avenue asked why there had to be any development on the property at all. The original plan had been for 33 single-family homes.

Robert Roberts, the developer, said that this plan did less scarring of the hills than the single-family plan.

The Novato City Council Also:

DRUG ABUSE — Approved payment of $495 to the North Marin Drug Abuse Committee as the city's share in booklets printed and distributed throughout the schools telling parents about drugs.

ASSISTANT — Approved the creation of an assistant to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown at a salary range of $988 to $1,090 per month. It will be paid this fiscal year from the money saved by abolishing the assistant finance director position.

DEANNEXATION — Referred to the planning commission a request of R. A. Abeling of 1625 Indian Valley Road to deannex from the city. His property was included in the original incorporation of the city, but lies 1,500 feet away from the nearest land inside the city on Indian Valley Road.

MUTUAL AID — Agreed to allow Brown and the police chief to work out a schedule to furnish one man each shift for three weeks to help the Marin County Sheriff's department guard the Civic Center.

QUORUM — Approved changing the requirement for a quorum for the City-County Planning Council to seven members if a majority of the 13 cities are represented. This was done on he condition that the other cities and county approve of it.

LOMA VERDE — Received and referred to staff a request from Evelyn Johnson, president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association for city cooperation in maintaining the median strips in Alameda Del Prado which lies outside the city in Loma Verde.

REZONING — Passed an ordinance rezoning from planned commercial to planned residential the northwest corner of the intersection of Highway 101 and 37.

SPEED — Passed an ordinance reducing the speed from 35 to 25 miles per hour on South Novato Boulevard from north of Rowland Boulevard to south of Sunset Parkway.

PARADE — Approved a homecoming parade for 10:30 a.m., Nov. 14, for Novato High School. The parade will go from Diablo Avenue down South Novato Boulevard and Arthur Street to the school

REZONING — Postponed until 8 p.m., Nov. 10, consideration of rezoning a planned commercial site on the northeast corner of San Marin and San Andreas drives to multiple residential.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Nov. 2 at the Novato Community House.

San Rafael Band Plans Jazz Concert

A jazz concert featuring the music of Buddy Rich, Count Basie and Stan Kenton will be presented by the San Rafael High School Stage Band at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the school's auditorium.

Original compositions by students will also be presented in the concert entitled "Stage Band '70."

Tickets will be available at the door and proceeds of the concert will go toward purchase of a string bass amplifier for the stage band.

American Jailed For Czech Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has announced that George Ipser, a naturalized American citizen from Chicago, was arrested in Czechoslovakia Sept. 4 on charges he made derogatory remarks about Czech President Ludvik Svoboda.

A spokesman said it was not known if Ipser, who was visiting relatives in Czechoslovakia, would be brought to trial.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Carlo Fowler of Kentfield.

Tullah Keeps Promise With Wild Art Opener

By CLIFFORD P. CHENEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Tullah Hanley, who may be the world's richest ex-belly dancer, threw a party at San Francisco's DeYoung Museum of Art Tuesday night and that staid old institution may never be the same.

The party, given to commemorate Mrs. Hanley's gift of $3 million worth of her late husband's art collection, featured naked art students in body paint, belly dancers from North Beach topless nightculbs, magicians, puppeteers, fire eaters, Indian dancers and rock bands.

On the walls around this Dionysian merrymaking were displayed Mrs. Hanley's gifts: the works of Gauguin, Matisse, Manet, Boucher, Renoir, Chagall and Dufy.

But the main attraction for the 5,000 invited guests was Tullah herself, the merry widow of the millionaire art collector Edward Hanley.

Dancing in one of the five see-through outfits she wore during the course of the evening, Tullah brought a flush to the faces of many of the matronly ladies of the De Young Museum Society.

"Don't be shocked, baby," she told a reporter. "I am also on exhibit. I was the only ostentatious thing Ed ever owned . . . his most treasured acquisition, part of his collection."

Tullah, 46, used to perform semi-nude Egyptian "interpretative dancing" in Europe and the United States before meeting and marrying Hanley 21 years ago. She said she maintains her beauty with exercise, careful eating, body oil and ground fruit and vegetable facials.

"My only fashion idea," she said, "is if you have nothing to hide, show it; if you have nothing to show, hide it."

Her personal typewritten "Tullah notes" on the wall besider her favorite paintings showed a thorough knowledge of the works in the collection however.

The first time she was exposed to art, Tullah explained, was when she quit school at 14 in her native Hungary and got a job as a nude model in Budapest.

She gave part of her husband's art collection to San Francisco, she said, because "everybody here has treated me so marvelously, without anybody knowing there could be a gift." Another big portion of the collection will go to Denver for similar reasons, she said.

Tuesday night's party was "unlike anything we've ever seen," observed Museum Director Ian White, who got into the spirit of Tullah's bash by donning the costume of the cowardly lion from the "Wizard of Oz."

Spirits were dispensed from a dozen bars set up amid the impressionistic masterpieces. Amplified music rattled the windows of the venerable old building.

The guests, some in white ties and tails, others costumed or merely painted, didn't want to leave. Museum security guards finally cleared the building an hour and a half after the party was scheduled to end.

McGovern Endorses Dellums For Congress

BERKELEY (UPI) — Sen. George Mc Govern D-S.D. Tuesday night enthusiastically endorsed Democrat Ron Dellums in his Seventh District rate with Republican George Healy.

McGovern said here that Dellums was needed to help in the flight within Congress to bring a swift end to the Vietnam conflict.

SETTING UP — Guard Dave Mariani (10), who contributed to the Wildkitten victory with seven assists, passed off to Marin's other guard, Tim Haley. Final score was 35 - 26.

NICKLAUS ATTRACTS CROWD

Pro-Am At Silverado

NAPA (UPI) —A pro-am event today set the stage for the $150,000 Kaiser International Tournament opening Thursday over the scenic Silverado Course.

Big Jack Nicklaus drew a big crowd when he shot a warmup nine Tuesday while Lee Trevino got to the first tee before he learned his clubs hadn't arrived.

Somebody asked Nicklaus about the big year he has had on the campaign trail.

He said that "in the past 12 months I've played probably the best golf of my life."

Concerning his relatively unimpressive showing in recent years, the slimmed down Ohio belter said "everybody goes through periods. I had so much success that I got tired of it, I guess. For about 2 1-2 years I was just going through the motions."

"But I decided I was only 29 and I planned to play golf a long time. So I wanted to play well. My desire came back. I started working on my game again. The last 12 months haven't been too bad, have they."

Winning Warriors Move On

ATLANTA (UPI) — What can the San Francisco Warriors do for an encore?

The Warriors played the kind of ball nobody would have thought they were capable of after last season when they rolled 125-105 at Baltimore Tuesday night. Tonight, they try their luck at Atlanta.

After last season, Nate Thurmond had announced his retirement; the Warriors had failed in shots to get Pete Maravich, Rick Barry or Zelmo Beatty; and once-great Jerry Lucas looked over the hill.

But Thurmond is back and Lucas has looked as good as ever in the pre-season and early going. He hit 14 of 19 field goal attempts at Baltimore for a 33-point night and grabbed 14 rebounds. Big Nate hauled down 16 and scored 22.

The Warriors, now 2-1, got 19 and 16 from backcourters Jeff Mullins and Fritz Williams.

After the game, Attles heaped praise on the veteran Lucas, who has straightened out his financial problems and may be ready to play back to his all-pro form of not so long ago.

'C' BASKETBALL

Marin Catholic Extends Streak

Marin Catholic High School's Class C basketball team, shooting for its third straight Marin County Athletic League championship, remained undefeated yesterday by gunning down second place Drake of San Anselmo, 35-26 at Kentfield.

The Wildkittens with center and high scorer Mike Ahern leading the way, roared to an 18-8 halftime lead and then coasted to their sixth win of 1970 and 10th straight over two seasons.

Ahern led all scorers with 13 points despite sitting out much of the second and third quarters with a sprained ankle. Rich McCarthy backed him up with nine points for runner up scoring honors.

The game, considered a "must win" affair for both teams, left the Pirates with a 6-2 record, a full game behind the league leaders.

Marin Catholic coach Dave Gonsalves credited the Pirates with a good job of coming back after being down by 10 points at halftime. "We had them 18 to 8 and they came back to close within six in the fourth quarter," he said.

Two Stanford Players Face Surgery Today

STANFORD (UPI) — Defensive guard Tim McClure and defensive back Mark Brown undergo knee surgery today that will keep them off the Stanford team for the rest of the season.

But the Tribe got some good news, too, when Pete Lazetich, the regular defensive guard, was cleared for Saturday night's big battle at UCLA.

Lazetich suffered a neck strain against Washington State.

QB Bradshaw Misses Practice, Draws Fine

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers today fined rookie quarterback Terry Bradshaw a substantial sum for missing Tuesday's practice session at Three Rivers Stadium.

Coach Chuck Noll, visibly shaken by Bradshaw's absence, admitted that Bradshaw had been fined but declined to say how much.

"That's personal," Noll said.

Bradshaw threw a 67-yard pass to rookie Ron Shanklin Sunday to lead the Steelers to a 7-3 victory over the Houston Oilers in Houston.

Today's fine was the second assessed against Bradshaw in the past week. The rookie signal caller was fined $25 for missing a squad meeting in Houston Saturday night.

HE'S DRIVING A NEW CAR

Modest Man, That Brooks Robinson

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooks Robinson's son was severely troubled.

He had just come home from his first day in school and the other kids, having nothing really better to do, had given him a hard time.

"Daddy, who's better, you or Frank Robinson?" the boy, Brooks David Robinson, asked his father.

A QUESTION

The older Robinson immediately sensed what had happened to his son his first day at school but wanted to hear a little more. "Why do you ask?" he inquired of his son.

"Because," the boy said, "the kids in school say Frank Robinson is better than you."

Brooks Robinson, third baseman nonpareil for the Baltimore Orioles, didn't get uptight by what his oldest son had told him. This happened a few years back and what Brooks Robinson did with his son —whose real hero is neighbor Johnny Unitas anyway —was sit him down and explain some of the facts of life.

DIFFERENT

"Son, Frank Robinson is an outfielder and I'm an infielder," the Orioles' third baseman said. "We're two different types of ballplayers."

"I know, I know," said the boy with a six-year-old's steadfastness to a question he wants answered, "but who's better, you or him?"

Brooks Robinson, the elder, took a deep breath and began all over again.

"Some fellas are hitters and some are fielders," he said.

The youngster still wasn't satisfied.

"We're both in the big leagues," his father said finally. "That's what counts."

Brooks Robinson, who many claim is the greatest third baseman ever, has been with Baltimore 16 seasons now but was a big leaguer long before ever coming to the Orioles. His father and mother saw to that.

NEW AUTO

Robinson received a brand new automobile here Monday for being the outstanding performer in the Orioles' five-game victory over the Cincinnati Reds and when he got up on the rostrum to thank Sports Magazine, he showed what kind of a big leaguer he was.

With his beautiful blonde wife, Connie, sitting nearby and listening attentively, Robinson characteristically glossed over his own performance in the series and dwelt instead on the

Notre Dame Would Like A Bowl Bid

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Coach Ara Parseghian said Tuesday Notre Dame would accept a bowl invitation this year if one is extended and if the club's record remains good.

Parseghian, in a telephone address to the Indianapolis News Downtown Quarterback club, said the Irish, not being in a conference, have had to rely heavily on the national polls for prestige.

"Now, of course, after having played in a bowl game after 44 years, the polls are still important to Notre Dame," he said.

"But now the possibility exists that Notre Dame can get an invitation to a bowl game even though we might have a few losses."

The Irish are currently unbeaten and ranked third by United Press International.

"I'm more concerned how we rank in November than in October," he said.

Seals Still Looking For Their First Win

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals, winless in five National Hockey League games this season, have a problem and coach Fred Glover knows exactly what it is.

"Putting the puck in the net, that's the major problem. We've scored seven goals in five games and (Dennis) Hextall's line has been on for every one of them," he said Tuesday night after Vancouver had beat the Seals 2-1 before more than 13,000 Canuck fans.

Tonight, the Seals come home to host St. Louis. The Blues go on to Vancouver Friday.

Mattiussi scored while playing on a line with Hextall, who assisted on the goal. But most of the time Hextall lines up with Gary Croteau and Tony Featherstone.

Both Hodge and Seal netminder Gary Smith had good nights, stopping breakways and providing yeoman work against the power play.

Vancouver now has a 2-5 record.

Giants Assign Six To Farm

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants have assigned six players to their Phoenix club to reduce its roster to 34 in preparation for the 1971 baseball season.

Cal Bears Protest Bruin Win

BERKELEY (UPI) — The California Bears, who say films of the game show that the UCLA Bruins did not score a last second touchdown, have taken their protest to the Pacific Eight office.

They filed an official protest Tuesday which says that the 24-21 Bruin win should have been a 21-18 Cal triumph.

The Bears were leading with four seconds to go when Dennis Dummit tried to run it in from the three. Tom Grieb caught him as he skidded into the end zone.

The Bears assert that films show Dummit's knee hitting on the two. Since the Bruins had no time outs left, the game would have ended then in any case, they say.

Davenport To Be Boosters' Guest

The San Francisco Giants Booster Club of Northern California will honor former third baseman Jim Davenport at a dinner tonight at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.

Davenport was recently named manager of the Giants' Phoenix farm team.

FISH AND GAME

A Move In Camp Areas But Still No Bucks

By AL GIDDINGS

CAULEY, Modoc County — Mary, my wife, and I decided to move camp from Ravendale, Lassen County, up to Cauley where we were to meet Bob Wilson of Woodacre and his two sons, Bob Jr. and Johnny. The boys were bringing three friends, all teen-agers, named Al Pisciotto, Gary Tait and Dave Carroll.

We planned to finish out the deer season with Bob and his gang, and also get in a duck hunt and some trout fishing. Well, Mary and I got to Cauley about 7 a.m., and Wilson and his crew were already there. Then the foul up began!

Three good-looking teen-age girls put on a display of driving no hands, peeling out and everything else kids can do with a car. Then they followed our boys practically to camp. The first day the boys were supposed to catch us enough trout for dinner. Ha! We lost the boys for the day, and there's some quiet talk about meeting the girls in town tonight.

WE CAMPED on Canyon Creek, where Mary set up camp while Bob and I took a hike through some of the deer country. The area was timbered with large burned over spots. We saw 11 deer, but no bucks. Things were dry and dusty and the locals said we needed a storm to move the deer. But this year with no rains or snow, camping has been tops. A little cold, but beautiful nights and a million stars.

The kids took the jeep for a trip though Devil's Garden in northern Modoc County. They swear they'll have ducks and cottontail rabbits for the next night's dinner.

HOWARD LEACH and Jack Schaule, our camping buddies of last week, didn't get that big buck that we all hunted. Leach did spot a flock of honkers in a field and managed to get one of those prize birds. It was the biggest honker I have ever seen. It must have weighed 15 pounds. Howard was as happy as a little kid.

The local duck hunters from this area had a good opener. Now, they say, the ducks are scattered and are to be found in the hidden potholes and reservoirs, many of which are scattered throughout the whole area.

OTHER FISH and game news that you should know about:

There will be a condor census taken in the mountains of southern San Joaquin Valley this weekend. Last year's count taken by conservation groups totaled 53 birds.

The U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries has been banding brown pelicans with colored streamers attached to the legs. And some of the feathers have been dyed. If you sight one of these birds, report the sighting to any Department of Fish and Game office.

BECAUSE OF late crop harvests, the duck areas of Gray Lodge, Sacramento, Delevan, Colusa, Sutter and Merced Wildlife won't open until Oct. 31 this year.

Tag returns from the antelope hunt showed a success ratio of 79 per cent, the highest for the past seven years. Some 237 bucks were taken by the 300 drawn hunters.

CHUKER AND QUAIL seasons open state wide Oct. 31. Limit on chukers is six, and the limit on quail is 10.

Tomales Bay off Inverness should be producing silver salmon. Now's the time to give it a go.

Scheduled Airlines This Time

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—When the Wichita State University football team travels to Little Rock, Ark., for its game with the University of Arkansas this weekend, it will do so aboard a commercial airliner.

The game will be the first for the Wheatshockers since one of the two chartered Wichita State planes crashed Oct. 2 en route to Logan, Utah. Thirty persons were killed in the crash, including 13 players, the school's head coach and the athletic director.

A federal hearing opens today into the crash.

Wichita State had made two road trips this year aboard twin-engine Marin 404s before the Logan trip. Two more road trips are on the Wichita schedule after the Arkansas game.

A spokesman for the school said the team will probably travel by bus to Tulsa for the Nov. 7 game against Tulsa University, and that a commercial flight will be taken to Memphis, Tenn., for the game against Memphis State Nov. 14.

Championship Rules For Clay's Fight

ATLANTA (UPI) — Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry agreed Tuesday to use "championship rules" in their 15-round heavyweight fight next Monday night.

The rules call for a fighter to take a mandatory eight count if he is knocked down, but the bout will not be stopped no matter how many times a fighter is knocked down in one round. In non-championship bouts, it is usually a technical knockout if one man goes down three times in one round.

"I'm still the champion," Clay said, "so we should use championship rules. The people of the world will recognize the winner of this fight as champion."

The 28-year-old Clay was deposed as champion in 1967 for refusing induction into the Army and has not fought since he kayoed Zora Folley March 22, 1967. Joe Frazier emerged as Clay's successor in a series of eliminations.

The two fighters agreed earlier to use the New York State scoring system. That system is basically on a round basis, but the three officials, two judges and a referee, also give bonus points for particularly one-sided rounds. If each fighter wins the same number of rounds (7-7-1, for example) the winner of the bout is determined by points.

HAND IN CAST — Joe Namath left a hospital yesterday after his fractured hand was placed in a cast. The cast must remain on for six weeks. (UPI Telephoto)

My Season Is Over, Says Jets' Namath

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Namath doesn't expect he'll play anymore this season.

The flamboyant New York Jets' quarterback, who broke a bone in his wrist in Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts, expressed little hope of leading the Jets on the field for the remainder of the season.

"It's going to be in a cast for six weeks," Namath said of his right wrist, now incased in plastered mold. "It won't come around for a week after the cast comes off, so I don't expect to play any more this year." The Jets have nine games remaining.

Namath, who never missed a game with an injury throughout his six-year career, suffered a fracture of the navicular bone in his passing arm, when tackled hard by Billy Ray Smith, the Colts' defensive tackle late in Sunday's game.

"New X-rays were taken Wednesday at Lenox Hill Hospital and they confirmed the fracture of the navicular bone in Namath's right wrist," said Jets' orthopedic specialist Dr. James A. Nicholas. "The hand was put in cast and will be immobilized for six weeks, during which period it will be continuously re-evaluated. It is undetermined how long it will take the wrist to heal."

Namath appeared at the team workout Wednesday as Al Woodall, the Jets' only other quarterback, worked out with the first unit in preparation for Sunday's game against the Buffalo Bills at Shea Stadium. Namath said he would work on the sidelines with Woodall and Bob Davis, a taxi-squader who is expected to be activated this week. Veteran Babe Parelli, who retired just before the season began, could be coaxed out of inactivity by coach Weeb Ewbank. Kicker Jim Turner has also been used at quarterback for the Jets in an emergency.

Coach Acts Fast To Save Player

Yeager, a non-scholarship volunteer from Houston St. Thomas, suffered severe lacerations on his right arm from the wrist to the elbow and severed an artery and ligaments in the right arm in the mishap which occurred as the players scrimmaged on the stage in Gregory Gymnasium.

There was no tourniquet material handy, so Lenox grabbed the youth's arm and managed to shut off the blood flow with his grip until trainer Mike Stephens could used a makeshift tourniquet and an ice pack to protect Yeager until he could be taken to a hospital.

He underwent surgery at Breckenridge Hospital Tuesday night and his condition today was listed as fair.

Interest In Small College Football Dying, Says Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SACRAMENTO — Small college football will be replaced by intramural or club programs in 10 years unless there is a rekindling of spectator interest, according to the athletic director of Chico State College.

Rex Grossart, also the National Collegiate Athletic Association representative to the Camellia Bowl, said this week attendance at the Wildcats' games was down even though Chico has a winning team.

"Pro football is hurting us, no question," Grossart told the Camellia Bowl Association.

"Fans see so much pro football on television that they come out to their local stadiums and expect duplication.

Baseball

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox Tuesday announced the selection of 14-major league pitching veteran Harvey Haddix as their new pitching coach, succeeding Charlie Wagner.

Haddix, who coached in the Pittsburgh Pirates minor league system during the past season, will join Eddie Kasko's Boston staff in place of Wagner, who returns to the Red Sox scouting ranks.

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Tuesday they have traded pitcher Sal Campisi and infielder Jim Kennedy to the Minnesota Twins in exchange for outfielders Herman Hill and Chuck Wissler.

Hockey

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis Blues center Red Berenson will be sidelined for two week because of strained ligaments in his left knee. Berenson was injured in Sunday's National Hockey League game against the Black Hawks.

SPORTS SHORTS

General

NEW YORK — Willie Shoemaker, the all-time winning jockey, won the September poll in the race for the 21st annual Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award.

Shoemaker received 32 first place votes and 134 points to edge tennis star Ken Rosewall by 32 points.

Basketball

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bulls Tuesday completed their second and third trade within a week, obtaining Jim King from the Cincinnati Royals on waivers, and sending Shalor Halimon to the new Portland Trailblazers for a 1971 No. 2 draft choice.

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League announced Tuesday the sale of outfielder Angel Mangual to the Oakland Athletics of the American League for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Mangual, 23, was with the Columbus Jets of the International League last season in 135 games. He hit .281 with 20 home runs and 87 runs-batted-in.

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday announced the acquisition of left-handed pitcher Les Rohr and right-hander Larry Bearnarth from the New York Mets.

Brewers general manager Marvin Milkes said the pair was purchased on a conditional basis.

Bowling

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. — Southpaw Dave Davis of Miami is making a determined bid to become the first three-time winner of the Professional Bowler's Association National Championship.

Davis rolled a six game block of 1,372, including a 298 game, Tuesday night to assume a 121 pin lead after four rounds of the $75,000 competition.

Shooting

PHOENIX — Russian shooters had a narrow lead in both the number of gold medals and the overall medal total today as the 40th world shooting championships neared the halfway mark on two desert ranges here.

With 14 of the 44 events decided, The Soviet Union team held a five to three lead over the United States in gold medals and added four silvers and two bronze to the total, to only four bronze for the American marksmen.

Pistons Nip Bucks To Remain Unbeaten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Pistons continued their unbeaten ways Tuesday night, thanks to an unlikely hero and an even more unlikely goat.

Bob Quick, a substitute forward, grabbed a key rebound and made a three point play with five seconds remaining to help the Pistons beat the Milwaukee Bucks 115-114 and run Detroit's record to 4-0.

THREE-POINTER

The Pistons' Dave Bing, with his team trailing 113-111 with seven seconds left to play, missed an attempt to tie the score but Quick outmaneuvered Milwaukee super star Lew Alcindor for the rebound, sank the follow-up shot and also drew a foul from Alcindor.

After Quick converted his free throw and Jimmy Walker added another to put Detroit ahead 115-113, Alcindor was fouled at the buzzer but made only one of two free throws, failing to send the game into overtime and insuring the Pistons' victory.

"It's great for just confidence," Pistons coach Bill Van Breda Kolff said about the Pistons' come-from-behind triumph before a crowd of 11,316—the largest crowd ever to see Detroit play in Cobo Arena.

"Milwaukee's a great team," Van Breda Kolff added, "but now they know they've got some competition."

The victory moved Detroit into sole possession of first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division while the Bucks dropped their first game after a season-opening triumph against Atlanta and 10 straight exhibition victories.

Bing paced Detroit with 37 points and Walker added 20 while rookie Bob Lanier, playing opposite Alcindor for most of the game, tallied 18. Alcindor led all scorers with 38 and teammate Oscar Robertson had 26.

"He thinks out there," Lanier said of Alcindor. "He makes you think. He's tough to play, head-to-head. He can go over you and he can go either way. The thing with him, you've got to try to hold him down as much as you can but minimize the other guys."

OTHER SCORES

Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia, the only other team besides Detroit to sport an unbeaten record, beat Buffalo, 98-89; San Diego nipped Phoenix, 115-114; New York tripped Los Angeles 115-100; San Francisco downed Baltimore 125-105, and Portland whipped Cleveland 120-90.

Hal Greer and Billy Cunningham combined for 36 points in leading Philadelphia past Buffalo and to its fourth triumph. Greer led the 76ers with 20 points and Em Bryant was high for the Braves with 19.

Stu Lantz scored a career high 43 points in helping San Diego beat Phoenix. It was Lantz' follow up shot with only 10 seconds left to play that gave the Rockets their win. Dick Van Arsdale paced Phoenix with 26 points.

KNICKS 3-1

Defending champion New York upped its record to 3-1 as Willis Reed, who sat out most of the third quarter with a stomach ache, netted 16 points in the final period in the Knicks' triumph over Los Angeles. Reed led the victors with 29 points and teammate Walt Frazier had 23 while Jerry West paced the Lakers with 26.

Portland handed Cleveland its fourth loss without a victory as Leroy Ellis and Jeff Petrie shared scoring honors for the Trailblazers with 21 points each. McCoy McLemore led the Cavaliers with 17.

Tackle Attempt Proves Costly

COLFAX, Wash. (UPI)—Terrance E. Smith tried to make the tackle to stop a Stanford touchdown and it cost him $50.

Smith, 27, a Washington State University student who never before had seen action on a football field, leaped out of the stands Saturday and tried to bring down Eric Cross as he scored after a long pass and run.

Smith was arrested and charged with public drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He forfeited $50 bond on the charge this week.

Some observers suggested that in view of the score, 63-16 in favor of Stanford, Smith's attempted tackle was the Cougars' best of the day.

YOUR SAFETY IS OUR BUSINESS

BOATING

Don't Forget About Highway Boat Safety

By STAN DAVIES

Most talk about boating safety concerns the boat when it's in its natural element . . . afloat, on water. But it has become apparent after observing more and more boats speeding along the highways on trailers, that boating education must be extended to consider the problems of safety on land.

There's no question that a trailer boat spends the greater part of its life on land and, due to the vulnerability of its trailer, is subject to greater hazards than when it's on the water.

The two safety weak spots I find in a trailer are the wheels and the tie-downs. Wheel trouble is usually traced to under-inflation of the tires. Many drivers are still only vaguely aware that trailer tires must be inflated to much greater pressures than those of a car. For instance, a 570/500 x 8, six-ply trailer tire, a very common size, must be inflated to 75 pounds pressure.

Under inflated tires run hot. The heat is transmitted to the wheel hub, which melts the lubricant and soon the bearings are running dry. Then it's a toss-up which goes first, the overheated tires or the bearings.

Other weak spots, as I mentioned earlier, are the tie-downs. Always stop after you have driven a trailer boat a few miles and check to make sure it is firmly secured.

Naturally it's very important to have a trailer that fits your boat porperly. If you trailer a sailboat it's imperative to have a secure mast chock or a similar device for holding the mast while under way on the road.

Imagine the chaos that would ensue if a 20-foot mast broke loose while you were traveling along a freeway at 60 mph.

There are many hazards in trailering, and we probably receive more questions on these problems than on any other single boating topic:

Q. I know a trailer must safety chains beside the main hitch. How strong must the chains be?

A. Some state highway traffic laws are quite specific, but generally it's worded that the safety chains must be strong enough so that the trailer will be held if the primary connection is broken. In other words, they have to be extremely durable.

Q. My boat trailer rig sways adly at certain speeds. How can I stop this?

A. Swaying usually indicates that the vehicle is tail-heavy. Try this — adjust the load so that one-tenth of the entire trailer load, or a minimum of 50 pounds, is resting on the hitch. I use a bathroom scale to test it.

Q. Obviously trailer wheels turn much faster than those on a car. But how much?

A. A car with 850x14 tires usually tows a boat trailer with 570x8 tires. While the car's wheels make 100 revolutions, the trailer's make 187. No wonder they tend to heat up.

Q. Why are trailer wheles so small?.

A. They were first designed this way so that the boat could overhang the wheels, yet still keep it low enough for easy launching.

Q. Water and dirt get into the bearings of my trailer wheels. How can they be made water tight?

A. Most modern trailer hubs are water tight until they are run into cold water after a long, hot highway trip. The hot air inside contracts and sucks in dirt and water. One answer is to cool them off before launching by splashing water over them.

Q. Can I trailer a Lightning class sailboat behind one of the new tiny U.S. compact cars?

A. Yes. The British, more familiar with small cars than we are, have a formula for figuring trailer weight: the total of all . . . car, trailer and other loads . . . should not exceed twice the weight of the empty car. For instance if your compact weighs 1,700 pounds empty, and three passengers and baggage weigh 600 pounds (total is 2,300 pounds) it means the trailer with its load can weigh up to 1,100 pounds. The Lightning weighs 700 lbs and the trailer about 400. You can just make it.

BROOKS

contributions of some of the others.

"It wasn't a one-man show," he said. "Boog Powell hit a two-run homer to bring us from behind in the first game . . . Marcelino Lopez getting Bobby Tolan out in a critical situation in the second game was so important . . . Boog Powell hitting another homer in that same game . . . Dick Hall coming in and doing such a great job . . . Moe Drabowsky . . . Frank Robinson's two home runs . . ."

HIS WAY

Brooks Robinson tried not to forget anybody because that's his way.

Among those who came from Baltimore to see him honored was his manager, Earl Weaver.

"There's nobody in the whole United States who would say Brooks doesn't deserve this," Weaver said.

Frank Robinson said pretty much the same thing. He said it to Brooks Robinson personally during the celebration after the final series game.

"You were the one who kept us together all year," he told the 33-year-old 10-time Golden Glover from Little Rock, Ark. "You deserve everything you get."

Frank Robinson has no idea what that meant to Brooks Robinson, who hit .428 in the series and fielded five times more than that. Some people claim Brooks Robinson's performance in the series was the best ever by any individual.

TYPICAL

"I think they probably got carried away a little," he says.

That's typical of him. Another typical Brooks Robinson story deals with the time he visited our servicemen in Vietnam in 1966 and at one base he asked:

"Anybody here from Baltimore?"

They told him there was one fellow by the name of Bob Norton but he was out flying a mission. Robinson never had met Norton before but he said he'd wait until he came back. And he did. Twelve hours.

When Robinson returned to Baltimore he called Norton's mother and told her that her son was fine and sent his love.

"There's never a night in my life," says Bob Norton's mother, "I don't say a prayer for Brooks Robinson."

Notre Dame Sets Pace In Yardage

NEW YORK (UPI) —The team that eventually winds up as the major college total offense champion apparently will have to be adept at moving the ball both on the ground and in the air.

The five leaders thus far all are averaging better than 200 yards a game both rushing and passing, with Notre Dame setting the pace in total offense, according to official statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

IRISH 5-0

The Irish with a 5-0 record, are fourth in rushing with a 312.6 yard average and rate 15th in passing offense with 220.8. This accounts to 533.4 yards per game, far and away the best figure in the country.

Runner-up Arizona State is the only other school averaging better than 500 yards —513.8 — based on 281.8 yards rushing and an average 232 yards in the air.

Following the two leaders are Southern California with 494.2 total yards, Auburn at 485.6 and Air Force at 473.5. Southern California has averaged 287 yards rushing and 207.2 passing. Auburn shows 218.2 rushing and 267.4 passing and Air Force has 203.5 yards rushing and 270 passing.

Ohio State is the team rushing leader with an average 373.8 yards per game.

Kansas Dismisses Two World Record Holding Trackmen

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI)—The national collegiate pole vault champion and one of the nation's top half-milers were dismissed today from the University of Kansas track squad because of violation of training rules.

Coach Bob Timmons said the action against Jan Johnson, junior pole vaulter from Chicago Heights, Ill., and Brian McElroy, sophomore middle distance runner from Massapequa, N. Y., was permanent. At their request, he said, the nature of the violations will not be revealed.

At last summer's NCAA championship in DesMoins, Johnson won the pole vault in the Drake field house at 17 feet, 7 inches, establishing an all-time world indoor best.

49ERS' JOHN BRODIE

A Smart Quarterback

By JACK HANLEY

John Brodie, now 35, is in his 14th pro football campaign. Only two other active quarterbacks, Johnny Unitas and Bart Starr, outrank him in longevity. They are in their 15th campaigns this year.

Sonny Jurgensen and Len Dawson, like Brodie, also are 14-year men this season. Sammy Baugh's 16 campaigns still is the record. Y. A. Tittle retired after his 15th season.

Brodie may become the all-time longevity champ of the pros. What would the 49ers do without him? From time to time the 49ers have tried quarterback substitutes for Brodie but he's been No. 1 since Frankie Albert retired and Tittle was traded.

There was a brief period when the 49ers tried rotating two other quarterbacks with Brodie in the Shotgun formation. But that experiment ended when enemy defenses plugged the Shotgun.

Then there was a brief period when the 49ers experimented with a scrambling quarterback, George Mira. Brodie wasn't upset by that. In fact, he used Mira's bonus to get himself a nice raise.

After Mira signed a $100,000 three-year contract in 1964 as a rookie out of University of Miami, Brodie went to Lou Spadia and asked who was going to be the No. 1 quarterback of the team. Spadia told Brodie he was so Brodie replied: "Then I expect to be paid more money than Mira." Brodie got it, too.

When Brodie made his rookie debut in 1957 he threw a last-second touchdown pass that beat Baltimore. Since then he has thrown almost 2,000 completed passes for 25,000 yards. Unitas, Tittle and Jurgensen are the only other members of the 25,000-yard club.

Through the years Brodie has alternately been booed and cheered by 49er Kezar Stadium fans. He never has offered an alibi for throwing an interception. Invariably he personally accepts the responsibility even on those occasions when the blame rests elsewhere.

And he never has put boos or cheers from the stands on a personal basis. "Any pro who does is a candidate for the couch," he says.

In the first four games this season, Brodie didn't throw one interception. In last Sunday's session with the New Orleans Saints he threw three. He attributed the first interception to himself, saying "I misread the defense." He attributed the second to an overthrow of his intended receiver and the third to an underthrow.

After 14 campaigns, Brodie doesn't misread defenses. He does overthrow or underthrow occasionally but no more than any other veteran quarterback.

Brodie is as smart as they come in the pro ranks. Indeed, he might be the smartest ever. Didn't he make the National and American Footbbll Leagues honor a million dollar memorandum given him when the AFL and NFL were raidiing each other's stars?

If Brodie isn't the smartest quarterback around, he certainly is the richest.

Measure A Does Not Contravene Nixon's Policy

County Measure A on Marin ballots for the Nov. 3 election is a "straw vote" referendum on the Southeast Asian war.

It proposes that the county adopt as "public policy" the following:

"We, the people of Marin County, Calif., hereby request the President and the Congress of the United States to begin immediately the total withdrawal of all United States military forces from Southeast Asia and to complete such total withdrawal no later than June 30, 1971."

ADOPTION OF SUCH "public policy" by the county of course would have no effect on the conduct of the war, or on United States disinvolvement — except that it would show that a majority of citizens of one county favored a quick and complete pullout.

Similar measures are on the statewide ballot in Massachusetts and on local ballots in Cleveland, Detroit, and San Francisco for the Nov. 3 election, according to the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

The argument for adoption of such a policy, as set forth by the Committee for the Peace Referendum to accompany the ballot, centers on the contention that it was a mistake to become involved militarily in Vietnam and is a mistake to remain there.

The argument against, by the Committee To Stop Helping America's Marxist Enemies, calls the proposal "betrayal of the men who have fought and died there" and labels it pro-Communist.

IT MAY BE IMPRACTICAL or impossible to set a deadline of next June 30 for complete withdrawal of U. S. armed forces from Southeast Asia. But to label it betrayal and pro-Communist is to label President Nixon and the United States Congress betrayers and pro-Communists.

The President has pledged withdrawal of American fighting forces. He has promised that they will continue to be reduced regardless of whether Hanoi accepts his very reasonable cease-fire proposal.

Acceptance of that proposal by Hanoi would go much farther toward ending the war for Americans than adoption of such resolutions as Measure A.

However, an expression by the people of Marin that they desire the U. S. involvement ended by next June 30 neither contravenes the President's policy nor plays into the hands of any enemy.

THE WAR in Southeast Asia is a sticky mess. The United States got in, and it is exceedingly difficult to get out — particularly since the North Vietnam government does not seem to want us out, as it makes no move toward negotiations that would remove the American forces.

But to condemn a resolution urging that we get out as "helping America's Marxist enemies" is tantamount to saying that we must stay there forever. Certainly communism is not going to vanish from the Asian scene, with or without the American presence.

The essence of Measure A, then, is whether the citizen wishes the government to put a June 30, 1971, target date on complete withdrawal, or leave the date open.

It could be, of course, no more than a target date —even in the unlikely event that the administration in Washington were to heed the wishes of a majority of voters in Marin.

Bagley Predicts Tax Reform; But How About Spending Reform?

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The architect of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform package, which was defeated during the last legislative session, has predicted that a tax package will pass in 1971.

The prediction by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, interestingly comes a full year after the governor told Californians that tax reform would be possible if they elected enough Republicans in each of the legislative houses to get a majority.

Although they did, 13 Democrats and one Republican in the state Senate withheld approval of the multi-faceted tax package, causing it to fall by the wayside with most of the other significant legislation.

THE TAX PACKAGE in 1971 will not be much differeht from the final pacakge of 1970, according to Bagley.

It will still raise personal income taxes, sales taxes and various business-oriented taxes in order to lower the property tax and somewhat equalize school taxes.

Bagley claims his 1971 package will also tighten school expenditure controls, allow the state to take over welfare payments from the counties, increase the senior citizens tax exemption program, and provide funding for the open space exemption program.

The plan would also impose a minimum income tax on wealthy individuals who pay no tax, and would reduce the oil depletion allowance.

BAGLEY SAID that defeat of his program this year "gave California oil companies an annual $10 million tax break since the oil depletion allowance remains at the 27½ per cent level.

"These same opponents," he said, "led by Jess Unruh, now cry for a reduction, but opposed the bills to close this loophole."

The real basic objection to the program was that it raised more taxes than it lowered, but it took the "hook" off the average property owner, making it appear that he would pay fewer taxes during the year.

Bagley's proposal, as many of the other tax "reforms" that have been introduced in the legislature during the past decade, unfortunately lacks the kind of reform that state government needs — a marked lessening of expenditures.

THE GOVERNOR'S "economy measures" within the various branches of government have had some effect on the total budget, but it's like playing with pennies when the real expenditures are left untouched.

Welfare and Medi-Cal plod along, the white elephants of the legislature's efforts to make California "Number One," nearly unchecked in their ability to raid the taxpayer's purse, and largely ignored by politicians seeking re-election.

Education, already receiving the lion's share of the local tax dollar, is actively seeking the status welfare and Medi-Cal have gained — guaranteed annual increases without having to fight other state services for them.

Tax Notice Voids Bond Issue Appeal

Back to back in the mail a few days ago were the annual Marin County real estate and personal property tax bill and a letter signed by Elizabeth M. Deedy, president of the board of trustees, Marin Community College District, soliciting support for Measures B and C to be voted on in the forthcoming elections Nov. 3.

The tax statement showed another substantial increase, while Mrs. Deedy's letter with flyer attached, proposes spending some sixteen odd million dollars for new campus construction.

All this at a time when unemployment has risen sharply, the cost of living is at a very high level and the national economy is faltering.

The statement that it will not increase taxes is pure gobbledygook. Your recent publication of the salary totals alone at the College of Marin should clinch the question in the minds of the voters, come Nov. 3.

LESLIE WELLINGTON
Mill Valley

(Passage of Measures B and C would result in a temporary tax reduction. Taxes of the college district would increase in succeeding years — as they doubtless would anyhow. — Editor.)

What PR Firm Will Do For Money

Our firm was retained by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District not "to sell the legislature" as your Oct. 14 editorial states, but to provide public information assistance in connection with the 21 public hearings which the district will hold. The rather massive assignment will include publicity and press service, information material for the public, and assistance with the district's presentations . . .

Our contract period is from Oct. 19, 1970, to Feb. 12, 1971. Since the district does not report to the legislature until later, we are hardly in a position to be "legislative salesmen," even if that were the contract assignment, whitch it sin't.

The contract, as far as our fees are concerned, is for time spent of principals, staff, and consultants not to exceed $42,250. It could well come in lower. The $47,750 cited in the editorial is for the not-to-exceed figure plus the maximum out-of-pocket expenses, which we charge at cost. . .

The I-J has always spoken for the broadest possible public participation in the district's planning. It was the district's purpose to make this possible through a comprehensive public information program.

Reinecke Reception Attendance Higher

I hope that the story of the attendance at the reception to Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke on Oct. 15 at Dominic's Restaurant was in error and not intentional.

May I say that I sold tickets and collected 213 tickets from those attending, not counting teen-agers of whom there were many present.

I do not agree with the story that there was only 150 persons present.

Reader Uptight Over Headline

On page 13 of the Oct. 16 I-J you carried a UPI story from Sacramento under the head, "Herbicide Makers Must Call Back Deadly, 2,4,5-T."

First of all, 2,4,5-T is not "deadly" and nowhere in the text of the story does it state, or is it even implied that it is deadly.

Some irresponsible (or dedicated?) I-J editor took it upon himself to designate it as "deadly" when he wrote the heading. Why? . . .

For a quarter of a century or more, 2,4,5-T has been a highly effective, economical and totally safe boone to mankind. In Marin County it has saved taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in weed and brush control, and untold suffering as the primary weapon against poison oak. In the range country throughout the world, and particularly in the western United States, it has saved hundreds of millions of dollars in the cost of producing beef and sheep, by controlling scrub brush, weeds and poisonous plants, to say nothing of deer and other wildlife, erosion control and control of forest fires. In all of these years and all of this use, it has never been incriminated in any animal or human harm.

The experiments to which your article refers were carried on in highly unrealistic laboratory conditions, sponsored and executed by people who are members of the mystic back-to-nature and starvation cults who are out to "get" chemicals . . .

The I-J is fond of flapping and crowing about its journalistic purity and is forever patting itself on the back about its unbiased reporting and editing. Nothing could be farther from the truth. As a matter of fact, sir, when you manufacture headlines like this one, you are not only lying to your readers, you are playing the tune of those who want to destroy America as we know it, and realize (much more than the rest of us) that the most vulnerable spot our country has is her food supply!

Agnew Disserves His President By Attack On Scranton Report

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew has exceeded his mandate as vice president and has rendered a serious disservice to his President and to his country.

He has done this by his inaccurate and extravagant criticism of the report on the President's Commission on Campus Unrest headed by former Gov. William Scranton.

The duty of Spiro Agnew is to be the vice president — never anything more.

For a vice president to underperform is understandable. For a vice president to overpefrom by acting to make his voice the voice of the President before the President has spoken is improper, imprudent and dangerous.

When policy has not been established by the President, the vice president must not even attempt to establish it.

To do so means pre-empting the duty and authority of the President. it can only lead to confusion in the country, division in the administration and a public opinion wondering who is President.

It has done so already. it is a grave mistake for Agnew to have made.

HERE ARE the circumstances:

The vice president began to attack the report of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest before Mr. Nixon had an opportunity to read it. The report was put into the President's hands on a Saturday afternoon and Mr. Nixon had to leave the next day for Europe.

Agnew pursued his course while the President was out of the country.

He spoke so continuously and so vehemently against the commission report that he established an administration posture of disdain and hostility toward it before the President had any opportunity to speak for himself.

Agnew could not fail to know that the public would assume he was expounding administration views because in the past it had been well established that, while his rhetoric was his own, his views faithfully reflected the President's.

This makes Agnew's attacks more careless and improper. There had been no opportunity for the President to decide what position he wanted to take.

So Agnew took it for him.

This is no way to deal with one of the most sensitive, critical issues in the nation.

This is no way to deal with a report by a commission initiated by the President and appointed by the President.

This is no way to run a government.

ACTUALLY Vice President Agnew began exceeding his mandate when he publicly challenged the wisdom of the President in appointing Joseph Rhodes, a 23-year-old Harvard junior fellow, as a member of the nine-man commission. Agnew argued Rhodes was too committed to the left to do a useful job.

But Richard Nixon wanted the commission to represent a wide spectrum of opinion and he stood by the decision to name Rhodes.

Warning: when the vice president, who has no authority and no responsibility to create policy in any form, publicly disagrees with the President, something is wrong.

President Nixon, young Rhodes and the Scranton Commission say the same thing:

Nixon: "Violence and terror have no place in a free society whatever the purported cause."

Rhodes: "The terrorists must be stopped. If we students don't clean it up, the government will do it for us."

Commission: "Criminal acts by students must be treated as such wherever they occur and whatever their purpose."

Vice President Agnew means to be loyal to the President. But in shouting his distortions of the Scranton Report he has made it harder for Mr. Nixon to further the healing initiative needed to bring about a reconciliation, not with the violent minority but with the great majority of students who, however impatient and restless, spurn violence.

At Climax Of Season, It Pays To 'Poll The Polls'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — With political campaigning at its peak and congressional elections less than two weeks away, the season of the pollsters is fully upon us.

Now each political claim is buttressed by at least one poll. More often than not, at this stage of the game, new polls are being compared with old polls, and the results are being examined for new portents.

Some of the "polls" are simply straw votes — a collection of views gathered at random — and sometimes they have a history of reliability. Some of the polls are meticulously conducted, in a carefully selected voter sample, to minimize the chance of error.

In this final phase of an election campaign it is often true that the race itself — the candidates, the positions expressed by the candidates and the neighborhoods in which they are appearing have all been determined, to a large degree, by polling.

For example, it has been rather widely reported that Arthur J. Goldberg, the former Supreme Court justice, would not have been nominated as the Democratic candidate for governor of New York if an early poll last winter had not shown him running well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at that time.

AT ITS CLIMAX the season of the pollster can be pretty confusing. Here are some tests which can be applied to published polls and to candidate claims of political polling successes. The questions were recently circulated by Opinion Research Corp., one of the old polling organizations:

— Who was polled? Did they represent all eligible adults, or just those who plan to vote? Just Republicans? Just Democrats? Voters in key areas?

— How many people were interviewed? All polls have some error due to sampling. That error can be reduced by a larger number of interviews, but large numbers do not guarantee accurate results.

— When did the polling take place? Occasionally an interval of a few weeks between polling and publishing can make date with respect to opinions about a candidate obsolete.

— How were the people selected for polling? The professional pollsters say the people polled should be selected in accordance with a probability sampling so that the sample polled will reflect the mathematical probability of the total electorate involved.

— HOW WAS the polling conducted? Telephone polls exclude people who do not have telephones. Questionaires submitted by mail may not be returned, and the sampling method will then be impaired.

— How were questions worded? Opinion Research says this is another important factor when results of two or more polls are compared.

— Were special statistical techniques employed? For example, how was the undecided vote handled? Was it recorded as such, split evenly among the candidates, weighted in accordance with those who expressed a preference?

Opinion Research says it is also good to know who conducted a poll and cautions that date released without such a source should be "viewed with suspicion."

Water District 'Going Computer' For Billings And Storage Data

Beginning around the first of next year, residents of the Marin Municipal Water District will no longer have that pesty little postcard coming in the mail every two months letting them know how much they owe the district for water.

The district will still be sending bills, of course, but it will switch to an envelope billing system which should be more convenient for the consumer and more efficient for the district.

The new billing system will be similar to that of Pacific Telephone Co. Consumers will receive a computer-printed bill, a computer punched card, and a return envelope.

The customer will keep the bill and return the card, along with payment, to the district.

With the postcard billing system now used by the district, consumers must supply their own envelopes to mail in their bills.

The envelope system also will allow the water district to include with its bills information or notices of importance to consumers, as the telephone company and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. do.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said the district is not planning to include other materials with its bills, but the new system will at least open the possibility.

The system will require less clerical work by the district's staff, and the saving of one clerk's $5,000 annual salary will partially offset the $10,000 increase in supplies and postage, he said. The one-cent increase, from five to six cents, in postage on each bill will cost the district approximately $3,000 a year.

Another computer-oriented program being worked out at the water district is its centralized control system.

Already the water status in the district's major storage tanks and several of its main transmission lines is fed into the distCocoffvukfc at the office indicate the water levels in the tanks and the amount of water flowing in various pipelines.

Ultimately most of the district's storage tanks, including smaller distribution tanks, and water lines will be hooked into the system so that engineers in the district office will be able to see instantly water levels and flow throughout the system.

The ultimate plan, Seeger said, calls for the information to be fed into a computer which will print out every 15 minutes or so the status of the whole Marin Municipal Water District system.

With the information and controls to be installed at the office, the district will increase its control over water levels and pressure throughout the district.

Instead of learning from an angry consumer about a water shortage in particular area during a hot spell, the district will be able to see the heavy consumption in particular areas and reroute water, automatically, to where it is needed, he explained.

As with the new billing system, Seeger said, the complete centralized control plan will provide better service to the consumer and allow the district more efficient control over its own system.

Sonoma's U.N. Observance Set

The 25th anniversary of the United Nations will be observed in Sonoma County with a banquet Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Sonoma State College cafeteria.

Dr. Cheryl Petersen, chairman of the college division of social sciences, will give the main address on "The Model United Nations Program in Schools and College." She has served as adviser to the Sonoma State Model United Nations club since 1967.

Acting Sonoma State President Earl W. Jones and Sonoma County Superior Court Judge John Moskowitz also are scheduled to speak.

11 Receptions Slated For Smallman In Marin

Eleven receptions for Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge, will be held throughout Marin during the next nine days.

They will be:

Friday — 10:30 a.m. at the Kentfield home of L. Stephen Windheim, 375 Crown Road.

Saturday — 4 to 6 p.m. at the Novato home of Edward Grundstrom, 100 Old Ranch Road, and 8 p.m. at the Marin City home of Juanita Cobb, 31 Burgess Court. This also is a buffet dinner.

Monday — 10:30 a.m. at the Greenbrae home of William Ecker, 265 Brefano Way, and 1 p.m. at the San Quentin home of Eugene Ziemer, House 73.

Oct. 27 — 10:30 a.m. at the Santa Venetia home of Raymond Kirner, 108 Hawthorne Way, and 1 p.m. at the San Rafael home of John Semorile, 11 Constance Drive.

Oct. 28 — 10 a.m. at the Tiburon home of E.R. Jerome Jr., 4903 Ranch Road, and 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera home of Frank Moncrief, 4 Fairview Avenue.

Oct. 29 — 8 p.m. at the Kentfield home of Ruth L. Lederman, 16 Tree Top Way.

Spain's Salary From District

Robert E. Spain, whose name was misspelled Oct. 19 when the Independent-Journal published the Sausalito School District's payroll, should not have been listed as an employee of the district.

Spain, an administrative officer with the Marin County Schools Office which pays his $18,900 salary, is on loan to the Sausalito district interim superintendent. The district has $25,000 budgeted, from which to pay a new superintendent when one is chosen.

James T. Toliver Jr., listed as special teacher in the district, should have been identified as special assistant at a salary of $14,773.

Youths Spur State Board To Review Teacher Tenure

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Because of a couple of 17-year-olds, the California State Board of Education may come up with some suggestions for revising teacher tenure laws.

The teen-agers are Barbara Marshment and Bruce Lymburn. Miss Marshment was named a non-voting "observer member" of the state board last year "to bridge the generation gap." Young Lymburn succeeded her this summer.

In February, Miss Marshment suggested the state board undertake a review of the tenure laws. Board members gave her proposal only polite interest.

At the board's October meeting, however, young Lymburn brought up the subject again, as a result of a petition by 800 San Diego residents that something be done about teacher tenure. Board member Jean Ritchie of Menlo Park then urged the review be given top priority. And this time the board acted, putting it on the agenda for the November meeting.

TEACHER TENURE has been a thorny issue for years, and most school district trustees think something should be done about it — though very few of them have tried to do anything.

California's basic teacher tenure law was enacted in 1941. It provided that when a teacher was re-hired for the fourth year in the same district, he would hold the job automatically from then on, unless dismissed for one of a short series of stated causes.

From time to time since then, the law has been tightened. Major revisions in 1951 made dismissal of a tenured teacher next to impossible without going to court. Three years later, "probationary teachers" — those with less than three years service in the same district — were placed under the same protection except that no automatic court review was included.

TEACHER organizations — both the California Teachers Association and the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers — are adamantly against any reversal of the process of ever-tighter tenure protection. A half dozen tenure bills were killed in committee in this year's legislature.

There have been various proposals for modifying the tenure laws. One of the commonest is to provide for "administrative review" of the teacher's performance every few years. Some states have such a law, however, and it doesn't work. The New York State School Board's Association, in urging repeal of that state's tenure law last year, pointed out that its "administrative review" provision was a dead letter.

A SIMPLE WAY to do away with lifetime tenure while still providing what should be adequate job protection for anyone competent to teach might be this:

Hire the new teacher on a one-year contract, renewable for one year at the option of the employer (the district school board). Continue such one-year contracts for the first three years of a teacher's employment in the district.

If the teacher is re-hired for the fourth year, give him a five-year contract. Make the contract renewable for five-year periods thereafter, until the teacher reaches retirement age. Renewal at the end of any five-year period would be at the option of the board.

This would give the district up to three years to decide whether a teacher was worth keeping indefinitely. And it would mean the teacher could not just take things easy once he was re-hired for the fourth year, because his contract would be for five years rather than for life.

No competent person should object to a five-year contract. Very few outside the education field ever receive one that long.

UNCOVERING THE FACTS TO AID YOU AT THE POLLS

Trying to choose a course in the coming election of November 3rd is like trying to choose a new car. So many "makes," so many "models," so many aspects of performance. Which?

To enlighten you on issues and candidates I-J editors and reporters are doing what a newspaper is best-equipped to do: keep you thoroughly informed.

This takes exploration, persistent questioning of candidates on all legislative levels. It requires research and the trained objective attitude which can separate political puffery from objective fact.

It requires a knowledge of grass roots and a surveying eye on the lofty spires of higher office. And above all, a committment to put this in writing as accurately as possible that all may see and understand.

The I-J editorial page then, is a lens to help you bring into focus the wide and often confusing political spectrum. But it is not meant to persuade; rather to provoke thought and intelligent action. Witness the writers and cartoonists of varying political persuasions whose work appears there.

We urge you to read, to carefully weigh the political facts and opinions of today. For only through independent choice can you, at the polls, preserve what polls are for: the preservation of political independence. A small enough price for freedom.

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE — In a pine forest at Lake Tahoe scientists are probing what may be a classic case of environmental disruption involving insects, trees, and people.

Along the south shore of the lake, where Jeffrey and lodgepole pines shelter thousands of cabins and mountain homes, trees on about 10,000 acres are speckled with a small, sedentary, juice-sucking insect pest — the pine needle scale.

Repeated spraying may well have wiped out the tiny wasp parasites that normally keep pine needle scale under control," says University of California Entomologist Richard Garcia.

Correct Play Of The Diamods Depends Finding Queen Of Spades

Little things have big results. The history of the world would be different if Cleopatra's nose had been one inch longer. The correct play of the diamonds in today's hand depends on what happens to the queen of spades. (I'll bet you didn't know how I was going to get from Cleopatra to a bridge hand.)

LOW SPADE

West led the three of spades, and declarer put up the queen of spades. East won with the ace and returned the ten. South held up the king and won the third round of spades.

Now it would be fatal to let West win a diamond trick since he would take the rest of the spades. It would not be dangerous to let East win a diamond, since he would be unable to return a spade.

RIDE AS FINESSE

South therefore led the jack of diamonds and let it ride as a finese. As the cards lay, the finese worked. South led a low diamond to dummy's nine, continued with the king and then took the rest of his trick, making one spade, two hearts, five diamonds and two clubs for a total of 10 tricks.

Even if East had held the queen of diamonds, South would have taken nine tricks and his game contract.

DIFFERENT STORY

There would have been a different story to tell if the queen of spades had won the first trick. Then it would have been clear that West had led from a spade suit headed by the ace.

In this situation it would be fatal to let East win a diamond trick. But it would be safe to let West win a diamond since West could not safely continue the attack on spades.

THROUGH EAST

Declarer would then take the king of diamonds and lead the nine of diamonds for a fineses through East.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ Q 6
♥ A 10 6 5
♦ K 9 8
♣ K 8 7 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club or pass.

This is a borderline hand. Most experts would bid if there were two low spades with an extra queen in one of the other suits since a queen has more value when accompanied by a king or ace of the same suit. An item in favor of bidding is the presence of a ten, a nine and two eights. You don't count points for such intermediate cards, but you are often influenced to bid a borderline hand that contains them.

Hold EMI Stock For Future Appreciation

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold a few thousand Shares were split two-for-one Industries, bought in 1960 at 7. shares were split two-for-one in 1964 and I added to them. I am elderly and wonder if I should now sell. — E.H. Q. I have 100 shares of EMI at 6⅞. Would you hold or sell these?

A. Capitol Industries, 72 per cent owned by EMI, has been the most vigorously growing of this British holding company's subsidiaries. EMI, through its various holdings, is the world's largest manufacturer of phonograph records. Contracts are held with recording stars such as: the Beatles (separately), Glen Campbell, Bobby Gentry and The Band. The expansion of color TV in England will benefit EMI, which receives royalties on most color sets sold in England and also manufactures TV transmission and production equipment. Subsidiary company, Associated British Pictures, acquired in 1969, operated below capacity and therefore penalized earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1970. Althuogh results have not yet been published it is generally thought that earnings were flat year-to-year in spite of a sizeable increase in sales. Shares should be held for medium to long-term probable appreciation.

Q. I guess I am lucky. I bought Champion Homes last summer when you recommended it and now have a fast 10-point profit. Should I take it or hold for a better gain? — E. G.

A. There are many compelling arguments in favor of holding this issue. However, shares will probably not continue in an uninterrupted climb. Champion reported record high sales and earnings for their second quarter ended August 31. For the six months, earnings were 80 cents a share up 33 per cent year-to-year on a 21 per cent gain in sales. Backlog is up, indicating an equally satisfying performance in the final half. Champion's lower priced homes have particular appeal for young newlyweds and retired couples — growing segments of the buying public. Short covering has been instrumental in the sharp price rise in recent trading sessions.

Earnings Report Held In Error

CINCINNATI (UPI) — KDI Corp., a diversified producer of computer and industrial electronic and electric products, educational products and swimming pools, says its recently-reported first half earnings statement may have been erroneous.

The company also said it plans to sell or otherwise dispose of subsidiaries that are unprofitable or short of working capital.

On Sept. 3, KDI reported net income of $1,193,000 of 20 cents per share, plus a $38,000 tax credit, for the six months ended June 30 on sales totaling $67,793,000..

The company now says its accountants have indicated the report may contain errors that would substantially reduce, or perhaps eliminate, the reported earnings.

Garment Waste

NEW YORK (UPI) — The garment industry in the United States wastes about $150 million a year in cutting errors and other production inefficiencies, management consultant Emanual Weintraub says. He told a meeting of the Infants and Childrens Wear Association the fabric losses caused by mistakes alone run to 2 to 6 per cent of the yardage purchased.

Marin Home Sales Jump By 143 In Past Summer, Realtors Report

An upswing in Marin home sales this summer has been reported by W. Bruce Shafer, president of the Marin County Board of Realtors.

During the four months, June through September, a total of 978 homes totaling $36,569,602 was reported sold under multiple listings. This compared with 835 homes valued at $28,960,845 during the same period in 1969.

Shafer looks on this as an indication that real estate is pulling out of the recession period. He foresees something like a record windup in home sales by the end of this year, with mortgage loans becoming more available at somehwat lower interest rates.

Airlines See $58 Million Loss So Far

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's airlines have painted a gloomy picture of sharply declining revenues and predicted the industry would show "a net loss at the end of 1970."

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the major scheduled airlines, said preliminary data indicated the 12 major airlines had a loss of $58 million for the first six months of 1970 — "the worst half year results in history."

The loss is expected to be cut to about $16 million by the end of the year.

The ATA said nine regional airlines and the three scheduled cargo airlines also would record a loss for the year.

United, the nation's largest airline, said it planned to drop 156 departures a day starting Oct. 25. Trans World said it planned to cut its schedule by 9 per cent.

In a statement, the ATA said the economic downturn "has had a particularly severe impact upon the airline industry."

Passenger growth, which averaged 17 per cent annually between 1963 and 1968, "is expected to drop to a very nominal growth of about 2 per cent" at the end of the year, ATA said.

As a result of combined passenger and freight losses, airline revenues will be $1.2 billion less than if traffic growth had continued at 1963-1968 levels, the group said.

Franchised Foods Eating Into Total

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) —Americans will spend about $124 billion for food and beverages this year, and meals at "franchised fast food outlets" will account for between $5 and $6 billion of the total, according to Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., research, engineering and management consulting firm.

"Drive-in restaurants with a limited menu and little service have grown from about a half-billion dollars in sales 10 years ago, and are expected to reach $11 or $12 billion in the next five years.

Late Slide Wipes Out Early Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) —A late downtrend wiped out most of an early advance on the New York Stock Exchange Friday. Trading was moderate.

Shortly before the close, advances were leading declines, 621 to 609 after holding more than a 2-to-1 bulge during the morning.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up more than 6 at one point, showed a gain of 1.85 at 760.68 near the bell.

Turnover amounted to around 11,000,000 shares, compared with 10,630,000 shares traded Tuesday.

Closing prices included: American Telegraph & Telephone 43 3-8 off 1-4; Bethlehem Steel 21 3-8 off 3-8; Chrysler 24 5-8 up 1-4; DuPont 119 1-2 up 1-2; Ford 50 3-8 off 3-8; General Electric 85 up 1 1-8; General Motors 71 1-4 off 1-4; and IBM 288 7-8 off 2 1-4.

Electronics and oils moved in both directions, while steels, motors, chemicals, rails aircrafts and most airlines traded in fractions.

Polaroid came under pressure following a lower nine-month earnings statement Tuesday.

Among the day's most active issues were Roan Selection Trust, which traded an early block of 100,000 shares at 4 7-8 off 1-8; Telex Corp., Control Data, General Telephone, Natomas, University Computing, and Diamond International.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

San Francisco: Trade Sales Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco still leads the nine-county bay r n in wholesale trade sales b the percentage has substantially slipped during the past six years, the Bay Area Council reports.

Council figures showed San Francisco County sales at $6.7 billion during 1969, or 40 per cent of the total. However, this was a drop from 1963, when the central city recorded 47 per cent of the wholesale activity.

San Mateo County made the biggest gains from 1963, climbing from 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the area's total sales, or to $3.4 billion.

Ranked between San Francisco and San Mateo is Alameda County, which has consistently remained constant at 23 per cent of $3.8 billion.

The total trades sales in the nine counties amounted to $16.8 billion during 1969. Other counties, by order of greatest percentage of sale were, Santa Clara (4 per cent); Contra Costa (3.6 per cent); Sonoma (1.0 per cent); Marin (.9 per cent); Solano (.4 per cent); and Napa (.2 per cent).

TREATMENT OF CHILDREN

Use Of 'Speed' Brings Many Unfounded Charges

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

A strongly and widely held medical opinion holds it is sound practice to medicate some overly active children with amphetamines, the drug called "speed."

There never was anything secret about it. That is why doctors were astonished by the sudden clamor of indignation originating in Omaha, Neb., which spread to Congress and other nonmedical places and keeps on sputtering.

"Speed" WAS being prescribed by duly qualified physicians for a number of Omaha children. The fact came to light in the press, and up went such emotional and unfounded charges as:

Children were being "drugged into conformity;" teachers were conspiring with doctors to "control" disruptive childish behavior with drugs rather than discipline; doctors and teachers were sanctioning drug abuse by children.

Privately, doctors were dismayed. It seemed that public concern over drug abuse among youths was being directed at the wrong target—themselves. Publicly, they hastened to explain how "speed" or another mind drug greatly benefits some overly active children when properly administered as medicine.

These are children who in extreme cases are overly active destructively and aggressively through all their days and far into most of their nights. They're easily frustrated and react angrily. Because almost anything will distract them, their attention span is so short they're largely uneducable.

Medically it is an illness, "minimal brain dysfunction" or "hyperkinetic syndrome." The belief is that it is due to an uneven maturing of the many control centers of the brain. Though the brain is fully functioning (many of the children have normal and even superior intelligence), its built-in system of controls is out of kilter.

Health authorities estimate that at least 300,000 American children are handicapped in varying degrees by the "hyperkinetic syndrome." The number being treated with an amphetamine or methylphenidate (trade name Ritalin) is not known but it has to be substantial because any doctor will prescribe one or the other drug as a matter of course, as he prescribes an antibiotic for infection.

Until the late 30s there was little physicians could do for the hyperkinetic child. Usually the child outgrew the disorder, presumably when all brain control centers matured fully, but by then he was a psychological cripple and had missed out on an education.

In the 30s medical scientists discovered, largely by accident, that drugs which stimulate the central nervous system, such as the amphetamines and methylphenidate seemed to permit the victims of "minimal brain dysfunction" to exercise rational control over their physical activity.

There is no hard scientific explanation how a drug that stimulates everyone else calms the hyperkinetic child but the theoretical explanation is that it stimulates higher and still immature brain centers into exercising normal control over the secondary centers.

Drs. C. Keith Connors of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and Leon Eisenberg of Harvard Medical School proved the effectiveness of stimulant treatment. By the 1960s it had been established in medical practice as "the treatment of choice."

One of the physicians who came to the defense of the Omaha doctors was E. L. Linger of Union Protestant Hospital, Clarksburg, W. Va. In a letter to the local newspaper Linger said:

"I know whereof I speak. My wife and I have a child with the hyperkinetic syndrome and he now leads a nearly normal life with the use of medication daily."

Medical statistics show that 60 to 80 per cent of such afflicted children were helped either by methylphenidate or an amphetamine. There is no cure, but their impulsiveness and scatterbrain activities, which kept them in constant trouble with other children, parents and teachers, were curbed.

Diagnosis must be exact before a drug is prescribed, and then it must be prescribed with precision to avoid addiction and other side effects. This means the doctor must keep close watch over the patient during the entire period of treatment, until all brain control centers are matured.

This reporter was unable to find a physician opposed to the treatment, even among psychoanalytic psychiatrists who are reputed (incorrectly) to oppose any approach to mind disorders which is not purely psychological.

Dr. Mortimer Ostow of New York says the drugs are "the best thing you can do for the hyperkinetic child and anything you can do to keep him in school and avoid further psychological complications, you certainly should do."

Yet the controversy continues. Dr. Carlos Carrillo complained in a letter to the editor of the New York Review of Books that one of its nonmedical writers had termed diagnosis of minimal brain dysfunction and treatment as "currently fashionable quackery." In reply the writer dismissed Carrillo's argument and demanded to know "in whose interest is it to diagnose and treat children this way?"

Rep. Cronelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., chairman of a congressional subcommittee, also remains unconvinced. His view is that the drugs were used without sufficient research, particularly into what the longterm effects might be.

Dr. Edward F. Ziegler, a psychologist who is director of the federal government's new agency for child health and human development, entered the controversy by saying he was "afraid many teachers are utilizing this as a way out of difficulties in the classroom."

Teachers, Ziegler said, should realize that behavioral problems of children can come from "the kind of schoolroom that children have to adjust to rather than what is wrong with their brains."

Ziegler plans to convene a panel of scientists and practicing doctors to instruct physicians and educators on what drugs can be used in what children to achieve specific, beneficial ends.

But doctors feel they already know. Their spokesmen at the height of the uproar emphasized that before prescribing "speed" or methylphenidate, a doctor should be positive of his diagnosis of minimal brain dysfunction. The diagnostic criteria have been repeated in medical journals for years.

Bids Sought On Guardrails

Bids for guardrail modifications and installation of new guardrail on a section of Highway 101 in Northern Marin and Southern Sonoma counties have been called for by the State Department of Public Works.

Bids for the project, estimated to cost $58,000, will be opened in Sacramento Nov. 18.

The section of highway is from a point 2.3 miles north of Atherton Avenue in Novato to the Todd Road overpass about 1.2 miles north of Rohnert Park.

Adlai III Takes On New Look In Final Weeks Of Campaigning

By TONY FULLER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— At a recent cocktail party, Adlai E. Stevenson III put his arm around a young girl reporter and in mock seriousness said, "I'm putting you in charge of closing the generation gap in my campaign."

Such a remark might have gone unnoticed as just some more election year talk except that it was Stevenson, state treasurer of Illinois and Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, who made it.

It was not Stevenson's style —at least not that of the "old Stevenson." Many Democraic pros hope it was a manifestation of the "new Stevenson style" —a mixture of aggressiveness, informality and spontaneity.

Stevenson is locked in a heated race with Sen. Ralph T. Smith. Smith is a pro, if a neophyte senator. He went to Washington from the majority leadership of the Illinois House by gubernatorial appointment upon the death of Everett M. Dirksen. Now, Smith has to earn the job on his own.

It is no secret that, during the early stages of the campaign, Stevenson's patrician, reticent —some called it "cold" —manner bothered his managers.

He would appear at rallies in his rumpled Brooks' brothers suit, looking uncomfortable and greeting the folks almost inaudibly.

His speeches tended to be abstract, dealing with governmental concept, and often were delivered in a voice that approached a monotone.

By contrast, Smith, a smooth veteran of the state legislature from Alton, Ill., appeared perfectly at home in a crowd, exchanging pleasantries about the town big wigs. Then he would lace into Stevenson about crime, violence and campus disorders.

But at the Democratic state convention last month, Stevenson made a speech which started all the talk of a "new" Stevenson.

The son of the former Illinois governor and ambassador to the United Nations lashed out at Smith as a "right-wing extremist" who, he charged, has run a campaign of "distortion and innuendo."

The speech, in podium-thumping fashion, brought Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's legion of party faithful to their feet in an emotional, four-minute standing ovation. Stevenson had not heard that sort of applause since the campaign began. He seemed to like it.

Since then, Stevenson has appeared far more comfortable greeting the voters.

In his speeches, he has been talking tough—as has Smith.

In small groups and in their relationships with the press, the two candidates provide a marked contrast.

In conversation, Stevenson tends to be distant, often gazing past the person he is speaking to. At times he seems somewhat weary.

Smith speaks rapidly in the confidential tones of a state house professional. He seems intent on not becoming ruffled and chainsmokes.

Neither seems to like news conferences.

Stevenson, if the questioning takes a hostile tone, assumes an air of resignation, and his voice trails off.

In situations of stress at a news conference, Smith's upper lip breaks out in perspiration and anger tingles his voice.

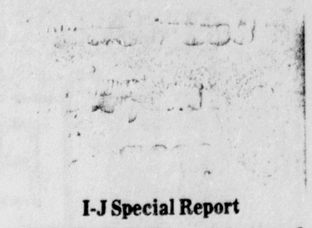
Whether because of a heightened image, or other factors, Stevenson has come out on the winning side in the initial finds of Illinois' most prestigious public opinion surveys, the straw poll published by the Chicago-Sun Times.

The poll this week showed Stevenson holding a substantial lead in bellwether Rock Island County, 54.7 per cent to 45.3 per cent, and running ahead of Smith in usually Republican Chicago suburbs, 51.7 per cent to 48.3 per cent.

In Democratic Chicago, Stevenson rolled over Smith, 66.9 per cent to 33.1 per cent.

Quick-Dry Cement

CAIRO (UPI) — A professor at Cairo's Ein Shams University claims he has discovered a quick-dry type of cement. Professor Raouf Shaker said the cement, used to build airport runways, air raid shelters and missile bases, could be in use a half hour after it was cast.



I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Only two of the nine candidates seeking state office in Marin County have filed statements of campaign contributions over $500.

The two are Ernest N. Kettenhofen of Sleepy Hollow, Republican nominee for state Board of Equalization in the Third District, and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, Democratic nominee for state Senate.

Kettenhofen reported receiving $25,947 in contributions over $500, and Peevey reported $2,000. Candidates are not required to file reports for contributions of $500 or less, thus those candidates who did not file presumable had no contributions over $500.

The totals reported by Kettenhofen and Peevey thus also did not include contributions of $500 or less. The reports on political contributions are due both before and after each election.

(Candidates for local public office also are required to report contributions over $500, but no report was filed by any local candidate in Marin.)

Kettenhofen's contributors were listed as follows: loans to campaign committee, $15,000; Good Government Committee, $1,000; anonymous, $1,000; Forrest E. Anderson, $1,000; anonymous, $1,987; Commerce Service Corp., $1,000, and R.F. Ingold, trustee, $4,960.

The finance chairman of Kettenhofen's campaign, Melville Owen of Kentfield, said that the $15,000 was a bank loan to start the campaign. The two anonymous contributions were cashiers checks, he said.

Owen declined to elaborate on the identification of the other contributors listed on the report.

Peevey reported receiving $1,000 from the Marin Committee on Political Education, political arm of the AFL-CIO, and $1,000 from the California State Alliance Legislation Defense Fund. Peevey's headquarters identified the fund as "a union fund," but could not identify which union. The law bars labor unions from making political contributions, but allows them to set up committees to make such contributions.

Also filing, but reporting no contribution over $500, were Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee for state Senate of the American Independent Party, and Teresa E. Mortara, nominee of the AIP for State Board of Equalization. The third candidate for the board, Democratic nominee William M. Bennett of Kentfield, did not file.

Also not filing were Peter H. Behr, GOP nominee for state Senate, and all three candidates for state Assembly, Republican William T. Bagley, Democrat Joseph A. Forest and Glenn Bernd, nominee of the AIP.

1970 BUICK SKYLARKS
Air Conditioned
$3495

Here are three little Skylark 2-Dr. hardtops that we have used here at Don Collins Buick during the past year.

Brand new '70 Skylark coupes with comparable equipment such as air conditioning, power steering, V-8 engine, radio, heater, tinted glass, deluxe wheel covers, white wall tires and vinyl interiors that sold new for over $4300.

These three cars — each with slightly over 5,000 miles — are absolutely spotless inside and out. If they didn't have our license plates on these cars — you couldn't tell them from new.

The purchaser of any of these '70 Buicks picks up 4-years and 44,000 miles of the GM new car warranty. Two of these cars are gold and one is chocolate brown and all have contrasting light beige vinyl interiors. 0Z107183, 0Z107173, 0Z107182.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Deer Hunting A Risky Business If Alcohol Or Old Age Involved

Van Dellen

Hunting deer is a risky and frequently murderous pastime. It is not advisable unless every man in the group is sure of himself, his gun, and — most of all — his target.

Avoid hunting with a person who is so anxious to bag a deer he will blow off half of a man's head with a squeeze of the trigger. The hunter may wound or kill himself, but more often his victim is a stranger, close friend or relative. Sons have been known to accidentally kill fathers and vice versa.

DEFECTIVE GUNS, poor visibility and fatigue are blamed for hunting accidents, but these are meaningless excuses to the man's widow. She receives no consolation when the individual vows never to hunt or own a gun again.

Carelessness, ignorance or overconfidence usually are at fault. The situation is so bad, many guides and game wardens wonder why more hunters are not shot every season.

ALL DEER hunters should follow the well-known rules of handling firearms. Alcohol and gunpowder do not mix. This means absolutely no liquor, not even a can of beer.

Fluorescent orange of yellow clothing is more easily seen. Orange is best because it provides an ideal contrast to the environment. A small red ribbon on the hat is not enough. Never pull the trigger if there is the slightest chance that a fellow hunter is in the line of fire.

Deer hunting is work, and many hunters succumb to heart attacks. This means that anyone over 60 should think twice before he starts out on a trek of this nature. The sport is hard on the old ticker, especially when the weather is cold and snowy. Anyone in this age group is flirting with trouble when he drags a dead animal for yards or miles.

GRAY MATTER OF BRAIN

S.C.G. writes: I know that gray matter is supposed to cover a small part of the brain, but when this spreads over the entire organ, what disorders, if any, could result?

REPLY

The entire brain is composed of white and gray matter. Gray matter does not increase, grow, or spread. A possible exception is a brain tumor that is composed mainly of gray matter. The term gray matter also is used to describe brains or intellect.

GANGLION ON WRIST

D.T. writes: I have a ganglion on my wrist. It doesn't bother me but I wondered if it should be removed?

REPLY

Unless these lesions are bothersome or unslightly, they can be let alone. On the other hand, they are easily eliminated via an injection of a corticosteroid or surgery. In the past, treatment involved whacking the ganglion with the family Bible.

CAUSES OF PILES

REPLY

No. Infection or irritation of the anal canal is the commonest cause of hemorrhoids. Strain and congestion of the tissues aggravate the condition. Many sufferers have an inherent weakness of the veins, causing these vessels to dilate and stretch easily.

VARICOSE VEIN SURGERY

P.T. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 65 to have an operation for varicose veins?

REPLY

Yes, and when the problem is eliminated she may feel like 50.

Two Bound Over On Marijuana

OAKHURST (UPI) — Two Nrthern California men allegedly caught with an airplane full of marijuana have been bound over to Superior Court in Madera.

Sierra Justice Court Judge Samuel Roberts ordered Michael R. Perine, Castro Valley, and Scott Kelly, Tamalpais Valley, bound over following a preliminary hearing Monday.

The two men were arrested at the Bass Lake airport Sept. 16 after their airplane landed allegedly carrying over 900 pounds of the illegal weed.

Both men are free on bail.

Mental Health Chief Selection On Monday

A permanent director of Marin Community Mental Health Center will be picked next Monday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors and Marin Hospital District Board.

County supervisors announced yesterday that a closed meeting of the two governing boards will be held at 4 p.m. Monday at the hospital to interview several finalists, including Dr. John S. Guerrant, acting director, and Dr. Eric Plaut, head of the Berkeley Community Mental Health Center.

THE PROPOSITIONS

No. 18 Most Controversial On Nov. 3 General Ballot

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE
(First of four articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California voters will face an imposing list of 20 state ballot propositions when they enter the voting booths Nov. 3. But none will be more controversial than Proposition 18.

The proposed constitutional amendment would allow local voters to decide to spend a portion of their highway construction funds for mass transit and to fight auto-caused air pollution.

Gov. Ronald Reagan and the state's giant oil companies have lined up on opposite sides of the issue. Reagan and his Democratic campaign opponent Jess Unruh both endorse the measure and the oil firms oppose it.

Proposition 18 is one of three measures on the ballot aimed at improving the environment and recreation.

Proposition 1, The Clean Water Bond Law of 1970, would authorize $250 million in bonds to help local governments fight water pollution.

Proposition 20 would authorize a $60 million bond sale to finance recreation and fish and wildlife facilities along the state Water Project.

Reagan and Unruh endorse all three propositions.

Proponents of Proposition 18 say the measure "is necessary if we are to deal with the increasingly grave problem of air pollution."

But opponents claim highway funds are already short and that rapid transit "would not noticeably reduce air pollution from automobiles" because few people would use it.

The voters' pamphlet argument for the measure is signed by Sens. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, author of the proposal; Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and Assemblyman George W. Milias, R-Gilroy.

The state Constitution now requires all gasoline taxes to be used for highway construction and maintenance.

Under Proposition 18, a city, county or transit district could, with the approval of local voters, divert into rapid transit up to 25 per cent of its share of highway construction funds.

Eight big oil companies oppose it, including Atlantic Richfield, Gulf, Humble, Mobil, Phillips, Standard, Shell and Union. The Ethyl Corp. and DuPont, makers of fuel additives, also stand opposed, along with the County Supervisors and California Taxpayers associations.

But the California Medical Association and conservationist groups including the Sierra Club, and the League of California Cities support it.

Reagan's support is based on a belief that "such a decision as this should be made by the people at the local level. And that is what the proposition is all about — allowing them to determine how such public funds as these should be spent."

Mills argues that transit systems are needed to reduce auto-caused air pollution and adds:

"We cannot solve our increasing traffic congestion problems with more freeways. Each new freeway is loaded to capacity in our urban areas the day it opens, and all of the rest of the system becomes increasingly overloaded."

He maintains, "local people should make local decisions. We should not dictate to the people of any part of California what kind of local transportation they shall have, and how their tax money shall be spent."

Proposition 18 would also make local transit systems eligible for federal matching funds under legislation passed by Congress, according to Mills.

The opposing argument is signed by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, for 20 years chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, who prides himself on being called the "father of the freeways," and by Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach.

A possible outcome of Proposition 18, they say, is that highways "will be allowed to deteriorate with resulting accidents, fatalities and congestion" and charge diversion of funds would result in higher gasoline taxes.

"Gas tax revenues are not nearly adequate to meet our present needs," they argue.

The League of Cities concedes that highway funds are short, but adds "there are no trust funds available for mass transit or the correction and prevention of all the environmental pollution caused by motor vehicles."

Proposition 1, the Clean Water Bond Law, sponsored by Reagan, has encountered no opposing arguments in the voters' pamphlet. Under it, the state could assist local governments in building sewage treatment and disposal facilities.

The state Water Resources Control Board describes the measure as "part of a federal-state-local program to construct $1 billion in new or improved waste water treatment and disposal facilities" in the next five years. It would enable California to receive an additional $550 million in federal funds for building waste water treatment facilities, according to backers.

Presently, proponents argue, the federal government provides for 30 per cent of the cost of such facilities, and local governments pay 70 per cent. But passage of the bond would mean the state provides 25 per cent, the federal government 55 per cent, and local agencies 20 per cent.

"If California does not adopt such a program, local communities will lose millions of dollars of federal funds, since future federal allocations will give preference to states with matching programs," says the state board.

Proposition 20, also proposed by Reagan, would provide for recreation and fish and wildlife facilities on the reservoirs, canals and streams of the state water project.

The statewide project to carry water from north to south has created a vast network of waterways which are "irresistible to boaters, fishermen, swimmers and other recreationists," according to the resources agency.

"The need is urgent for a major program for access, parking, camping and picknicking, boat launching, riding and hiking, fisheries and wildlife," it says.

But Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, a strong opponent of the water project, also objects to Proposition 20.

In an opposing argument on the voters' pamphlet, he argues that facilities along the project are "far below" other needed recreation facilities in priority.

"The immediate recreational priority in California is acquisition of lands that shortly will otherwise be lost to us forever," he says.

"Any general state bond issue should relate to the needs of all California and not be dedicated to creating a desired political image by refurbishing the financially deficient state water project through completing water projects under the guise of 'recreational' bond issue."

Hub Council, School Board Delay Rec Plans For Study

San Anselmo City Council and San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to cooperation in providing recreation, but referred the compact to a joint study committee before final approval.

School trustee Mary H. Olive said both groups decided to delay action until Nov. 3 so a committee made up of their legal counsels and one member from each agency could study the proposed agreement.

The school board and council have been considering such an agreement as a means of utilizing the school district's community service tax without duplicating recreation activities offered by the city, Mrs. Olive said.

The school district receives about $20,000 per year in community service tax funds, usint it for playgrounds and lunch-time supervision at schools.

Mrs. Olive said about $16,000 in unused tax money has been accumulated by the district during the last two years.

The two groups also discussed utilization of Isabel Cook School property on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for the city's proposed public safety building. No decision was reached, Mrs. Olive said. School trustees have indicated they feel the site is not adequate.

Inmate Tells Of Threats To Family

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A convict told federal court here yesterday that a San Quentin prison counselor threatened to arrest his wife and his brother if he testified in a court action brought by other prisoners.

Arthur Givens was on the witness stand as he and seven other prisoners sought permission to bring a $3 million civil rights suit against the prison and officials.

"Sam Hill, Jr., a counselor, told me not to testify or my wife and brother could be arrested for smuggling narcotics into the penitentiary," Givens declared.

Givens and other inmates seek a preliminary injunction to premit them to press the suit and to consult freely with their attorney, Salle S. Solladay of San Rafael.

Mrs. Solladay also has filed a wrongful death suit in behalf of the parents of inmate Fred E. Billingslea, 25, who died in the prison after he set fire to his mattress Feb. 25.

Mrs. Solladay has charged that he died as a result of being locked in an airless, "private gas chamber." She also charged that the prison conditions were unsanitary and guards mistreated prisoners.

Raymond Klein, a prison officer, testified that cockroaches did not run around the prison, that it was not dirty, and that guards did not mistreat prisoners.

Appliance Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — Factory shipments of major home appliances rose 4 per cent in September from a year earlier to 2.24 million, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers said. But for the first nine months of 1970, shipments were barely up to 20.657 million from 20.618 million a year earlier.

10 Vie For Posts On Marin Youth Board

Ten youths were nominated last night for two openings on the Marin County Youth Commission.

The youth commissioners, headed by George Kewin of Mill Valley, will submit the names to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, who will make the appointments.

Vacancies to be filled are in the Fourth Supervisorial District (South San Rafael, most of Corte Madera and Larkspur, and West Marin), and in the fifth district (North Marin).

Nominees are as follows:

Fourth District — Laurie Packard of Corte Madera, Marin Catholic High School; Nick Harris of Bolinas, Tamalpais High; Suzanne Joy of Larkspur, Redwood High and David Plotkin of San Rafael, San Rafael High.

Fifth District — Top three candidates are Pete Sorensen of San Marin High School and Russ Gardiner and Laina Wood, both of Novato High School. Other nominees are Steve Minard, Mike J. Hoilien, and Richard Rediske, all of San Marin High School.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, announced that next month's meetings will be on Nov. 10 and 24 instead of on the first and third Tuesdays, because the first Tuesday is election day.

The Nov. 10 meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Catholic Social Services office at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael. "We're still looking for a permanent meeting place," said Smith. The youth commission formerly met at the Civic Center, which is now closed to night meetings.

Video Tape Industry Draws Suit

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The never-ending love-hate relationship between the movie and television industries is indicaded in a new legal suit by top motion picture companies against the ABC and CBS video networks.

The fact, of course, is that movie studios and television companies can't live without each other because of economic interdependence. Yet, as in all businesses, the rivalry for the upper hand continues.

In the new suit, leading member companies of the Motion Picture Association of America are charging ABC and CBS with monopoly, alleging that the networks are producing, distributing and exhibiting movies, and therefore are depriving the film studios of television markets.

In short, a key idea —the suit implies —is that if CBS and ABC weren't producing, distributing and exhibiting movies in competition with the other motion picture organizations, those organizations would be able to get more money from sales of their films to video.

What makes the suit unusually interesting is its historical reference. For in 1938, it was the movie studios who were charged with monopoly, and, after a famous government antitrust suit, were forced to divest themselves of the theatre chains in which they exhibited their films after producing and distributing them. Now, in 1970, the movie companies are bringing similar charges against television networks.

ABC and CBS, meanwhile, have replied strongly to the charges, and give every indication they will go all out fighting the suit. CBS, as an example, said the suit "is patently an attempt to suppress competition during a period of economic distress," and added that the films bringing the charges supply more than 30 per cent of the prime time entertainment programming on CBS-TV.

ABC, also denying the charges, said the suing companies "and other members of the NPAA have been curtailing their output of feature films" for a number of years, and then added: "The decision by these plaintiffs to cut back on their productions of feature films occured during a period when demand has been far in excess of supply, thus creating an artificial shortage, enabling them to command higher prices for their production.

"In the face of this declining production, to help assure a more reasonable flow of pictures, about three years ago ABC entered into production of feature films for theatrical exhibition. Since that time we have produced a number of creditable films, including 'For Love of Ivy,' 'Charley,' 'They Shoot Horses, Don't They?,' 'Lover and Other Strangers' and 'Song of Norway.' As a result, all exhibitors, as well as our own theaters, have had available a more adequate supply of pictures."

The suing companies are Universal, Warner Bros., Avco Embassy, MGM, Paramount, United Artists and Columbia. Twentieth Century-Fox, which releases CBS and ABC movies in most foreign lands, abstained from the action. Of the three major video networks, only NBC was not named a defendant because, although it has financed several movies, it does not make feature motion pictures.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), 6 p.m. — The "Six O'Clock Movie" continues with part II of "War and Peace," starring Audrey Hepburn, Henry Fonda and Mel Ferrer. The movie drama is based on Tolstoy's classic tale about the Russian aristocracy during Napoleon's march on Europe.

KTVU (2), 7 p.m. — "Nashville, Nashville, Nashville" is a one hour special featuring Del Reeves, Loretta Lynn, Jack Greene, Tom T. Hall, Conway Twitty, the Jolly Green Giants and the Twitty Birds.

KPIX (5), 8:30 p.m. — An unusual look at the physical and psychological environment of American convicts, a penetrating examination, filmed at the 1970 Maryland Workshop on Crime and Correction, held at St. John's College in Annapolis, is the 90-minute special, "On Trial: Criminal Justice."

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — Barbara Bain, Robert Goulet, Martin Landau and Carol Lawrence star in an hour of music and comedy spoofing show business and married life on the "Kraft Music Hall."

KQED (9), 10:30 p.m. — George Murphy, John Tunney, Robert Scheer, John Quinn and Charles Ripley discuss domestic issues and foreign affairs on "Candidates for U.S. Senator."

Denies Claim She Lied To Help Police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An eye-witness to the slaying of police officer Joseph Brodnik denied Tuesday that she had "concocted a story "in order to "please the San Francisco police

Dianne Kossowski stood fast by her testimony that Brodnik's partner, patrolman Paul McGoran, was on the ground when the officer was shot.

However, she admitted she "could not see" whether McGoran had been knocked to the pavement.

The defense contends McGoran's gun went off at that instant, killing Brodnik. Six Latin American youths are charged with slaying the officer. The prosecution claims McGoran's gun was wrested from him and Brodnik shot with the weapon.

"Well," the woman insisted, in a heavily accented speech "I have seen him on the ground."

She denied defense attorney Charles Garry's assertion that she had "concocted" the story "in order to please the San Francisco Police Department."

Reading Workshop

Teaching of reading in Reed district schools will be discussed at a workshop meeting Thursday evening at Reedland Woods School in Tiburon. The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club and Reed District Teachers Association.

Marijuana Hearing

Preliminary hearing for Donald William Rodriguez, 19, of Corte Madera, on a charge of growing marijuana was set yesterday for Nov. 6 in Marin Municipal Court. He was arrested Sept. 13 by sheriff's deputies who said they saw him watering four marijuana plants off Paradise Drive.

Police Slaying Suspect Said To Be Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — plainclothes policeman Harold L. Hamilton during a bank holdup Monday has been identified as the gunman who escaped with $3,000 in an earlier bank robbery.

The suspect, Gilbert Solis, 27, was identified Tuesday from a hidden camera picture taken of him during the successful robbery Sept. 3.

Solis, an unemployed carpenter, was "positively identified" by relatives, police said. The photo was the only clue in the Sept. 3 robbery of the Wells Fargo branch at 24th and Irving.

Monday's fatal gunfire was also in a Wells Fargo bank, the branch at 7th and Clemente. Officer Hamilton and his partner, Officer Jeffrey Brosch, arrived at the bank while the robbery was in progress.

According to police accounts, Hamilton confronted Solis just inside the front door while his partner questioned another man on the sidewalk outside.

Plans For Replacing Sewer Lines Ordered

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District board last night asked the district's engineer to draw plans and specifications for replacement of sewer lines in the Marin Town and Country Village Shopping Center.

Douglas de la Fontaine, board president, said the lines have sunk 1.5 feet into the bayfill on which the center was built. He estimated the cost of the repairs at $48,000.

Brinkley Warns Of Police State In United States

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Broadcast newsman David Brinkley warned Tuesday that the United States is headed toward a "police state" or a "military dictatorship."

"I have no sympathy for rioters and bombers, but we're only a short time away from a police state in this country," he told reporters.

Repression is sure to follow the far left's bombings, burnings and other violence, he predicted.

Brinkley was in San Francisco to moderate a panel discussion at a meeting of the National Broadcasting Company's radio affiliates.

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, San Francisco State College president, told the panel that most young persons reject certain types of commercials.

"Singing commercials and the wheedling of pitchmen are insulting," he declared. He asked why some commercial have to be so "appalling, so ghastly, so anti-human."

COAST GUARD TESTS VESSEL (?) ON BAY

This air cushion vehicle, a veteran of two tours with the Navy on river patrol in Vietnam, will be tested for one year on San Francisco Bay. The Coast Guard, which wants to find out if the high speed Bell SK-5 is effective in its work, will base it at Fort Point. The contraption rides on a cushion of air that allows it to skim on rubber skirts over even dry land at up to 70 knots. A 1,000-horsepower engine drives both the lift fan and the propulsion propeller. Coast Guard photo)

Attorney To Seek Action So Magee Can Act On Own

Another attempt was made yesterday to straighten out the matter of who will be the actorney for San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, 31, charged along with Angela Y. Davis with the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court twice had guards remove Magee from the courtroom in a training building when the convict refused to stop talking while the judge tried to explain proceedings to him.

When he was brought into the courtroom for the third time, he finally listened to the judge's explanations but accused him of "trying to pretty up" the record.

Magee has insisted during every court session that he wants to act as hiw own attorney but has been denied because he has been ruled not competent enough in the law.

Yesterday court-appointed attorney Clinton White of Oakland appeared again for Magee, but said that he will file a writ asking a higher court to allow Magee to be his own lawyer.

The case was continued to Nov. 9 for White to pursue this legal action as well as make other motions.

Pyramid Climbing Is A Dying Art, Perhaps Because You Can See The Russian Missiles

CAIRO (UPI)—Like vaudeville and blacksmithing, pyramid-climbing is a dying art, mostly because the Egyptian government has outlawed it on grounds that on a clear day you can see the Russian missiles around Cairo.

"Never mind that," an angular Egyptian named Ali told this visitor to the Great Pyramid of Cheops. "I'll take you up."

"Fifteen minutes," said Ali. "It's easy. The record is seven minutes but you can take it slow."

The stones are two to three feet high. There are no steps or handy handholds and centuries of climbing have worn many of the stones too smooth for complete confidence.

Ali, who has long legs, hitched up his blue khaftan and skipped up. The visitor, who had short legs, hauled himself up painfully.

Halfway up, previously anonymous muscles began to lodge protests.

"Encugh," said the visitor. "Let's go down."

"There is no point in climbing half a pyramid," Ali said. "Only 40 more feet to go," he added, pointing to the 200 feet rising above. "Let's go."

The summit of Cheops has been worn away, leaving room at the top to sit.

Ali, who is a pyramid watchman and is used to the view, sat down and studied the graffiti. The visitor gazed out over Cairo.

The visitor, aching in every joint, decided it was worth it — even the climb down.

BEVERLEY A. SILL
Assistant Vice President

Crocker-Citizens Has 100-Year Anniversary

The Corte Madera office of Crocker-Citizens National Bank traces its origins to its 1956 founding as the First National Bank in San Rafael. Crocker-Anglo National Bank, one of three major Crocker-Citizens predecessors, acquired all First National Bank in San Rafael's offices in 1961.

The office, at 5 Corte Madera Center, is managed by Assistant Vice President Beverley A. Sill, who has headed the office since it opened in 1956 in the building once occupied by the Corte Madera post office. John F. Brown is assistant manager.

When the bank opened under the First National banner in 1956, the staff consisted of Sill, a teller, and a secretary who doubled as a teller. Today, the staff numbers 14, including Sill and Brown. The 12 distaff members are easily distinguished at the shopping center because all wear a uniform dress.

Crocker-Citizens, which is celebrating its centennial this year, dates to 1870, and the founding of the First National Gold Bank of San Francisco, the first California bank to receive a national charter.

To mark its centennial, the bank arranged and sponsored an art ehxibition titled, "A Century of California Painting," which recently appeared at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. The exhibition, which traces the development of easel painting in California over the past 100 years, previously appeared in Los Angeles, Fresno and Santa Barbara. It will be displayed later this year in Santa Clara, Sacramento and Oakland.

The bank also has arranged special performances of both the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. It also has provided the San Francisco Opera with a $41,000 grant to pay production costs of Mozart's 'Cosi fan tutte.'

Plastics Plant

ANTWERP (UPI) — American chemical giant Monsanto is planning a multi-million dollar plastics plant at Antwerp. Completion of the plant by 1972 will triple the company's European production of a tough plastic used in manufacture of car dashboards, vacuum cleaner casings and suitcases.

Marine Affairs Center Slated For San Diego

SAN DIEGO —Establishment of a Center for Marine Affairs at the University of California, San Diego's Scripps Institute of Oceanography has been announced by Dr. William A. Nierenberg, Director of Scripps.

The Ford Foundation has made a $226,000 grant to support the Center's work for three years.

Dr. Warren S. Wooster, professor of oceanography at Scripps Institution of Oceanography since 1963 and currently the presidentof the Scientific Council on Oceanic Research (SCOR) will direct the Center.

Dr. Nierenberg said the Center will be a small interdisciplinary unit functioning at a post-doctoral level and involving an internship of young, long-term visitors from the law, economics and related fields, and from industry, universities, and the government.

"The main function of the Center will be to serve as a training stage for non-technical specialists who have come from or eventually will go to government and other public service.

"An explosive interest in the oceans has developed the past ten years in all levels of society — local, state, federal, and international," Dr. Nierenberg pointed out.

"But this interest has been tempered by the realization that the technological, economic, and political problems of the utilization of the oceans will follow patterns different from those that evolved on land and there is little universally-accepted precedent for solving them."

Mosquito Problem Getting Worse: Research Needed

BERKELEY — The chances are looking better for future control of mosquitoes by non-chemical methods, according to a University of California research progress report. But in the meantime, UC scientists say, the mosquito problem is growing worse, and better chemical controls also are urgently needed.

The just-published report — "Research on Mosquito Control — 1969" — gives both bad news and good news about the state's mosquito problem. The bad news is that some strains of mosquito are successfully resisting today's larvicides.

The good news includes discovery of a promising bacterial mosquito-killer and other natural compounds that control mosquito populations.

Mosquito control research in California, the UC progress report said, should be expanded and speeded up to meet the deteriorating situation.

HIGH-GLOSS EYE-CATCHERS

Brown is the shoe color for this Spring: mottled, antiqued, deep sheens often make them adaptable for wear with either brown or black, says Vic Pappas, Gallenkamp and Schiff buyer. The shoes at left are a shiny slightly above-the-ankle boot. Relying almost solely on the beauty of the leather for its claim to fame, the boot is in the spring "up-front" fashion. The eye-catcher at right is a high-gloss shoe, mottled in deep brown and off white to make it attractive for wear with a variety of colors.

Mountain Kingdom Seeks Freedom From 20-Year Pact With India

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI)— The Himalayan Buddhist kingdom of Sikkim, where an American is the queen, wants to revise the treaty which makes it a protectorate of India.

Under the 20-year-old treaty, India assumes responsibility for the defense, foreign affairs, transportation and communications in neighboring Sikkim.

But Sikkim now wants to operate the postal, transport and communications system while leaving defense in Indian hands.

Ruler of Sikkim is Chogyal (King) Palden Thondup Namgyal, 47. In 1963 while he was crown prince, he married Hope Cooke, a New York debutante. Now 30, she is Gyalmo (Queen) Hope and the mother of the king's two children, Prince Palden, 6, and Princess Hope, 2.

Many Indians, including some officials in the Indian foreign office in New Delhi, interpret Sikkim's new stand as being anti-Indian. But King Namgyal argues that revision of the treaty is required by changes in circumstances since the pact was signed in 1950. The King says that Sikkim has no intention of disturbing friendly relations with India. The monarch says his state realizes that India's economic assistance in cash, men and materials has contributed to Sikkim's economic progress.

Some Indians blame Queen Hope, the first American to marry into Asian royalty, for engineering a demand for full sovereignty for Sikkim.

Indian troops stationed in Sikkim, a land with a population of about 187,000 people, are particularly concerned with guarding Sikkim's 150-mile border with Tibet, which is ruled by Communist China.

India's military garrison in the Himalayan kingdom went into action in 1965 when China attacked Sikkim near Nathula Pass, 14,300 feet above sea level.

Sikkim maintains no army of its own. But the little kingdom is organizing a militia and has a well-equipped police force which operates guard posts along the Sikkim-Tibet border.

India operates Sikkim's postal and telegraph system and constructed and maintains Sikkim's road links with India. These are the services which Sikkim wishes to run itself.

Queen Hope comes into the controversy because of an article she wrote four years ago in the Bulletin of Sikkim's Institute of Tibetology. She said she wrote the article as a student of Oriental affairs rather than as queen of Sikkim. In it she contended that all lands in Sikkim belong to the state and transfer of any land, even by the king, is only temporary.

Computers May Help People Get Eye Care

BERKELEY — A research team at the University of California at Berkeley has devised a computer assited eye examination that may, in the future, greatly increase the number of people able to receive eye care at moderate cost.

Key to the project, conducted by Dr. Elwin Marg, professor of physiological optics and optometry and E. R. F. W. Crossman, professor of industrial engineering, was the development of a computer program adaptable to diverse patients with a wide variety of vision problems.

The computer, with the aid of a tape recorded sound track, asks the patient a series of questions, such as "Are you troubled in any way with blurred vision?"

The patient pushes a button to indicate yes or no .The answer will cause the computer either to follow the line of inquiry or switch to another line.
